Peterborough Canoes Are Found Everywhere

Make the City Known in All Parts of the World—Nearly Two Thousand are Manufactured in Peterborough Every Year.

The Indian has seen it in the great northland wild,
It has carried through the Yukon, mining men gold-beguiled;
Never was portage so weary, never was a stream so lone,
But through them the Peterborough Canoe has gone.

What one thing more than all others has served to make Peterborough a name known throughout the civilized world, more than her industries, more than her progress, more even than her lift lock. The answer must surely be her canoes. Wherever you go on your travels you find a Peterborough canoe. Shooting the rapids in the north land, with their cargo of fur traders, gliding everywhere on the waters of every summer resort in our land, bearing the moose-hunter in the Maine woods, floating quietly on the Thames or the Seine, traversing Australian rivers "where the lone wave flits with fire beneath the southern cross", running the dangerous passes of the Yukon, everywhere where the call of the wild is heard, are the staunch craft which bear the name of Peterborough Canoes. In the northern woods where splash of oar has never yet been heard, the Indian paddles a Peterborough Canoe, Where his predecessors' birchen craft once floated, surveyors and prospectors travel hundreds of miles in Peterborough canoes to reveal Canada's heritage. Even at Henley Regatta the greatest aquatic event of the world, the Peterborough canoes float amid the English craft of the Thames. When you mention Peterborough in a foreign country, someone is sure to say, "Why that's where canoes come from."

It is talking of coals in Newcastle to speak to Peterborough of the delights of canoeing. The citizens of this city fully appreciate the advantage they have in possessing easy access to splendid stretches of water where "strayed amid lonely islets" a canoe may glide bearing its happy occupants in pursuit of health and pastime. None know better than the young people of Peterborough the romance of the canoe, when, adrift upon river or lake when the harvest moon smiling its benign blessing upon the rippling waters seems to invite confidences when the noise of cities and the rush and roar of marts of trade seem but faintly recalled memories of another world, the story that is ever old yet ever new is told to willing ears. Yes, the canoe, like the Venetian gondola has played no unimportant part in many a romantic wooing and many a maid might have gone unwooed and many a man might have drifted into chronic bachelorhood had it not been for the dainty craft, which bears the name Peterborough. Truly the canoe has been responsible for much canoebial bliss.

The number of canoes turned out in the three Peterborough factories during the season is probably a great deal larger than the average citizen imagines. They know that the output is large but just how large they know not. It was therefore with the object of gaining information along this line that an Examiner reporter visited the premises of the Canadian Canoe Company, the Peterborough Canoe Company and the English Company yesterday. His investigation revealed the fact that something over 2,100 boats are manufactured in Peterborough each year. Of this number probably 1,800 are canoes from the ordinary 16 foot basswood, the model most widely known, to the big and commodious craft that are used by the Hudson Bay Company in their fur trading operations.

The number of skiffs manufactured is very small to the quota of canoes turned out which goes to show that canoes are holding their own despite the opinion advanced by some that their place is being gradually usurped by row-boats. The idea is an erroneous one as the statistics given by the companies show. The skiff may be becoming the boat for family use at our summer resorts, but for general purposes the paddle still is king.

A mere fraction of the number of canoes manufactured is for home trade. The vast majority are transported to all parts of the world. Outside orders keep the factories running. Peterborough canoes are wanted everywhere. The wide range of places from which orders come, shows that the canoe is popular in widely different sections of this fugacious footstool.

It is stimulating to find that the demand for canoes this year is greater than ever before. One company reported that the number manufactured this year was 25 per cent. greater than last year and other factories tell a similar story of greater business and greater demand for their products.

Peterborough canoes are wanted everywhere and one may rest assured that the name of Peterborough will not be forgotten as long as this condition of affairs continues.

WEDDING BELLS

PAYNE—LITTLE

Warsaw, Sept. 28.—A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, Sept. 12th at 7 o'clock, p.m., at the residence of Mr. Nathan Payne, when Miss Bertha May, daughter of Mr. James Little was united in marriage to Mr. G. Luther Payne. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. W. Johnson, of South Dummer, in the presence of about sixty relatives and friends. The bride wore a handsome costume of colienne trimmed with chiffon and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and asters. Miss Dora Payne, niece of the bride, costumed in a gown of voile and also carrying a bouquet, attended the bride. The groom was supported by Mr. Luther Payne. The bride was given away by Mr. Nathan Payne.

The groom's gift to the bride consisted of a beautiful gold neck chain, and to the bridesmaid a gold locket.

The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents from their many friends. After the ceremony supper was served and the guests sat down to a dainty repast.

Railway men report that all records for passenger traffic on the I. C. R. have been broken this summer. Travel still continues heavy, especially on the northern section of the road. Passenger trains consisting of from fourteen to seventeen heavily loaded cars are not an unusual thing. The result is that the regular trains have been unable of late to make anything like running time.

If Fleas Trouble You Invite The Tree Toads

McKeever, N. Y., Sept. 29.—If fleas trouble you while in the woods invite an army of tree toads to visit you and the pestiferous flea will soon take his departure, according to a statement made by James L. Bridge of Buffalo Mr. Bridge got rid of fleas that way except that he didn't invite the toads They just came.

The fleas hit the Bridge camp two days before the advent of tree toads, and the way they bit the campers was a disgrace. They rolled in, hopped in and jumped in until the air was full of seething, swaying undulating clouds that stuck, bored, bit and worked to vulnerable spots and almost drove the party insane Mr. Bridge greatly disliked being driven out by fleas, for he had successfully withstood the mosquito, black fly and gnat pests, but he finally determined to vacate and began to break camp.

Then came the toads—whence no one knows. Half of the camp equippage had been packed when from a distance in the forest rose such a sound as might have been made by a couple of million whopping big crickets. It was a soft, purring, but far-reaching sound, the like of which no one present had ever heard, and they marvelled. Shortly the leaves of the trees began to rustle and murmur, the fleas sat up and took notice and a score of hawks and other reptile-eating birds soared overhead with querulous voices and keeping a sharp eye on down below. Now and then one would swoop to earth and ascend with a soft, gray object in his mouth.

The mystery was soon explained, for through the trees and undergrowth and along the ground, came an army of tree toads. They sang as they advanced and gobbled fleas as they sang Mr. Bridge says that nothing like it was ever seen before. The fleas were instantly in a panic. If they kept to the shrubbery they were sure to leeap into the open maw of a toad. If they rose to the trees they met a similar fate and if they burrowed into the ground the insect hunters promptly dug them out.

Any way you could figure it out it was all up with the fleas, and away they went as fast as their legs would carry them. Probably all would have met an untimely fate had not the bellies of the toads so sagged from gluttonous feeding as to impede their progress Never did toads get so full. At the end of an hour thousands of them with overloaded stomachs toppled from the trees and sprawled with their brothers where they lay in a somnolent state until the effects of their feast were off. Then, with subdued singing, they set off after the diminished flea board.

Some folks think Mr. Bridge had a nightmare, but the above is the story as he told it.

Exerts A Strong Influence In Local Educational Circles

The Classes of the Y. M. C. A. and What Some Prominent Local Gentlemen Say of Them

The Best Programme in the Year's History of this Department in Y. M. C. A. Work.

A Summary of the Subjects Which Will be Dealt With in Evening Classes.

"The value of such courses is unquestioned. The subjects are well chosen, and any young man taking them and applying himself will without doubt, greatly increase his earning powers."

MR. W. H. DENHAM,
Superintendent Quaker Oats Co.

"I know of nothing that fits a young man for better work than education, and I would recommend all young men and old men who are in the manufacturing business to take drawing, electricity and shop arithmetic of your courses.

"I will make them better mechanics, and increase their earning powers, if they apply themselves. I wish your courses all success which they deserve."

MR. E. G. PATTERSON,
General Superintendent C. G. E. Co.

"I know from our experience here that it will be a great benefit to any of our young men, especially our apprentices, to take these courses, particularly in mechanical drawing, electricity and shop arithmetic."

MR. ROBT. DOBIE,
Mechanical Superintendent C.G.C. Co.

These are three opinions expressed by local "Captains of Industry," in reference to the value of the educational courses offered by the Y.M.C.A. this year, which is the 10th year of the educational department of the local association, the aim of which is to help a man to help himself.

It is stated by those in charge that never in the history of the Association has there been such a fine programme presented as this season.

The Educational Committee, of which Mr. Richard Lees, B.A., is chairman, has recently issued a neat circular giving considerable information concerning the courses covered by the Educational Department, which includes evening classes, debating and literary clubs, reading rooms, practical talks and lectures.

The evening classes are as follows:

The course will be in connection with the St. John's Ambulance Association, and will include the study of the human skeleton, circulation of blood, the nervous system, wounds and injuries, respiratory system, poisons and poisoning, bandaging, carrying patients, etc.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Rewards of Scholarship.

THE University President was sauntering down a shady lane one day in the early summer, when he met a tall, handsome youth. This youth had just been graduated. He was poor, but intelligent. In all his courses he had taken honours, and in athletics also great honours had been his.

"Well, Smith," said the president, "through at last, eh?"

"Yes, sir," said the young man, smiling and blushing.

"And now what are you going to do?"

"I hardly know yet, sir, I have had two offers."

"Two? Wonderful!"

"Yes, sir. One is from a scientific society, offering me a secretaryship at $5 a week, and the other is from a baseball magnate, offering me a five years' contract to pitch at $5,000 a season."

...ge over the golf links into Ovingdean village. It is a rare spot for a tragedy."

Bell rose and lighted a fresh cigar.

"Come along," he said. "Poke that Rembrandt behind your books with its face to the wall. I would not lose that for anything now. No, on second thoughts I find I shall have to take it with me."

David closed the door carefully behind him, and the two stepped out into the night.

CHAPTER XIII.

Two dancing eyes of flame were streaming up the lane towards the girls, a long shadow slanted across the white pathway, the steady flick of hoofs drew nearer. Then the hoofs ceased their smiting of the dust and a man's voice spoke.

"Better turn and wait for us by the farm, driver," the voice said. "Bell, can you manage, man?"

"Who was that?" Enid whispered. "A stranger?"

"Not precisely," Ruth replied. "That is Mr. David Steel. Oh, I am sure we can trust him. Don't annoy him. Think of the trouble he is in for our sakes."

"I do," Enid said, drily. "I am also thinking of Reginald. If our dear Reginald escapes from the fostering care of the dogs we shall be ruined. That man's hearing is wonderful. He will come creeping down here on those large feet of his, and that cunning brain will take in everything like a flash. Good dog!"

A hound in the distance growled, and then another howled mournfully. It was the plaint of the beast who has found his quarry, impatient for the gaolor to arrive. So long as that continued Henson was safe. Any attempt to escape, and he would be torn to pieces. Just at the present moment Enid almost hoped that the attempt would be made. It certainly was all right for the present, but then Williams might happen along on this way to the stables at any moment.

The two men were coming nearer. They both paused as the dogs gave tongue. Through the thick belt of trees lights gleamed from one or two windows of the house. Steel pulled up and shuddered slightly, in spite of himself.

"Crimson blinds," he said. "Crimson blinds all through this business. They are beginning to get on my nerves. What about those dogs, Bell?"

"Dogs or no dogs, I am not going back now," Bell muttered. "It's perfectly useless to come here in the daytime; therefore we must fall back upon a little amateur burglary. There's a girl yonder who might have assisted me at one time, but——"

Enid slipped into the road. The night was passably light and her beautiful features were fairly clear to the startled men in the road.

"The girl is here," she said. "What do you want?"

Bell and his companion cried out simultaneously: Bell because he was so suddenly face to face with one who was very dear to him, David because it seemed to him that he recognized the voice from the darkness, the voice of his great adventure. And there was another surprise as he saw Ruth Gates side by side with the owner of that wonderful voice.

"Enid!" Bell cried, hoarsely. "I did not expect——"

"To confront me like this," the girl said, coldly. "That I quite understand. What I don't understand is why you intrude your hated presence here."

Bell shook his handsome head mournfully. He looked strangely downcast and dejected, and none the less, perhaps, because a fall in crossing the down had severely wrenched his ankle. But for a belated cab on the Rottingdean road he would not have been here now.

"As hard and cruel as ever," he said. "Not one word to me, not one word in my defence. And all the time I am the victim of a vile conspiracy——"

"Conspiracy! Do you call vulgar theft a conspiracy?"

"It was nothing else," David put in, eagerly. "A most extraordinary conspiracy. The kind of thing that you would not have deemed possible out of a book."

"And who might this gentleman be?" Enid asked, haughtily.

"A thousand pardons for my want of ceremony," David said. "If I had not been under the impression that we had met before I should never have presumed——"

"Oh, a truce to this," Bell cried. "We are wasting time. The hour is not far distant, Enid, when you will ask my pardon. Meanwhile I am going up to the house, and you are going to take me there. Come what may, I don't sleep to-night until I have speech with your aunt."

David had drawn a little aside. By a kind of instinct Ruth Gates followed him. A shaft of grey light glinted upon her cycle in the grass by the roadside. Enid and Bell were talking in vehement whispers—they seemed to be absolutely unconscious of anybody else but themselves. David could see the anger and scorn on the pale, high-bred face; he could see Bell gradually expanding as he brought all his strength and firm power of will to bear.

"What will be the upshot of it?" Ruth asked, timidly.

"Bell will conquer," David replied. "He always does, you know."

"I am afraid you don't take my meaning, Mr. Steel."

David looked down into the sweet, troubled face of his companion, and thence away to the vivid crimson patches beyond the dark belt of foliage. Ever and anon the intense stillness of the night was broken by the long-drawn howl of one of the hounds. David remembered it for years afterwards; it formed the most realistic chapter of one of his most popular novels.

"Heaven only knows," he said. "I have been dragged into this business, but what it means I know no more than a child. I am mixed up in it, and Bell is mixed up in it, and so are you. Why we shall perhaps know some day."

"You are not angry with me?"

"Why, no. Only you might have had a little more confidence in me."

"Mr. Steel, we dared not. We wanted your advice, and nothing more. Even now I am afraid I am saying too much. There is a withering blight over yonder house that is beyond mere words. And twice gallant gentlemen have come forward to our assistance. Both of them are dead. And if we had dragged you, a total stranger, into the arena, we should morally have murdered you."

"Am I not within the charmed circle now?" David smiled.

"Not of our free will," Ruth said, eagerly. "You came into the tangle with Hatherly Bell. Thank Heaven you have an ally like that. And yet I am filled with shame——"

"My dear young lady, what have you to be ashamed of?"

Ruth covered her face with her hands for a moment and David saw a tear or two trickle through the slim fingers. He took the hands in his, gently, tenderly, and glanced into the fine, grey eyes. Never had he been moved to a woman like this before.

"But what will you think of me?" Ruth whispered. "You have been so good and kind and I am so foolish. What can you think of a girl who is all this way from home at midnight? It is so—so unmaidenly."

"It might be in some girls, but not in you," David said, boldly. "One has only to look in your face and see that only the good and the pure dwell there. But you were not afraid?"

"Horribly afraid. The very shadows startled me. But when I discovered your errand to-night I was bound to come. My loyalty to Enid demanded it, and I had not one single person in the world whom I could trust."

"If you had only come to me, Miss Ruth——"

"I know, I know now. Oh, it is a blessed thing for a lonely girl to have one good man that she can rely upon. And you have been so very good, and we have treated you very, very badly."

But David would not hear anything of the kind. The whole adventure was strange to a degree, but it seemed to matter nothing so long as he had Ruth for company. Still, the girl must be got home. She could not be allowed to remain here, nor must she be permitted to return to Brighton alone. Bell strode up at the same moment.

"Miss Henson has been so good as to listen to my arguments," he said. "I am going into the house. Don't worry about me, but send Miss Gates home in the cab. I shall manage somehow."

David turned eagerly to Ruth.

"That will be best," he said. "We can put your machine on the cab, and I'll accompany you part of the way home. Our cabman will think that you came from the house. I shan't be long, Bell."

Ruth assented gratefully. As David put her in the cab Bell whispered to him to return as soon as possible, but the girl heard nothing of this.

"How kind—how kind you are," she murmured.

"Perhaps some day you will be kind to me," David said, and Ruth blushed in the darkness.

CHAPTER XIV.

There was a long pause till the sound of the horse's hoofs died away. Bell was waiting for his companion to speak. Her head was partly turned from him, so that he could only watch the dainty beauty of her profile. She stood there cold and still, but he could see that she was profoundly agitated.

"I never thought to see the day when I should trust you again," she said; "I never expected to trust any man again."

"You will trust me, darling," Bell said, passionately. "If you still care for me as I care for you. Do you?"

The question came keen as steel. Enid shivered and hesitated. Bell laid a light hand on her arm.

"Speak," he said. "I am going to clear myself. I am going to take back my good name. But if you no longer care for me the rest matters nothing. Speak."

"I am not one of those who change. God pity me," Enid murmured.

Bell drew a long, deep breath. He wanted no assurance beyond that.

"Then lead the way," he said. "I have come at the right time; I have been looking for you everywhere, and I find you in the hour of your deepest sorrow. When I knew your aunt last she was a cheerful, happy woman. From what I hear now she is suffering, you are all suffering, under some blighting grief."

"Oh, if you only knew what that sorrow was, Hatherly."

"Hatherly! How good the old name sounds from your lips. Nobody has ever called me that since—since we parted. And to think that I should have been searching for you all these years, when Miss Ruth Gates could have given me the clue at any time. And why have you been playing such strange tricks upon my friend David Steel? Why have you——What is that?"

Somebody was moving somewhere in the grounds, and a voice shouted for help. Enid started forward.

"It is Williams coming from the stables," she said. "I have so arranged it that the dogs are holding up my dear cousin, Reginald Henson, who is calling upon Williams to release him. If Reginald gets back to the house now we are ruined. Follow me as well as you can."

Enid disappeared down a narrow, tangled path, leaving Bell to limp along painfully in her track. A little way off Henson was yelling lustily for assistance. Williams, who had evidently taken in the situation, was coming up leisurely, chuckling at the discomfiture of the enemy. The hounds were whining and baying. From the house came the notes of a love song passionately declaimed. A couple of the great dogs came snarling up to Bell and laid their grimy muzzles on his thighs. A cold sensation crept up and down his spine as he came to a standstill.

"The brutes!" he muttered. "Margaret Henson must be mad indeed to have these creatures about the place. Ah! would you? Very well, I'll play the game fairly, and not move. If I call out I shall spoil the game. If I remain quiet I shall have a pleasant night of it. Let us hope for the best and that Enid will understand the situation."

Meanwhile Enid had come up with Williams. She laid her hand imperiously upon his lips.

"Not a word," she whispered. "Mr. Henson is held up by the dogs. He must remain where he is till I give you the signal to release him. I know you answered his call, but you are to go no farther."

Williams assented willingly enough. Everything that tended to the discomfort of Reginald Henson filled him with a peculiar and deep-seated pleasure.

"Very well, miss," he said, demurely. "And don't you hurry, miss. This is a kind of job that calls for plenty of patience. And I'm really shocking deaf to-night."

Williams retreated leisurely in the direction of the stables, but his malady was not so distressing that he failed to hear a groan and a snarling curse from Henson. Enid fled back along the track, where she found Bell standing patiently with a dog's muzzle close to either knee. His face was white and shining, otherwise he showed no signs of fear. Enid laid a hand on the head of either dog, and they rolled like great cats at her feet in the bushes.

"Now come swiftly," she whispered. "There is no time to be lost."

They were in the house at last, crossing the dusty floor, with the motes dancing in the lamp-light, deadening their footsteps and muffling the intense silence. Above the stillness rose the song from the drawing-room; from without came the restless murmur of the dogs. Enid entered the drawing-room, and Bell limped in behind her. The music immediately ceased. As Enid glanced at her aunt she saw that the far-away look had died from her eyes, that the sparkle and brightness of reason were there. She had come out of the mist and the shadows for a time at any rate.

"Dr. Hatherly Bell to see you, aunt," Enid said, in a low tone.

Margaret Henson shot up from the piano like a statue. There was no welcome on her face, no surprise there, nothing but deep, unutterable contempt and loathing.

"I have been asleep," she said. She passed her hand dreamily over her face. "I have been in a dream for seven long years. Enid brought me back to the music again to-night, and it touched my heart, and now I am awake again. Do you recollect the 'Slumber Song,' Hatherly Bell? The last time I sang it you were present. It was a happy night; the very last happy night in the world to me."

"I recollect it perfectly well, Lady Littimer," Bell said.

"Lady Littimer! How strange it is to hear that name again. Seven years since then. Here I am called Margaret Henson, and nobody knows. And now you have found out. Do you come here to blackmail and rob me like the rest?"

"I come here entirely on your behalf and my own, my lady."

"That is what they all say—and then they rob me. You stole the Rembrandt."

The last words came like a shot from a catapult. Enid's face grew colder. Bell drew a long tube of discolored paper carefully tied round a stick from his pocket.

"I am going to dispreve that once and for all," he said. "The Rembrandt is at present in Lord Littimer's collection. There is an account of it in to-day's Telegraph. It is perfectly familiar to both of you. And, that being the case, what do you think of this?"

He unrolled the paper before Enid's astonished eyes. Margaret Henson glanced at it listlessly; she was fast sinking into the old, strange oblivion again. But Enid was all rapt attention.

"I would have sworn to that as Lord Littimer's own," she gasped.

"It is his own," Bell replied. "Stolen from him and a copy placed by some arch-enemy in my portmanteau, it was certain to be found on the frontier. Don't you see that there were two Rembrandts? When the one from my portmanteau was restored to Littimer his own was kept by the thief. Subsequently it would be exposed as a new find, with some story as to its discovery, only, unfortunately for the scoundrel, it came into my possession."

"And where did you find it?"

"I found it," Bell said, slowly, "in a house called 218, Brunswick Square, Brighton."

A strange cry came from Enid's lips. She stood swaying before her lover, white as the paper upon which her eyes were eagerly fixed. Margaret Henson was pacing up and down the room, her lips muttering, and raising a cloud of pallid dust behind her.

"I—I am sorry," Enid said, falteringly. "And all these years I have deemed you guilty. But then the proof was so plain; I could not deny the evidence of my own senses. And Von Gulden came to me saying how deeply distressed he was, and that he would have prevented the catastrophe if he could. Well?"

A servant stood waiting in the doorway with wondering eyes at the sight of a stranger.

"I'm sorry, miss," she said, "but Miss Christiana is worse; indeed, she quite frightens me. I've taken the liberty of telephoning to Dr. Walker."

The words seemed to bring consciousness to Margaret Henson.

"Christiana worse," she said. "Another of them going; it will be a happy release from a house of sorrow like this. I will come up, Martin."

She swept out of the room after the servant. Enid appeared hardly to have heard. Bell looked at her inquiringly and with some little displeasure.

"I fancy I have heard you speak of your sister Christiana," he said. "Is she ill?"

"She is at the point of death, I understand; you think that I am callous. Oh, if you only knew! But the light will come to us all in time, God willing. Look at this place, look at the blight of it, and wonder how we endure it. Hatherly, I have made a discovery."

"We seem to be living in an atmosphere of discoveries. What is it?"

"I will answer your question by asking another. You have been made the victim of a vile conspiracy. For seven years your career has been blighted. And I have lost seven years of my life, too. Have you any idea who your enemy is?"

"Not the faintest, but, believe me, I shall find out in time. And then——"

A purple blackness like the lurid light of a storm flashed into his eyes, the lines of his mouth grew rigid. Enid laid a hand tenderly on his arm.

"Your enemy is the common enemy of us all," she said. "We have wasted the years, but we are young yet. Your enemy is Reginald Henson."

"Enid, you speak with conviction. Are you sure of this?"

"Certain. When I have time I will tell you everything. But not now. And that man must never know that you have been near the house to-night, not so much for your sake as for the sake of your friend David Steel. Now I can see the Providence behind it all."

formerly, tell me that you forgive me before the others come back."

"My darling, I cannot see how you could have acted otherwise."

Enid turned towards him with a great glad light in her eyes. She said nothing, for the simple reason that there was nothing to say. Hatherly Bell caught her in his strong arms, and she swayed to reach his lips. In that delicious moment the world was all forgot.

But not for long. There was a sudden rush and a tumble of feet on the stairs, there was a strange voice speaking hurriedly, then the drawing-room door opened and Margaret Henson came in. She was looking wild and excited and talked incoherently. An obviously professional man followed her.

"My dear madam," he was saying, "I have done all I can. In the last few days I have not been able to disguise from myself that there was small hope for the patient. The exhaustion, the shock of the system, the congestion, all point to an early collapse."

"Is my sister so much worse, Dr Walker?" Enid asked, quietly.

"She could not be any worse and be alive," the doctor said. "Unless I am greatly mistaken the gentleman behind you is Mr. Hatherly Bell. I presume he has been called in to meet me? If so, I am sincerely glad, because I shall be pleased to have a second opinion. A bad case of"—here followed a long technical name—"one of the worst cases I have ever seen."

"You can command me, Enid," Bell said. "If I can."

"No, no," Enid cried. "What am I saying? Please to go upstairs with Martin."

Bell departed, wonderingly. Enid flew to the door and out into the night. She could hear Henson cursing and shouting, could hear the snarling clamour of the dogs. At the foot of the drive she paused and called Steel softly by name. To her intense relief he came from the shadow.

"I am here," he cried. "Do you want me?"

"Yes, yes," Enid panted. "Never more were your services needed. My sister is dying; my sister must—die. And Hatherly Bell is with her, and—you understand?"

"Yes," said David. A vivid flash of understanding had come to him. "Bell shall do as I tell him. Come along."

"Hold him up, dear doggies," Enid murmured. "Hold him up and I'll love both of you for ever."

CHAPTER XV.

David Steel followed his guide with the feelings of the man who has given himself over to circumstances. There was a savour of nightmare about the whole thing that appealed distinctly to his imagination. The darkness, the strange situation, the vivid streaks of the crimson blinds—the crimson blind that seemed an integral part of the mystery—all served to stimulate him. The tragic note was deepened by the whine and howling of the dogs.

"There is a man over there," David whispered.

"A man who is going to stay there," Enid said, with grim satisfaction. "It is virtually necessary that Mr. Reginald Henson should not be disturbed. The dogs have a foolish weakness for his society. So long as he shows no signs of boredom he is safe."

David smiled with a vague grasp of the situation. Apparently the cue was to be surprised at nothing that he saw about the House of the Silent Sorrow. The name of Reginald Henson was more or less familiar to him as that of a man who stood high in public estimation. But the bitter contempt in his companion's voice suggested that there was another side to the man's character.

"I hope you are not asking me to do anything wrong," David murmured.

"I am absolutely certain of it," the girl said. "It is a case of the end justifying the means; and if ever the end justified the means, it does in this case. Besides——"

Enid Henson hesitated. David's quick perception prompted him.

"Besides, it is my suggestion," he said. "When I had the pleasure of seeing you before——"

"Pardon me, you have never had the pleasure of seeing me before."

"Ah, you would make an excellent Parliamentary fencer. I bow to your correction and admit that I have never seen you before. But your voice reminds me of a voice I heard very recently under remarkable circumstances. It was my good fortune to help a lady in distress a little time back. If she had told me more I might have aided her still further. As it is, her reticence has landed me into serious trouble."

Enid grasped the speaker's arm convulsively.

"I am deeply sorry to hear it," she whispered. "Perhaps the lady in question was reticent for your sake. Perhaps she had confided more thoroughly in good men before. And suppose those good men had disappeared?"

"In other words, that they had been murdered. Who by?"

There was a snarl from one of the hounds hard by, and a deep, angry curse from Henson. Enid pointed solemnly in his direction. No words of hers would have been so thrilling and eloquent. David strode along without further questions on that head.

"But there is one thing that you must tell me," he said, as they stood together in the porch. "Is the first part of my advice going to be carried out?"

"Yes. That is why you are here now. Stay here one moment whilst I get you pencil and paper. . . . There! Now will you please write what I suggest? Dr. Bell is with my sister. At least, I suppose he is with her, as Dr. Walker desired to have his opinion. My sister is dying—dying, you understand?"

Enid's voice had sunk to a passionate whisper. The hand that she laid on David's shoulder was trembling strangely. At that moment he would have done anything for her. A shaft of light filtered from the hall into the porch, and lit up the paper that the girl thrust upon Steel.

"Now write," she commanded. "Ask no questions, but write what I ask, and trust me implicitly."

David nodded. After all, he reflected, he could not possibly get himself into a worse mess than he was in already. And he felt that he could trust the girl by his side. Her beauty, her earnestness, and her obvious sincerity touched him.

"Write," Enid whispered. "Say, 'See nothing and notice nothing. I implore you. Only agree with everything that Dr. Walker says, and leave the room as quickly as possible.' Now sign your name. We can go into the drawing-room and wait till Dr. Bell comes down. You are merely a friend of his. I will see that he has this paper at once."

Enid led the way into the drawing-room. She gave no reasons for the weird strangeness of the place, it was no time for explanations. As for Steel, he gazed around him in fascinated astonishment. A novelist ever on the look-out for new scenes and backgrounds, the aspect of the room fascinated him. He saw the dust rising in clouds, he saw the wilted flowers, he noted the overturned table, obviously untouched and neglected for years, and he wondered. Then he heard the babel of discordant voices overhead. What a sad house it was, and how dominant was the note of tragedy.

Meanwhile, with no suspicion of the path he was treading, Bell had gone upstairs. He came at length to the door of the room where the sick girl lay. There was a subdued light inside and the faint suggestion of illness that clings to the chamber of the sufferer. Bell caught a glimpse of a white figure lying motionless in bed. It was years now since he had acted thus in a professional capacity, but the old quietness and caution came back by instinct. As he would have entered Margaret Henson came out and closed the door.

"You are not going in there," she said. "No, no. Everything of mine you touch you blight and wither. If the girl is to die, let her die in peace."

She would have raised her voice high, but a lightning glance from Bell quieted her. It was not exactly madness that he had to deal with, and he knew it. The woman required firm, quiet treatment. Dr. Walker stood alongside, anxious and nervous. The man with the quiet practice of the well-to-do doctor was not used to scenes of this kind.

"You have something to conceal," Bell said, sternly. "Open the door."

"Really, my dear sir," Walker said, fussily. "Really, I fancy that under the circumstances——"

"You don't understand this kind of case," Bell interrupted. "I do."

Walker dropped aside with a muttered apology. Bell approached the figure in the doorway and whispered a few words rapidly in her ear. The effect was electrical. The figure seemed to wilt and shrivel up, all the power and resistance had gone. She stepped aside, moaning and wringing her hands. She babbled of strange things; the old, far-away look came into her eyes again.

Without a word of comment or sign of triumph Bell entered the sick room. Then he raised his head and sniffed the heavy atmosphere as an eager hound might have done. A quick, sharp question rose to his lips, only to be instantly suppressed as he noted the vacant glance of his colleague.

The white figure on the bed lay perfectly motionless. It was the figure of a young and exceedingly beautiful girl, a beauty heightened and accentuated by the dead-white pallor of her features. Still the face looked resolute and the exquisitely chiselled lips were firm.

"Albumen," Bell muttered. "What fiend's game is this? I wonder if that scoundrel—but, no. In that case there would be no object in concealing my presence here. I wonder——"

He paused and touched the pure white brow with his fingers. At the same moment Enid came into the room. She panted like one who has run fast and far.

"Well," she whispered, "is she better, better or—Hatherly, read this."

The last words were so low that Bell hardly heard them. He shot a swift glance at his colleague before he opened the paper. One look and he had mastered the contents. Then the swift glance was directed from Walker to the girl standing there looking at Bell with a world of passionate entreaty and longing in her eyes.

"It is your sister who lies there," Bell whispered meaningly, "and yet you——"

He paused, and Enid nodded. There was evidently a great struggle going on in Bell's mind. He was grappling with something that he only partially understood, but he did know perfectly well that he was being asked to do something wrong and that he was going to yield for the sake of the girl he loved.

He rose abruptly from the bedside and crossed over to Walker.

"You are perfectly correct," he said. "At this rate—at this rate the patient cannot possibly last till the morning. It is quite hopeless."

Walker smiled feebly.

"It is melancholy satisfaction to have my opinion confirmed," he said. "Miss Henson, if you will get Williams to see me as far as the lodge-gates . . . . it is so late that—er——"

Williams came at length, and the little doctor departed. Enid fairly cowered before the blazing, searching look that Bell turned upon her. She fell to plucking the bedclothes nervously.

"What does it mean?" he asked, hoarsely. "What fiend's plaything are you meddling with? Don't you know that if that girl dies it will be murder? It was only for your sake that I didn't speak my mind before the fool who has just gone. He has seen murder done under his eyes for days, and he is ready to give a certificate of the cause of death. And the strange thing is that in the ordinary way he would be quite justified in doing so."

"Chris is not going to die; at least, not in that way," Enid whispered, hoarsely.

"Then leave her alone. No more drugs; no medicine even. Give Nature a chance. Thank Heaven, the girl has a perfect constitution."

"Chris is not going to die," Enid repeated, doggedly. "but the certificate will be given, all the same. Oh, Hatherly you must trust me—trust me as you have never done before. Look at me, study me. Did you ever know me to do a mean or dishonorable thing?"

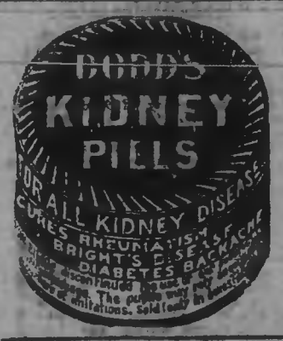
They were down in the drawing-room again; David waiting, with a strange sense of embarrassment under Margaret Henson's distant eyes; indeed, it was probable that she had never noticed him at all. All the same she turned eagerly to Bell.

"Tell me the worst," she cried. "Tell me all there is to know."

"Your niece's sufferings are over," Bell said, gravely; "I have no more to tell you."

A profound silence followed, broken presently by angry voices outside. Then Williams looked in at the door and beckoned Enid to him. His face was wreathed in an uneasy grin.

"Mr. Henson has got away," he said. "Blest if I can say how. And the dogs have rolled him about, and tore his clothes, and made such a picture of him as you never saw. And a sweet temper he's in!"



"Where is he now?" Enid asked. "There are people here he must not see."

"Well, he came back in through the study window, swearing dreadful for so respectable a gentleman. And he went right up to his room, after ordering whisky and sode-water."

Enid flew back to the drawing-room. Not a moment was to be lost. At any hazard Reginald Henson must be kept in ignorance of the presence of strangers. A minute later, and the darkness of the night had swallowed them up. Williams fastened the lodge-gates behind them, and they turned their faces in the direction of Rottingdean Road.

"A strange night's work," David said, presently.

"Aye, but pregnant with result," Bell answered. There was a stern, exulting ring in his voice. "There is much to do and much danger to be faced, but we are on the right track at last. But why did you send me that note just now?"

David smiled as he lighted a cigarette.

"It is part of the scheme," he said. "Part of my scheme, you understand. But, principally, I sent you the note because Miss Enid asked me to."

CHAPTER XVI.

With a sigh of unutterable relief Enid heard Williams returning. Reginald Henson had not come down yet, and the rest of the servants had retired some time. Williams came up with a request as to whether he could do anything before he went to bed.

"Just one thing," said Enid. "The good dogs have done their work well to-night, but they have not quite finished. Find Rollo for me, and bring him here quick. Then you can shut up the house, and I will see that Mr. Henson is made comfortable after his fright."

The big dog came presently and followed Enid timidly upstairs. Apparently the great black-muzzled brute had been there before, as evidently he knew he was doing wrong. He crawled along the corridor till he came to the room where the sick girl lay, and here he followed Enid. The lamp was turned down low as Enid glanced at the bed. Then she smiled faintly, yet hopefully.

There was nobody in the room. The patient's bed was empty!

"It works well," Enid murmured. "May it go on as it has been started. Lie down, Rollo; lie there, good dog. And if anybody comes in tear him to pieces."

The great brute crouched down obediently, thumping his tail on the floor as an indication that he understood. As if a load had been taken from her mind Enid crept down the stairs. She had hardly reached the hall before Henson followed her. His big face was white with passion; he was trembling from head to foot from fright and pain. There was a red rash on his forehead that by no means tended to improve his appearance.

"What is the meaning of this?" he demanded, hoarsely.

Enid looked at him coolly. She could afford to do so now. All the danger was past, and she felt certain that the events of the evening were unknown to him.

"I might ask you the same question," she said. "You look white and shaken: you might have been thrown violently into a heap of stones. But please don't make a noise. It is not fitting now. Chris——"

Enid hesitated; the prevarication did not come so easily as she had expected.

"Chris has gone," she said. "She passed away an hour ago."

Henson muttered something that sounded like consolation. He could be polite and suave enough on occasions, but not to-night. Even philanthropists are selfish at times. Moreover, his nerves were badly shaken and he wanted a stimulant badly.

"I am going to bed," Enid said, wearily. "Good-night."

She went noiselessly upstairs, and Henson passed into the library. He was puzzled over this sudden end of Christiana Henson. He was half inclined to believe that she was not dead at all: he belonged to the class of men who believe nothing without proof. Well, he could easily ascertain that for himself. There would be quite time enough in the morning.

For a long time Henson sat there thinking and smoking, as was his usual custom. Like other great men, he had his worries and troubles, and that they were mainly of his own making did not render them any lighter. So long as Margaret Henson was under the pressure of his thumb, money was no great object. But there were other situations where money was utterly powerless.

Henson was about to give it up as a bad job, for to-night at any rate. He wondered bitterly what his admirers would say if they knew everything. He wondered—what was that?

Somebody creeping about the house, somebody talking in soft, though distinct, whispers. His quick ears detected that sound instantly. He slipped into the hall; Margaret Henson was there, with the remains of what had once been a magnificent opera-cloak over her shoulders.

"How you startled me!" Henson said, irritably. "Why don't you go to bed?"

Enid, looking over the balustrade from the landing, wondered so also, but she kept herself prudently hidden. The first words that she heard drove all the blood from her heart.

"I cannot," the feeble, moaning voice said. "The house is full of ghosts; they haunt and follow me everywhere. And Chris is dead, and I have seen her spirit."

"So I'm told," Henson said, with brutal callousness. "What was the ghost like?"

"Like Chris. All pale and white, with a frightened look on her face. And she was all dressed in white, too, with a cloak about her shoulders. And just when I was going to speak to her she turned and disappeared into Enid's bedroom. And there are other ghosts——"

"One at a time, please," Henson said, grimly. "So Christiana's ghost passed into her sister's bedroom. You come and sit quietly in the library whilst I investigate matters."

Margaret Henson complied in her dull, mechanical way, and Enid flew like a flash of light to her room. Another girl was there—a girl exceedingly like her, but looking wonderfully pale and drawn.

"That fiend suspects," Enid said. "How unfortunate it was that you should meet aunt like that. Chris, you must go back again. Fly to your own room and compose yourself. Only let him see you lying white and still there, and he must be satisfied."

Chris rose with a shudder.

"And if the wretch offers to touch me," she moaned. "If he does——"

"He will not. He dare not. Heaven help him if he tries any experiment of that kind. If he does, Rollo will kill him to a certainty."

"Ah, I had forgotten the faithful dog. Those dogs are more useful to us than a score of men. I will step by the back way and through my dressing-room. Oh, Enid, how glad I shall be to find myself outside the walls of this dreadful house!"

She flew along the corridor and gained her room in safety. It was an instant's work to throw off her cloak and compose herself rigidly under the single white sheet. But though she lay still her heart was beating to suffocation as she heard the creak and thud of a heavy step coming up the stairs. Then the door was opened in a stealthy way and Henson came in. He could see the outline of the white figure, and a sigh of satisfaction escaped him. A less suspicious man would have retired at once; a man less engaged upon his task would have seen two great amber eyes close to the floor.

"An old woman's fancy," he muttered. "Still, as I am here, I'll make sure that——"

He stretched out his hand to touch the marble forehead, there was a snarl and a gurgle, and Henson came to the ground with a hideous crash that carried him staggering beyond the door into the corridor. Rollo had the intruder by the throat; a thousand crimson and blue stars danced before the wretched man's eyes; he grappled with his foe with one last despairing effort, and then there came over him a vague, warm unconsciousness. When he came to himself he was lying on his bed, with Williams and Enid bending over him.

"How did it happen?" Enid asked, with simulated anxiety.

"I—I was walking along the corridor," Henson gasped, "going—going to bed, you see; and one of those diabolical dogs must have got into the house. Before I knew what I was doing the creature flew at my throat and dragged me to the floor. Telephone for Walker at once. I am dying, Williams."

He fell back once more utterly lost to his surroundings. There was a great, gaping, raw wound at the side of the throat that caused Enid to shudder.

"Do you think he is—dead, Williams?" she asked.

"No such luck as that," Williams said, with the air of a confirmed pessimist. "I hope you locked that there bedroom door and put the key in your pocket, miss. I suppose we'd better send for the doctor, unless you and me puts him out of his misery. There's one comfort, however, Mr. Henson will be in bed for the next fortnight, at any rate, so he'll be powerless to do any prying about the house. The funeral will be over long before he's about again."

* * * * * * *

The first grey streaks of dawn were in the air as Enid stood outside the lodge-gates. She was not alone, for a neat figure in grey, marvellously like her, was by her side. The figure in grey was dressed for traveling and she carried a bag in her hand.

"Good-bye, dear, and good luck to you," she said. "It is dangerous to delay."

"You have absolutely everything that you require?" Enid asked.

"Everything. By the time you are at breakfast I shall be in London. And once I am there the search for the secret will begin in earnest."

"You are sure that Reginald Henson suspected nothing?"

"I am perfectly certain that he was satisfied; indeed, I heard him say so. Still, if it had not been for the dogs! We are going to succeed, Enid, something at my heart tells me so. See how the sun shines on your face and in your dear eyes. Au revoir, an omen—an omen of a glorious future."

Will be continued next Saturday.

ENGLAND

Kensal Rise—a district which has been associated with several notorious tragedies; such as the Devereux "trunk" case and the Crossman murders—was recently the scene of the murder of two girls by their frenzied father. The father, Alfred Robert Rogers, has been in business as an upholsterer, but lately sold the concern. His family, consisted of his wife, two daughters, Florence Mabel and May Dorothy, aged 9 and 14 years respectively; a son, William, aged 15, and a baby about three years. Albert Ed. Rogers, a brother of the householder, also lived with him. It was about six o'clock in the morning that the first signs of the tragedy became public. At that hour a man named Ralph heard piercing shrieks issuing from the house of Rogers. Summoning assistance he burst open the door and entered a lower room he found the man Rogers with a razor in his hand in the very act of committing suicide by cutting his throat. He was seized and disarmed before he had had time to seriously injure himself. An examination of the upper rooms of the house revealed a terrible spectacle. In one of the bedrooms lay the dead body of the girl, May Dorothy, with her throat cut. The head was almost severed from the trunk, and lay in a pool of blood. Half under the bed was seen the dead body of her younger sister Florence, a girl of nine years. The wife was found alive. Her throat was cut, and there were wounds all over the body and on the hands and arms. By her side lay the little girl Ethel, on whose life an attempt had also been made. The brother was also found to be injured with severe cuts on the throat and chest and nearly the whole of his back was laid open. When arrested Rogers said: "I wish we were all dead. I could not sleep last night, and woke at three this morning. Recently I have been depressed over business matters, and I thought we should all come to poverty, and rather than see them starve I felt it was best to make away with them."

A thrilling cliff incident was witnessed by hundreds of holiday-makers aboard the Solent pleasure steamer Duchess of Fife and Solent Queen in Alum Bay, Isle of Wight, one day recently. The cliffs where the occurrence took place are sheer from the sea for about 150 feet. They are composed of various coloured sands and gravel beds. Here and there they are exceptionally dangerous, owing to the soft, yielding sand. A holiday-maker and his young son, aged about ten, were passing over one of these soft patches, when it began to slide like an avalanche. The father, with commendable presence of mind, threw himself on his back, and held the child back as well. Within full view of the passengers on the steamers in the bay, the pair were seen to slip over the cliff to what appeared certain death beneath. But, after falling 20 or 30 feet, they came to a standstill on a narrow ledge covered with sand—the only possible hold on the face of the cliff, which descended nearly perpendicularly below to the water's edge. Here they remained for a quarter of an hour, out of the reach of would-be rescuers, and in imminent danger of the mass of sand and shingle breaking away under their combined weight. The captain and crew of the Duchess of Fife went ashore to effect a rescue, but, meanwhile, some bluejackets had obtained a stout clothes-rope, made a bight, and lowered it. The father passed the rope around the child's body and the little one was hauled up, amid ringing cheers from the passengers on the boats. The sailors next hauled up the father. Neither was injured.

More like a fairy tale than actual fact is the pretty little romance which has just come to light at Cardiff. A young woman of that town, by name Nellie Hawkins, is to receive a fortune of $80,000 from Harold Sawdoff, a wealthy German, whom she befriended years ago when he was penniless and starving. Eighteen years ago a number of little boys and girls were playing in a Cardiff street, when a man, ragged, tired and hungry, approached them. The children stopped their merry prattle, and cast wondering looks at each other. Among them was Nellie Hawkins, who was eating bread and butter. The man asked her for a small share of the food, and the girl offered him all she had. He ate it greedily, and said he had not tasted food for three days. For nearly a week the man was seen constantly at the same spot, and every day Nellie Hawkins gave him food. Eventually he left the district, and nothing more was heard of him until one day recently, when he wrote to a resident in Cardiff explaining that he was now rich, and inquiring for the address of his little benefactor. The letter, which was signed "Harold Sawdoff," continued: "When I used to tell her how hungry I was her eyes would fill with tears, but I never forgot Nellie Hawkins. I am a rich man to-day. I am coming to England next spring to make her a present of $80,000, if she is alive." Nellie Hawkins is living with her sister in Cardiff, where she keeps a coffee stall.

SCOTLAND

The Edinburgh police are on the lookout for a man of about 25 years of age, who is imposing upon householders, and securing from them sums of money. Having first obtained information from message boys or small shopkeepers as to who in the locality have relatives in America, his method is to call upon those people, to whom he represents that he is the bearer of presents from their relatives in the United States, with whom he claims close acquaintanceship. But those presents, he explains, have been detained by the customs authorities at Greenock, or some other port, the hint being dropped that money is required before he can get his luggage. Without actually asking for it, he succeeds in being offered sums of money for that purpose, ranging from £1 to £5. With this he makes off. The suspected man was a year ago in Edinburgh on the same work, since when he has been in trouble in England.

A bull broke away from a cattle market in Glasgow recently and did considerable damage before it was shot in Kelvingrove Park. Rushing into Deane Lane, it knocked down an eight-year-old girl and an old woman of 60, both of whom were seriously bruised, and had to be removed to the infirmary. The infuriated animal proceeded westwards, followed by a large crowd, and at West Prince street it knocked down and injured a boy. It then entered Kelvingrove Park. Baillie Shaw Maxwell, who happened to be in the park at the time, and realizing the danger of the situation, ordered a constable to have the animal shot. A gun was procured by a volunteer sergeant, and the bull was destroyed.

A woman named Mrs. Maitland died under sad circumstances in the Paisley infirmary recently. She swallowed, by mistaken, a quantity of liquid which had been prepared as an embrocation. The liniment was for sciatica, from which the woman suffered, and whilst it was being applied to her limb a cup of lemon water was placed beside her in order that she might refresh herself with a cooling drink during the pain caused by the application of the liniment. Some of it had just been applied when Mrs. Maitland made to take a drink, and, lifting by mistake the cup containing the embrocation, she had swallowed a portion of its contents before she realized what she had done.

The men who are exploring the waters of Tobermory Bay for the treasure known to have been aboard the Spanish galleon, Admiral of Florence, found a silver salver recently, and are much elated in consequence. It is only one of many finds during the last seven weeks, and the seekers believe that they are now near the chests containing the communion vessels, altar service, and miscellaneous plate. Among the articles found this summer are a loaded mortar, a hand grenade, also loaded, a short broadsword, arquebuses, and liquer and water bottles of fanciful designs.

An extraordinary affair occurred during a storm of wind and rain in Clydebank, late one night recently, huge mission tent erected by the United Evangelistic Association on an open space in Miller street being blown down while a meeting was being addressed by the Rev. John M'Neill. Several persons were injured.

IRELAND

Despatches from Monte Video, received at Queenstown, report the landing there of the master and eleven men of the British barque Argentina by the Glasgow steamer Foreric, which rescued the crew in lat. 27.31 south, long. 43.55, from their dismasted and sinking vessel. The Argentina had a cargo from Buenos Ayres, and after being a week at sea, encountered a fierce gale which lasted for six days. Her fore and main topmasts were carried away, and these heavy spars with yards attached, came down on the deck, demolishing the deck house in which the sailors lived, smashing to atoms the boats, bursting in the deck, and levelling the bulwarks and stanchions, leaving the vessel dismantled and unmanageable. To add to the situation the wrecked hull began to make water. The crew having no shelter suffered terribly from exposure, and momentarily expected the vessel to founder. For several days they drifted hopelessly and having no boat in which to leave the Argentina the crew had abandoned all hope when the Glasgow steamer Floreric, bound to San Francisco, from a British port, sighted the wreck, bore down upon it, and, after much difficulty, rescued the exhausted men, many of whom were injured by the falling spars.

"Mulligan's Fort," Arva, County Cavan, has fallen after a siege lasting since June last. In that month the landlord obtained a decree for possession of the premises of Mr. Mulligan, who immediately barricaded the house, built a strong wall along the back of the premises, topped with barbed wire, heavily shuttered the windows and reinforced them with sandbags, and put on extra doors. The fort was garrisoned with relays of men, who at first numbered about fifty and these kept a sharp look out for the police and bailiffs. The display of force was apparently too much for the authorities who made no attempt to take the citadel. A few weeks ago Mr. Mulligan obtained another house, and funds for the defence having run low the garrison was withdrawn and the fort was shut up. Recently a special train arrived at Leggagiinny Crossing, near Armagh, with a very strong force of police and bailiffs. The men reached Arva before the inhabitants were astir, and when they arose they found the fort in possession of the enemy without a blow being struck. The landlord, who arrived in Cavan during the day, was unable to obtain a conveyance to take him to Arva.

When the Irish Congested Commission sat in Dublin, recently, a Government official gave evidence in favour of migrating colonies from poor districts to the "rich plains of Meath." Mr. Micks, the official in question, also said he was afraid that any effort to develop the industries of Ireland would incite jealousy in Great Britain. As an illustration, he stated that representations were made to the Government regarding the jam industry started at Drogheda under the direction of the Agricultural Department, with the result that it was stopped.

Stating that he had murdered a man on the roadside, a Dublin labourer, named John McCann, gave himself up to the police the other day. McCann, who was under the influence of drink, was taken into custody. It was ascertained that the man supposed to be murdered was being "waked" by a number of children when the police arrived, but he got up and walked away when requested. The defendant said he really believed he had killed the man. He was fined 2s. 6d. for drunkenness.

Teachers Will Unite In Norwood

Semi Annual Convention to be Held Norwood Fair Days.

On October 9 and 10 the semi-annual Convention of the Peterborough County Teachers' Institute will be held in Norwood (in the Model School). The convention this year is being held on the same day as the Norwood Fair, giving teachers of the county the benefits of the cheap railway rates as well as an opportunity to attend East Peterborough Fair.

A special feature of the convention will be the addresses to be given by Mr. A. H. Leake, superintendent of Manual Training and Industrial Education for the province, who will be present on October 9 and give an address in the afternoon. He will also speak at a public meeting the same evening in the town hall. It is expected that there will be a large attendance of the teachers from all parts of the country.

The programme, which has just been issued, is as follows:—

Tuesday Afternoon.

2.00.—President's address, Mr. J. Davidson, M.A., LL.B.
2.30—Report of O. E. A., Mr. Smithson and Miss Campbell.
3.00.—Address, "How to Teach Constructive Work", Mr. Albert H. Leake, Inspector Technical Education, Toronto.

Tuesday Evening.

At 8.00 o'clock, a Public Meeting under the auspices of the Board of Education will be held in the town hall when an address on Practical Education will be delivered by Inspector Leake, illustrated by lantern slides. Music and recitations will also be interspersed. The public are cordially invited.

Mr. J. L. Squire, Chairman Board of Education, will preside.

Wednesday Morning.

9.00.—Election of officers.
9.15.—Experiences (with a school garden), Miss Carter.
10.00.—New Law and Regulations. Discussion led by Inspector Lees.

All Trustees are earnestly invited to be present during the sessions, but especially at 10 o'clock on Wednesday when the New School Law and Regulations will be discussed.

What We Claim for Ferrol

FERROL is an Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, and if it were nothing more it would take front rank because of the quality and quantity of the oil used and the scientific method of preparation. But FERROL has special claims which take it out of the ordinary class of Emulsion altogether. For instance:

FERROL combines Iron and Phosphorus with the oil, and no other emulsion contains these ingredients, although it is well known that they should always be administered together, as each is the complement of the other.

FERROL is so scientifically prepared that the first processes of digestion are actually performed in the process of manufacture, and the emulsion is ready for instant absorption into the blood. This is of the utmost importance to persons with delicate stomachs.

FERROL

unlike other emulsions, is positively palatable, and not one in a thousand find any difficulty in taking it.

FERROL contains the three essentials of life, viz.: Fat, Iron, and Phosphorus—they have never been combined before.

FERROL holds the record for increasing the weight.

FERROL has received more endorsations from medical men than any other preparation on the market.

FERROL will cure any case of Consumption that is capable of cure.

FERROL is an absolute specific for Colds, Croup, Bronchitis and all kindred troubles.

FERROL is an unfailing remedy for nervous prostration, Chronic Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

Example: Abundant Hair plus Dandruff Microbes, plus a few years, equals baldness.

Baldness Begins Early

"Baldness begins in the young and increases, whether rapidly or slowly, up to the fiftieth year." So says Dr. Sabouraud, of Paris, the world's greatest authority upon diseases of the hair and scalp.

Dr. Sabouraud confirms Dr. Unna's discovery, that baldness is a contagious disease caused by a microbe. Ask your family physician about these two authorities.

Dr. Sabouraud goes further, however, and says that "Baldness as a chronic malady, is a disease not of old age, but of youth; in bald old men we simply see result of a disease that has been slowly doing its work for many years."

The dandruff microbe is an invisible growth of vegetable character; minute fragments of it are easily passed from one head to the other, through the medium of public hair brushes, towels, etc.

In the hair these fragments are inert until they come in contact with the natural hair oil from the sebaceous glands of the scalp, when they begin to grow and form one colony after another; in a similar manner, dry fragments of yeast cake are inert until they find the proper medium, when they promptly begin to "work".

On the back of the head, most of these fragments of microbic growth fall out of the hair before they find permanent lodgment in the sebaceous glands, and this is one of the reasons why baldness begins, and is often confined, to the top of the head.

It often takes years to produce dandruff, but after it is well established in the scalp the destruction becomes more and more rapid. The hair becomes dull, brittle and lustreless, but occasionally there is excessive oiliness. Itching of the scalp and falling hair usually follow excessive dandruff, and unless something is done to check the disease, baldness will surely follow.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE—the ORIGINAL remedy that "kills the dandruff germ"—will overcome any stage of this malady, except chronic baldness. It acts by destroying the growth that causes the disease, and when this is done, the hair is bound to grow as nature intended.

More men and women get positive results from the use of NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE than from all other hair remedies combined.

It is delightfully refreshing to use, and it stops itching of the scalp almost instantly. Remember you must destroy the cause to remove the effect. Do not wait for chronic baldness, for it's insurable. THE TIME TO SAVE YOUR HAIR IS WHILE YOU HAVE HAIR TO SAVE.

Dunlop Rubber Trade Mark

At first the Dunlop trade mark, the two hands, exprest the ease with which Dunlop Bicycle Tires were attacht and detacht, and while it still stands for this merit, as applied to both bicycle and automobile tires, it stands also for good quality in rubber.

To speak metaforically, the Dunlop two hands have grasp a firm hold on the rubber business generally. They are now stampt on no fewer than thirty kinds of rubber goods. These include:

PNEUMATIC TIRES for Bicycles, Automobiles, Sulkies and Ambulances.

SOLID RUBBER TIRES for Carriages, Busses, Fire Apparatus, Motor Trucks and Baby Carriages.

"Comfort" Rubber Heels

"Ideal" and "Bar" Horseshoe Pads

"Polar Bear" and "Ebony Black" Packing

Mats, Matting, Tiling, Tubing, Hockey Pucks, etc.

Always remember the two hands when buying anything in rubber Dunlops make. It is a trade mark that will fulfill your highest opinion of what good rubber should be like.

POWER COMMISSION'S COST.

Municipal Enterprise Expenditure Totals Over $16,000.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Expenditures by the Ontario Municipal Power Commission (not to be confused with the hydro-electric commission) have amounted to $16,084.07.

The seven cities participating in the scheme are dividing the cost, as follows: Toronto, $11,756; London, $1,542; Brantford, $668; Stratford, $342; Guelph, $326; Woodstock, $242; Ingersoll, $124. The publication of the report cost $712.50 in addition to which Toronto pays $375.

For engineering work, Ross & Holgate got $7,750 of the sum named; John Mackay, actuarial work, $2,750; R. C. Fessenden, engineer, $750; Hon. S. H. Blake, K.C., and D. E. Thompson, K. C., $632.

ONTARIO V. CANADA.

Suit re School Trust Funds to Be Heard Next Week.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—The appeal of the province in the case against the Dominion, in connection with the school trust funds and the counter-appeal by the Dominion, has been set for hearing by the supreme court at Ottawa on Oct. 2.

Justice Burbidge's decision, given some time ago, permitted the Dominion to pay off the capital sum, to which the province objects. The rate of interest, which the Dominion reduced from 5 to 4 per cent., he ruled could not be altered.

The funds amount to $1,909,845, consisting of the grammar school, the Upper Canada College Building and U. C. C. improvement funds.

A TORONTO MAN TRIES

SOMETHING NEW AND IS DELIGHTED. FEELS LIKE A BOY.

MR. M. N. DAFOE

Mr. M. N. Dafoe Manager The Dustless Brush Co., 29 Colborne St., Toronto is telling his friends how he found health after years of illness and pain. He says:

"I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia for many years, y nave been treated by local doctors and have taken nearly all the advertised remedies, with only temporaril relief, if any at all but since using Anti-Pill I can eat any thing, the same as when a boy. I have been taking one Anti-Pill at bedtime for the past three months, and find they regulate both stomach and bowels. My old-time vigor has returned, so that my spirits are buoyant and temper normal. As a suit o f this unhoped-for experience I am duty bound to give all credit to this ond erful remedy, Anti-Pill.'

Every druggist sells Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill, or a sample will be sent free by The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

The remedy that cured Mr. Dafoe so completely is surely worth a trial. 502

Western Wheat Yield.

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—The trade and commerce department has received reports which indicate the wheat yield in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan. It is placed at 85,000,000 bushels. It is said that the yield would have been considerably larger but for the hot wave in August, which was very severe.

About 6,000,000 bushels of the new crop has been inspected. Of this 25 per cent. is No. 1; 40 per cent. No. 1 northern; 15 per cent. No. 2 northern; 80 per cent. of the yield to be high grade. The fine weather is facilitating threshing, etc. Some damage from frost is reported from the Regina country.

Death of Charles Sealey.

Hamilton, Sept. 29.—Charles Sealey died last evening, about 7 o'clock, at his residence on West Hunter street. He had been ill only a few hours from heart disease. He was 79 years of age and had resided in Hamilton for thirteen years. Previous to that he had lived in Waterdown for 35 years. For several years he served in the county council and was an ex-reeve of Waterdown. Two sons, W. O. and J. C. Sealey, survive him.

Trolley Kills a Boy.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Yesterday "Matt," the 3-year-old son of Dr. Reade, Deer Park, dropped from a wagon he was hanging on, and to avoid another wagon coming behind, stepped in front of a trolley car and was killed. His lower body and legs were badly mangled.

Died at His Post.

Montreal, Sept. 29.—Engineer Patry's body was recovered from the wreck of the steamer "Maude" yesterday morning. He had remained to open the valves of the engine, and was caught by the inrush of water.

Fifty Persons Reported Dead From Mobile

City Devastated By the Great Gulf Cyclone.

SEVERAL STEAMERS SUNK

Shipping Suffered Very Severely—People Are In Immediate Need of Help—All Is Confusion in Stricken Cities — Losses in Mobile and Pensacola Alone Will Aggregate Over Nine Million.

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 29.—(via Meridian, Miss.)—Loss of life, ... timated from five to fifty, perhaps many injured, 5,000 houses damaged the business quarter devastated and a property loss of fully $3,000,000 is the effect of the tropical hurricane of the last forty-eight hours in this city.

The storm struck Mobile Wednesday midnight and raged for many hours, the wind reaching a velocity of 90 miles an hour. Water from Mobile Bay was blown into the city by the gale, and for a time the sea stood seven feet deep in the wholesale quarter from Royal street to the Alabama River.

The loss of life is believed mainly to be among negroes.

Suffering Is Severe.

The suffering in Mobile is severe. The annihilation of transportation facilities has shut off all supplies and unless help reaches Mobile from the outside world soon, great distress will result. Provisions are almost exhausted.

There is no way at present to arrive at a correct estimate of the losses owing to the disorder. All is confusion. The city was astir early yesterday morning, however. The water had receded somewhat, and everybody, armed with buckets and brooms, worked hard for a restoration to normal conditions.

Coast Towns Cut Off.

At Fort Morgan, 35 miles down the bay, the wind had a much higher velocity than at Mobile. Towns along the Mobile and bay shore road suffered severely owing to their exposed locations. No word from the coast towns along the Louisville & Nashville road has reached Mobile. There is little doubt that many lives were lost and severe damage inflicted on residences and business property.

Streams Break Banks.

The streams are all out of banks, and for twenty-five miles north of Mobile, looking to the right of the railroad, one can see nothing but a solid sheet of water running swiftly toward Mobile. Many farmhouses are situated in this inundated region, and there may have been loss of life there.

Fruit and fall vegetable crops all over Southern Alabama and Missouri are ruined. So also is the cotton, sugar cane and other crops.

Revenue Cutters and Ships Sunk.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 29.—The general manager's office of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad received a despatch at 3.35 yesterday afternoon from Flomaton, Ala., confirming the loss of life and devastation of property in the City of Mobile. The despatch says:

The editor of The Mobile Register and the Louisville & Nashville telegraph operator have made their way to Bay Minette from Mobile, making the trip by boat and on foot. They report a number of lives lost in the tropical hurricane, and much damage done to property in the City of Mobile.

Many persons were injured in the collapse of buildings. Negroes caught looting property are being beaten to death. A great many ships and one or two revenue cutters were sunk and their crews drowned.

The city is practically under control of the militia, and no one is on the street except newspaper men and those wearing badges. A large number of houses were destroyed and many people were injured in the collapse of buildings.

Byenville Square has been destroyed. Christ Church Cathedral was blown down. The water is 5 feet deep in the business section of the city, and bales of cotton trunks, household goods and other debris is floating about the city. The wind reached a velocity of 90 miles an hour.

Fort Morgan, at the entrance of Mobile Bay, and suburban towns in the vicinity of Mobile, are believed to have been swept away. The estimates of the damage are between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 in the City of Mobile alone.

There is no way of reaching the outside world except by boat and on foot. All wires are gone and washouts are numerous in every direction. Four or five blocks of the best business section of the city have been swept away.

Banks Strew With Wreckage.

New Orleans, Sept. 29.—The first news of the havoc wrought by the hurricane on the lower Mississippi River Delta was given yesterday by C. Ansel, a pilot, who came up on the tug Charles Clark.

Ansel said he saw the lower river banks strewn with household furniture of fishermen, but that most of these families had escaped by taking to their boats. He saw the wreckage of two or three boats floating down the river, but was unable to learn what became of their occupants.

At the Mississippi River quarantine station two houseboats, used for the quartering of crews of fruit steamers, were sunk. The crews were taken off in safety.

Great damage to the cotton crop in Louisiana and Mississippi was reported in despatches to the cotton exchange.

The excursion steamer Camella, on Lake Pontchartrain, about the safety of which fears were expressed, landed yesterday the forty passengers which the hurricane prevent from coming ashore here Wednesday night.

Advices from Jackson, Miss., state that the loss to the growing cotton crops in Mississippi by the storm has been very heavy.

At Natchez, a fleet of nineteen barges of the Pittsburg Coal Co., sank in deep water two miles below the city with an estimated loss of $60,000.

The storm caused severe damage at Brook Haven, Miss., blowing down a number of buildings, including the Masonic Temple.

Ruin at Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 29.—(via Flomaton, Ala.)—The city presents a wrecked appearance and the damage is estimated at $5,000,000.

The loss of life will be heavy among the mariners, but so far only one body has been recovered, a man named Geo. Morgan, fisherman. Other bodies are reported along the shore, but have not been recovered.

Storm Coming.

Buffalo, Sept. 29.—Storm warnings are displayed on Lakes Michigan and Huron, and on the Lower Lakes from Detroit to Buffalo.

STRIKING SHORTAGE FIGURES.

Million Bushels of Wheat Will Disappear Somewhere In Transit.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—A calculation, so striking as to be almost startling in effect, was made by Chairman Miller of the Dominion Government grain commission at yesterday afternoon's sitting. The commissioners having agreed with the statement of a witness, C. W. Band of James Carruthers & Co., that the loss of export grain between the time it left the elevators at Fort William and its arrival on the European market, Mr. Miller, made the estimate that were Canada's entire crop of grain, calculating 80,000,000 bushels, exported, the loss in transit would reach the almost staggering total of 1,600,000 bushels. Commissioner McNair ventured the assertion later that five-eighths or 50,000,000 bushels of the entire output was so exported, which would mean, calculating as a basis of 2 per cent. shortage that no less than one million bushels of wheat raised this year by the Canadian farmer will undergo some mysterious process of evaporation, between the time it is loaded on the cars and its being marketed abroad. Taking the present price of export wheat, ruling at around 75c, the rough conclusion is to be drawn that $750,000 on the 1906 crop will be diverted from the pockets of those among whom it should properly be divided.

The bulk of the representations that have been made to the commission during the Toronto sittings have been based on alleged shortages in carloads of grain coming into the hands of the eastern consignee after having passed through the elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur, or those of the Georgian Bay ports, and the commission which will conclude its present session in Toronto to-day, will have some food for mature reflection later on.

DEATH OF MRS. WALDMAN.

Guelph Lady Suffered Terrible Agony From Her Burns.

Guelhp, Sept. 29.—Further news from St. Elisabeth's Hospital at Danville, Ill., in reference to the death of Mrs. Hy. Waldman of Guelph from injuries received in the Wabash wreck at Catlin shows that she suffered intense agony for several hours before her death. The burns covered all parts of her body.

Mingled with the moans of the dying woman were the piteous cries of her three children, one of whom, Vincent, was lying at death's door in the same ward, and the other two, John and Marguerite, in an adjoining ward.

Marguerite's condition is the most critical, and the nurses say she may die at any moment. She has inhaled flames, and her body is burned to a crisp in many parts.

EXPRESS FATALITY AT DUTTON.

Bank Manager A. C. Craig Hurled 50 Feet by Train.

London, Sept. 29.—A. C. Craig, manager of Molson's Bank, was struck by the express at Dutton last evening, while standing between the tracks at the M. C. R. Depot. He was hurled 50 feet and killed instantly.

Mr. Sifton of Highgate attempted to rescue Craig, and narrowly escaped.

Deceased was a son of Canon Craig of Petrolia.

Fair Building Burned.

Bradford, Sept. 29.—At four o'clock yesterday morning fire destroyed the large exhibition building and grand stand owned by the Bradford Agricultural Society. John Hill lost about a thousand dollars worth of sleighs and cutters on which he had $400 insurance. It is generally supposed that tramps set the building on fire. The loss to the society will be $2,000 with $500 insurance.

Intervention At Last—United States Marines Landed.

PALMA TEARFULLY RESIGNS

Secretary Taft Has Nothing to Say for Publication, But He Will Be Proclaimed Military Governor To-day —Final Proceedings In the Final Session of the Congress of the First Cuban Republic.

Havana, Sept. 29.—It is certain that American intervention will take place to-day. Twenty-five United States marines were landed here last night to guard the treasury building.

Secretary Taft's proclamation creating himself provisional military governor of Cuba will be issued to-day.

A further force of Americans will be landed to-day.

Last night the city was policed by rural guards. Gen. Rodriguez, commander of the rural guards, is co-operating with Secretary Taft.

Palma Tearfully Resigns.

Up to the time that congress took a recess at 5 o'clock yesterday was a day of waiting. After that hour various probabilities became certainties.

By 5.30 President Palma had tearfully but definitely and firmly announced that his resignation was irrevocable. Following this announcement, the Moderates held a long consultation at the residence of Senator Dolz, president of the Senate, at which it was decided that no Moderate should return to the session after the recess which had been declared, thus precipitating a condition in which no provisional president could be elected.

This throwing up of their hands, practically, would give over the control of affairs to the American commissioners.

Taft Waiting.

Up to that point the attitude of the commissioners also had been a waiting one. Secretary Taft said, on leaving last night for dinner, that he then was in a position where he could not say anything for publication.

In the Congress an impassioned debate followed the reading of President Palma's resignation, during which it was declared that Palma was the only man to whom the republic could look for salvation.

A vote on the right of Congress to appeal to Palma to reconsider his resignation resulted in 47 ayes and 13 nays.

The House then took a recess until 9 p. m. to permit the Moderates and the Liberal Nationalists to visit Palma. The President was much affected and listened intently to Senator Dolz, who, after explaining his errand, said:

"This is no hour for oratory or tears or words other than spring from the hearts of patriots. We beg you to consider our desires. We do not forget all the sorrows and afflictions which you have endured during the past few days, but it is much as your resigning the Presidency is so necessary to the salvation of the country and its independence, we earnestly beg that you will reconsider your determination."

Palma's Tearful Reply.

Palma, who listened with tears in his eyes, replied:

"I would never have hesitated to make any sacrifice asked for by my country, whose liberty I fought for during forty years, exposing my life and wrecking my fortune. But you ask me to sacrifice my personal dignity, and that of the Government of the republic, now imperilled by armed forces, without any prospects of a practical result ensuring peace and the stability of the nation. If I could see that the sacrifice of my personal and official dignity meant peace and stability and rightful liberty, you could count on my compliance to that extent. But since my authority has been curtained by armed force, and as I have been notified that I am occupying my position by fraud, I beg you not to insist in asking me to withdraw my resignation, which has been presented to Congress, and which represents my irrevocable resolution."

Senor Dols declared that the Moderates would not press the request, and embraced President Palma. The President and several others wept freely, and the delegates in turn grasped Senor Palma's hand and withdrew.

Brakeman Andrews Dying.

Guelph, Sept. 29.—Further news from drews, who was so seriously injured in the head-on collision on the Grand Trunk, near Gourock on Saturday last, and has been lying in Guelph General Hospital, took a turn for the worse yesterday, and is slowly sinking.

Goebel Found Guilty.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—John Goebel, when arraigned in the Court of General Sessions, said he was not guilty of keeping a betting house at 69 West Queen street. The jury, in 15 minutes, brought in a verdict of guilty, and he was fined $200.

Plans For Normal Schools.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Plans have been completed for three new normal chools, at Peterboro, Stratford and Sorth Bay. They will measure 78x110 eet, and be built of red brick.

BRIBERY ALLEGED.

John O'Gorman, a Liberal Worker In London, Arrested In Toronto—Crown In a Great Hurry.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—John O'Gorman who was an active worker for the Liberal candidate in the Hyman-Gray bye election of June 13, 1905, in London, and who was a deputy returning officer, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of conspiracy. O'Gorman, who was found at the office of the Munroe Produce Co., 3 Court street, was taken before Police Magistrate Denison, after the regular cases had been disposed of.

In the examination of the only witness heard, Jeremiah Collins, a number of names of individuals were mentioned as being implicated in the alleged illegal proceedings, and it is understood that warrants have been issued for the arrest of some of these.

The Information.

The following information sworn to by Inspector Joseph Rogers was laid against O'Gorman, who, on the advice of his counsel, did not plead or elect:—

"That John O'Gorman, at present residing in Toronto, and others to the said informant unknown, during and about the years 1904 and 1905, in the city of Toronto and in London, and at divers other places, unlawfully and wilfully did conspire to give to and promise to procure money for certain and divers voters in order to induce such voters to vote, to advance and pay and to cause to be advanced and paid money for the use of divers persons with the intent that such money should be expended in bribery and corrupt practices, to pay and cause to be paid money to divers persons in discharge and repayment of money expended in bribery and corrupt practices, to attempt to obtain at polling places information as to the candidate for whom voters voted, to communicate to divers persons information obtained at polling places, at the elections of members of the Dominion Parliament and Ontario Legislature, contrary to the form of the statutes in such cases made and provided."

Crown In a Hurry.

Mr. E. F. A. Du Vernet and Mr. Eric Armour appeared for the Provincial Government, and Messrs. T. C. Robinette, K.C., and Hartley Dewart, K.C., represented O'Gorman.

A feature of the proceedings which aroused a good deal of comment was the fact that the crown were ready with their witnesses and prepared to go on with the putting in of evidence at once. In important cases it is customary to apply for an adjournment on a defendant's first appearance.

A Blank Cartridge Charge.

At the outset Mr. Robinette took exception to the form of the indictment, because it contained uncertain information and included more than one charge. "It is a blank cartridge charge, pure and simple," counsel asserted.

Edgar Sifton Make a Denial.

London, Ont., Sept. 29.—Edgar Sifton, mentioned by Jeremiah Collins in the examination of John O'Gorman at Toronto yesterday morning denies in toto all connection with any incriminating action in the last election. He was seen at his residence last evening, and was most emphatic. Daniel Wiley was not at home.

Health of the Province.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, reports that scarlet fever and typhoid have taken a jump in the vital statistics for last month, causing 33 more deaths than in August, 1905. Diphtheria had decreased. The total deaths were 1,570, as against 2,200 in 1905, and of infectious diseases 790, against 747. This is a death rate of 14.2 in a population of 2,091,183 for the province.

SEALING RAIDS BY JAPS.

Harvesting a Big Catch While Victoria Fleet Has Poor Luck.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 29.—Promiscuous raiding by Japanese sealers on and close to the Islands of the Behring Sea is reported by the schooner City of San Diego, which returned to port yesterday, the first of the homeward procession of pelagic sealers.

Capt. Folger asserts that 25 Japanese schooners are harvesting a big catch, shooting indiscriminately close to the islands, while the Victoria fleet, compelled to remain 20 leagues off shore, has had poor luck.

The Eva Marie, Umbrina and Casco are head liners, each with over 700. The Casco also has twelve sea otter, and the City of San Diego one.

Capt. Folger says numerous Japanese schooners are armed with quick firing guns with which they have boldly bombarded the huts of the rookery guards while raiding. Twenty Japanese, including one captain, have been killed this season, and fully as many Russians.

Woman Burns to Death.

Owen Sound, Sept. 29.—Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Anne Irvin in the burning of her cottage on the 4th line of Sullivan, twelve miles from Owen Sound, where she lived alone, early Wednesday morning. The fire was not noticed by the neighbors, and the charred skull and a few bones were all the remains that were found among the ruins the next morning. Mrs. Irvin was over 80 years of age, and her husband died about 15 years ago.

Insane Patient Suicides.

Brockville, Sept. 29.—D. J. McDonnel, an asylum patient, committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself in his dormitory.

Details Of The Toronto Life Company Sale

National Agency Purchased a Controlling Interest.

AN AGREEMENT WITH UNION

Toronto, Sept. 29.—At the opening of the Royal Insurance Commission investigation yesterday, W. C. Fitzgerald of the Woodmen of the World, took the box. It seems that $300 was taken out of the insurance fund and transferred to the investigation fund, and that $500 had been paid for getting the bill passed at Ottawa, but no account had been kept. The cost of general insurance was about 15 cents per month.

Mr. Tilley asked the witness the reason for the expense account being overdrawn $900 when these transfers had been made. Mr. Fitzgerald said that a sessional tax of 1 cent per head per annum would wipe out the overdraft.

Order Has 8,507 Members.

There were 8,507 members with an average age of 39-25 years. The bulk of the members are between forty and fifty years of age.

Mr. Tilley asked witness if he did not want the rate raised, and after considerable hedging, Mr. Fitzgerald said that he did.

"Under a strict reading of your by-laws your members should be paying the same rates."

"Yes."

"A man that is asked to become a new member will be told all members pay the same, and yet a large percentage are paying lower rates?"

"Yes."

"How many came in since the rates were established?"

"About half."

"Have you ever computed the liability on each policy?"

"No."

"Has anybody else?" asked Commissioner Kent.

"No."

"Then you don't know what the liability is?"

"No."

Doesn't Know Figures.

"Do you know the actual cost of insurance to your membership?"

"No."

"Is there anybody in your order or executive committee that knows?"

"No."

"This is the prospectus that has been provided by your executive council?"

"Yes."

"Then your members are led to believe this is the truth?"

"Yes."

"If there is nobody in your order that knows the cost of insurance, how can you state, as you do in your prospectus that insurance is furnished at cost?"

"There is no doubt the rates are fixed at actual cost."

"Do you think your members have been deceived by this prospectus?"

"No, not if the statements were honestly made."

"But they are not correct. There is a beautiful sermon in this prospectus if it were reasonably correct."

Witness had sent word to the head commander, C. C. Hodgins, to be present, but he has not arrived. Counsel told the Commission that until the auditing of the books was completed no financial standing of the company could be given.

Sale of Toronto Life.

Harry Symons, K. C., was called by Mr. Tilley to explain the sale of the Toronto Life to the Union Life. The transaction was brought about by the National Agency purchasing a controlling interest and making an agreement with the Union to revise the Toronto Life policies. The negotiations were carried on by Evans and the witness and H. M. Smith of the National Trust. The price paid was a little over $54,000.

On enquiry, Mr. Tilley brought out the point that the Toronto Life could, despite lapses aggregating $200,000, have sold its $2,500,000 worth of business for $50,000, being one hundred per cent. of the premium income. It was also brought out that not a cent went into the coffers of the Toronto Life to recoup the minority shareholders of that company and that the Union Life did not pay a cent for the new business it secured through the National Agency.

Witness explained that the transfer could have been put through in no other way and that ultimately the shareholders of the Toronto Life would get something.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

The Latest In Fashion's Realm; Items Of Interest To Ladies

SEEN HERE AND THERE.

"Reboux" Veil New and Striking. Sleeve Vagaries—Fake Bonnets.

The reboux veil is fresh from Paris and is very striking. It is a bright colored dotted veil edged with a two inch plaiting and so draped over the hat that the upper plaiting is turned down to fall an inch or two below the hat brim, while the lower one comes just above the shoulder line.

The new sleeves are very full at the top, and an important item to consider is the shortening of the shoulder seam, for nothing more ungainly can be imagined than a full puffed or gathered sleeve combined with a shoulder seam falling off the shoulder. The thin person looks thinner because of the sinking in where the sleeve joins the waist or coat and the stout person stouter because of the excessive depth and the fullness of the stout figure at that point. Thus the defects of both are emphasized.

LOW NECKED WAIST.

Children are wearing the most bewitching poke bonnets of lacy straw, trimmed with large, flapping bows. It is a relief to see that the heat producing strings are absent, the hat being held in place by a broad elastic.

The blouse illustrated is of wash chiffon, tucked in groups. The very low neck is formed of two pieces of Irish lace drawn up at the top with narrow black velvet ribbon and laced together with the same ribbon. The sleeves are carried out in a like fashion. JUDIC CHOLLET.

WARDROBE HINTS.

How to Care For Mere Man's Belongings.

Care of silk and satin ties is the one thing that the average woman can do for her brother, father or husband without any instruction, and she knows this because of the experience she has had in pressing the wrinkles out of her own ribbons. For instance, when a tie becomes creased she smooths it out carefully, places a dry cloth over the underside and presses with a medium hot iron until the surface is smooth. Then she hangs them where they will air. Of course any spots should be removed before they are ironed.

As to the treatment of derby and silk hats, they should be sent once in awhile to be ironed at the hatter's. If cared for in this way they will not only last longer, but will look like new all the time they are being used. If the hatband, either inside or out, becomes soiled it should be taken off and a new one substituted.

To keep a cravenette coat in condition a pressing after every rainstorm is necessary.

Sewing of buttons and tapes on the underclothing should be attended to every week as soon as the laundry is done, and any holes in the socks should be carefully darned with silk if the wearer complains that the cotton hurts the flesh.

Occasionally when the collar bands on shirts have been worn to shreds in washing and the rest of the garment is in good condition a new piece may be put on. To remove the old one when the shirt is soiled the best plan to get the starch out is to soak it in water, dry, and then the old band can be ripped off without any difficulty.

Jammed Fingers.

Few people have escaped jammed fingers, and as the pain caused when the finger is jammed in a door is excruciating in the extreme for the first few minutes it is well to know of some means of relief. The finger should be plunged into water as hot as can possibly be borne. This application of hot water causes the nail to expand and soften, and the blood pouring out beneath it has more room to flow. Thus the pain is lessened. The finger should then be wrapped in a bread and water poultice. A jammed finger should never be neglected, as it may lead to mortification of the bone if it has been badly crushed, and amputation of the finger must follow. Jammed toes are usually caused through the falling of heavy weights and should be treated in the same way as a jammed finger.

Utility Gown.

A boarding school girl's outfit is not complete without a "sailor suit." It must be made on certain lines, too, or the whole wardrobe will be lacking in an essential that is recognized as necessary in expensive as well as in moderate priced institutions. The color must be navy blue, too, for a brown, gray or black one will not fill the requirements and will be without the smartness so much desired.

A girl of fourteen or sixteen years planning the frocks she intends to wear when away at school this fall must remember that for everyday use in the schoolroom one of these "sailor suits" is the most serviceable kind of a dress and at present the most fashionable.

It must have a blouse with a wide, square sailor collar, such as "middies" wear, and a simple plaited skirt that reaches just to the ankles and large sleeves with narrow cuffs that fit tightly around the wrists. On the left sleeve a narrow piece of red tape is sewed about halfway between the shoulder and elbow. This of course has no especial significance, but as all the suits are made with it a girl who neglects to order the red tape is bound to feel that her frock is without proper adornment.

Peach Chutney.

Pare and halve sufficient peaches to weigh, when ready, three pounds. Put them in a large agate saucepan, add one pint of vinegar and stew gently until tender. Pound together in a mortar four ounces of white onions, two ounces of garlic and five ounces of fresh ginger root; add these to the peaches with six ounces each of sugar, seeded raisins and white mustard seed. Add two ounces of dried chillies and one cupful of vinegar. Simmer for ten minutes longer, then bottle.

To Make an Oil Stove Burn Well.

Thoroughly clean and refill every time after using. If you allow oil and dirt to accumulate on it, it is sure to smell unpleasant when lighted. Don't cut the wick, but rub off the charred parts with a rag or a piece of paper. Always turn the wick down before extinguishing it and leave turned down till you are going to light it again. Remember that the top of the part up and down which the wick runs needs to be kept thoroughly clean. Give it a rub inside and outside every time you clean the stove, and if a crust forms round the top scrape it occasionally.

SMART STYLES.

Simple Gray Tailored Suit Very Chic. Seasonable Materials.

The simply tailored suit with no trimming save strappings is perhaps the smartest thing in the gray street frock of the short skirt class. The manufacturers of ready made costumes have used braid so extensively and embroidery effects on waistcoats, etc., that there is much distinction in a severe model, provided it is skillfully tailored and of good design.

Dotted swisses, which are always dainty, are just as popular as ever, especially the all white ones. They are used in combination with other materials, printed lawns, embroidered muslins and tucked muslins. An attractive frock fashioned for a schoolgirl after this manner consisted of a plain full skirt, with a band of embroidered batiste set in above the four inch hem. The gabrielle waist had a pointed piece, cuffs and low stock of the embroidery.

Lingerie belts of insertion are much in favor for morning wear, also broad belts of loosely woven basket weave braid, which washes splendidly. These belts are generally worn with mother-of-pearl buckles.

Charming is the dotted swiss negligee seen in the cut, with its bands of English embroidery and plaited quillings. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Diamond Dyes

Made Especially for Easy and Successful Home Dyeing.

DIAMOND DYES are the only package dyes made especially for easy and successful home dyeing. They re-colour faded feathers, plumes, scarfs, ties, blouses, jackets, silk sashes, dresses, skirts, stockings and other articles of wearing apparel.

It is as easy to dye a faded garment—small or large—with DIAMOND DYES, as it is to wash it with soap, and the colours are forever fast in washing or sunlight. Bright and economical women save many dollars each year by the use of Diamond Dyes, which make old things look as good as new.

Users of package dyes will please bear in mind that vile and worthless imitations of Diamond Dyes are sold by some dealers. Every time you purchase dyes be sure you ask for the "DIAMOND." Refuse all other makes if you would avoid trouble and loss of money. Write to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., for New Direction Book, Diamond Dye Cook Book and Illustrated Booklet, entitled "Diamond Dye Long-johns' Winter and Summer Sports;" sent free to any address.

THE BABY'S BIB.

A Pretty One Can Be Made Out of a Handkerchief.

A baby cannot have too many bibs, and there is nothing a mother appreciates more than gift bibs for her baby. The pretty bib here shown is made of a handkerchief. One corner cut out at the back forms the little frill under the chin. A pretty baby pin set into the bib makes it a more valuable gift.

Another pretty bib can be made of sheer lawn, embroidered with the transparent embroidery, which consists of catstitch done on the wrong side of the material. For the flowers and simple outline stitch for the stems and scrolls set the embroidered lawn on to a heavy linen back. Trim the whole with a pretty valenciennes lace edge.

Menagerie Jewelry.

In London the fad for wearing representations of animals for personal adornment is cultivated by a sufficient number of women to make an impression on the displays in shop windows and show cases. Bracelets that clasp with carved heads of sheep, oxen, goats, dogs and even snakes are frequently to be seen.

A Bond street jeweler was recently commissioned to make a necklace of decidedly original design for a well known society women. It is to be made of fine gold links from which depend the heads of her favorite pets carved in gold. There are three dogs', two cats', a pony's and a parrot's head. The clasp is a copy of a pet lizard, executed in gold, with jeweled eyes.

Following the same freakish fashion there are two London women who, contrary to the general tendency of their sex, invariably wear small white mice fixed on the lapels of their coats. These mice, which are most lifelike, are made of plaster, and sharp hooks are attached to their feet to hold them in position.

Game For Nursery.

A soap bubble race makes excellent fun. Lay a long stick on the floor to serve as a goal and provide each player with a fan, which can be made of stiff paper, with which to drive the bubbles from the starting point. At a given signal the bubbles are blown and the fans brought into use. If a bubble bursts before any player has reached the goal the player may return to blow a second one.

FORECAST OF FASHION.

The Latest Linen Skirts—Stunning Sash Ribbons—Vanity Bags.

Many of the smart linen skirts are buttoned down the back from waist to hem.

Roman stripes and Persian ribbons, both alone and mingled with other designs, are among the summer sashes, while plain satin and taffeta appear in every possible tint and in softer weave than ever before.

Pompadour ribbon is being made into cute little vanity bags for wear with summer gowns. The drawstrings are usually of the same color as the flowers.

Black mohair suits are still the accepted surf costume.

Rather a new note is the lace girdle. This is a narrow fichu of silk lace unlined and draped around the waist so that the points form a wide effect in front.

Patch boxes, vinaigrettes and other small silver trinkets may be easily brightened without the addition of plate powder by placing them in an aluminium receptacle and pouring boiling water over them. Polishing should be effected by means of a piece of clean chamois leather, but in adopting this treatment it must be remembered that the silver should never be allowed to become tarnished.

The illustration shows two charming little dresses of white india linon elaborately trimmed with swiss embroidery. These gowns are pretty for summer best toilets and make charming dancing party frocks when worn over a color. JUDIC CHOLLET.

To Thoroughly Cleanse the Face.

Every night before going to bed apply a good cold cream. Leave it on for a few minutes, then remove with a soft linen rag. You will be surprised and horrified to find how dirty the rag has become. Next wash the face thoroughly in warm water, using a good soap; rinse in warm water and end by dashing cold water well over it. Then rub in a very little cold cream, wiping off any that the skin will not absorb.

He Drew the Line.

Mr. Cribbe—Mrs. Cribbs, I have borne with resignation—nay, even cheerfulness—antique chairs that wabbled, antique clocks that were always thirteen hours behind time, antique rugs that some prehistoric Turk wove, antique china, antique bowls, pans and kettles. All this I have smiled at; but when you give me antique eggs for breakfast, I draw the line, madam—I draw the line.

Sturgeon Point Man Missing; Believed To Have Been Drowned

R. H. Hopkins, Well Known in This City, Missing Since Wednesday — Fears Are Entertained.

His Yacht Became Entangled in Weeds — Belief That He Fell Overboard and Was Drowned.

John Dickson, His Companion, Was Rescued From Stump In the River — A Sad Fatality.

Examiner Special.

Lindsay, Sept. 29.—Mr. R. H. Hopkins, of Sturgeon Point, brother of Messrs. G. H. Hopkins, of Lindsay, and Eustace and Jas. H. Hopkins, of West Ops, has been missing since Wednesday evening, and the indications are that he met death by drowning some time that night.

Caught in Weeds

Mr. Hopkins, who had been residing at Sturgeon Point with his aged mother, came to town on Wednesday forenoon in Mr. J. C. Grace's gasoline yacht, Jap, accompanied by Mr. John Dickson. They left town on the return trip soon after 4 o'clock, and when the steamer Manita passed them on the up trip the yacht was stationary in the weeds on the west side of the first turn, south of the long out, the two men being busily engaged in an attempt to get the boat free.

Rescued From Stump

When the Manita reached the same spot about an hour later on her trip down to the Point and, Bobcaygeon, Dickson was discerned sitting on a stump in the water, while the yacht, with Mr. Hopkins on board, had drifted some little distance away, and was again fast on another stump. Dickson was released from his perilous position and taken on board the steamer, but Mr. Hopkins refused to do so, saying he would stick to the yacht and get it released. Dickson's story was to the effect that he had got out on the stump to free the wheel of weeds, and while so engaged the yacht had drifted away from him. The engine being in an unworkable state, Hopkins had been unable to get back to him.

Alarm Was Felt

Entertaining no doubt as to Mr. Hopkins' safety, Dickson returned to his home at the Point and went about his work next morning without communicating the facts to Lindsay. About noon next day Mr. G. H. Hopkins learned of his brother's non-arrival at the Point, and also the disturbing fact that when the Manita passed the same spot that morning the yacht was empty.

Dragged for Body

A search party was at once organized, and until dark last evening and all day to-day, the adjacent marsh was carefully searched and bottom sounded and dragged, but without success. Weeds are very thick at the point mentioned and the mud is almost bottomless.

The missing man was seen about 9 o'clock on Wednesday night by Messrs. Teatro and Massaw, of the East Ward, who were paddling home after a duck hunt. They helped Hopoins to release the boat from the weeds, but he had not started away when they resumed the trip to town. The sky was then clear, and very little wind blowing.

A Supposition

It is thought that the yacht again got fast, and that while Mr. Hopkins was trying to shove off with a small pike pole carried on the yacht, he overbalanced and met his death.

New Members For Brotherhood

Will Be Admitted at St. Luke's on Sunday Night

At St. Luke's on Sunday the rector will preach at both services. At the evening service several young men will be admitted to membership in the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and the rector will preach a special sermon to young men, "St. Andrew bringing his brother to Christ."

A FATHER —IN NICK OF TIME— SAVES SON

17-Year-Old Son of Geo. Johnson Had a Narrow Escape From Death.

After Wounding It a Bear Turned on Boy —Mangled, Bleeding.

Examiner Special.

Lindsay, Sept. 29.—The other day the seventeen year old son of Mr. George Johnson, a settler residing on the shore of Black Hawk Lake, in Dysart township, Haliburton County, met with a thrilling experience.

While out hunting for a she bear that had been seen in the neighbourhood he came upon the animal unexpectedly. Raising his rifle, he managed to plant one bullet in the bear before being attacked by the infuriated animal.

Father Saved Him

The boy's father, on hearing the shot, seized his own rifle and hurried in the direction indicated by the sound. He arrived on the scene in the nick of time, the bear having started to mangle his son, whose life was saved by his presence of mind in lying perfectly still. The father put a bullet through bruin's head from a distance of 50 yards.

The bear had been made angry by the loss of a cub, which had been trapped by a hunter.

Eighty Six In House At Present

House of Providence Can Not Hold Any More.

Scarcely ever has the House of Providence contained so many inmates as it does at the present time. There are now some 86 persons in the House, and it is so well filled that the management wish it understood that no more applications can be accepted at present.

Most of the inmates are from the city, although the county is also well represented. They range in age between two years and 100 years.

Pleasant Surprise Party Last Night

Mr. W. MacDonald Surprised at His Residence by Friends

Mr. William MacDonald was agreeably surprised last night by a number of his young friends. About twenty-five of his young lady and gentlemen friends, called at his father's house last night, it being the anniversary of his birthday. To say that "Willie" was taken by surprise is just describing it mildly. However, he was equal to the occasion, and with his parents' assistance, provided a pleasant evening for the young people. Each of the visitors remembered him with some gift or other, and according to report, "One would think he was Santa Claus, now."

The guests departed at an early hour, and one and all will remember that anniversary of the day on which he first saw the light.

HOLDS THE RIGHT OF WAY.

How Special Orders for Suitings Are Filled by Semi-ready Tailors.

"What do you do when you run out of a popular line or style of suiting?" was asked the Sales Manager of the Semi-ready Wardrobe.

"At our tailor shops in Montreal," he replied, "we have a special order department where your measurements and physique type charts are sent by us, and you may have the suit back in ten days. Usually it takes a suit of clothes twice that long to go through the hands of the experts and inspectors, but the red ticket of the 'special order' gives it the right of way, just as the fast express has priority on a railway."

PETERBOROUGH'S PROPOSED NEW COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

The Illustrations shown above are taken from Architect Belcher's Drawings of the New Collegiate Institute Buildings, which it is proposed to erect in the city. On Wednesday the Examiner gave its readers the first view of the building, when a cut of the front elevation was published. This illustration is repeated to-day, and as well a view of the flank elevation is furnished. It will be seen that the Building will be a credit to the city and an ornament to the Central Park. Big Mineral Find Near Apsley Has Created A Sensation

Methuen Township Mine Has Attracted Considerable Attention—American Capitalists Are After It.

Vein Ninety Feet Wide—Assays 65-5 Per Cent. of Iron—Continuation of Cobalt and Marmora Ledges.

Examiner Special

Lakefield, September 29. — Mr. John Selkirk of Blytheswood, Essex, accompanied by Messrs. James and William Selkirk, passed through this village on Tuesday, on their way back to Methuen township. Mr. Selkirk, who has prospected around Cobalt and the British Columbia and Colorado mining districts, has a valuable iron property in that township, about fourteen miles east of Apsley.

Capitalists Want Property

A few days ago he refused a big offer for it from an American syndicate, who were anxious to secure it, as they knew what a gold mine there is in a good iron proposition. Mr. Selkirk went back to commence active operations on the vein, and has secured six men and two prospectors, together with the necessary outfits, who will be kept busy for some time developing the property.

A Rich Property

The width of the vein is about 90 feet, and has been traced for a considerable distance. The ore is of the purest magnetic iron thus far discovered in Ontario, and assays 65.5 of iron, with traces of silver, and no impurities. A splendid water power awaiting development, is right at the property's edge. Mr. Selkirk says that the formation of the rock in and around his property is a continuation of the ledge at Cobalt and Marmora, and he is confident of finding gold and silver there, as they did after the first wonderful discovery was made.

Good News to North

The opening up of this mine may mean a great deal to the northern part of the county and if Mr. Selkirk discovers gold or silver in his prospecting tours, it will mean a big rush to the new territory to stake claims.

Non Support Case Withdrawn

Husband and Wife Agree to Live Happily Together.

Another case of domestic infelicity was considered at the police court this morning and was most peacefully terminated. Husband and wife were present, and a few minutes before the court was held they again cemented their marriage vows and agreed to live together again.

Mr. F. D. Kerr acted for the wife, who had complained of non-support, and Mr. D. O'Connel for the defendant.

The prosecution was quite willing to drop the charge, providing the defendant would promise to "cut out" drink completely and go back to his wife and family. This he agreed to do, and the Magistrate withdrew the charge, giving the accused some good advice.

Accomodation In Normal Schools

They Will Have Basement and Three Floors.

The Toronto Globe referring to the Normal School plans, says:

The basement of each will contain a gymnasium, and three manual training schools; the ground floor three class rooms, and the library and reading room; the first floor four two class rooms, a lecture room, laboratories and teachers' room; and the second floor domestic science and art room, and an assembly hall. Besides these there will be rooms for the principal, cloak room, etc.

Mr. F. R. Heakes, the provincial architect, designed the plans for all the schools.

Another Leech In Water Pipes

Mr. John Riddell Reports Discovery of One

Mr. John Riddell, 56 Homewood avenue, reported to the Examiner to-day, that yesterday he got a live blood leech, about three inches long from the water tap in his kitchen. He captured it and is keeping it as a curiosity in a bottle. He considers himself very fortunate in having discovered the objectionable object before drinking the water.

Banquet Given Before Departure

Well Known Leamington Man Comes to Peterborough.

The Leamington News of Thursday gives an interesting account of a banquet in honour of Mr. J. H. Canover, who has taken a position as clerk in the store of Mr. Adam Hall, George street. Mr. Conover was a councillor for a number of years in his native town, and also belonged to the fire brigade. The News says that he will be greatly missed by a host of friends.

Lack of space prevents the republication of banquet, part of which will appear in Monday's issue.

Tea was early recognized by the English (the greatest tea-drinkers amongst Western people) as an efficient aid to fancy and literary invention, and its capacity for maintaining serenity of spirits and temper is also admitted, but the article must be the best of its kind, and to get the best you have to purchase it in the sealed lead packets of the "SALADA" Tea Company.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS OF PETERBORO' GROWING

"The Custom receipts are still climbing, and the month of September will show up well", said a member of the Customs office staff to-day. The C.G.F. Co. are the largest contributors to the coffers of the local office, (frequent entries of $2,000 being made for duty paid by this company. The Minister of customs, who some little time ago expressed the opinion that the increase in the local receipts would not continue, sized up the situation wrongly, for every month shows an increase over the corresponding month of the preceeding year and there is no sign of a halt to progress.

INSPECT —CANADIAN GENERAL'S— NEW WORKS

Officials of Works and Construction Company Here for That Purpose.

Toronto and Montreal Men Pleased With the Progress Made.

A quartette of gentlemen interested in the Canadian General Electric Works, are in the city to-day. Two of them, Messrs. A. R. Leicester, and John L. Wood, belong to the Canadian Construction and Engineering Company, and it is understood are here to inspect the new building which the company is erecting. The others are Messrs. John R. Nicholls of Montreal, and E. P. Clarkson of Toronto.

They are all registered at the Oriental, and after dinner to-day drove down to the C. G. E. works.

New York, Sept. 29.—Seven persons were killed and fifteen injured in a wreck which occurred this morning on the New York division of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

New Evidence Of Generosity

Dr. Burnham Provides New Fence for St. Marks.

Dr. Burnham, who in the past has given evidence of his interest in, and good will towards, the congregation of St. Marks, Otonabee, has again demonstrated that the church founded by his father, occupies a place in his affections. Through his generosity a handsome new wire fence has been erected, around the church grounds, and it greatly improves the appearance of the surroundings.

The members of this parish appreciate fully the kindly interest displayed in their behalf by Dr. Burnham, who is the lay delegate to the Synod for St. Mark's.

A SINGED CAT.

We have often heard of a "singed" cat, but never saw one until Wednesday forenoon, when a wee-begot specimen crawled into the Gazette office, and sought a secluded spot in which to lie down and let its hair grow. It had evidently been through the fire of last Friday night; but, though thoroughly and effectually singed, was not seriously injured, and will probably live to catch many mice in pursuit of which it must have strayed from home, as it is not owned by either of the persons whose premises were burned.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

Letter Received by Chief of Police Stating that the Lost Man Had Resided in Peterborough.

News of His Whereabouts Will be Gratefully Received by Examiner and Forwarded to Police.

Alfred Woodhead, a person supposed to be residing in Peterborough or vicinity, is wanted by a relative in Lancashire, England, and by The Examiner.

The Examiner requests the abovenamed individual, or any person acquainted with him or knowing anything of his whereabouts, to communicate with the editor.

Alfred Woodhead is an uncle of Kilner Woodhead, of Birch House Lodge, Lees W. Clotham, Lancashire, England, who has written the Chief of Police here to try and locate him.

The Examiner has taken up the search, and if Mr. Woodman calls at this office he will be placed in communication with his nephew in the Old Country.

The following is the letter:

Birch House Lodge,
Lees W. Clotham,
Lancashire, Eng.

To Chief Constable of Peterborough, Canada.

Dear Sir,—

I should be very much obliged if you could get the address of Alfred Woodhead, residing somewhere in Peterborough. I want to get to know about my father, and not knowing his address, thought it would be best to write to you. I thought that you or your men would be able to find him with not much difficulty. Hoping that you will be able to oblige,

Yours faithfully,
KILNER WOODHEAD.

P.S.—If you find him I should esteem it a great favour if you gave him the address I have sent you, and tell him that I am his brother Benjamin's eldest son. Hoping that it will not cause you much trouble to find him.

Yours, etc.,
K. W.

Might Expect An All Night Service

In Consideration of Accepting New Street Lighting System.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee last night discussed the proposal of the Peterborough Light and Power Company to instal new closed arc lamps instead of the present open ones used for street lighting purposes.

It was considered that the new lamp would be a saving to the company in operating, and the suggestion was made that in view of this fact the Council might secure from the company an all night service throughout the year in consideration for accepting the new system advocated by the company.

It was decided, on motion of Ald. Elliott, seconded by Ald. Graham, that Mr. J. H. Larmonth, of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, be invited to meet the committee on Friday night next in reference to street lighting.

THE BY-LAWS.

The destiny of Peterborough seems to be that of a very important manufacturing centre. This is the aim, the hope, the ambition of every citizen. Nature in its prodigality of power possibilities, enterprise, in the provision of splendid transportation facilities and a central location, combine to constitute favourable conditions for the realization of this aim, hope and ambition.

The liberality of the city, backed by the co-operation of the citizens, has done much in the past to encourage the location of manufacturers here.

The success we have met with in offering liberal inducements to industries to locate here is an encouraging incentive to continue the same policy. Almost without exception every industry, large or small, which the city and the citizens have encouraged, has fully justified the interest we have taken in their establishment. There are few other cities which can boast of a greater number of thriving industries—firmly established and important factors in the prosperity and growth of the city and its most substantial interests.

We have an activity in building, an activity in real estate, that are directly due to the stimulus imparted by manufacturing industries.

Under such conditions we should be encouraged to secure more. This should be done, both on account of the absolute value to the city of such industries, and also because a city gaining a reputation of being a large manufacturing centre on account of the advantages it offers, and which can show substantial proof in the existence of large and numerous manufacturing concerns, will tend to attract others. A good name is better than riches and in no way is this truth more applicable than to a good name as a manufacturing centre.

The ratepayers will have an opportunity to show their appreciation of the fact that every new industry aids the progress of the city, increases the value of real estate and contributes to general commercial and industrial prosperity by the attitude they will show on Tuesday, October 2, towards the two bylaws which will be submitted for their approval—to aid with free site, etc., the establishment in Peterborough of the works of the Steel Rolling Mills Company and the works of the Peterborough Rapid Tool Company, two important and promising industrial enterprises.

In another column of this issue will be found details of the conditions upon which the aid proposed under the bylaw will be extended. Qualified ratepayers are urged to take the subject into serious consideration.

They know that we have made no mistake in the past in generously dealing with the establishment of industries here; they know the great benefit their establishment has been to every interest of every ratepayer; they know that hundreds of families are now living in comfort, through the employment afforded by our industries; they know that our population has increased, that our merchants and others have gained by the increased population; they know that our churches have larger congregations; they know that every interest of the city has been benefitted by the presence of the large manufactories which the people have encouraged to come to Peterborough. Knowing all this, appreciating and realizing all this and much more which might be mentioned, the ratepayers can and should, have no hesitation in cordially supporting the bylaws to be submitted to their vote on Tuesday, October 2nd

THE TEST.

British journals are filled with wonder over the fact that Hearst, proprietor of the New York yellow Journal, has received the Democratic nomination for Governor of New York state. The Times describes Mr. Hearst as a bankrupt in political honour, a traitor, a disgrace to journalism, and a wholesale employer of corruption." We shall see whether the political ideals of the people, who can hardly be as easily manipulated as the delegates to a convention, will successfully stand the test, presented by their privilege of voting for a candidate like Hearst. Mr. Hearst's opponent, Mr. Hughes, is described as a man of exactly opposite type — "Something far too bright and good for human nature's daily food." Mr. Hearst pretends that the fact of Mr. Hughes being a superior sort of person, by virtue of possessing trifling qualities of honesty, integrity and high ideals, places him "out of touch with the masses." The result of the voting will be somewhat of a test of the temper of the people, and we shall by it discover, whether the spirit of "graft," the ambition to acquire gain without any inconvenient concern as to means, and a general acceptance of the doctrine that the end, in many spheres of activity, justifies the means — characteristics which mark so many of the prominent men in business activities and politics—also belong to the people.

THE BEST POLICY.

The make haste to get rich microbe is all pervading, and there are constantly to be found persons who take the risk attached to questionable methods of making money. This is done, contrary to all experience and observation, which demonstrates that the way of the transgressor is hard, and that more often than not, exposure and ruin, follow.. A man who trifles with his trust, and uses the money of others for speculative purposes, must know that the chances are a hundred to one that he will get into trouble. A young bank clerk in Montreal is short in his accounts $25,000, through betting in pool rooms on horse races. Of course he was acting on a sure "tip," and may have expected to win, and so make good his stealings. That's the way they all think, and this in fatuation leads to dishonesty, which the law calls theft, and punishes as theft. The young man made his escape, and his career is closed as an honest man. He may be in the United States, where he will be in company with greater thieves and robbers than he is, with the difference that the thieves he may meet there are protected by legal enactment. And, again, he may not escape, for the net of the law has so wide a cast that it is difficult to escape its meshes. It is singular that young men, or older men for that matter, will not learn from experience that in the long run, and on the highest grounds, honesty is the best policy—will not learn that a little honestly earned is worth more than a great deal got by questionable methods.

THE FAR NORTH.

There have been received in Toronto splendid samples of agricultural products from the Abbitibi district, New Ontario, over 400 miles north of the latitude of Peterborough. The grain was wheat, sent by Mr. Frank Moberly to Hon. Mr. Cochrane, Minister of Mines. The wheat is of good quality, a fine plump berry. With wheat were also sent samples of an indigenous grass very like timothy, which is described as possessing important nutritive qualities and may prove an important addition to our pasture and fodder grasses. The great point of interest in these samples of farm products is that parts of Canada which a few years ago were regarded as a worthless wilderness possess a fertility and climatic condition which promise to make them important agricultural districts. We are discovering that the best of Ontario is not south of North Bay. When the Government railway is produced into the Abittibi district, when the Grand Trunk Pacific is completed, we shall find, no doubt, that there are natural treasures, agricultural and mineral, in New Ontario, which will add immeasurably to the wealth and importance of this province. It behooves the rulers of Ontario to see that this province and its resources are more widely and explicitly made known in Great Britain and that a share of the stream of immigration and a big share too, is diverted into this province. The West looms large in the world's eye at present, but the West is not all of Canada, by any means. There are other provinces and we are only beginning to realize the extent and value of our possessions.

FALSE PRETENCES.

A report of the Tariff Committee of the Manufacturers' Association held in Winnipeg, contained the assertion that "the farmers, from one end of the country to the other, have requested increases in the tariff on their own products." This sweeping statement is entirely unsupported by facts. The Winnipeg Free Press on behalf of the farmers of the West, quotes from the proceedings of the Tariff Commission which sat in Winnipeg only last December, to show that assertion is diametrically opposed to the statements made by farmers and representative bodies before the Commission, who ir bably were in favour of a decreased tariff or no increase of the existing tariff. The Manufacturers' Association are perfectly entitled to their opinion in regard to the tariff, but they expose themselves to the charge of misleading public opinion, when they distort the opinions of farmers as they have done in the case in question. A cause that cannot stand by the truth, cannot be well founded.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Mail and Empire is rather overdoing the thing in regard to East Elgin. By insisting with its usual disregard of the necessary juxtaposition of facts and statement, upon the disruption and split which it alleges exist among the Liberals, it will in the doubtful event of the riding going Conservative next Friday, be deprived of the pleasure of recording a triumph of Conservative principles.

The New York Sun evidently feels strongly in regard to the Democratic nominee for the governorship of New York State. It says that the Democracy has cut its cables and gone adrift. Its course is out to sea. "In September, five years ago, the President of the United States was assassinated at Buffalo. At Buffalo this morning William R. Hearst was nominated by the Democracy as its candidate for the Governorship of the State of New York. Let us accept the inevitable with grace and resignation, and let us hope that the party of assassination and the torch has done to mankind the only service of which it was capable and has extinguished itself for ever."

Army Officers Ordered To Farewell From The City

Staff Capt. and Mrs. McAmmond After Fifteen Months of Splendid Service Will Leave Local Corps—Good Progress Made During Their Term.

After a fifteen months stay in Peterborough, Staff Captain and Mrs. McAmmond, who have been in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army during the period mentioned, have received orders to leave Peterborough, and they will farewell on Sunday, October 7th.

Staff-Captain McAmmond's term in Peterbborough has been longer than is usually the case with Salvation Army officers, about twelve months being the usual term, and the fact that he has been allowed to remain here longer is evidence that he has been doing good work. He expresses regret that he has to leave Peterborough, where his stay, he states, has been pleasant, but he recognizes that at the call of duty must be obeyed.

Staff-Captain and Mrs. McAmmond will leave Peterborough with the most kindly feelings for both the members of the corps and the citizens generally. The working force of the Army here is considerably stronger than when they came here, and the corps is in a splendid condition in every way.

An officers' congress will be held in Toronto from October 10th to the 15th, and prior to that, a general farewelling will be held in the corps in Ontario, the officers leaving after the congress for their new stations.

As to where Staff-Captain and Mrs. McAmmond will go there is no information available at present. It is not known either who their successors will be.

Accident At The Lakefeld Fair

Driver of Peggy Thrown From Cart and Injured

Every exhibition has its little accident and Lakefield was no exception to the rule yesterday. The judges were engaged in examining a row of horses in the ring while the racers were doing some preliminary stunts. Chas. Fife's horse, "Peggy," driven by Tom Pettit, accidently knocked against the wheel vehicle of one of the exhibitors, throwing Pettit out and upsetting the cart. He alighted in the cart to which was attached "Cadalac," Wm. Leahy's horse, and upsetting it also.

Both horses attempted to get away, but the crowd closed in and prevented them. Mr. Pettit received some injuries about the head, getting his ear badly cut. Otherwise no damage was done.

Mission Band's Entertainment

A Pleasing Programme Given At Knox Church

Everyone who attended the concert given under the auspices of the Mission Band of Knox Church last night spent a most enjoyable time. The evening in every way proved highly successful. The programme rendered was an excellent one, and it was the opinion of many that it was only excelled by the refreshments which followed.

There was a very large attendance. Sheriff Hall occupied the chair. In opening he explained that the proceeds of this entertainment were to go towards paying the salary of one of the student missionaries in the west for this year. He pointed out how in the summer these young ministers as a rule, spend their vacation on the mission fields of northern Ontario and in the north west. "This," said the chairman, "is a good work, and one which should be encouraged."

Solos were effectively rendered by Miss Daisy Sawers and Mr. Friesnd. Miss Gladys Crane gave a couple of instrumental solos that were well executed.

Violin solos were contributed by Mr. Gilbert Markle and a mandolin and piano duet by Mr. Currier and Miss Gwen Hall, and a humorous reading by Mr. Brown.

The programme rendered was as follows:—

Piano solo ... ...Miss Gladys Crane
Vocal solo ....Mr. Friesnd
Mandolin solo ....Mr. Currier
Vocal solo ... ...Miss Daisy Sawers
Reading ....Mr. Brown
Violin solo ....Mr. Markle
Piano solo ... ...Miss Gladys Crane
Vocal solo ... ...Miss Daisy Sawers
Humorous reading ... Rev. A. Bright
Accompanist—Mr. Crane.

After the programme the ladies served refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake.

At the conclusion the Mission Band through the chairman, Mr. Hall, very cordially thanked those who so kindly assisted in the entertainment.

Big Excursion From Midland

Passed Through City En Route for Port Hope.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Midland Methodist Church ran an excursion from that town to Port Hope today. There were about three hundred excursionists and a double header was required to convey the train. No special train was chartered, the crew of the ordinary 11.35 being in charge. It is too bad that there is such disagreeable weather to prevent their having a good time. A few of the party get off at Peterborough to spend the day here.

PE-RU-NA KEEPS THE FAMILY IN THE BEST OF HEALTH.

This is Only One of a Million of Homes in Which Pe-ru-na Has Been a Blessing. Read This Family's Glowing Testimony.

Mr. Henry S. Campbell, 1737 S. Williams St., Denver, Col., State Deputy of Modern Woodmen, Montana, and Delegate of Builders Trades Council, writes: "Peruna has been a blessing in our home. My wife was in poor health for several years and nothing but Peruna helped her. She gradually recovered her health and became the mother of a boy which blessed our home. We call Gerald our Peruna boy. He is in the finest of health and his mother has never enjoyed such excellent health.

"I have personally found Peruna of great value to me while traveling. Getting irregular meals and often poorly prepared food ruined my stomach, but Peruna toned up my digestive organs and brought fine health to me.

"We are never without Peruna in our home and know by experience that it keeps us all in the best of health."

Peruna—Once Used In The Family, Becomes a Permanent Fixture.

A RECENT LETTER.

A recent letter received from Mr. and Mrs. Campbell is as follows:

"We still use Peruna and in addition to our son, Gerald, who is a fat and saucy lad of 28 months, we have another son, still larger for his age. He is now ten months old and is always healthy.

"His mother says Peruna has surely made both of our children as healthy as they are, helped, of course by Colorado's healthy air.

"A bottle of Peruna is at all times a welcome visitor to our home."

A multitude of families have discovered that Peruna is their standby.

In all the catarrhal ailments which are likely to beset the various members of the family, Peruna is the remedy that brings quick relief.

No matter whether it be a catarrhal condition of the head or lungs, or a derangement of the stomach and bowels, Peruna is the remedy.

Organization Is Postponed

Meeting to Organize Rebekah Lodge for Oct. 26th.

Owing to later advices received from the captain of Kawartha Lodge Degree Team, Lindsay, the institution of the Rebekah Lodge at Peterborough has been definitely set for Friday evening, October 26. This will suit the convenience of the Lindsay staff, some of whom will be away for the next few weeks, and will also give time for the Peterborough Committee to make complete and careful arrangements. A very pleasant and profitable evening is assured to those who will be present at the opening of the new lodge.

Millinery Picturesque

The hats, it would seem, were never more picturesquely planned than they are this season. This is observable, not only in the small, but in the large hat. The large hat naturally is more adapted to the picturesque, and especially so this season, with the large numbers of velvet hats used, and the quantities of ostrich feathers which invariably adorn hats of this character. The colour combinations, which are truly wonderful, have almost arrived at perfection, and this with the picturesque shapes and delightful trimming effects, lend themselves in a wonderful degree to that becomingness which everyone seeks to effect these days. As a millinery authority stated, "No hat is good unless it is becoming," and this was generally conceded by the hundreds of ladies who were at our opening this week, to be the keynote of our Fall and Winter Millinery.

Ladies' Kid Gloves

made by that celebrated firm, Perrin Freres, Roubaix, France, we show in a 16-button length with three pearl fasteners at the wrist; in black, white and captivating shades of new reds, greens and blues, which we claim makes it the dressiest glove in the Dominion, and only $3

China Wedding Was Fittingly Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hickey Last Night Honoured by a Number of Their Friends—Congratulations Offered on Reaching 20th Wedding Day.

The celebration of the twentieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hickey took place last night at the residence, 133 Gilmour street, in the presence of about 75 guests, a number of whom were from outside the city, and included visitors from Port Hope, Lindsay and Toronto.

The bride of 20 years ago was very prettily costumed in black voile over taffeta silk. The house was very prettily decorated for the occasion, the colour scheme in the drawing-room, and in the dining-room, where the tables were laid, being pink and white. An interesting feature of the gathering was the presence of the groomsman who officiated at the wedding 20 years ago.

After the wedding dinner, the health of the bride was honoured, and the groom responded. Music and games were enjoyed until an early hour, and many congratulations were offered Mr. and Mrs. Hickey on having reached this milestone in their married life.

They were the recipients of a large number of presents in china.

EXAMINER ROAD RACE; SUCCESS IS ASSURED

It is less than three weeks now until Thanksgiving Day, and the day of the Examiner Road Race. A number of local foot runners have signified their intentions of entering the race, as have several from outside the city, in the county. The order is being placed for the silver shield, and it will be here in a short time and will be placed on exhibition as soon as it arrives.

Some of the local runners have been over the course and state that it is quite satisfactory. They have not been speeding up much yet, but they are confident that good time will be made, if the road is dry and no head wind interferes.

This race is open to any resident of the county, who is an amateur, these are the sole conditions.

An entry form is given below and those who intend to participate in the event are asked to fill in the blanks and forward it to this office at once.

The entries will positively close on the night of Saturday, Oct. 13th—that's two weeks from to-day. Cut this form out, sign your name and forward it to the Examiner to-night.

EXAMINER ROAD RACE

THANKSGIVING DAY, OCTOBER 18th, 1906.

I hereby express my intention of entering the Examiner Road Race to be run from Lakefield to Peterborough on October 18th, 1906. Please enter my name among the contestants.

Firemen's Call Bells Not In Working Order

Chief Rutherford's Report to Fire Water and Light Committee—Several Additional Arc Lamps To Be Placed on the Streets.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council did considerable business at their meeting last night. Among other things was a report from Chief Rutherford that the firemen's call bells were out of order, as a result of which the Bell Telephone Company will be requested to remedy this defect as soon as possible. There were present Ald. Adams, chairman; Ald. Duncan, Ball, Elliott, and Graham.

Chief Rutherford was present and notified the committee that six of the firemen's call bells and No. 4 alarm box are out of order and needing renewing as soon as possible.

The committee considered that the Bell Telephone Company's contract of $230 a year for keeping the fire alarm system in order was sufficient for the council to expect the company to put the defective mechanism in working order.

It was moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Graham that the Bell Telephone Company be notified that the No. 4 alarm box and six firemen's call bells are out of order and they be requested to put them in working order as soon as possible.—Carried.

Hay Loft to be Enlarged

Architect Blackwell presented a plan for raising the height of the hay-mow in the new fire hall, five feet six inches. To carry out this change would result in additional expense, amounting to $250 over the original contract price of the building. The change proposed would give a loft 18 x 16 and 11 feet high, which the committee considered none too large to contain hay sufficient for six horses.

On motion of Ald. Elliott the matter was referred to the chairman, Ald. Graham, Architect Blackwell and Chief Rutherford to report at the meeting of the council on Monday night.

Ald. Graham moved, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that tenders be invited for electric wiring and fixtures for the new fire hall.

More Street Lights

It was moved by Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Duncan, that a 32 candle power incandescent light be placed on Sherbrooke street at the creek, one at the corner of Harvey and Dublin, and one at the corner of Stewart and Dublin streets.—Carried.

Ald. Graham moved that an arc light light be put at the corner of Ross and Hazlitt streets.—Carried.

Ald. Ball moved that an arc light be furnished for Sophia street at a point to be selected by chairman Adams.—Carried.

On motion of Ald. Graham and Elliott it was decided to place an arc light on Concession street, south of Sophia at a point to be chosen by the chairman.

New Hydrants

A letter was read from the Water Commissioners asking the council to sanction the placing of hydrants on the new main at the corner of Park and Romaine streets, Aylmer and Romaine streets and on Alice street, near the new school.

It was moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Ball that the Water Commissioners' request be granted and that they be requested to place a hydrant at the corner of Rogers and Sophia streets.—Carried.

Bad Attack of La Grippe.

A year ago I had a bad attack of la grippe, and all the doctor's prescriptions proved to be of no avail. I was told to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and found it a great blessing, as it thoroughly cured me. I told my doctor that I intended to recommend it to all my friends." — Mrs. L. OBITUARY

WILLIAM HENRY ROBERTSON.

A very well known and highly respected resident of South Monaghan passed away on Wednesday morning in the person of William Henry Robertson, whose demise, after a short illness, caused general grief throughout the community. The deceased was a son of Mr. John Robertson, 397 Reid street, Peterborough, and was born in South Monaghan, living there all his life. He was 37 years of age, and was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and a staunch Reformer.

Deceased was also a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters, under whose auspices the funeral took place yesterday to Centreville Cemetery. The funeral was a very large one, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held by all who knew him.

The late Mr. Robertson leaves to mourn his death a wife and two children. His father, Mr. John Robertson, and two sisters, Miss Sarah Jane and Miss Mary Ann Robertson, reside at 397 Reid street.

The deceased was taken suddenly ill on Tuesday morning with acute Bright's disease, and he speedily grew worse until his death on Wednesday. His demise was a great shock to all his friends.

Rally Day At Mark Street

Special Services Will Be Held There To-morrow.

Mr. George H. Williamson, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., will give an address on Sunday afternoon, September 30th, at 2.45, at the annual rally of the Mark street Methodist Sunday school. There will also be special music under the direction of Mr. John C. Miller. The service will be held in the body of the church, beginning at 2.45 sharp, and every member of the congregation is invited to be present. The members of the school will meet in the basement 15 minutes earlier than usual to mark the class books, etc. The service promises to be interesting, and the attendance will no doubt be large.

Mechanics, Farmers, Sportsmen

To heal and soften the skin and remove grease, oil and rust stains, paint and earth, etc., use The 'Master Mechanic's'' Tar Soap. Albert Toilet Soap Company, Manufacturers.

Harvest Music At All Saints'

It Will be Repeated at Services To-morrow

To-morrow the harvest festival at All Saints will be repeated, and the rector, Rev. W. Major, will preach at both services. The musical programme will be as follows:

Morning—
Hymns, 382, 166, 388, 387.
Te Deum, Simper in F.
Jubilate, Ousley.
Carol, "Alleluiah, Sing we ever."
Anthem, "Make a Joyful Noise."

Evening—
Hymns, 379, 295, 383, 30.
Magnificat, Simper in F.
Nunc Dimmitus, Barndy.
Carol, "Holy is the Seed-time."
Anthem, "Blessed shall be Thy Basket and Store."

MANUFACTURERS WANT A FIRE ALARM SYSTEM

The Peterborough Manufacturers' Association have decided to urge the city council to install a new and modern fire alarm system. To this end a meeting of the members of the Association is called for on Tuesday evening, Oct. 2nd, in Mr. R. M. Dennistoun's office. The question will be fully discussed and the advisability of memoralizing the council regarding a new fire alarm system will be the chief topic for consideration. All the members of the Association are requested to have a representative present at the meeting.

Peterborough Could Have A Week's Fair

This is the Opinion of J. J. Turner and Sons—City Should Take Up the Matter—Appoint One Man to Devote His Time to Work it Up.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—We read Mr. Hughes Charlie's letter in a local paper and we certainly think that its remarks are all true and to the point. The merchants and citizens of Peterborough do not take the interest that they should in our Exhibition and until they do we will not have a successful Exhibition. We think that Mr Hughes Charles' suggestion that the City buy the grounds and put up first-class buildings, a good one, and we hope that the Mayor and City Council will take the matter up at once and get the matter in shape for next year.

We should have one of the best Exhibitions here outside of Toronto, and we believe it could be run one week if the city will take hold of it and appoint one first-class man to look after it as they do in Toronto, and we feel sure that it would be a success. We have good grounds and the Street Cars running to the gates of the Exhibition. We also agree with Mr. Hughes Charles that it was a great mistake to change our Exhibition to two days as it is not of any benefit to the city as the people from outside places do not come to the city till the second morning of the Exhibition and they are away again the same night. If the Exhibition had been held for three days the majority of the people attending the Exhibition would have stayed for one night at least in the city and our merchants, hotel keepers, butchers, bakers, grocers and liverymen and others would have reaped some benefit.

We hope that this Exhibition matter will be taken up at once by the city and let us have an exhibition that will be a credit to the City of Peterborough.

We remain,

Yours respectfully,

J. J. TURNER & SONS.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches at. require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

McCoy Goes To Central Prison For Three Months

Was Drunk Again—Has No Home and No Work—Same Man Who Drank the Pain Killer on Tuesday.

After appearing twice within a week before the Police Magistrate on drunk charges, John McCoy was, this morning, sentenced to six months in the Central Prison. John is the same personage who came so prominently before the police last Tuesday by drinking a bottle of painkiller, and, it was alleged, by attempting to commit suicide. This morning he appeared again with a haggard look on his face after a spree last night.

The Chief remarked that he had been informed that there was plenty of room in the Central, as a number of prisoners were being liberated next month.

McCoy has been in the police court so often of late that the Magistrate considered a six months' term in the Central would do him good.

Notable Triumph Scored By C. P. R. "Overseas" Mail

Contract Time Beaten by Nearly Seven Hours—Second Westbound Mail Left Montreal Sharp on Time Yesterday—Another Quick Run Across the Continent.

Examiner Special

Montreal, Sept. 28.—The second westbound C.P.R. "Overseas" mail passed Outremont sharp on time this afternoon, carrying a goodly number of passengers and the Oriental mail, consisting of 228 sacks of letters and 117 packages of parcel post, the latter being a large increase over that sent by the first "overseas mail. There were about 56 boxes of specie.

The Empress of Ireland arrived at Quebec at 3.45 this morning, bringing these mails. She left Liverpool at 9.45 p.m. last Friday, 21st inst.

Heavy head winds were encountered but notwithstanding this her speed averaged 17 1-3 knots an hour. She was only 1 1-2 days out of wireless touch with land on the voyage and during that time was in communication with her sister ship, the Empress of Britain, bound for Liverpool.

The overseas" mail train is due in Vancouver next Tuesday morning at six o'clock when the mails will be transferred to the C.P.R. Empress of India which carries them to Hong Kong and intermediate ports. The first "overseas" mail, from the Orient to Great Britain have been delivered in Liverpool by the C.P.R. within the contract time of 29 1-2 days.

The Empress of Britain which carried them from Quebec arrived at Liverpool to-day at 1 p.m. They were brought across the pacific by the Empress of India, which left Hong Kong August 30th, at 4 p.m., and arrived at Vancouver six p.m., Sept. 17th, were carried across Canada to Quebec in 88 hours on the C. P. R. "overseas" mail train and sent home home by the Empress of Britain which left Quebec at 3.15 p.m. on Sept. 21st. The time therefore occupied in the trip from Hong Kong to Liverpool was only 29 days, 4 hours, 35 minutes, or 7 hours and 25 minutes within the contract time.

The C.P.R. has more than fulfilled its agreement with the Postal Authorities on both the east and westbound half circuits of the Globe. The Empress of Japan bringing out the second "overseas" mail from Hong Kong left that port yesterday at 4 p.m., and is due at Vanvouver Oct. 15th.

Jilted Lover Sued Girl For Beer

Won His Case and Received $100 and Jewellery

Munich, Bavaria, Sept. 29. — For three years Carl Huber was engaged to Fraulein Grete Christ. Not only did he give her jewellery, but he feasted her nearly every evening. But another young admirer came and, with hardly a word of explanation, Fraulein Grete broke her engagement with Huber. The discarded lover sought balm in the law. The German code does not recognize damages for breach of promise, but the jilted person can claim all presents. Huber put in a bill of particulars, including not only rings, brooches, bracelets, stick pins, hat pins and other things, but added several thousand glasses of beer and links of sausages enough to reach nearly around his beloved Bavaria. Much to Fraulein Grete's chagrin, her jilted lover won his case. She had to return a lot of assorted jewellery and give him $100 in cash to settle for the beer and sausages.

Lakefield Exhibition Best In History Of The Society

New Fair Grounds Were Opened Yesterday To More Than 1,500 Visitors—Society Begins Second Half of Century With Bright Progress.

Fair Opened by R. R. Hall, M.P.—Exhibits are Growing Rapidly in Numbers—Quality and Number of Horses Was Chief Feature—Races Interesting.

Lakefield, Sept. 29.—Providence smiled benignly yesterday on the fifty-first annual exhibition of the townships of Smith and Ennismore, and of the village of Lakefield. Weather conditions, the number of visitors, and the lengthy entry list, all united to make the exhibition—the first on the society's new grounds the best in the history of the association. The society celebrated its golden anniversary last year, and is one of the oldest in the Dominion, a fact which the directors, past and present, have every reason to be proud of.

The success of the fair yesterday was principally due to the united efforts and industry of the president, vice-president, and the secretary, who have laboured hard to uphold the name of the Lakefield exhibition and to begin the second half of the century on a successful basis.

New Grounds Baptized

As mentioned above, the fair was held on the new grounds which the society has acquired since last year. They are situated a short distance southwest of the village, in the township of Smith, on high and dry ground, overlooking the hamlet. They contain nine acres of good land, with a building 82x30 feet for the indoor exhibits. This is situated at the entrance gate and contained an excellent assortment of exhibits yesterday, and a collection creditable to the people of Lakefield and to the people of Lakefield and of the surrounding country. The total cost of the grounds and buildings amounted to some $2,000—a sum which the society will not be long in making if their fairs are as popular in the future as they have been in the past.

A Large Attendance.

The attendance was placed in the neighbourhood of 1,500, almost $400 being taken in entry fees. This was a substantial increase in comparison to last year—a fact very gratifying to the officers and directors. The entry list, especially in horses, was large. The secretary, Mr. Sherin stated that there were at least 200 more entries this year than last. Many were heard to express remarks on the fine class of farmers' horses and the number of them present at the fair; and if there were not so many, the number of exhibits in horses was a close competitor to the Peterborough fair.

Fair Formally Opened

About 2 o'clock the Lakefield Brass Band appeared on the grounds, and for a few minutes supplied excellent music for the visitors. The band is yet quite a young organization, but nevertheless, their services were much appreciated by the big crowd.

Mr. R. Q. Dench, the president, then introduced Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., who was present to formally open the fair. Mr. Hall thanked the directors most cordially for the honour they conferred upon him in extending the invitation to be present. He assured those present that the officers and directors deserved congratulations for choosing such admirable grounds and for having such a successful exhibition. He was sure that in the future the prosperity would be more marked. He congratulated the ladies on the beautiful display of flowers, and the farmers on the quality of their exhibits. There was no place in the county, he said, which could produce a better display of stock and farm products than at Lakefield. There was nothing which tended to improve farming and farm stock better than a good honest competition, which the Lakefield exhibition could boast of. He next referred to the prosperity of Canada as a whole, and of Canada's many industries. The total trade for the Dominion for the year ending July 1 last amounted to $552,000,000, with a steady increase. In conclusion, he again thanked the directors for their invitation, and congratulated them on the success which they had achieved.

Officers and Directors

President, R. Q. Dench.
Vice-president, H. C. Garbutt.
Secretary-Treasurer, W. Sherin.
Honorary Directors, T. E. Bell, G. J. Galvin and C. Quinn.
Directors — John Fairbairn, Ed. —Fitzgerald, D. W. Mann, R. Garbutt, Thos. Fitzgerald, S. Wallace, A. Johnston, J. W. Cornish and R. Daff.
Auditors—W. M. Graham and A. Fairbairn.

Extensive Exhibits

The display building was well filled with products of the garden, from and orchard, as well as ladies fancy work. A large table in the centre was artistically decorated with various flowers and plants, promiscuously arrayed by the ladies, and showing their beauty to perfection. The work of the ladies, consisting of such articles as quilts, cushions, centrepieces, etc., was particularly worthy of mention, their handiwork being noticed by all.

Fruit, garden products and grains were well represented and were of a high class.

Stock Entries

Horses led in number in the stock entries, and the judging of these animals was closely watched by most of the visitors. Cattle and sheep were also extensively represented, and a few pigs were also noticeable.

The Races

The speeding in the ring was one of the features of the day. Four races—the hurdle, novelty general purpose horses, and the green race—were run off and were closely watched by a thousand or more interested spectators.

The novelty in particular was interesting. The competitors had first to hitch their horses, trot around the ring, walk once, trot again, and unhitch.

The results were:

General Purpose—Best two out of three—
Peggy, owned by Chas. Fife...1 1

Simply delicious. The grocer offering a food "just as good" as Malta-Vita has little respect for your judgment or health.

BABY NEARLY DEAD.

Mrs. John Cuddy, Killaloe Station, Ont., says: "My baby was so nearly dead that I had to place my ear close to his breast to know that he was breathing. He was in this condition when I first gave him Baby's Own Tablets, and I hardly dared hope that they would save him. But they helped him almost at once, and soon made him a well child. He is now two years old and weighs 45 pounds and has never known a sick day since I first gave him the Tablets." Baby's Own Tablets cure constipation, indigestion, diarrhoea, teething troubles, break up colds, expel worms and give the little ones natural and healthy sleep. And the mother has a guarantee that this medicine contains no opiate or poisonous soothing stuffs. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, of Brockville, Ont.

Die With Their Mother In Pond

Ducklings Cling to Wounded Mother.

Presque Isle, Me., Sept. 29.—Ducks are not generally supposed to be as devoted to their offspring as many aquatic birds, but Horace Selden, a sportsman, tells of one incident which seems to disprove the theory.

Selden was shooting grouse along the shores of a nearby pond, when he saw a female wood duck in the water close to some bushes. It was a long shot, and when he fired he simply wounded the bird. Thereupon she swam under the overhanging bushes and disappeared.

Thinking that the duck was hiding, he fired another shot "blind" into the bushes, and then approached with his fowling-piece cocked. Nothing was to be seen of the duck. She had vanished as if the waters had swallowed her, and feeling sure that she had dived and clung to a weed after the manner of her kind when wounded, he got down on his hands and knees and searched the bottom of the pond.

There, in about ten feet of water, was the duck, dead. Clinging to her wings were four ducklings, also dead. There is no question but that the mother had raised a late brood, and, finding her young in danger, had taken them down with her. She probably intended to swim to safety, but the shot had done its work, and she died clinging to a weed. The young, having once taken hold of her wings, stuck to her trustingly and were suffocated.

Cough Lasted 3 Months.

"I was taken with a severe cough which lasted for three months, and though I tried all sorts of medicines they failed to do me any good. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and I was completely cured by two bottles." — Miss Ada O'Brien, Cape Cove, Gaspe Co., Quebec.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 29.—Opening prices to-day were generally lower on the news of U. S. intervention in Cuba. Republic Steel and Norfolk were exceptions, while Reading, after opening lower, grew strong and rose nearly five points on large transactions. This move carried the general market with it, Norfolk selling at a new high price, while Baltimore and Penna advanced smartly. Rock Island woke up and advanced as did O. & W.

The Bank statement was better than expected and while there was some profit-taking in the late trading closing prices generally were strong, especially Amal. Copper. While the market will probably by irregular next week, we look for better prices generally.

Eggs Are Soaring Will Continue To

Price of Eggs is Going on An Extended Aerial Trip.

Jupiter Pluvius, although the friend of the farmer throughout the year, is very inimical if he frowns on Saturday morning. The weather this morning was very adverse to a large market, especially the outside one.

The prices of potatoes, apples, cabbage, tomatoes, carrots, etc., were normal; onions sold at 25 cents per peck.

In the market Hall there were a few surprises. Butter demanded 28 and 29 cents per lb., while eggs have advanced to 20 cents a dozen. There was an abundance of ducks and chickens, and also a good supply of geese.

The following is a list of the prices:—

Butter, per lb	28	to	28
Plums, 3 quarts for	25
Potatoes, per bag	75	to	75
Tomatoes, per bushel	60
Onions, per peck	25
Beets, per peck	10
Cabbage, 3 for	10
Apples, per bag	65	to	75
Pears, per peck	40
Ducks, per pair	90	to	1 00
Geese, each	95	to	1 10
Chickens, per pair	65	to	75
Eggs, per doz	19	to	20
Honey, per lb	10
Hay, Clover per ton	10 00	to	11 00
Hay, timothy " "	13 00	to	14 00

There was no hay on the market, but during the week it was reported that one farmer secured $12 for a ton, but the ordinary price is from $10.00 to $11.00.

young woman, the Countess Hilda von Draga. She is loved by both the Crown Prince and the captain, but to the latter her heart has flown. Captain Travors acquaints his sweetheart with the doings of the conspirators and she, finding that his designs are retarded by lack of money takes to the road disguised as a free-tider and soon becomes famed as Red Feather. From the rich travellers she demands the toll of the highway, using the monies thus gained to further the cause of her lover. So during become the depredations of Red Feather that the Crown Prince commands Captain Travors to capture the marauder within twenty-four hours. Failing in this the captain is insulted by the Crown Prince, a blow is passed and the hours of the former's career seem few, when the Countess von Draga declares her- self to be the much sought Red Feather and at the same moment the conspirators' forces victoriously, invade the Royal Palace. The desired ending, the downfall of the Crown Prince, is accomplished and again "all ends happily." The opera is laid in two acts, the first showing a public square of Romancia and the last, a ball room of the palace. Scenery, costumes and effects have been done upon a most lavish scale and the piece will be interpreted by a company of seventy-five and for the music there is an augmented orchestra. The "Red Feather" will be at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday, Oct. 2nd.

ew Collegiate Institute Will Be A Handsome Building

ns Show a Structure in Which the Latest Features of School Architecture Have Been Observed—Some Details About the Building Which Should be Interesting.

plans for the new Collegiate tute, for which the City Council be asked to provide $21,000 more, ing a total of $61,000, show that new building will be a most somo and modern structure, one will give ample accommodation achers and pupils, and that will credit to Peterborough.

. Morrison, chairman of the Col- ate Institute Building Commit- who on interviewed by an Exam- reporter, gave some information ut the building which should be interesting to every ratepayer of the city. The accompanying cut will give a good idea of the exterior of the building, which, it will be seen, presents a very handsome appearance, as should be the case with an edifice which is to grace one of the principal squares of the city.

Three Storeys High

The building will be 114 feet by 85 1-2 feet, and will be composed of three storeys and a basement. The foundation, to the level of the ground, will be built of Longford stone. The superstructure will be of red brick, with Longford stone trimmings.

The Basement

In the basement will be situated a laboratory for practical chemical work. This room will be 35.6x33 feet, and will be connected with an instrument closet, where the apparatus used for chemical experiments may be kept when not in use. This closet has access to a large physical laboratory, so that the instruments used in common in chemistry and physics will be easy of access to either laboratory.

In the basement also are situated lavatories for boys and girls, which will be reached from outside doors in each case. Provision has also been made for reaching the lavatories from the upper floors. The furnace room and fuel bins are also located in the basement.

The Ground Floor

On the ground floor of the building there will be five large class rooms, with a full complement of cloak rooms. The rooms are each 33 ft. by 22 feet. The head master is provided with an office to the left of the main entrance. The halls throughout the building have been made the subject of special attention. The main hall will be 14 feet wide, and the cross hall 12 feet 6 inches. There are three entrances on the ground floor—the main entrance, one at the rear, and another on the south side of the building. There is a commodious library on the ground floor.

The Second Floor

On the second floor will be found six more class rooms, each containing a clock room. There will be an office for the lady teachers, and another for the gentlemen. These will be so placed that the teachers will be able at all times to keep a vigilant eye on the pupils.

A large assembly hall is the feature of the third floor of the building. This room will be large enough to comfortably seat 500 people, and provision will be made for a good stage, retiring rooms, and also a ladies' cloak room. Part of the hall will be furnished with movable seats, so that it can be used by the girls for calisthenics. Another large class room is situated on this floor.

Ventilation Good

The roof will be of timber and sheet iron. The floors throughout will be of maple, and the stairs of oak, while all ceilings will be of metal. The ventilation facilities will be as perfect as can be made. The lighting of the building has been carefully looked after. The windows have been so arranged that in every case the light will come over the left shoulder of the pupil, thus preventing cross lights.

The building will be heated with steam, and the Building Committee are considering the advisability of installing twin boilers for heating. This system is considered the most economical, as it results in a considerable saving of coal.

Mr. J. E. Belcher was the architect who drew the plans for the new building, and he seems to have designed an edifice which should please everyone. It is handsome, although not at all ornate, in its exterior appearance. It contains large class rooms and laboratories, and is well provided for in the matter of ventilation and light. The lack of a gymnasium is the only regrettable feature in connection with the new school. The committee, felt, however, that the additional expense necessarily arising out of the construction of the gymnasium would be too heavy. It is possible, however, that arrangements may be made by which the boys of the Collegiate will be allowed to use the gymnasium of the Armouries, when that building is completed.

Should not Go to the People

The Examiner has interviewed a number of prominent men in reference to having the Council grant the additional sum of $21,000 that they will be asked for without going to the people, and the general opinion seemed to be that such a couse was the only proper one to take under the circumstances. Those interviewed thought that the Collegiate was very badly needed, and that if the proposition was submitted to the people it would very likely be voted down. This they looked upon as a misfortune.

No New Records At Road Race

Boys Ran Well But Time Was Slower Than in Former Years.

The cross country run one of the events of the annual field day of sports was held yesterday afternoon at 4.30.

The route was from the corner of Murray and Water streets, crossing the McDonel street bridge, returning by Smith street bridge and the corner of Water and Smith streets. There were two races, one in which the senior pupils took part the other in which the juniors competed. Frank Austin and Arch. Ingham the latter being the winner, were the only senior starters, and the race was rather disappointing. The boys were not pushed hard to win and as a result the time of 19 minutes 50 seconds was made. The time for this event last year was 17 minutes, 21 seconds.

The juniors did much better. Their time was 18 minutes, 17 seconds, over the same route being jus. 17 seconds more than that of last year. The entries were:—Wallace Armstrong, H. Wallace, Garnet Lovey, Herman Giroux A. Hall, and they finished in the order named. "Garnie" Lovey made a pretty run for his size, being much smaller than the winners of the first two places. He will surprise them next year. Wallace Armstrong the winner ran in a splendid manner and will be heard from next Friday.

Receipts Will Equal Expenses

This Is the Encouraging Word From Secretary Hall

The Secretary of the Peterborough Fair stated to-day that the finances were in good shape, and he felt confident that the receipts would equal the expenses. He is anxious to have all those with accounts against the society send them in at once, in order that he may balance up his books for the year.

REMINISCENCE OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

A day or two ago a paragraph appeared in the Examiner, relating to the unearthing of huge logs by the excavation for gas pipes, on Simcoe street, at the bridge. These logs are sound, and to-day men are employed cutting them in lengths for fuel. They have lain under three or four feet of earth for half a century or more. Fifty years ago, a wooden bridge, with bents, of which there are now few in the country, was built over the creek at this point, and at Charlotte street, and for the purpose of filling in the approaches, green pines were cut and placed cross-wise in the depths. Some idea of the conditions that then prevailed in Peterborough, may be gained from the fact that these logs were cut from trees then growing within the corporation, in fact within a short distance of the bridge.

THE ST. CHARLES IS AGAIN AFLOAT

The steam punt, "St. Charles," the handy man of the Point St. Charles Lumber Company, is afloat again. After its strenuous summer's work, in promoting the interests of the company, it has been thoroughly overhauled. It is now as good as new and is ready to finish its fall work before going into winter quarters on the upper waters. Its work will consist in towing of wood. The repairs have been done under the superintence of the veteran ship builder, Mr. William Hickey, and, like everything of the kind that leaves his hands, the St. Charles left its ways to enter upon its ways of usefulness to the company, in thorough ship-shape.

CRAMPS CURED.

I was troubled with Cramps for a long time, and had several doctors attend me, but their medicine did not seem to do me any good. I got three bottles of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and it cured me. It is the only medicine I can recommend. I would not be without it in my house.

DIARRHOEA AND CRAMPS.

I take pleasure in telling you what Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done for me. I was taken with Diarrhoea and severe Cramps in the Stomach. I secured a bottle of your medicine and had only taken a few doses when my trouble disappeared. In the future I will always keep it in the house ready for use.

Opportunity To Secure Two Promising Industries

Ratepayers on Tuesday May Vote to Increase Prosperity of the City—Steel Rolling Mills and Tool Company's Works—Will Give Employment to Many.

On Tuesday the ratepayers of the city will vote on two bylaws which, if they are approved will ensure to the city two new and promising industries. The Steel Rolling Mills Company have received a number of good offers to locate in other cities, and some splendid inducements have been held out. The directors, however state that they would prefer to locate here, if the conditions are not made too hard. If the bylaw passes there is a good chance to secure the industry. If it is defeated there is none.

The Rapid Tool Company is a smaller industry at the start, but the sum the city will have to spend to secure it will be considerably less. It is, however, a concern which gives promise of developing rapidly.

The bylaws to be voted on Tuesday may be summarized as follows:—

Steel Rolling Mills.

What the company proposes to do:—

To erect buildings and install machinery to cost $35,000.

To employ an average of fifty hands for ten years.

To be in operation by April 1st, 1907.

What the city proposes to do:—

To purchase a site not costing more than $6,000.

To fix the assessment, at the price paid for the land, for ten years.

Rapid Tool Company.

What the company proposes to do:—

To erect buildings to cost $3,000.

To install machinery to cost $16,000.

To employ at least twenty-five hands.

To continue in full operation for ten years.

What the city proposes to do:—

To contribute $1,200 towards the purchase of a site.

Ladies' Aid Pleasantly Entertains Congregation

Of Charlotte Street Methodist Church—A Delightful Social Evening Enjoyed Last Night—New Pastor Welcomed to the City at Enjoyable Social Gathering.

The ladies of the Charlotte street Methodist church, were "at home" last night to the members of the congregation, who were invited to the church for the purpose of enjoying a social evening, and an opportunity was afforded to become better acquainted with the new pastor, and the members of his family.

The Sunday school room, in which the gathering was held, was filled, and a thoroughly enjoyable evening was spent, the ladies of the church giving evidence, in an unmistakeable manner, that the visitors were welcome. The function was a very informal one, and perhaps to this fact might be attributed largely the success of the gathering. The room was very prettily decorated with salvia, while the large table from which refreshments were served, was adorned with flowers and red ribbon.

During the early portion of the evening greetings were exchanged, and a short, but charmingly enjoyable musical programme rendered. It was contributed to by Miss Clarry, Miss Campbell, and Miss Elliott, who were heard in piano solos, and duets, while Miss Clara Betteghem and Miss Olive Howell gave vocal solos.

After the refreshments had been served a number of addresses, expressing appreciation of the well-timed efforts of the ladies, and pleasure at this opportunity of meeting the pastor, were given. Mr. R. J. Kidd acted as chairman, and Messrs. Hatten, Cunningham, Kennedy and others spoke briefly.

The pastor, Rev. H. M. Manning, also gave a short address, in the course of which he referred to the approaching special services, and announced some of the necessary conditions for their success.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column:

It seems to me that the council, after promising a sidewalk to the residents of Brown street, west of Park street should see that such a walk is laid before the winter season sets in. It will be a disgrace to the council if a repetition of last year's wet and mud has to be suffered when at a little outlay a new one could be placed.

Another little item is that the man who repairs the wooden sidewalks often has resource to a few shovelsful of dirt to fill a break in the walk, instead of taking out the damaged plank and replacing with a new one. Then after a rain pedestrians often get up to their ankles in mud on the sidewalk. Rather peculiar state of affairs for a city of this size.

Night Classes A Boon To Ambituous Young People

They Open on Monday Night at the Peterborough Business College and Afford an Excellent Opportunity of Acquiring Business Education—Whao Subjects Are Taught — Splendid Work Accomplished by this Institution.

Beginning with Monday evening, Oct. 1st, the Peterborough Business College will institute a night school in connection with the College, to be held every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday throughout the winter until the latter part of April, 1907. The following subjects will be taught:—Arithmetic, Writing, Spelling, Letter-writing, Bookkeeping, Shorthand and Typewriting. What does this mean to the average young man or young woman who is engaged during the day? It means that they are given a chance to educate themselves so that they may compete with those who had the good fortune or good sense to remain at school. For many of those who are really not well educated once had a chance to go to school but did not take it. Now they are repenting their folly while working in some shop. These are some of the young people who can be benefitted by the night school, and it will mean dollars in their pockets later on if they determine to make the most of this opportunity.

Besides there are some whose education has been neglected, who know comparatively nothing of the three R's; those will be given individual instruction by Mr. Pringle's efficient staff. A third class are those who find themselves forgetting what they once learned at school.

All such persons should be attendants at the coming night classes. The price is very low, only $7.50 for all the subjects taught. There may be some who are discouraged and who are now without ambition, but they should make an appointment to attend the first night and continue so throughout the term. The greatest difficulty is overcome once the student is well started, therefore it behooves all who have the intention of attending to be on hand the first night and to be regular in attendance during the season.

Shakspere says:—"There is a tide in the affairs of man, which, taken at flood, leads on to fortune," and truly this is the time for ambitious young men and women who are handicapped by a want of education to assist them in improving their position to remedy the defect.

The Business College is situated over the Bank of Commerce, opposite the Post Office and Mr. Pringle, the principal, will be there on Saturday evening for all those who wish to enroll. Last season the night school was very successful, more than sixty pupils being in attendance. A greater number than that should take advantage of the opportunity afforded this season to improve themselves in what is now recognized as essential to success in business pursuits.

The fact that there is in the city an institution which is doing such excellent work for the young people of Peterborough is a matter for self congratulation on the part of the citizens generally. During the years since this College was opened hundreds of young men and women have been equipped with a business education which has enabled them to occupy positions which would have been denied them had they not been possessed of this equipment.

Mr. Pringle is accomplishing a splendid work in the community, and that it is being appreciated is evident from the fact the attendance both at the night classes in the winter months, and at the day sessions is steadily increasing.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE SMART SET

Something new in the line of musical comedy was offered at the Grand last night, when the "Smart Set" presented S. H. Dudley in "The Black Politician," an amusing sketch which kept the audience convulsed with merriment from start to finish and which abounded in ragtime music of the liveliest kind. The coloured people are noted as good singers and their representatives last night fully sustained this reputation. The music was of the minstrel variety and caught on with the crowd.

The play deals with a campaign for the mayoralty in a mythical town down south. Hezeykeal Doo is rung in as an up-to-date campaigner from New York in the interests of one of the candidates, wins the election for his man, defeats his opponent in a horse race and finally marries his daughter. The scenic effects were good, the race track at the county fair being especially realistic.

S. H. Dudley, as the "Black Politician" made a decided hit with the crowd, his singing making him popular. His song "Cincinnati" a ragtime novelette with a ding-dong chorus caught the fancy of the audience. Teonie Russell's contribution, "Hezekiah" was popular and James Burns' catchy coon song, "Home Sweet Home, Sounded Good to Me," was received warmly. Other tuneful numbers were "Good Luck, Mr. Grindle," "The Dark Town Band," "Lady Lindy," "Old Black Crow," "Mr. Mexican Rose" and "My Hindoo Love."

The last act was really not necessary and dragged somewhat, but it served to introduce one of the best things of the evening, a duel of all nations, in which the chorus did some pretty ensemble marching. The costumes of the chorus throughout were gorgeous.

"The Black Politician" affords a very pleasant way of whiling away an evening, and while the music is not of a lasting nature, it is catc... and effective.

Immense Carpet Factory Is Practically Assured The City

Coates Bros., of Scotland, and the Wellesden Lithographing Company, of England, to Locate in Peterborough--Will Manufacture Carpets and Also Conduct a Lithographing Business--Will Employ Many Hands.

Peterborough [illegible] will be delighted to learn that there is every prospect of an immediate industry employing many hundreds, [illegible] about locating in the west he persuaded here. This announcement will [illegible] to come to Peterborough ably come as a surprise to many people as the negotiations were conducted quietly. The Examiner while in touch with the subject all through has until now omitted saying anything about the matter, the wisdom of which course is apparent when it is understood that the interested parties had practically made arrangements to locate at Fort William and view the advantages of this city before deciding. Accordingly the English capitalists interested were in Peterborough a little over a week ago and were most favorably impressed with the opportunities offered here.

It may now be stated that arrangements have been practically concluded by Henry Coates, of Coates Bros., Limited, Carpet Manufacturers of Paisley and Perth, Scotland, and Joseph Dunwoodie, managing director of the Willisden Lithographing Company, Limited, with offices in London, Eng., to form an Ontario joint stock company, under the name of the Coates Manufacturing Company, Limited, with head offices in Toronto, and works in Peterborough.

A Torontonian named the industry to the city. When he learned that the company were thinking about locating in the west he persuaded them to come to Peterborough and view the advantages of this city. Accordingly the English capitalists interested were in Peterborough a little over a week ago and were most favorably impressed with the opportunities offered here.

The company will manufacture carpets and also conduct business as a lithographing company. Mr. Dunwoodie who will reside at Peterborough will manage both departments.

The authorized capital will be $1,000,000 and in addition to the Scottish and English directors, a number of Canadians very prominent in financial affairs will be on the Board.

The organization meeting will be held on Wednesday night and work will at once be begun on the plant. The company have agreed to employ at least two hundred men at the beginning and expect to increase the number to a thousand.

It is said that Peterborough's latest industry will require twenty acres of ground. Its coming will be gladly welcomed by every citizen of Peterborough.

In justice to themselves, however, it must be stated that the inducements offered were, the company does not state.

It is probable that the company will locate in one of the towns or cities in the Niagara peninsula.

The decision as to the site was simply incidental to the real business for which the meeting was called Saturday night, which was to elect officers and directors.

The Board of Directors is constituted as follows: Messrs. W. G. Ferguson, W. H. Hill, D. O'Connell, W. Rudkins, Alex. Elliott, James Davidson and W. H. Dunham.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were elected:

President, W. G. Ferguson.
Vice-President, W. H. Hill,
Secretary-Treasurer, D. O'Connell.

Has Returned From The Gathering Of Carpenters

Mr. Harry Morgan, Local Delegate to the Big Convention at Niagara Falls, is Back—Condition of the Brotherhood is Very Encouraging is His Report.

Mr. Harry Morgan, who has been the representative of the local carpenters at the convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners at Niagara Falls, has returned to the city. To The Examiner Mr. Morgan to-day said that the convention was a great success and that the delegates had a most delightful time in the Cataract City.

Over 700 delegates were present from all parts of Canada and the United States. A great many matters of interest to labour came up for discussion, and a significant feature of the convention was that very few strikes were reported. The carpenters seem to be making progress everywhere, and the condition of the Brotherhood is most favourable.

The delegates were most hospitably entertained, and enjoyed their Niagara visit immensely. Among the entertainments gotten up for their amusement was a barbicue on Fort George, which was attended by most of the visitors. Another feature that was appreciated was a trip down the famous Gorge route. The factories were all open to the inspection of the delegates, and most of them took advantage of the opportunity and visited the industries.

MR. HARRY MORGAN,
Local Delegate to the Niagara Falls Convention of United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

Wife Seeks Alimony; Married Only A Week

Dummer Girl Doesn't Seem to Satisfy Her Husband—Resides Near Downer's Corners.

After a marriage of [illegible] work, Mrs. Brady now seeks alimony from her husband. She called at the police station this morning and related her troubles to the Chief and Magistrate, and left again with advice. Until last Wednesday she was a Dummer lass, free from the cares of connubial life, but now, according to her story, her troubles have begun.

Her husband, Mr. Brady, resides near Downer's Corners, within the corporation of Peterborough, and [illegible] to seems to have treated her rather coolly since the marriage. She says that she was thrown out of the house the following morning, told to go back to her home, and threatened with worse if a return visit were paid.

She wanted to know if it was within the range of possibility, or power to collect from her excitable husband enough to provide for her keeping. The Chief advised the young wife to return to her mate and make [illegible] and to go [illegible] would be forgotten.

Steel Rolling Mills Not For Peterborough

The Company Decides Not to Locate in This City—Ratepayers Asked Not to Vote for By-law To-morrow—What In [illegible] Company Has Its Decision to Leave the City.

The ratepayers of the city will have to vote on only one by-law to-morrow, that to [illegible] the Peterborough Steel Rolling Mills Company withdrawn, although it is still on the ballot slip.

This means that the Steel Rolling Mills will not locate in this city. A decision to this effect [illegible] was received on Saturday [illegible] the Chief [illegible] Mayor [illegible] D. O'Connell. [illegible] Accordingly the [illegible] will not be [illegible] to-morrow [illegible] to [illegible] any [illegible] to-day that the [illegible] endorsed [illegible] of any [illegible] not be [illegible] quash [illegible] by-law, [illegible] ignorance [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE ROLLING MILLS BY-LAW.

It will be with great regret that the progressive ratepayers of the city will read the announcement that they will not have an opportunity to vote effectively on the bylaw to provide money to purchase a site for the works of the Peterborough Steel Rolling Mills Company. The city dallied with the matter so long that another place has secured the location, the company having accepted another offer. This was decided at a meeting of the directors of the company on Saturday night, and consequently there will be no use taking a vote upon the bylaw to-morrow.

All over the province to-morrow, instead, we shall read of the humiliation of Peterborough — that a company organized in Peterborough, composed, very largely, of Peterborough citizens, has been practically frozen out of the city, and adopted by a more prompt competitor. If it had not been for the practically obstructive tactics of the head of the corporation, the buildings of the company, would, in all probability, have been built here by now. It will be remembered that two or three months ago, when the proposition of the company, came before the city council, Mayor Best took an attitude of practical hostility, or, if not hostility, what had the same effect. Under one pretext or another, the bylaw was blocked at the beginning, and hence all the delay that has lost Peterborough another new industry. If prompt and energetic action had been taken it would have been saved to the city. But in the interval, represented by the delay, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines and Welland, "got after" the company and, as a result, one of these places, which, it is premature for business reasons to specify, has secured the industry.

The loss of this prospectively important industry is bad enough in itself, but it becomes more serious since it argues a lack of enterprise on the part of our city authorities, which will tend to discredit the reputation of Peterborough as a manufacturing centre. Industries seeking location will be inclined to reason that Peterborough is not anxious to secure industries, and we may be passed by. After the experience in connection with the establishment of the carpet factory, this did not operate in the case of the Rolling Mills Company. The promoters, being citizens, argued that Peterborough would at least be loyal to local enterprise, but they were disappointed, and from the very source from which they should have received encouragement, they met hostility and obstructive tactics. If Peterborough is to realize her ambition to attract industries there must be a more liberal and friendly attitude assumed; there must be less delay; there must be more prompt action; there must be a greater display of business methods.

It may be complained that the directors of the company, have delayed a decision in the matter till the critical moment. The decision was arrived at without any possible delay—it was practically the first business done after the organization of the company, the meeting for this purpose have been held on Saturday evening.

The people will not be permitted to vote for the Steel Rolling Mills bylaw, but they should nevertheless go to the polls. The bylaw to authorized the expenditure of $1200 for the Rapid Tool Company is to be voted upon, and it should be supported because its adoption will, in some measure, compensate for the loss of the larger industry. The Rapid Tool Company does not ask much, and it promises to become a thriving industry if established here. There is a large demand for its products, and its success is pretty well assured. By the terms of the bylaw the company is required to erect buildings to cost $16,000, and to employ at the beginning twenty-five hands. To insure the carrying out of these conditions, the city will practically hold a mortgage upon the buildings and machinery of the company. A half loaf is better than no bread.

A SUCCESS.

It is stated that the Temiskaming and Northern Railway earned one-quarter of a million dollars last year over and above the cost of operating expenses. This is equal to 4 per cent. on a little over $6,000,000, and the portion of the railway under operation last year did not cost that amount. "In this case, at all events," says the Farmer's Sun, "public operation of a public utility has justified itself." This railway is a result of the forethought and enterprise of a Liberal Government which did not do much horn-blowing as to public ownership, but went on and built a railway in the interests of the development of New Ontario. A Liberal Government made an exploration of this part of the Province, with the result that its agricultural, mineral and timber wealth were revealed. As a natural consequence of public spirit and enterprise, the railway was projected and built. A Government which does things is preferable to an amount of academical theory.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A conference, which will take up seriously and discuss the matter of church precedence at state functions, suggests a reminder of the incident in Scripture of the manner with which our Lord dealt with a similar question.

Conservative papers are fond of sympathizing with Sir Wilfrid Laurier for his supposed political troubles and then suggesting that it is all his own fault for having too great a majority. There are doubtless, remarks the Montreal Herald, certain inevitable troubles about a large party majority anywhere; but for the Conservative party to blame Sir Wilfrid for them is something like the fire department laying the blame on the fire. It is the business of Oppositions to promote the interests of good government by opposing, and the party that ceases to do so has no one to blame but itself.

The Canadian Associated Press understands that a prominent Canadian, who recently endeavoured to secure one thousand Scandinavian labourers for work in Canada, asked permission of the Scandinavian authorities to advertise. He was informed that the first advertisement of such kind which appeared he would find himself in jail. The incident is significant, says the Brantford Expositor, as showing the difficulties of carrying on emigration work in Europe, and the occasion for the organization of just such companies as the mysterious North Atlantic Trading Company, whose operations occasioned so much discussion during the last session of the House of Commons.

NEW ASSESSMENT OF BRANTFORD

Brantford has been somewhat disappointed in the results of the assessment in the matter of population especially. There has been an increase of $800,000 in valuation of property, but a falling off of six hundred in population. The Expositor says:—

The returns of the civic assessment of Brantford for 1907 will be generally regarded as affording evidence of the honest effort of the new assessment commissioner and his associates to equalize values and get things on a proper basis. The aggregate increase in valuation is about $800,000, a larger increase than may be expected for some years to come unless the city makes an unexpected advance in population, but the comparatively few appeals show that the work has been equitably done.

There will, of course, be considerable disappointment that the population of the city does not show an increase. It is admitted that there has been a large increase, but it is claimed that this cannot be shown in the figures for the reason that the estimates of preceding years were loosely made and exceeded the truth. With this explanation we shall have to be satisfied, more especially as most people will agree with Mr. Thorburn's contention that it is better to get on a right basis than to continue an inaccurate system.

A COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE

Toronto News.—It is understood that the Government will shortly appoint a special commission to inquire into and investigate the conditions, conduct and operation of the various Provincial institutions for the education and care of the blind and the deaf and dumb. The commission is said to be the result of many requests for a full inquiry, coupled with the desire of the Government to place itself in close touch with existing conditions and the running of the institutions.

It is not improbable that Mr. A. J. Russell Snow, of the legal firm of Beaty, Snow & Nasmith, of this city, may be appointed by the Government as the special commissioner.

This may be regarded as a means of finding an excuse for the dismissal of some of the staff.

HOUSE CLEANING DEMANDED FOR I.O.F.

Hamilton Times.

The Union Trust company is subsidiary to the high court of the I. O. F., and was established mainly for the purpose of investing the suplus funds of the Order. This money is trust money. It is held in trust for many thousands of prospective widows and orphans. Such funds should be invested not mainly with a view to profit, but with a view to safety. None of this money should be used for speculative purposes. Millions of it have been so used. True, the speculations have resulted profitably. Many speculations do; but it is also true that the extent of the profits is usually proportioned to the risks taken. If the speculative transactions of the Foresters' trust company had proved unlucky, the Order would have lost heavily.

In at least one of these transactions there appears to have been not only risk, but rascality also. High Counselor Stevenson declared in his evidence before the commission that in a timber-limit deal the Order had apparently been swindled out of $55,000, the trust company having paid to a middleman that much more for the property than the middleman paid the seller.

It will be very strange if the disclosures which are being made at the insurance investigation do not have the effect of starting a movement in the I.O.F. which will not stop until there has been some vigorous and thorough housecleaning done.

THE FAIR.

Come to the Fair this morning,
Open with early ray!
Glue the arch of its awning,
Transforming with the day,
And stretching far away.

The graceful trees in chorus,
Are doning gala dress;
Even the beeches o'er us
Their gayety express
In amber loveliness.

The iron-wood, serenely,
Appears in gay maroon;
Adorned with graces, queenly,
Contented with the boon
That summer gave too soon.

The pine in soft deep fringes,
Is whisp'ring to the breeze,—
Perchance the flame that tinges
The royal maple trees
Is recognized. The foeman
Hangs out a banner bright
To challenge summer's right!

Yet music soft and tender,
That stirreth not the vines,
The singers quaintly render
In mellow matin chimes,
And words between the lines.

Across the broad Otonabee
Display'd in silv'ry sheen;
From pleasant heights of Monaghan
Behold the lovely scene
With green and bronze between!

The yearly fair in forest,
Remote from restless town,
Shows handiwork the rarest,
When leaves are turning brown,
And nuts are dropping down.

WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Quebec and One in Beauport, Que

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance, and the nature of their duties in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, tumors, ulceration, falling and displacements or perhaps irregularity or suppression, causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear easily the fatigues of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so tired she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

Mlle. Alma Robitaille, of 78 rue St. François, Quebec, Que., tells women how to avoid such suffering; she writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Overwork and long hours at the office, together with a neglected cold, brought on a very serious female trouble until finally I was unable to go to work. I then thought of a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when her health was in the same condition that mine was, and straightway sent out for a bottle. I finished that and took two more before I really began to improve, but after that my recovery was very rapid, and I was soon well and able to go back to work again. I certainly think your medicine for sick women worthy of praise, and am indeed glad to indorse it."

Miss Clara Beaubien of Beauport, Quebec, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For several years I have suffered with female trouble which has been a serious drain on my vitality, sapping my strength and causing severe headaches, bearing-down pains and a general worn-out feeling, until I really had no desire to live. I tried many medicines but did not get permanent relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In two months I was very much better and stronger, and in four months I was well, no more disagreeable discharge, no more pain. So I have every reason to praise the Vegetable Compound, and I consider it without equal for the ills of women.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and displacement with all its horrors will no more crush you.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing-down pains, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society—all symptoms of the one cause—will be quickly dispelled, and it will make you strong and well.

You can tell the story of your sufferings to a woman, and receive helpful advice free of cost. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for twenty-five years she has, under her direction and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

MELANCHOLY?

Can't even sleep—restless day and night, brooding over imagined troubles all the time. Your disease isn't in the brain, but in the blood, which is watery and thin, because you don't assimilate your food.

Do the right thing now and you'll be cured quickly. Just take Ferrozone; it turns everything you eat into nourishment. It puts new tone into the blood, quickens and vitalizes the worn-out nerves. The weary brain is relieved, sleeplessness disappears and brooding ceases.

FERROZONE

For health—vigor—spirits, try this grand food tonic—none better. It uplifts, braces, tones, makes you feel like new. Both old and young, male and female, derive unquestionable benefit from this grand medicine.

Arrival of Foreigners

—That Peterborough is becoming more cosmopolitan every day is evidenced by the increasing number of foreigners who come to this city. This morning two young Swedish women, the Misses Jannson, arrived at the G. T. R. station from London, England. They had been living in the English metropolis for the last five years but their home is in Seffla, Sweden. They intend going to the home of some of their friends near Graystock. They are typical Swedish women, which is saying sufficient.

An Innocent Prisoner

—A visitor to our town this week was curious enough to wish to see the new jail. When there he inspected the steel cells, and in his eagerness jumped down into one of the steel cages. Once in he had to do a lot of contriving and planning to get out. After his release he went into the jail yard, when he again found himself a prisoner, as he was unable to find his way out. After a time he was released, and went down town to see his friends, a sadder and wiser man.—Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

Found Body Of R. H. Hopkins

Mystery of Disappearance of Sturgeon Point Man Solved.

Lindsay, Sept. 30.—The body of R. H. Hopkins, who has been missing since Wednesday night last, was found floating this morning about four miles north of Lindsay, on the west shore of the Scugog River. Searching parties have been at work night and day since the finding of his empty launch, about half a mile from where his body was found, but were unsuccessful. During last night cribs of logs were towed up the river, and it is supposed that the body followed in the wake to where it was found by Luke Connors and his son, who were paddling in a canoe.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Oct. 1.—Developments over Sunday were not unfavourable to improvement, which took the form of specialty work in the market today. Increased engagements of gold had a good effect on sentiment, giving at the same time manipulators a more confident tone, they having established a good shortage after having eliminated the week long interest.

St. Paul, U.P., Reading, Copper, Atchison, Steels, and the Wisconsin Central issues made large gains with the remainder of the list advancing in sympathy. Factors that include politics are being watched carefully, but at this time nothing seems to stand in the way of specialty improvement, and the activity of the smaller pools is encouraging. We recommend that reasonable profits be not ignored. The market closed strong.

New Quarters For 'Bus Team

Improvements to the Snowden House Barns.

Edward McDonald, the well known and reliable driver for the Snowden House, is the proud possessor of new quarters for the 'bus team, of which he is in charge. The quarters referred to are situated in the bird house, which was formerly inhabited by the well known carrier pigeons belonging to Mr. Snowden, but which have been dispensed with, and are now the new quarters for the hotel 'bus team. The building has been remodelled and cement floors installed, making a stable that the genial "Teddy" may well be proud of.

Among other improvements contemplated, and which will be carried out before the snow flies, is the adding of an extra half-storey to the building so as to provide storage for fodder, hay, oats, etc. When these improvements are completed Mr. Snowden will have a horse-barn that is up-to-date.

Cough Lasted 3 Months.

"I was taken with a severe cough which lasted for three months, and though I tried all sorts of medicines they failed to do me any good. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and I was completely cured by two bottles." — Miss Ada O'Brien, Cape Cove, Gaspe Co., Quebec.

Your Eyes Show You What You See

Your sight tells you where you are. The vision cannot be overtaxed with safety. All eyes require spectacles sooner or later, and a large majority of those possessing sight would improve what they have if they used glasses. Generally speaking, unless the eyes are strengthened by glasses, they are apt to become weakened and any defects that exist are certain to increase by neglect. Lose no time in finding out whether you need glasses.

Vote For Rapid Tool By-law To-morrow

An Opportunity for the Ratepayers to Secure a Promising Industry—Will Employ Twenty-five Hands—A Good Business Proposition.

To-morrow the votes of the qualified electors of the city will be taken on the bylaw to assist the Peterborough Rapid Tool Company. This bylaw, if passed, will ensure to the city an industry which will employ at least twenty-five hands, and will spend $3,000 in a building and $16,000 for plant and machinery.

In return for this the city by the bylaw contracts to spend $1,200 for the purchase of a site for the Company's works.

By some dilly-dallying the city has lost the Steel Rolling Mills and it cannot afford to lose the Tool Company, which is a most promising industry. The Manufacturers' Committee has issued a circular urging the ratepayers to support this bylaw, and says in reference to it:—

"The Committee has no hesitation in recommending the passing of the bylaw. The industry is of the kind which employs only highly skilled and highly paid labour, and is such as it is very greatly to the interest of the city to secure. We cannot afford, in this period of great growth, and also of keen competition among the towns and cities of this province to lose any opportunity of strengthening our position as a leading manufacturing centre. There can be no question about the security which the city holds, in the event of the company not being successful."

The polls open at 9 o'clock, and close at 5 o'clock, and the subdivisions are as follows:—

Polling Subdivision Number One — M. H. Halpin's store, No. 89 George street. Deputy Returning Officer, Josiah Robinson. Poll Clerk, John R. Goodfellow.

Polling Subdivision Number Two — L. Spry's shop, No. 240 Stewart street. Deputy Returning Officer, Joseph Lundy. Poll Clerk, Thomas Corkery.

Polling subdivision Number Three — F. L. Robinson's No. 227 Charlotte street. Deputy Returning Officer, F. J. A. Hall. Poll Clerk, C J Seymour.

Polling Subdivision Number Four — the City Council Chamber. Deputy Returning Officer, R. W. Errett. Poll Clerk, T. B. McGrath.

Polling Subdivision Number Five — at store of A. J. Warne, Jr., No. 356 Charlotte street. Deputy Returning Officer, J. M. Greene. Poll Clerk, Henry Greene.

Polling Subdivision Number Six — J. & W. Metherul's shop, No. 464 Aylmer street. Deputy Returning Officer, J. R. Metheral. Poll Clerk, W. Metheral.

Progress Was The Feature Of The General Conference

Rev. J. G. Lewis Returned From the Methodist Gathering —West Asks for Progressive Legislation—Amusement Question Not an Issue.

Rev. J. G. Lewis, pastor of the Mark street Methodist church, returned to Peterborough on Saturday evening, after attending the conference of the Methodist church at Montreal, which concluded its labours on Saturday after a busy session of sixteen days. Rev. Mr. Lewis, when seen by the Examiner to-day, discussed the outstanding features of the gathering.

Almost the entire delegation, numbering 366, was present, and there were over 300 other visitors. The thing that struck him most forcibly was the note of progress sounded through the conference in all departments of the work. The western field was wonderfully progressive and the representatives strongly pressed for advanced movement. Although their requests were not all granted yet a reasonable compliance was made. They asked for three additional superintendents for the Sunday school and Epworth League work and two were granted. The westerners also were strongly in favour of the extension of the term on a circuit, some even going so far as to urge its abolition altogether. No change was made, with the exception of minor churches, where the term may be extended year by year, as long as the conference deems advisable.

The union movement received hearty and unanimous support but no definite step was taken.

With regard to the amusement question over which it was expected there would be a big debate, nothing was done except appointing a strong commission to investigate the matter and report at the next General Conference.

At the conference four years ago a general secretary for Temperance and Moral Reform was appointed and since that time the work has been so successful and urgent that it was considered necessary to appoint an assistant. This will be done by a committee of which Rev. Mr. Lewis is chairman, which will meet in Toronto on Tuesday next.

The most marked change after all, said Mr. Lewis, has been in the missionary policy of the Church which gives great promise of more effective work. The field is now divided into a Home and Foreign, and a general secretary has been appointed for each. At the Board meeting two associate secretaries will be appointed, and this with the superintendents of Missions, there will be five officers in charge.

"There were no great questions to draw out the debating qualities of the delegates but the general impression prevailed that the debating power was not inferior to that of other conferences."

Rev. Mr. Lewis paid a high tribute to the Rev. Dr. Carman, who presides at the conference.

The delegates were most hospitably entertained by the Methodists of Montreal, and were treated to a sail down the St. Lawrence, a trip that was greatly enjoyed.

Rev. Mr. Lewis occupied the pulpit of the Pontypool church yesterday.

CITY'S POPULATION HAS BEEN INCREASED BY 571

The assessor's returns, just completed for 1906, show that Peterborough has made an extensive gain in population during the year. The actual gain is 571. The figures are:—

1905—14,391."

The property assessed also shows an increase, the amount being $447,069. The assessment for 1906 was $7,988,412 and for 1905 was $7,541,343.

First Strangers' Tea of Season

A Good Attendance at Y.M.C.A. Tea Last Night.

The first monthly strangers' tea of the season was held at the Y.M.C.A. last evening, there being a large attendance of men from different points in Ontario and other places.

Mr. Harding presided. Many of the visitors spoke of the help that the Y.M.C.A. had been to them since coming to the city, and of the spirit of good fellowship generally.

The tea was provided by the ladies of the congregation of the Park Street Baptist Church.

Jack London and his new wife are to sail around the world in a forty-five foot boat, accompanied by only a cook and a cabin boy.

TORONTO PLEASED WITH RED FEATHER

After the lapse of two theatrical seasons, during one of which it was withdrawn altogether from the stage, "Red Feather," Reginald De Koven's melodious and colourful comic opera, was brought to the Princess Theatre last night for a week's engagement. The manner in which it was received by the large audience present was an indication that "Red Feather" is much too valuable a theatrical performance to lie idle for several seasons yet. In it Reginald De Koven has produced a score which is much the best of his later works in the light operatic line, while he has succeeded in a measurable degree in reproducing the spirit which made his "Robin Hood" and "Rob Roy" popular successes a dozen or more years ago. In few comic operas of recent years have there been apparent in so considerable a degree as in "Red Feather" the qualities of ambitious scope and artistic treatment. The book is by Charles Klein, whose latest play, "The Lion and the Mouse," was one of the unequivocal success of last season in New York.—Mail and Empire.

An Unusual Sunday Event

Man and Woman in a Wagon Attracted Much Attention.

A horse rushing madly down George street with a democrat, in which were seated a woman hanging on to the reins, and a man waving his hat and yelling like a Comanche Indian, was the unusual sight that awoke George street from its Sunday nap yesterday afternoon. The outfit turned Hunter street corner on two wheels and stopped in front of McKerober's livery, where an animated dialogue took place between the two interested parties. The man was very much under the influence of liquor, and did not want to let the woman out of the rig. This was finally accomplished, and then a friend in need got in with the man with the jag and drove off. Everything was serene when P. C. Meharry arrived on the scene. He was called by 'phone just before the episode ended. A big crowd collected around the holiday-making pair.

Rally Day At George St. Church

Large Attendance Present at the Methodist Church Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday was rally day at the George Street Methodist Church. The meeting in the afternoon was well attended. Rev. F. J. Scott, the pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, gave an address. He spoke upon the subject of Sunday School work, dealing with the subject in a general manner. Rev. E. Bowerman also addressed the assemblage upon the same subject. Both speakers in their remarks gave very good advice regarding Sunday School work, and helped to make the meeting very beneficial to those present.

The special music was very much enjoyed. Mrs. E. Kempt contributed a solo, as did Mr. Barber, while a duet by the Misses Hill was very well rendered.

The meeting was very successful, and will no doubt instil a greater enthusiasm in the members for Sunday School work.

"Endless Prayer Chain" Letters Received Here

They Recite a Prayer Which the Writers Ask the Recipients to Re-write to Nine Others—Letter From Rev. E. A. Langfeldt on the Subject—An Impious Practice.

The "Endless Prayer Chain" has appeared in Peterborough. To-day the Examiner was shown the following letter, which had been received by a gentleman in the city. It is self-explanatory:—

September 27th.

Endless Chain Prayer.

O Lord Jesus Christ, we implore Thee O Eternal God, to have mercy on all mankind; keep us from sin by Thy precious blood and take us to be with Thee eternally. Amen.

This prayer was sent by Bishop Lawrence, recommending it to be rewritten and sent to nine other persons. He who will not say it will be afflicted by misfortunes. One person who paid no attention to it met with a dreadful accident. He who will rewrite this prayer for nine days and distribute to nine others, commencing on the day it is received and sending only one each day will on or after the ninth day, experience great joy. At Jerusalem during the Holy Feast it was heard said He who will write this prayer will be delivered from calamity.

Please do not break this chain."

This was sent to me by a friend of mine in Western Ontario. I send it to you as it was sent to me.

It appears that others have received these letters, too, for in this morning's Mail, the letter which follows, written by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, was received at this office:—

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In a lengthy editorial the Mail and Empire recently called the attention of the public to a letter sent out by certain "pious" people, under the name of "Endless Prayer Chain". The letter referred to has appeared in Peterborough and is sent around for the purpose of getting others to circulate it. To my mind the "Endless Prayer Chain" is a thing that must have been beginningless, except as the freak of an unsound mind. It is a suggestion of the impious, for impious is not too strong a word to apply to one capable of so abusing a form of prayer. One cannot but wonder that devout people should be imposed on by a communication whose language is so coldly unChristian. It expects the recipient to copy and distribute the prayer as directed, promising a spiritual reward if he obeys, and levying a malediction upon him if he does not. It further says that this prayer was sent by the Bishop of Massachusetts recommending it to be rewritten and sent to nine other persons. The Bishop upon learning this, at once denied this as not only being utterly unworthy of the name of "prayer" but also as being contrary to the spirit of the Episcopal Church. All who have been or are parties to the sending of such letters should perceive that they have been humbugged by somebody who is possibly not altogether accountable for his actions, and all to whom such letters hereafter may make their way, should throw them into the fire. The nuisance should be deprived of its "endless" character without delay.

E. A. LANGFELDT.

Notice In Examiner Finds The Lost Man

Alfred Woodhead Wanted by Nephew in England Resides in Otonabee—Examiner Enquiry Discovers His Whereabouts—Knows Nothing About His Brother.

Within two hours after the press had stopped on Saturday evening, The Examiner was informed where Alfred Woodhead, who had not been heard from for a long time by his friends in England, was living.

About 7 o'clock Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine, who had just picked up a copy of The Examiner, telephoned to the office with the news that the gentleman wanted could be found by applying to Mr. Frederick Holmes, of the Dominion Express Company's office staff.

A reporter called on him this morning and was informed that Mr. Woodhead had once resided with him at 219 Carlyle avenue, East City, but is now in Otonabee Township. About two weeks ago he purchased a house from Mr. Jas. Rose, on the River road, Otonabee, about a mile from the Locks bridge, and resides with his brother-in-law, and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Moorhouse.

Mr. Woodhead has been in this country between 30 and 40 years, and during that time has not heard from his nephew, Kilner, of Lancashire, Eng., although a number of years ago Mrs. Moorhouse had written him, but received no answer.

In the letter which appeared in Saturday's Examiner, the writer wanted information of his father, Mr. Holmes, however, stated to the reporter that the Otonabee gentleman knew nothing of him, but believed that he was somewhere in Canada or the United States, and, of course, this information will be communicated to the anxious nephew in England.

This is but another proof of the advisability of advertising in The Examiner, which, in nine cases out of ten, is sure to bring results.

Convention To Be Held In Warsaw

Womens' Missionary Societies Will Meet There.

The annual convention of the Woman's Missionary Societies of the Methodist Churches in Peterborough district will be held on Thursday, October 4, in the Methodist Church, Warsaw. It is understood that a number of members of the societies in the local churches will attend the convention, and busses will be provided for that purpose. Addresses will be given by ladies from this city.

Happy Re-union In Local Home

Mr. Low United to His Family After Absence of Eight Years.

Mr. Low, of the firm of Low & Eisenberg, the Charlotte street junk dealers, is a very happy man. When he left Germany eight years ago to come to Canada, he was a newly married man, and leaving his young wife in her native town he came to this country to make his fortune. Mr. Low was successful and established a good paying business and some time ago determined to have his good wife with him to share in the fruits of his toil. As a result the 5.10 C.P.R. brought his better half to this city from her home in Zbaras, Germany, via steamer Montrose to Montreal. Great was Mr. Low's delight at having his wife with him after their long separation, but still greater was his surprise on seeing his little eight-year-old son. Of course he had heard all about him, but to be the father of such a fine boy, well that was adding the last straw to the load. Mr. Low's office was closed this morning as he was celebrating in a proper manner and who would blame him?

Peterborough Writer Defends Mr. Ed. Bok

Against Some Criticisms Offered in the Christian Guardian Says He Has a Great Constituency.

A writer from this city writes to the Christian Guardian defending Mr. Bok, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, against his critics. He writes as follows:—

Dear Sir,—As an appreciative reader of The Guardian, a paper that is generally moderate in criticism, I am rather surprised at the expressions used in critibizing the remarks of of the editor of The Ladies' Home Journal on the attitude of the religious press toward patent medicine advertisements.

Though a member of the sterner sex, I read The Ladies' Home Journal articles on public, social and moral questions. Any one who reads Mr. Bok's articles may think that he sometimes uses rather strong terms with a tendency to overstate the case (a common error of strong conviction,) but I cannot conceive of Mr. Bok as a man either "cheap" or "pharisaical." Like all earnest men, he may at times be over-zealous, but I think it belittles him to use these expressions in the article referred to. The Guardian can almost qualify for the notable exception" class, and as Mr. Bok is speaking of religious journalism in the United States, perhaps he has greater reason to use strong terms than we think.

I do no think religion, religious journalism, nor the ministry will suffer any injustice from Mr. Bok's pen. As a young man in contact with men of active thought and bright intellect, I think his article on young men and the church has very strong ground. Young men relish real religious thought and strong, manly expression of it.

Mr. Bok has a great constituency. He is using it well. He is doing a great public service, combating an evil second only to the saloon, an evil that enters the very heart of the home, even claiming the infant in its cradle. Such a service is a blessing to humanity, and our criticism of it should be such as will not minimize its good effect.

There may be, doubtless, are good patent medicines, but the traffic as as whole is an enormous evil, and the only course for journal or paper of high moral standing is to refuse all patent medicine advertisements.

Aged Sisters Use The 'Phone

Their Ages Respectively Were 92 and 95 years.

Quite a remarkable incident occurred at the head office of the Hastings Telephone Company, at Gilead yesterday, when Mrs. Julia Sills, of the fifth concession of Thurlow, aged 92 years, telephoned to her sister, Mrs. Allison of Big Island. Mrs. Allison is 95 years of age, and yesterday was her birthday. One can imagine the interesting conversation that took place between the two old ladies. Congratulations were the order of day from the Gilead end, in which Mrs. Sills hoped that her sister would live to enjoy many more years, and retain the same health she now enjoys. Both the old ladies are in excellent health and they had no difficulty in hearing each other.

Lindsay Wants Machine 'Phones

Board of Trade Passes Resolution to This Effect.

At a meeting of the Lindsay Board of Trade held on Friday night the telephone question was discussed, and a resolution was passed favouring granting a franchise to the Canadian Machine Telephone Company. Mr. F. D. Mackay was at the meeting as was also a representative of the Bell Company. The resolution which was passed unanimously was as follows:

Moved by Mr. J. D. Flavelle, seconded by Mr. W. A. Goodwin, that this meeting of the Board of Trade and citizens of Lindsay recommend the Council to grant a franchise to the Machine Telephone ompCany. — Carried.

New Offices Of Cereal Company

arge Building Situated to the West of the Mill.

The Peterborough Cereal Company have now their new office on Simcoe street completed and equipped in modern style. The building is built of cement brick and is connected by a solid brick wall with the mill to the east, but there are no passage ways across. It is 38 feet long by 22 feet in width, and contains two storeys. Under part of the upper is a driveway for teams going to the rear of the mill.

The interior of the building is lined with decorated metal, is well lighted and presents a bright and attractive appearance. There are two vaults, one in the basement and the other on the ground floor, each 7x5 feet, inside dimensions.

To erect the office the company purchased No. 3 lot from Miss Mills, which extends half way to Charlotte street, and they now own the property from Mrs. Dunsford's residence to the river.

Coal Oil Blocked Market Approach

Only One Case at This Morning's Police Court.

Only one case came before the Magistrate's vision this morning at the police court, and that was an important one.

Jas. Clancy was charged with obstructing the approach to the market building with a couple of oil barrels. Mr. Clancy stated that he had removed them on Saturday morning, having heard of a complaint the day before.

The Magistrate pointed out the danger in having such a place a storehouse for oil, and the charge was withdrawn.

Peterborough Cereal Co. Adds A Hominy Mill

Will Now Manufacture Corn Meal and Corn Flakes—In Operation by Middle of Month.

The Peterborough Cereal Company are again adding to their many industries. At present they are installing machinery—a Hominy Mill—to manufacture corn meal and corn flakes, the latter being somewhat of a novelty to the cooks of Peterborough. The company expects to have the mill in operation by Oct. 15th, with a capacity of 50 bbls. of corn meal and 70 cases of flakes per day.

The flakes are as fine as wafers and are produced under a pressure of 20 tons.

Mr. John Conover Was Honoured Before Leaving

Leamington Man Has Come to Reside in Peterborough—Was Given Brilliant Send-Off—What the Leamington News Says.

As referred to in Saturday's Examiner Mr. Jno. Conover, of Leamington, Essex County, has come to Peterborough to reside and to act as clerk in Mr. Adam Hall's store. Mr. Conover before leaving was presented with a gold engraved charm, accompanied by an address. The Leamington News is referring to the event says:—

Mr. John Conover's friends of the sportsmen's association and others to the number of 50, met Monday evening at the Erie House at a banquet in honour of Mr. Jno. Conover, who on Tuesday was to leave for his new home in Peterborough. The Mayor of the town was to have presided, but unfortunately was called away. The Council, past and present, was well represented in the person of Messrs. Swatman, Wm. Irwin and ex-Mayor Wigle, who kindly consented in Mayor Hughes' absence to act as chairman on the occasion. The bankers were represented by Mr. Watson and Mr. Maxon. Mr. Burrows was to have been present and was down for a speech, but was detained from coming. Messrs. Johnson and Mackay were present to represent thet own papers. Mr. Conover's former partner, Mr. Greenhill, and very many other leading business and professional men were on hand. Being a sportsmen's get up to a fellow sportsman of course the brethren were in full force. Quiet Charley Mann was everywhere doing everything, looing after everything and saying nothing. Fred Moss, Hez Milkens, Ed. Winter, C. Cullen, Dr. Jenner, Minnis Wilkinson, Tom Fleming and every other votary of rod and gun in town were in attendance. Mr. E .C Hickey represented the oil interests. Dinner was served in the handsome dining room of the Erie House and was one of the choicest ever put up in town and quite equal the chairman said to what the Waldorf Astoria would furnish at four times the price.

Mr. Lewis Wigle acted as chairman. He was in good form and his handling of the toast list was beyond all praise. As a chairman on a festive occasion of this kind of all the men we know Lewis Wigle is facile princeps. This is a hard name to give any man, but Mr. Wigle deserves it all. He is a speaker of great tact and infinite jest and his stories Monday night were well told and fitted in as exactly where he told them as if made on purpose. An address was read by the chairman, accompanied by the presentation by Miss Hyatt on behalf of the sportsmen, of a solid gold charm suitably engraved and on behalf of Mrs. Hyatt and other ladies of a magnificent bouquet.

After the reading of the address and the making of the presentation Mr. Conover responded. He was somewhat upset but managed to express himself in such a way as to appeal to the hearts of his audience.

This closed a season of great fun, fine feed, geniality and good will which went on without a hitch or discordant note from start to finish.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

WESTMINSTER GLEE SINGERS

The reputation which the Westminster Glee and Concert party have won during their recent world tours, should be sufficient guarantee that those who go to hear this unique body at the Grand Opera House, on Friday, Oct. 5th, are not likely to be disappointed.

A feature which will undoubtedly prove of popular interest is the appearance of the solo soprano boys, who are said to rank amongst the most celebrated boy soloists in England.

These little lads have received their musical education at the London College of Choristers, where especial training is given in the particular class of music which they have come from England to regale us with.

The company has a repertoire of over 100 pieces all of which are sung from memory, and during their series of concerts here, a change of programme will be made nightly.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Rally Sunday At Mark Street

Mr. G. H. Williamson Spoke at Sunday School Yesterday.

Mr. Geo. H. Williamson, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., was present and addressed Mark Street Sunday School yesterday afternoon on the occasion of their annual rally. There was a special programme for the occasion, and a few brief remarks by the superintendent, Mr. M. W. Matobett, who referred to the work of the past year, and the prospects and hopes for the future. In addition to the regular attendants there were a number of visitors present.

A pleasing vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. Payne and Mr. Miller. In connection with the programme, much valuable and interesting information was given along missionary and other lines of church work.

The school meets regularly at 2.45 p.m., and all are cordially invited.

Festival At Stewart's Hall

Services Were Held in Otonabee Yesterday.

The Harvest Festival in connection with the Church of England services at Stewart's Hall, was held yesterday, and the hall was crowded with a thankful congregation. The hall had been prettily decorated with emblems of the harvest field. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt preached from Isa. ix, 3, "They joy before Thee according to the joy of harvest." Mr. J. L. Armstrong, organist at St. Luke's, presided at the organ. The next service will be held on Nov. 4, 1906.

Will Soon Finish Their Contract

For Filling in of Cut Between C.P.R. Siding and City.

Conroy & Sons, who have the contract for filling in that section of the Otonabee between the C.P.R. siding, south of Hunter street and the city will have completed his share by the middle of the month. The Peterborough Cereal Company who have also a portion to fill in will begin immediately after the other has been completed, so that in time access will be obtained from Simcoe street to the C.P.R. tracks.

THE HAIR BRUSH

Breeds Dandruff, Which Causes Falling Hair and Finally Baldness.

Prof. Unna, Hamburg, Germany, European authority on skin diseases, says that dandruff is as contagious as any other malevolent disease, and that one common source of the spread of dandruff is the use of the same hair brush by different persons. The way to avoid catching dandruff or any other disease from another's brush is to insist on the use of Newbro's Herpicide. It not only kills the dandruff germ, but it is also an antiseptic that will prevent the catching of any disease whatever through contagion of another's brush. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

New Zealand Exhibition; Low Rates

To the many attractions of New Zealand as a tourist and pleasure resort is this year added that of the International Exhibition, to be held at Christchurch, the second city of the colony, from November, 1906, to April, 1907.

Canadian products will be much in evidence, and it is expected that a large number of Canadians will take this opportunity of visiting "Maori-land," that interesting country of which most people have heard so much, and in reality know so little. Mark Twain's opinion that New Zealand was "somewhere near Australia, and you get over to it by a bridge," is shared by the great majority, who have never experienced the steady steaming across the wide Pacific necessary to "bridge" New Zealand and her big neighbour. The democratic government, unique and progressive legislation, state controlled industries, from railways to coal mines, have made New Zealand so well known, as has her natural beauty, it hot lakes and geysers, outrivalling the Yellowstone, its lovely semi-tropical bush, with graceful palms, and tree ferns, and gorgeous wild orchids everywhere, its majestic fiord scenery and its lofty snow-clad Alps, all of which truly need to be seen to be appreciated. The climate is certainly the best to be found south of the line, and as the exhibition, from November to April, covers the best of the summer months, visitors need not fear bad weather. If you have never contemplated a trip to the Southern Seas, "do it now"—this is a good opportunity.

Special reduced rates for the exhibition are offered by the Canadian Pacific Railway, with its ocean connection, the Canadian-Australian line of Royal Mail steamers. Through rates from Toronto, right to Port Lyttelton, N. Z., and return, are $418.90 first class throughout; and $348.90 first class rail and second on steamer; tickets good sailing from Vancouver, on October 12th, Nov. 9th, December 7th, 1906, Jan. 4th and Feb. 1st, 1907, good to return to Vancouver within six months. These steamers call at Honolulu, and passengers can tranship at Suva, Fiji, if they wish, instead of reaching New Zealand, by way of Sydney, N. S.W. Splendid accommodation is provided with a fine table and attendance, and at this time of the year a smooth passage is a certainty. Further particulars and literature gladly furnished upon application to C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C. P. R., Toronto.

WEDDING BELLS

THOMPSON–ROBERTS.

The marriage of Miss Mamie Roberts, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Roberts, to Mr. Edwin John Thompson, of Toronto, was celebrated at 6.30 Wednesday evening, at Bond Street Congregational Church, Toronto, by Rev. J. B. Silcox. The bride, who was a member of Bond street choir for some years, wore a beautiful gown of cream silk net over cream silk, trimmed with very dainty lace; also a veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white roses with smilax to the bottom of skirt. The bride was attended by Miss Amanda Ferguson, of Toronto, who wore a dainty gown of silk muslin over pale blue silk, and carried a large spray of pink roses and ribbon and smilax. The pretty little flower girl was Miss Muriel Ryan, who wore white Valenciennes lace over blue silk and carried a basket of pink roses. Mr. Alex. Thompson, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome china cabinet, and a hoop of pearls to the bridesmaid, and one whole pearl ring to the little flower girl. Mr. W. Staples, organist of Bond street church, played the wedding march, and Mr. Gordon Wright, cousin of the bride, sang "O Promise Me." Both gentlemen were presented with whole pearl pins. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, with over 45 guests, sat down to a wedding breakfast at the bride's home and a very pleasant evening followed. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will live on Spencer avenue, Parkdale. The bride received over one hundred gifts.

Catholic Census During This Week

Members of St. Peter's T. A. S to Make Special Effort to Enroll Members.

The members of St. Peter's T.A.S. intend making an extra effort to swell their ranks during the month of October. A similar effort was made during May with very good results as over 100 new members were gained for the society. The effort this month should be equally productive of good results and a larger number of new members should be enrolled. Yesterday twenty-one new members joined the society which seems to be a good omen.

Beginning with this week a census will be taken of all the Roman Catholics in the city. It is some time since such a census has been taken and there have been many members of the church located in the city during the past years. Thus it is not known exactly how many Catholics are at present in Peterborough.

About the latter part of December a Bazaar will be held for the benefit of the mother house of the sisters of St Joseph. This as is well known is located in Peterborough and beyond a small sum received from the few convents of this order throughout the diocese and the money received for teaching in some of the city separate schools the nuns have to depend upon the members of the church. For the purpose of giving the people an opportunity of supporting these good sisters who devote their lives to caring for the sick in St. Joseph Hospital receiving no remuneration and those who teach the children for very low salaries in the schools, is the object of the bazaar. It is hoped that those who can assist in any way in making the bazaar a success will do so.

Yesterday In City's Churches

ST. PAUL'S

The Elizabeth Bell Home Missionary Auxiliary will meet to-night at 8 o'clock. To-morrow night the reception to members will be held. The Young Men's Guild will also meet on Tuesday night.

On Wednesday night the weekly prayer meeting will be held.

On Thursday night the regular meeting of the Board of Managers will be held.

The Ladies' Aid Society meets on Friday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock.

ST. JOHN'S.

There were good congregations at both services yesterday. At the offertory at Matins, Mr. Jos. Halpany sang with good effect, "The Great White Throne." The evening service was entirely choral. The solo at the offertory was exceptionally excellent. Mrs. Eardly-Wilmott sang Ambrose's setting of "Abide with Me," and in a most thoroughly satisfying manner. She was in splendid voice, and in addition to seizing the devotional spirit of the composition, she sang with an artistic finish, justness of expression, and an exquisite taste, which she, or few, if any, who have sung the selection in Peterborough, has never surpassed.

GEORGE STREET.

Yesterday's services at George Street Methodist Church were equally as good, if not better, than the previous three Sundays during which the Rev. Elwood Bowenman, of Victoria College, Toronto, has been taking the pastor's, Rev. W. J. Crothers' duties. A fitting climax to his stay in Peterborough was his effort in the evening, on the subject of "Too Late," in which his very earnest, common-sense adaptation of the above text held the undivided attention of the very large congregation from start to finish. It is not too much to say that Rev. Mr. Crothers obtained a very devout and earnest young man to fill his appointments during his stay at Conference—and one who is destined to sway large audiences by his masterly oratory. The many friends he has made during his stay, while regretting his departure, wish for him continued showers of blessing in the work he has chosen.—Com.

Admitted To Membership

In Brotherhood of St. Andrews at St. Lukes.

At the services last night at St. Luke's a large congregation was present. The rector preached on St. Andrew, bringing his brother, St. Peter, to Christ, from the text, St. John i. 40.42. After the sermon two young men were admitted to membership in the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. They took their vows at th altar and were received by the rector.

The meetings during this week are as follows:

Monday evening, a meeting of the Girls' Auxiliary at eight o'clock.

The Men's Guild will meet in the Guild room for practice on Tuesday at 8 o'clock.

The W. A. meets on Thursday at 2.30, and choir practice will be held on Thursday evening at 8.

The opening meeting of the Mission Band will be held on Friday at 4.15 p.m. Mrs. W. J. Scott, the superintendent, requests that a large number of girls may be present to enter upon the season's work for Missions.

Next Sunday a Sunday school service will be held in the church at 3 o'clock.

It is suggested that a room lined with mirrors in every house will be of great advantage in teaching the English girl to be graceful.

An East City Dog Goes Mad

Was Shot This Morning By the Owner.

A mad collie dog, belonging to a Mark street, East City, resident, was shot this morning by the owner, before any damage was done.

Yesterday the canine, which has been kept closed in the stable, for some time, showed some signs of mental aberration, and when let loose made a dash for one of the occupants of the residence.

He was captured just in time, and this morning was killed.

A Cold Dip In The Otonabee

South End Residents Could Not Manage Big Fish.

Messrs. Fred Newhall and Ernest Saunders, of the South End, are perhaps the last to take the "unexpected dip" in the cool waters of the Otonabee. They have, however, a good story to tell of their unique experience.

The other day they went fishing and hooked on to a monster large. In their desperate efforts to land the prize the canoe was tipped. Mr. Saunders was fastened for a time in the mud opposite the clay banks. The gun was lost, and the young men were forced to dive in order to regain it. They arrived home with the temperature of their bodies considerably lower than when they set out on their eventful expedition.

Peterboro' Won Their First Senior Contest

Defeated the Victorias in Toronto on Saturday by 17-7 in a Game in Rain—Team All Showed Up Well—Hamilton Tigers Here Saturday.

The Peterborough rugby team got away to a good start on Saturday afternoon and incidentally showed that senior company was their class, when they defeated the Victorias in Toronto by 16-6 in a game played in the rain. The score at half time was 5-1 in favour of the Victorias, but the Peterborough twelve were stayers and put the Indian sign on the last half, that following, up by the swing line being responsible for most of the scores.

The conditions were not favourable to first-class rugby, but some good playing was done. Mulhern contributed the feature play when he got the ball at his own line and ran it back 50 yards through a broken field. Crowley played middle swing, and his work was magnificent throughout. All the team showed up splendidly. McWilliams' punting in the second half could hardly have been improved upon. The team looks decidedly good, and Saturday's game with the Hamilton Tigers will be, without doubt, the most exciting struggle on the gridiron ever seen in Peterborough.

A Toronto despatch says of the game:

The rugby season opened in Toronto on Saturday, when Peterborough downed the Victorias 16-6 in the first game of the O.R.F.U. senior series, before a small crowd. The half-time score was 5-1 in favour of the local team, but a fumble pass, which allowed the visitors to score a try early in the second half, served to dishearten the Vics., who were thereafter almost constantly on the defensive. The back division, which had been playing a remarkably steady game, considering the boggy going and the slippery ball, was shelled during the rest of the game, to go up in the air at critical moments, and the Peterborough wings seemed to freshen, following up in good style, and making things decidedly too interesting. A muffed punt behind the line gave another touch, and a succession of rouges made up a total of 16 points.

Peterborough won the toss and took the choice of ends, kicking north. At the kick-off the Vics started out like winners. It was soon seen that the visitors were outclassed in punting, and the local backs took full advantage of their superiority in the first half. Tilgiskin travelled persistently into Peterborough territory, and the initial tally was soon made on McWilliams being tackled behind the line by McWhirter. Gillespie was similarly nailed by Killaly soon after, and then Ford was compelled to rouge, making the score 3-0. Capt. Gowans, of the Vics, dropped a pretty goal from about the quarter mark, but the whistle had blown for an off-side, and the score wasn't allowed. However, a place kick by him soon after netted two points. Score 5-0.

The play continued at the Peterborough end till close to half-time. Vics were playing aggressively, Holden, the American college player; Barber and Mack being especially conspicuous on the wing line. The visitors' goal line was often threatened, but the backs were playing a safe game, and the attacks were staved off, till finally Crowley worked in a fine 25-yard run up the side of the field, carrying the ball almost for the first time into Vics' territory. It was lost on downs about 20 yards out, but on a punt a little later Gowans was brought down behind the line. The whistle blew with the score 5-1 for teh home team, in the midst of a driving rain.

The rain continued to pour as the second half commenced. Vics were playing up field, facing wind and rain. However, within a minute Gillespie was forced to rouge on a punt, well followed up, and the visitors had five points to make up. They livened up and pressed. Crowley, who played a fine game all through, swooped up a pass to McWhirter from Tooze, and was over for the first try of the game, carrying the ball toward the posts. McWilliams kicked an easy goal, and Peterborough was in the lead by 7 to 6.

It was the home team's turn to be on the defensive now. Tooze tried a punt, nearing the goal line, and was blocked. McWhirter being forced to kick into safety. Tooze was sent off a few minutes later for assault Referee Barr, and for the rest of the game Vics played a man short. Killaly couldn't handle a pass from McWhirter cleanly, and had to rouge. Soon after Crough bounced on a ball, fumbled also by Killaly, and the score was 14 to 6.

The goal was not converted. Vics added a tally, when Mulhern rouged and soon afterwards the Vics let the full-back get away for a 50-yard run, the best individual dash of the day. Gillespie worked in another for 5 yards, and McWhirter was tackled by Crough for another point. The scoring ended when Killaly kicked into safety, and the game ended at midfield, with the score 16 to 7.

Referee "Biddy" Barr had little occasion to discipline the players. Apart from Tooze the penalties were slight. The game was a clean one, marked by a few delays owing to slight injuries received by players. The Vics showed need of training.

For the home team, Holden, Barber, Mack and Morris played well on the swing, and Hewitson did good work at quarter. The backs pretty much on a par, all doing well in the first half, and inclining to be erratic afterwards.

For Peterborough, Mulhern, Crowley, Crough, McWilliams and Hurtubise were best.

The teams were:

Peterborough (16)—Back, Mulhern; halves, McWilliams, Gillespie, Ford; quarter, Easton; scrap, Hurtubise; inside wings, Craig and Regan; middle, Maher and Crowley; outside, Gilbert and Crough.

Victorias (7)—Back, Tooze; halves, Killaly, Gowans, McWhirter; quarter, Hewitson; inside wings, Palmer, Mack; middle, Holden, Chamberlain; outside, Munns and Barber.

Referee, A. F. Barr, Toronto.

Peterboro' Men On Winnipeg Team

Burnham and "Reddy" Lamont to Play There.

The Winnipeg Free Press says:—Dick Kenny will probably play inside wing instead of quarter this year for the Rowing Club. Of the new men secured, the best is undoubtedly Burnham, the big scrimmage man of last year's champion Toronto Varsity team. So far the Pegs' material seem to run largely to the back field, and there is a shortage for the forward line, but several of last year's men who have not been out, are expected at the next practice. "Reddy" Lamont of Toronto has turned out with Pegs, as has also Jim Hewitt.

Rugby Team To Practice In Rink

All Senior Players Wanted Out To-night.

The Peterborough rugby team will practice to-night at 7.30 o'clock in preparation for the big game on Saturday with the Tigers. The dressing rooms will be heated so that the players may dress in comfort. It is important that all senior players should be out to-night and at all practices during the week as they will have to be in best of condition to have a chance with the terrible Tigers.

Hamilton Tigers Here On Saturday

Best Game in History of Rugby in Peterborough.

The best rugby game ever played in Peterborough will be the contest between the Hamilton Tigers and the Peterborough Seniors on Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park. The biggest crowd in the history of the game here will be on hand for this struggle in view of the great reputation of the Tigers who have not lost a game for three years and who have been thrice champions of the senior O.R.F.U. series. Peterborough have not been defeated in two seasons and the game will be a battle of the giants. The Hamilton team are confident of winning, but those who have watched the locals at practice know that it will take a great team to beat them.

Egypt is the only country in the world where there are more men than women. The males exceed the females by 160,000.

First Entries For Examiner Race

E. V. Morphett and W. McBurney Have Filed Entry Papers.

To-day the first entries for the Examiner road race, on Thanksgiving Day were received. Mr. E. V. Morphett and Mr. Wm. McBurney, of Havelock, were the first to fill in the entry blanks in the Examiner of Saturday and signifying their intentions of competing in the race, on October 18th. There are a number of members of the Y.M.C.A. who are going to enter, but they have not filed their entry yet. The prospects are that there will be a big field.

Lindsay Golf Team Winner

Defeated Peterboro' on Friday by 15 Up.

The Lindsay golfers turned the tables on Peterborough's strong team yesterday on the Lindsay links, finishing 15 up all round. Mr. Geo. Little made the highest single score, doing the whole round in 38, while the card of Mr. R. Nicholls his opponent, showed 39. Mr. Rea Boss also made it in 39. These three exceptional scores, and Mr. Little has the credit of being the first to publish a 38 score on the Lindsay links, Lindsay Post.

ALL SENIORS SHOULD BE OUT TO-NIGHT

The following players are asked to be out in uniform for the practice to-night:—Poe, Crowley, Bush, Regan, Hurtubise, Meagher, Easton, Mulhern, Ford, Gillespie, Carnegie, Crough, Craig, McWilliams, Lafferre, Gilbert, McWilliams, Quinlan, Dee, McGrath.

RUGBY

The public will not be admitted to the practices for two reasons, the significance of which it is hoped the supporters of the team will realize. In the first place the rink becomes crowded with small boys who make such a noise that the players can hardly hear the signals. Then there is the danger that friends of outside teams may learn the signals, which would be disastrous to the team's chances.

It looks as if the City League were going to fall through unless the Bankers can see their way clear to enter a team. The C.C. and Quakers are both willing to play, but a league with two teams is no winner. The only hope of seeing a good league in existence lies in the Bankers may organize a team.

• • • •

The Bankers have decided to enter the Rugby City League. They will hold a meeting at 8 o'clock this evening for organization purposes.

HOCKEY

Picton is hockey crazy this season. Junior will be its limit.

• • • •

Lindsay will be hot after the junior O.H.A. championship honours this year.

• • • •

Mercer, the clever cover point, of last year's championa Port Hope juniors, will this year figure on the Guelph junior line up. Mercer will prove quite an acquisition to Guelph.

• • • •

The Lindsay Post says:—Mr. Gamble the clever goal keeper, who defended the net for the champion Ontario's of Port Hope last year, was in Lindsay yesterday. He would like to remain here for the hockey season, but Lindsay has "Bill" Newton, and what better would you want. He was the whole cheese last year.

Backyard To Peterborough

This is What H. J. Lytle, of Lindsay, Says.

Mr. H. J. Lytle, of Lindsay, writing to the Post of that town in connection with the Firemen's Relief Fund, worked by Mr. Laselle, who was in Peterborough some weeks ago, says:

Now, Mr. Editor, one of the reasons of my writing this first letter was that on that day I got hold of a copy of another advertising scheme. "Peterborough and Lindsay Industrial Edition." I looked over it and found Lindsay showing as a kind of back yard to Peterborough. I estimated that the cost of these advertisements and the scheme under discussion meant about $500 taken out of Lindsay merchants.

An Accident At Young's Point

Mr. Wm. Lane Has Narrow Escape From Serious Injury

What might have been a serious accident occurred on Thursday morning on the farm of Mr. Wm. Lane, Young's Point. Mr. Lane whilst engaged in ploughing stopped to speak to Mr. J. W. Stuart, when the team ran away, dragging Mr. Lane on to a stone pile. He escaped with a severe cut on the upper lip and a number of painful bruises.—Lakefield News.

A Street Fight Brings Blood

Police Officer Soon Scatters the Crowd of Bystanders.

A pugilistic encounter which attracted a fair share of the wandering population of the city on Saturday evening occurred to the rear of the office of a local evening contemporary. Two Nassau youths who had imbibed too much from the golden goblet during the day thought they had something to quarrel about and a little blood was spilt.

P. C. Newell's presence on the scene cast a shadow on their aspirations and dispersed the crowd.

The young men will probably have to explain their conduct in police court some day.

Where the People Dined

The town hall of Lakefield was secured by the ladies of the Baptist church and used as a dining room. Both dinner and supper were served to visitors and a large number patronized the popular spot.

Altogether the exhibition under the auspices of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Agricultural Society, was an unqualified success and the officials have every reason to congratulate themselves on their efforts.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

It was regretted that there were so few special exhibits at the Lakefield fair. The village merchants did not show any enterprise in this respect—not one of the number having made a display of any kind. It is to be hoped that next year they will be more loyal to their local fair, and support all such undertakings gotten up in the interests of their growing village.

EMPIRE CREAM SEPARATOR

The local district agent, Mr. Fred J. Doughty, exhibited the Simplex Cream Separator, which was shown in the new main building, where it attracted the attention of the crowds of farmers who passed in and out. The improved, friction less Empire Separator, as it is called, gives a guarantee that both as to skimming qualities and durability of its mechanical parts, it will yield the most dollars to the farmer. It is made in six sizes, varying in price from $60 to $150. By the recent introduction of new ball bearings the labour of turning has been reduced to a mere fraction. Important new changes in the bowl have also greatly increased the capacity, and it skims more easily, more rapidly and more closely.

Samples of the Empire can always be seen at A. E. Micks' store, Hunter street, and at Mr. Fred Doughty's residence, No. 9 Westcott street, Peterborough.

GRAFTON'S CLOTHING

After passing through the main building, and having admired the ladies' work; looked at the fruit, pumpkins, loaves of bread, butter and grain, the visitor was attracted by the striking clothing display made by the Messrs. Grafton & Co., Limited, of Peterborough. The representatives of this firm evidently had made an early start on the morning of the fair, and secured their "preferred position," right in the line of procession to the grounds, and close to the busy exit from the main building. They had a trial blazed to the fair with brilliantly painted bulletins and colored show bills, depicting the high-grade character of their union-made clothing. Their striking banners were on the buildings, fences, sheds, and grandstand, around the paddock and in every conceivable place. It certainly was a red letter day for Grafton & Co., as the 1,500 people on the grounds must have plainly seen.

Grafton & Company's "High Grade" is a guarantee of excellence in every garment. In their comprehensive exhibit of fall and winter clothing, the union label was also in evidence, showing that the union tailors who make their clothing are paid union wages, and do their work better and under more favourable conditions. They showed samples of their "Kenwood" suits, with loose-fitting backs, and their "Goodwood" suits, in their form-fitting effects.

Long loose fancy tweed Chesterfield overcoats were also shown; and others in dressy black cloths, with silk facings and linings. A smart "topper" for young men in herring-bone stripe, attracted the eye of good dressers, as well as a number of nobby Scotch tweed garments in the latest fancy stripe and check materials, cut in the new fashions.

Boys' clothing was shown in pretty Buster Brown suits in cardinal serge with black silk tie, and brass buttons, and in corduroy cloth, also trimmed with brass buttons and oil-leather belt. Quite a new and most novel feature in connection with Grafton's exhibit, which drew large crowds, was an amusing performance by two Columbia graphophones, under the direction of Mr. Charles Munden, Peterborough.

The representatives of the firm, who had charge of the exhibit, were Mr. Herb Conway, Mr. A. W. Gordes, and Mr. Robert Howland. During the afternoon the popular manager of the Peterborough store, Mr. W. Conway, was on the grounds, smilingly fraternizing with the customers of the store.

Grafton & Company offered three special prizes at this fair, for the best three teams of general purpose horses, the horses, harness and wagon to be counted in awarding the prizes. The first prize was a $6 tweed suit; the second a $2.50 pair of worsted pants; and the third a $1.50 pair of tweed pants. It was also learned that the firm very generously sent the agricultural society a cheque for $10, as a donation on behalf of their new buildings, etc.

LANG & MAHER ARE "IT."

Another aspiring firm from Peterborough, who are hot-foot after the clothing business of this section, is Messrs. Lang & Maher, the "Daylight Clothiers," of 409-411 George street. The men "who do things," are always coming to the front, and Lang and Maher are getting there at an auto-pace. Realizing that genuine merit, accompanied with hard, industrious work, and specializing, will help in the strenuous struggle of securing a share of trade, this firm has already demonstrated their abilities as clothing hustlers.

Lang & Maher's artistic exhibit at the fair, was certainly deserving of all the praise received. Right at the entrance to the grounds, where the crowd mostly congregated, they put up an exhibit of clothing which was a novelty in that line. They have originated a special tent composed of an adjustable structure of decorated wood and white canvas, in something of a colonial design, highly creditable to their "daylight" ingenuity. Inside this picturesque marquee they made a display of their "Sovereign Brand," "Fit-rite" and "Northway" clothing that did them splendid credit. There was a style individually to to their garments that is sure to appeal to the taste of men, youths and boys. Scotch tweed suits at $18, were displayed, also fine imported worsted suits at $18 and $20, and business suits at $12. These were shown in both the loose-fitting and form-fitting backs. Samples of overcoats were seen in fine gray vicuenas at $14.50; fawn whipcord "toppers" at $12; Cravenette raincoats at $10. Norfolk suits for boys of 12 years, made in the Huston tweeds, at $7, were very much admired, as were a number of other smart juvenile suits for smaller boys.

What contributed much to the publicity of Lang & Maher's exhibit was the extraordinary number of advertising features displayed all over the fair grounds. Their palace travelling car occupied a position in the centre of the race track. Many expensively painted sign-boards decorated the available points of vantage, which must have supersaturated the visitor with the firm's business and methods. Mr. Lang himself was here, there and everywhere, shaking hands with the farmers at the rate of four a minute. His assistants in charge of the exhibit were Mr. Geo. Tooley and Mr. Alf. Kingscote, who were busy explaining the merits of their clothing and handing out advertising souvenirs. This firm also donated a special prize of $5 to the exhibitor receiving the largest number of points in prizes—1st prize to count three; 2nd prize to count two, and 3rd prize to count one.

THE WEATHER

The nights are becoming quite cold, and this morning thin ice was to be seen on little pools of water, etc. The thermometer during the night was down to 29 degrees. This is the first occasion this fall below the freezing point, and is about a week later than the usual first ice-forming temperature.

Sewer To New School To Be Constructed By Day Labour

City Engineer's Tender Was the Lowest of Four—Cost Per Foot Will be 82 Cents—Abutments of Charlotte Street Will be Built This Fall--Bridge Will be Re-planked.

Before the Council meeting last night the Board of Works held a meeting and dealt with a few important questions, tenders being opened for the construction of the sewer connecting the new South Ward School, and a decision being arrived at in connection with the erection of the Charlotte street bridge.

The first matter which the Board attended to was the opening of the tenders for the construction of the sewer on Romaine and Aylmer streets, which connects the new South Ward School, the contract being awarded to the City Engineer, and it will therefore be constructed by day labour. The tenders ranged in price from 82c per foot to $1.23 1-2, the Engineer's figures being the former and the cheapest of the four.

The following were the tenderers and their prices:

J. Robson, $1.23 1-2 foot; street connections, each $20.

J. E. Hayes, 93c foot; street connections, $17.

R. Sheehy, $1.23 foot; street connections, $16.50.

City Engineer, 82c foot; street connections, $11.25.

Moved by Ald. Adams and Elliott, that the Engineer be authorized to construct the sewer.—Carried.

Charlotte Street Bridge

A report from the City Engineer in reference to the advisability of placing a concrete top on the Charlotte street bridge was next read by the chairman. He advised that it would be impracticable to build the top with concrete as the ice and spring freshets would be detrimental to this. He did, however, believe that it would be practicable to build the abutments this fall, and as he had considerable plank on hand he advised that it be re-planked this fall also.

Hill & Co., the contractors for the steel superstructure, reported at a past meeting of the Board that it would be impossible for them to go on with their work until next year.

On motion of Ald. Johnston and Elliott, it was decided to follow the Engineer's report.

Phases Of Missionary Work In South China

Mr. Walter Oldfield Writes to Friend in the City Telling of His Work in That Empire—Much Success Attends His Work in the Interests of Missions.

Mr. George W. Stenton has recently received an interesting letter from South China, written by Mr. Walter H. Oldfield, who left here some time ago to enter missionary work in that Empire. It will be read with interest by his many friends in this city. It is reproduced herewith:

South China, Aug. 10, '06.

"They shall abundantly utter the memory of Thy great goodness."

This verse has a peculiar fitness at the head of this letter, for as I review the Lord's leading during the last few months my heart is full of praise. "Surely goodness and mercy has followed me all my days," and my heart re-echoes the song of the Psalmist, "Blessed be the Lord, who daily loadeth us with benefits."

When I returned to Ping-Loh, after the Lien-Cheo massacre, I was appointed by the executive committee to go with Bro. Farmer and open Lien-Cheo to the Gospel. This is the city that was in rebellion two years ago, and which caused so many public executions at Ping-Loh, as the outlaws were caught and brought there for execution. Now, however, everything seems peaceful, and it was thought that this was the time to go. As we had no Chinese helper to go with us, I was asked to go with Bro. Cunningham on an itinerating trip over the mountains among the aboriginal tribes who live in the north-west of this province. We were away for nearly a month, and had blessed opportunities of witnessing with varied experiences, of which I would tell you, but it was decided at conference that extracts from our reports be collectd and printed in tract form; so instead of writing an account of it now, I will wait and send you a printed tract. Then you will have the advantage of hearing from others, as well as from me.

On reaching Ping-Loh, after my long itinerating trip, I found that God's plans never conflict, for although I had been away somewhat longer than I expected, yet on returning found the work going on as usual, with still no native preacher to go with us to open distant Lin-Cho to the Gospel, and no definite word from Wuchow as to when we should go. However after spending two weeks studying and getting some Chinese characters written ahead, one bright morning Mr. Lin appeared, and two days later found us with our things packed up, and travelling towards the city which had been on our hearts so long. When we left Ping-Loh we were accompanied by two soldiers, but as day after day went by our guard was increased, until on the morning of May 11th, we were led into the city by five noble braves.

We at once went to a Chinese inn, where we rented a dirty room on the ground floor, large enough for our two Chinese helpers and ourselves. The walls and ceiling were daintily draped with flowing black cob-webs, around which clustered the dust of ages, while the light stealing in through the bared opening at the end of the room cast a weird lustre on the dismal scene. But we were happy, Hallelujah! and praised God for the privilege of being pioneers of the Gospel in the "Regions Beyond."

But while we were in such a cramped position, living in a small dirty room, with little air and on a damp mud floor, yet this was nothing compared to the sin and suffering which abounded in this heathen city. Just a few days after our arrival thirteen people were carried through the city, and beheaded outside the city wall; one of them was a mere boy of 14, too young it seemed to be in sin, but guilty of theft, and so had to pay the penalty with his life. Poor boy! If he had been reared in a Christian home, how different might have been his life, and also his death; but with no Christian father to counsel, and no Christian mother to care, is it any wonder that he went astray? The same day also a poor woman was put in the death cage and slowly strangled. Her feet were tied, hands fastened in the stocks in front, and suspended by the neck by a huge wooden collar, she was then placed on one of the main streets to the gaze of the passing multitude, who watched her fruitless struggles against the monster death. These were the things, together with the burden of the work, which presses so heavily on the heart of the missionary, which spurs us on to do our utmost to give them the Gospel as speedily as possible.

Our first week in Lin-Cheo was spent in distributing Gospels and looking for houses, but although the city abounded in empty dwellings we had great difficulty in renting, as the Chinese in their hatred of the foreigners seemed to band together to prevent us from getting a house. Hope alternated with fear. In the morning several houses would be in view, but the evening sun would set leaving two lone missionaries still living in a dirty Chinese inn, with no hope in the shape of renting a house, but with a confident trust in God that He would provide. North, East, South and West, were faithfully traversed. Location now had lost its charm. Anywhere to get a footing! We were willing now to live in an alley, in a back street, or down by the river side. But God had something better for us, and so like King Bruce's spider:

"Steadily, steadily, inch by inch,
Higher and higher we got;
Till a little bold run at the very last pinch,
Put us into our native spot."

Here we whitewashed the walls, had benches made, and soon had daily services, with a crowded chapel, and many standing on the street, to listen, who could not find standing room inside. We had been preaching for three days with the utmost freedom. The crowds were large and quite attentive, but on Monday things changed. We opened the chapel as usual, but the people who came in were quite unruly, and when asked to behave would laugh in Brother Farmer's face, and call him "A Foreign Devil." At first we did not know what had caused the sudden change, but our chapel keeper came in from the street and said that placards had been posted up throughout the city, scandalizing us in a very vile way. Later a young Chinese friend called on us and said that the streets were in confusion. Little groups of people were gathered here and there, talking of the "Foreign Devil" and his unholy doctrine. He advised us to keep in the house while he wrote a letter to the official telling him of the trouble. We had just finished breakfast next morning, when a near neighbour sent for Bro. Farmer, and told him that unless we got a guard of soldiers he feared trouble. Bro. Farmer had just got nicely in the house when a young military official called. He said that things on the street were becoming serious, and as he was partly responsible for order in that part of the city, he had come to warn us. He said that he had seen mobs in Hunan, and unless the wind was checked in the start, it would soon blow a hurricane, and be beyond control. He said that he had soldiers at his command but that he could not use them for our protection without the consent of a higher official, and advised us to go to him at once.

We immediately got our pass-ports and went to the Tamen. The official, an old gray-haired man, with wrinkled face, and sullen visage, received us, and as soon as seated, said that he had received our note of the previous evening. Bro. Farmer did not wait on ceremony, but told him, that as he had not returned his card, we had come personally to ascertain his meaning. We told him that we believed that he was unfriendly to foreigners, and reminded him gently that since we had come to his city he had not treated us with the courtesy which we had usually received at the hands of the officials. At this juncture we presented our pass-ports showing him we were loyal subjects of two worthy nations, and told him that as we were missionaries, should trouble arise we would not try to defend ourselves against a Chinese mob, but if this occured we feared it would involve him in serious trouble with our respective kingdoms. He said he was not aware he had treated us discourteously, and said of course (pi-ts'i siang-se), we both wanted peace. Then in our presence he gave orders, as only a Chinese official can, for soldiers to go throughout the city, and tear down all the placards written against us; also for proclamations to be written, and for a small guard of soldiers to accompany us back to the hous and keep guard at the chapel. This put an end to all outward opposition, and now we have fairly good order while preaching in the chapel.

Thus with a heart filled with praise to God for all His goodness, I look out upon the coming year, knowing—

"Never a danger in the dark heathen land,
But some promise of love still cheers;
And I read from the past that my future shall be Far better than former years."

Yours, with love to all the Peterborough friends. Happy in His will.

WALTER H. OLDFIELD.

Edmonton Man Tells Of That City's Wonders

Mr. Alf. T. Kemp, Formerly of Peterborough, Here on a Visit From the West—Alberta's Capital Makes Great Progress—Edmonton People Support Their Fair Well.

Mr. Alf T. Kempt, of Edmonton, and formerly of Peterborough, was in the city over Sunday. He arrived here on Friday evening from Toronto, where he was attending the Fifteenth Annual Convention of the Steam-Fitters, Gas-Fitters, and Plumbers of Canada and the United States. His father, Mr. E. A. Kempt, was formerly employed by Mr. Adam Hall, and the Boat Stove Co. Mr. Kempt, Sr., with his family, is at present living in Edmonton, and is very much pleased with that ambitious city. Mr. Kempt, Sr., has a general plumbing store in Edmonton and has with him in that business his son, William. Alf is plumbing inspector and superintendent of the waterworks in Edmonton, and claims that their system is as good, if not better, than that of any other town he has visited. Mr. Chas. Kempt, who was employed in Mr. Jas. Lynch's drug store, is now in Mr. A. A. Archibald's drug store, of the same city, while Joe Kempt is in charge of the store of the Hudson's Bay Company, about 500 miles north of Edmonton, almost within the boundary of the Arctic Circle.

Alf speaks in glowing terms of Edmonton. Once settled there, eastern people have no wish to return. The buildings are all built of first-class material and modernly equipped, combining a fine appearance with utility. The main street is 100 feet wide, while all the others have the avenue width of 88 feet. The banks of Edmonton are some of its most imposing buildings. In all there are ten of them — Molsons, Dominion, Traders, Nova Scotia, Merchants', Montreal, Northern, Union, Commerce and Imperial. The directors of the latter are building a handsome new edifice at a cost of $100,000. The census of Edmonton in August was 11,534, while Calgary counted 11,937 souls, showing that the former city is not far behind.

Regarding athletics, Alf says that the sports there are worthy ones. Large attendances encouraged the home ball team during the summer in their games with Winnipeg, when they took two out of three from the latter team. The games are called there at 7.30 p.m., while he has seen bowlers at play at the ted-time hour of 10. In the summer months the thick pall of darkness, which we are accustomed to, is entirely absent, there being but a dull gloom between day and day.

The Edmonton Fair, which was held a short time ago, was a great success. The townspeople were most enthusiastic and supported it in a worthy manner. The average number of paid admissions for the four days on which it was held was 12,000, while as stated above, there are only 11,534 people in the city. People come from miles around and remain during the whole time. Bands of Indians come to the city and pitch their tepees on the fair grounds. The stores are closed every afternoon, thus enabling the store-keepers to attend.

The races were very good. The track is a very fast half mile, and in the free-for-all, for a $1,000 purse, the time of 2.16 1-2, 2.14 and 2.14 1-4 was made.

Mr. Kempt, like all western people, proclaims a very bright future for Edmonton and the West. The people are now beginning to think of decorating the city, and shade trees are being planted everywhere.

Mr. Kempt will return west in a short time, after renewing many old acquaintances.

Sound Proof Cage A Boon To Nervous Folk

Those Who Hate Noise Are Protected—Invented for Piano Player Whose Audience is Only Himself.

New York, Sept. 29.—Four glass walls and a canvas top constitute the sound-proof cage now on view at the Music Show in Madison Square Garden, where the too-willing pianist may be confined (when caught) and forfeit his appetite for melody without the sacrifice of his neighbour's nerves.

Once the door is shut, and the lid well down no muffled sweetness will penetrate to the outside world. Former victims may chatter in their glee while they stand without and watch the player go through the motions. The wounded keys may writhe in agony, but their shrieks and moans will die unheard by any save the murderer.

The sound-proofness at the Garden has not been absolute, merely from the fact that none of the caged would submit to solitary confinement. A roof was lifted off, or a door left open, while the artist strove to harry a too ambitious rival.

One or two exhibitors have resorted to only one sound-proof wall as a spite fence against their neighbours. Others have immured themselves only on the three sides, which give on the Harmonica Booth, that claims the best carrying voice in the building. Scorning all defences, it bleats its way through the most vociferous, brazen utterances of the band.

The uses of the sound-proof cage, so well adapted to the apartment-house musician, will undoubtedly be innumerable. As the battle-ground for family disagreements, or as a convenient place to bottle up the infant in moments of stress, it could hardly be bettered.

Safe within the precincts of the sound-proof the maternal slipper may patter continuously upon the person of the offender.

The opportunities to study the human species, in fact, will be boundless. Properly applied, the cage may defeat scandal, suppress bores, and bring about a noiseless millennium. The inventor keeps modestly in the background. He may be a prisoner in one of his own cages.

The Death List Has Reached Two Hundred and Fifty

Gulf Hurricane's Damage to Property Exceeds Ten Millions.

OCEAN SHIPS IN FRONT YARDS

Terrible Devastation Wrought by the Storm Along the 150 Miles Between New Orleans and Pensacola, Fla.—Latter City Has 26 Dead and 3,000 Homeless—100 Lives Lost at Mobile—4 Towns Destroyed.

New Orleans, Oct. 1.—Some estimate of the devastation wrought by the storm along the 150 miles of coast between this city and Pensacola, Fla., was made possible yesterday.

The total loss of life will not, it is certain, be less than 250, and the damage to property easily will exceed $10,000,000.

At least four of the picturesque little towns planted on the brink of the gulf have been wiped out of existence, while the fate of as many more is still a matter of doubt. In the wrecked and ruined larger cities the greatest misery prevails, hunger already having added its sting to the horror.

Lighthouses Swept Away.

The coast for a hundred miles is littered with wrecks and scores of bodies have been washed ashore. Lighthouses have been swept away, the keeper, his wife and daughter perishing in one.

New Orleans itself escaped with little damage, and, so far as reported, the loss of life here does not exceed ten drowned.

The loss was heaviest among shipping. Eight large sailing vessels and about thirty small vessels were wrecked, and Ship Island, Cat Island and Horn Island were submerged.

The federal quarantine station on Ship Island was badly damaged, and about $1,000,000 damage was done to property on the mainland.

Every House Swept Away.

Every house in the Villages of Navyport, Bayou la Bahe, and Coden, were wiped out of existence. Several persons are reported to have lost their lives at Coden.

Every house in the Village of Navynort, where scores of pilots and fishermen lived, was wrecked, and seven lives lost. Greater loss of life is reported from Dauphin Island, which was submerged, and the residents forced to flee in boats. One boat, with thirteen persons on board, is believed to have gone down in the storm.

The entire west shore below Mobile is reported completely devastated. Twenty-five bodies have been recovered, and thirty more were reported as known to have perished.

Fatal Devotion to Duty.

After the storm subsided one of the saddest stories of the hurricane was brought into Scranton. A tug left Scranton before the storm reached its height and ran to Horn Island, out in the gulf, offering to take ashore Capt. Johnson, keeper of the Horn Island light, and his wife and daughter, Capt. Johnson refused to leave the light, and his wife and daughter would not separate from him. After the storm the tug went out again. The lighthouse had been destroyed, and hours of search failed to reveal any sign of the fate which overtook the keeper.

AT PENSACOLA, FLA.

Twenty-Six Are Dead and There Are 3,000 Homeless.

Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 1.—The loss of life and the damage resulting from the hurricane which struck this city Thursday morning are heavy.

The list of dead has grown to 26, and it is known that many more have been lost and others injured, while 3,000 are homeless.

For ten miles east and west streets are strewn with the wrecks of homes and vessels of all kinds. Commencing at Fort McRae on a point overlooking the gulf and continuing to Escambia Bridge, east of the city, there is nothing but devastation.

At McRae five lives were lost. The experience of 20 men there was trying. They thought the batteries the highest point, as the waves began to dash over them and lashed themselves to the guns. There they clung for more than 12 hours. The wife of Sergeant Prentice and her little child were at the post. Three artillerymen were washed from the batteries. The fort was bady damaged.

Brave Customs Inspector.

The quarantine station has disappeared, except one house. Several vessels there are damaged. Customs Inspector Bailey saved the lives of eight or the attdenes by swimming with a line across the channel to the remaining house. The hospital collapsed early in the night. Eight seamen, patients, with two nurses, clung to the floating roof. Five spent the night on the raging seas and were washed upon this side. The other five perished.

Two members of a picnic party perished.

At Escamble trestle, a mile in length, the cottage of the keeper of the drawbridge was carried away and the keeper's wife and 12 persons were drowned.

Are Without Flour.

Flour cannot be procured, but other necessities are available. Extending for a mile west of the city were the small cottages of fishermen, all close to the beach. These have been wiped out. Three men are known to be dead there. Many daring rescues were recorded.

At Garsep Point fifty persons are homeless and starving, with no way of reaching safety. The messenger left there Friday morning, and at that time the entire party had been 24 hours without food. They have no shelter or clothing.

Ships In Front Yards.

It will be three months before the streets are cleared. Of 22 ships and barks in the harbor one remains, and it is hardly damaged.

Some ocean ships of 2,000 tons are resting in front yards; others have been driven through houses; some have their noses pointed into stores, while others are keeled over on their sides in the bay or piled up on the beach.

Only four tug boats out of a fleet of about 20 remain. About 30 fishing schooners of 50 or 75 tons were moored alongside wharves, and two remain intact.

Wharves were cleared of their shipping and freight.

AT MOBILE, ALA.

One Hundred Lives Are Lost and Property Damage is $4,500,000.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 1.—Between 75 and 100 lives lost, fully two score vessels driven ashore or wrecked in various parts of the Gulf of Mexico, damage amounting to $4,500,000 in the City of Mobile and to several millions at outside points is the record of the storm, which swept over Mobile on Wednesday and Wednesday night. No accurate estimate of the number of the casualties can be made yet, and it is doubtful if it will be made known for a week or more.

While the storm was at its height the water from the bay was driven in with great force on the city the waves coming over the ends of the wharves six feet deep. Three blocks into the city, the flood was driven, filling every basement and store in that part of the city.

The damage in the City of Mobile proper is enormous. It is contended by some that there is not a building in the city which has not been damaged. Some of the larger buildings suffered severely. Christ Episcopal Church was damaged about $40,000. The spire of St. Francis street Baptist Church was blown down, and every other church building in the city sustained some loss. Hotels suffered severely, the Bienville losing its kitchen, which was blown away, and the Cawthorn, losing many windows through which the rain poured, damaging carpets and draperies to the extent of $4,000.

Merchants Heaviest Losers.

The heaviest loss will fall on the merchants along the waterfront, who, although warned of the coming of the tropical storm, made no effort to remove their goods.

The damage to docks is $300,000. Reports of damage to boats down the bay and in the gulf are numerous.

The British steamer Doris Brook is said to be so high on Dauphin Island that she can be walked around. The three-masted schooner King of Avon is dismantled and ashore near the mouth of Dog River. The ship Phor Ugland has been driven ashore in the lower part of the bay with all masts gone. The pilot boat Louise Harper was carried four miles inland.

Revenue Cutter Lost.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Assistant Secretary Edwards has received a telegram from F. M. Rook, engineer in charge of the revenue cutter Alert, at Mobile, saying the Alert had been sunk at her berth by a river steamer running into her during the recent storm. Nothing has been heard of the revenue cutter Winona or the launch Penrose, which was in Mobile harbor at the time of the hurricane.

New Mining District.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Parry Sound and Muskoka have been erected into a new mining district, with Henry F. McGuire of Parry Sound as recorder.

SUICIDE AT CENTREVILLE

Man With a Family of Five Young Children Takes His Own Life In a Fit of Despondency—J. E. Grindall of Toronto, With a Family of Two Children, Suicides by Carbolic Acid—Child's Message.

Meaford, Oct. 1.—In a fit of despondency, brought on by worrying over financial matters, H. Kirkpatrick, a married man, about 40 years of age, committed suicide at his home at Centreville Saturday morning. He shot himself through the heart with a shotgun. He leaves a widow and five young children. He came here from Dublin, Ireland, some years ago.

"My Dear Daddy Is Dying."

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Carbolic acid killed James E. Grindall at 184 Harbord street on Saturday. He was a young man with a wife and two children. Lately he has been worrying about things but, although despondent, no such tragic termination as that of Saturday was anticipated. It appears that Grindall bade his wife an affectionate good-bye on Saturday morning and then went upstairs, where he consumed a considerable quantity of carbolic acid, which he had procured from a neighboring drug store. One of his children went to Dr. Canfield and said: "My dear daddy is dying." When Dr. Canfield could get to the house his services were of no avail.

Girl Took Poison.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Lena Scott, who, since her arrival in Canada a few months ago, has been living on upper Terauley street, was taken to St. Michael's Hospital on Saturday after having swallowed some bichloride of mercury. Dr. Crawford attended to her and she will recover.

WRECK IN LAKE ERIE.

Steamer City of Concord Sinks—Three of the Crew of 12 Drown.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 1.—The old wooden steamer City of Concord, having three barges in tow, went down Saturday night in the storm on Lake Erie, off Huron, Ohio. Three of the crew of 12 were lost.

The other nine, after a terrible time in the yawl boat, landed at Cedarpoint at 2 o'clock yesterday morning and walked into Huron, seven hours later in an exhausted condition.

The names of the drowned are: Frank Peters, fireman, Muskegon, Mich.; John Wiser, watchman, Milwaukee; Roy Wakefield, deckhand, St. Clair, Mich.

Killed at Crossing.

Wingham, Oct. 1.—James Jobb, a laborer, who has been a resident of this section for a number of years, was instantly killed by the C. P. R. express Friday night. He had spent the day at the Wingham fair, and was driving home alone in a buggy when the accident occurred. The engineer saw the rig on the track and blew the whistle, but could not stop the train in time to avoid the accident. Coroner Kennedy decided to hold an inquest, which was adjourned until Wednesday. Jobb was about 45 years of age and was unmarried.

Crushed Between Cars.

North Bay, Oct. 1.—A sad accident occurred at the Union Station Friday night, in which Fireman Fred Goulen lost his life. He was fireman on the Grand Trunk engine which was to take out the Toronto express leaving here at 8.50 p. m. He was fixing a coupling, and in doing so he raised his head between the bumpers. At that moment the engine moved slightly and the fireman's head was crushed, killing him instantly. His remains were taken to Eganville, Ont.

Went Through Drawbridge.

Clarksville, Tenn., Oct. 1.—Louisville and Nashville passenger train, northbound, ran into the open bridge across Cumberland River last night. The engine and baggage and mail coaches went down, carrying with them seven men, five of whom were rescued. Engineer Frank Porter of Bowling Green, and Express Messenger Wood of Clarksville, are missing. The bridge was turned for a boat.

Dies From Fall.

Hamilton, Oct. 1.—Charles Hurd, who fell a few feet from a scaffold last Monday, died yesterday at the City Hospital. He was 29 years of age and leaves a widow and four children.

Girl's Tragic End.

Hamilton, Oct. 1.—Pearl Donnelly, the 10-year-old daughter of James Donnelly, 241 North Wellington street, who was struck on the head by a broken cable, which snapped when a house was being moved, died in the City Hospital Saturday morning.

Drowned In Swan Lake.

Swan Lake, Man., Oct. 1.—A young man from Winnipeg named Albert, aged 20, was drowned in the lake here Saturday morning while out shooting in a canoe.

Stepped Into Space.

Preston, Oct. 1.—Friday night C. E. Kyle of Toronto, stepped into space off a G. P. & H car, standing at the north end of the railway bridge over the Speed River, and landed ten feet below in the water, under the bridge. He is suffering from a badly twisted leg and a sprained ankle.

WASHES 25 ACRES AWAY.

Town of Revelstoke, B. C., Threatened With Destruction.

Winnipeg, Oct. 1.—Recent advices from Revelstoke say the river has washed away 25 acres of the town in the past couple of months, and where once lay flourishing fields, prosperous industries and many homes is now a rushing turbulent flood.

The town, which has a population of 5,000, is threatened with grave disaster unless immediate steps are taken to prevent the further destruction of river bank.

Increase For Street Car Men.

Hamilton, Oct. 1.—The street car men have been given an increase from 15, 16 and 17 cents an hour to 16, 18 and 20 cents an hour, reaching the maximum after three years' service. The maximum on the Dundas line was raised from 16 to 18 1-2 cents an hour, while the wages of the Radial men will remain as at present. All the employes will get two cents an hour extra for overtime and work on Sunday, and will be able to get two hours' work in twelve consecutive hours.

25,000 Swedes For Canada.

Stockholm, Oct. 1.—The news received here is that the Salvation Army in Canada is planning a wholesale emigration from Sweden. It is reported the organization has engaged a special fleet of twelve steamers to take 25,000 Swedes to the Dominion, the inducement held out being free passage to the new world. The alleged scheme has caused a sensation here and the newspapers are up in arms against it. International complications are threatened.

Wire Tappers Fined.

Windsor, Oct. 1.—The four men charged with tapping the wires of the G. N. W. Telegraph Co at Windsor on Sept 1, were fined by His Honor Judge Horne at Sandwich as follows: $100 on Frank Robinson, the leader, and $50 each on the others, Philip McGory, Arthur Welch and Lawrence Moran

Coin For Canada.

Quebec, Oct. 1.—A considerable amount of silver and bronze coin arrived in Quebec last week from England. The steamer Tunisian brought 239 cases and the Empress of Ireland 56 cases. They are consigned to the receiver-general of Canada.

License Inspector Removed.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Dougal McMurphy has been removed from the inspectorship of licenses for the district of Rainy River West, as a result of the investigation made by the Government into matters complained about there.

Paris, Oct. 1.—Premier Sarrien and Minister of the Interior Clemencean delivered notable speeches yesterday, in which it was set forth that the Government was firmly determined to carry out the law providing for the separation of church and state.

Tie-Up at Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Oct. 1.—Longshoremen of Port Arthur and Fort William are all out on strike. Over a thousand men are affected. The men employed by the C. P. R. at Fort William all went out Saturday. Several steamers were delayed.

Jockey Rooney Dead.

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—Ned Rooney, one of the best known horse-trainers and jockeys in the province, died Saturday night in St. Luke's Hospital, from pneumonia.

Two "Wives" Claim Legacy.

Belleville, Oct. 1.—James C. Howell, formerly of this district, was killed at Longford Mills. He left an insurance of $500 in the Chosen Friends, to his wife. Howell was living with a woman at the time who was said to be his wife. She claimed the money and the claim is now contested by another woman who lives in Picton, and who claims that she married him 23 years ago, and has never been divorced.

Gas Main Explodes.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—An explosion of a gas main at Queen street and Dovercourt road shook the whole neighborhood early Saturday morning. Over 25,000 cubic feet of gas escaped. Many windows were broken. The total damage is placed at about $1,000.

New Version of An Old Adage

Do You Eat For Mere Stimulation Or For Real Nutrition?

In matters of money, there is an old adage that says, "It's not so much what you earn as what you save," and just so, in the question of food and health, it might be said as truly, "It's not so much what you eat as what real nourishment you get out of what you eat."

This is the secret of health, strength and vitality. No difference how much nutrition your food contains, if your system does not assimilate that nutrition—take it up and distribute it throughout your body—you gain nothing beyond a temporary stimulation by having eaten it.

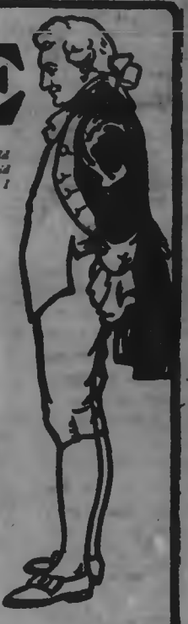
Malta-Vita, best whole white wheat, mixed with pure barley malt extract, thoroughly steamed and cooked and every flake baked to a crisp, is rich in nutrition and is assimilated readily even by the weakest stomach. Every one of its health-giving, strength-building elements is taken up by the system to nourish and sustain life.

And Malta-Vita is so good to eat! A perfect breakfast is impossible without it, and it's just as good three times a day. Try a bowlful with cream. You never tasted anything so good.

Malta-Vita is always ready to eat. No cooking, no inconvenience. All grocers. Now 10 cents.

RED ROSE TEA

"What would the world do without tea? How did it exist? I am glad I was not born before tea." —Sydney Smith.



"IS GOOD TEA"

I wish you could pay a visit to the Red Rose Tea warehouse—the largest in Canada—and see for yourself the great skill and care that is given to the blending and packing of this famous Tea. The testing room and the packing room (where automatic electric machines, which seem almost human, are used) would interest you greatly.

If you ever visit St. John, it will be a pleasure to show you through; and after you see the care and cleanliness with which it is prepared, Red Rose Tea will taste even better than before.

The Blue Label is especially recommended.

Prices, 25c., 30c., 35c., 40c., 50c., and 60c., in lead packets.

Embroidered Linen Belts Worn With Wool Suits—V Neck Effects.

Embroidered belts of heavy linen will be worn with woolen tailored suits. They usually match the suit in color and are embroidered in exactly the same tone as the linen. It is possible nowadays to get linen in all the fashionable tailored shades.

In Paris V neck effects are contrived in all sorts of unexpected ways. Some of the simplest are nothing more than a modified form of the surpliced styles. In the majority of cases these V necks are unusually becoming.

There are echoes of a dozen different famous periods and nationalities in the wraps one sees. Mantles of the old fashioned type are struggling hard for supremacy this fall. One interesting mantle is shirred into curious folds, and if M. Worth was not the designer it would be thought an impossible style.

It is the color of a woman's gown that makes her look young or old; for instance, navy blue is a young color, but black plays havoc with most faces past their first youth.

The gown illustrated is a charming empire affair for a young girl carried out in yellow crape. The skirt is simply trimmed with ruches of the material. Lace adorns the round neck and forms the tabbed ends that hang over the bodice. The girdle is of brown velvet drawn through a dull gold buckle. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

Contrasts In Costumes Striking and Smart—Embroidered Linen Belts.

White cloth costumes in pony styles are favored by many women. A stunning model has a circular skirt finished with two deep tucks above a hem of the same width. The front is laid in a broad plait, which is stitched down on either side to meet the tucks, then allowed to flare in conventional design. The jacket is bound with rather wide black braid, and the contrast is striking. This is true of many of the ultra smart tailored gowns, but they are striking without being conspicuous, which accounts for their great vogue.

A very effective belt is a rather broad band of linen about three inches wide stitched on each side and embroidered with dots about the size of a lead pencil at intervals of an inch or

The wedding gown illustrated is a superb creation in Irish and malines laces. The heavy lace borders the skirt and long train running up the skirt to the bust line in panels. The veil is of filmy tulle caught with the traditional orange blossoms.

POOR COOKING.

Responsible For Much of the Misery That Invades the Home.

Just so long as people live principally upon cooked food, just so long will cooking and the kitchen be, as they now are, exceedingly important features of every household, impossible to ignore or overlook with impunity.

Many a good cause has been lost for the time being and many a bright future has been darkened by some one's indigestion. Indigestion is at the root of almost as many of humanity's troubles as selfishness itself. But of course ignorance is at the root of them all. Whenever people know better they avoid and escape the woes that come through ignorance.

Without a good digestion health is impossible, and lack of health is misery. Poor cooking produces about as much indigestion as bad temper. In fact, it is a case of action and reaction—indigestion, low spirits, bad temper, bad temper, low spirits, indigestion, and so on interminably. Bad cooking, bad temper, low spirits, all belong together. They propagate each other. Since poorly cooked food produces indigestion, poor cooked food should be abolished, says Woman's Life. It can be abolished by all who set about it by paying attention to having the very best possible cooking for each meal, however simple it may be.

Rapping on Wood.

"Guess I'd better rap on wood!"

And then she—and pretty frequently he—reaches under the chair and conscientiously knocks three times on the frame of it.

Undoubtedly most persons do it simply for the airy persiflage of it, but there are plenty of others to whom it represents a pretty vital precaution against being overtaken by an ill from which they have declared themselves free so far.

The custom is said to have had a religious origin. The three knocks signified an appeal to each of the three persons of the Trinity, and the substance rapped upon was of wood, because Christ was crucified upon a cross of wood.

VANITY'S VISION.

Silk Handkerchiefs Make Golf Shirts. Evening Sleeves Are Short.

Silk handkerchiefs are making pretty golf and tennis shirts. Five handkerchiefs thirty-two inches square of soft silk in solid centers and varicolored borders are required. The plain part is plaited on the shoulders and a cutoff border is set into the shoulder seams and brought tapering to the waist line. Under the arms is seen the plain silk.

GOWN OF FOULARD.

The back requires one handkerchief from which the borders on the two opposite sides have been removed. Those remaining are placed on the shoulders on a line with those on the front and are brought tapering to the back waist line in a similar manner. A part of the border is placed straight across the back from sleeve to sleeve, forming a short yoke. The belt is a part of the border. For the sleeves the borders are caught together and the puffs arranged so that the border runs lengthwise or crosswise, whichever is most becoming. The cuffs are of the border.

For an evening gown the sleeve must be very short, so as to bear no resemblance to the elbow sleeve that is now worn on all possible occasions. A short puff, not particularly full, is most seen.

It takes fifty-eight pins for the modish girl of 1906 to make her toilet on strictly up to date lines. These pins include the large safety varieties used for keeping the lingerie in place and the stickpins, brooches and hatpins.

The simple little toilet illustrated is of white foulard dotted with black. The full skirt is trimmed with ruches of lace divided by folds of leaf green satin. The bloused waist is lace adorned, and the girdle is of the green satin. JUDIC CHOLLET.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Smart Lingerie Run With Black Ribbon—Hint For Foulard Gown.

The latest idea in lingerie is to run black ribbon through the beading. To avoid the possibility of a hint of mourning being conveyed by the somber hue a touch of color is introduced in the costume when a peekaboo waist is worn.

A stunning princess gown is of black foulard spotted with white coin dots. The skirt is trimmed with three rows of inch wide black velvet ribbon. The bodice, cut V shape back and front almost to the waist line, is finished with a tiny line of parrot green velvet under a line of black. Jet cabochons trim the opening at intervals. The sleeves are small elbow puffs slit up the center and filled in with the finest kind of all over embroidery in a sprigged design. The tight cuffs are of lace adorned embroidery, which also makes the chemisette filling in the V opening. The hat worn with the gown is a picture affair in black neapolitan trimmed with black ostrich plumes. Gloves and shoes are of tan suede.

The cutaway lines which marked some of last winters suits is noticeable in the fall importations. These cutaway effects are usually attempted only with cloth suitings, broadcloths and cloths of firm texture being chosen for this style.

The blouse pictured is an effective design for silk. A deep plait supplies the fullness at the shoulders, and the front is blocked out to display a vest of brodecie anglaise, which in turn is edged and inset with entre deux of cluny. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Just Like a Story.

Byssus, of which fine, iridescent stockings and shawls are made in Sicily, is a silk made by a fish. The puina is a Mediterranean shellfish that has an odd little tube at the end of its tongue. Out of this tube, spider fashion, or silkworm fashion, it spins a silk thread with which it fastens itself to any rock that it wishes to adhere to. When the puina moves on its fastenings, its silken cable remains behind. This cable, which is called byssus, the Sicilian fishermen gather. Byssus weaves into the softest, finest, sheeniest of fabrics, but it is very rare and expensive.—Popular Science Sittings.

Braiding to Be Much Used Next Winter—Navy Blue Again Popular.

It is predicted that braiding will have a great vogue this fall. Many of the new skirts show narrow silk and military braids applied so as to convey the effect of paneling. A wide kind with a cross plait forming a checked surface is being used a good deal on the new boleros.

Navy blue, the real dark blue that used to be considered so fashionable and attractive, has again come into favor. And black costumes for winter wear are to be chic in the extreme, with never a hint of color to relieve their somberness. When made of handsome material, perfectly tailored and cut, nothing is smarter than one of these suits.

In dressy wraps and house gowns empire effects will still hold good, but it is in the back of a costume that the "period" influence is most seen.

Elbow sleeves for street wear have become unfashionable. They will appear on dressy indoor costumes, but for all other purposes they have had their day.

The sleeves seen in the illustration are among the newest styles of the coming season. The puffed effect at the top predominates, with pretty introductions of trimming farther down the sleeve. JUDIC CHOLLET.

All Household Roads Lead to Kitchen Work

NINE-TENTHS of kitchen labor and worry is caused by ill-working cook stoves and ranges; by ranges that draw poorly; that have such complicated drafts that only a skilled mechanic can manage them; whose grates are so constructed that it is a strong man's work to shake them down; ranges which work well when the wind is in a certain direction, but act like a fiend at other times; ranges whose work is so unreliable that the housekeeper is in a constant nerve-racking worry lest the meals be late or the baking spoiled.

The Pandora range is built to make work easy, a child can shake it down; its drafts are so simple that one learns them in a minute; its heat is kept in the range so effectively that you can do a big baking and hardly know there is a fire in it two feet away; it keeps the kitchen cool; it saves you worry; it saves you time and money; it saves you backaches and headaches, because it is so easy to manage and so reliable.

The Pandora makes kitchen work easy.

LONDON BRIBERY CASES.

A Voter Was to Receive Ten Dollars for Voting and Voted For Gray, But Afterwards Called For the Money.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—The manner in which Jeremiah Collins had approached a deputy returning officer named Alex. Milne with the object of schooling him in the folding of ballots and the manner in which Collins' intentions were frustrated proved an interesting addition to the story of the alleged London bribery cases of June, 1905, as heard in the Police Court yesterday.

Milne swore absolutely he had not practiced any crooked work in his part of the election.

William Truedell, a London moulder, whom Mr. Robinette characterized as an "ordinary $10 liar," told a story of how he had been approached by the prisoner Mulloy regarding his vote. Truedell swore he saw Mulloy put $10 in an envelope, while he (the witness) put his name on this envelope, which was handed to one John Cox, presumably for delivery after the election. It turned out that Truedell was scrutineer for Gray, the defeated Conservative candidate, and he also voted for Gray. However, he continued that this did not prevent him from calling for the $10 which he alleged was to have been paid for his voting for Hyman. He did not receive the money.

Collins was cross-examined by Mr. Robinette, and two other witnesses, Kenneth Clark and Edgar Clark, said they had received money for voting for Hyman.

The prisoners arraigned were William Mulloy, William Service, Geo. Ardey, Daniel Wiley, George Reid and John O'Gorman.

The Candidate Hepburn's Story On Oath Told

Denies Positively All Charges of Misconduct At Orwell.

DID NOT KNOW THE WOMEN

Hotel Investigation at Aylmer—Object of the Visit to Mahlon Boughner's House—Evidence of Mr. Butler, the Hotelkeeper—Offence Alleged to Have Been Committed Aug. 1. —Charge Not Laid Till 15th.

Aylmer, Oct. 2.—David Butler, proprietor of the Albion Hotel at Orwell was before County Police Magistrate Hunt yesterday on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, the specific date being Aug. 1.

Mahlon Boughner's Story.

The first witness for the Crown was Mahlon Boughner, a Yarmouth township farmer, who said that about August 30 Butler had told him that Hepburn had stayed at his house on the night of August 1. Going to his room about midnight with a drink, he found a woman there. Witness recognized a statement produced in court and implicating Mr. Hepburn with two women as having been written by Mr. Butler, who said he had written it to protect himself. Some two weeks after the charge was laid Butler and Hepburn had called at witness' house about 1 o'clock in the morning, and witness had promised to do what he could to keep License Inspector Andrews from proceeding with the charge until after the election was over. He had been at the Albion House himself on the night in question, and had seen nothing wrong. Other Crown evidence was not important.

Mr. Butler, who took the stand in his own defence, said he had observed nothing wrong until he went into Mr. Hepburn's room in answer to a call for a drink, where he found one of two women to whom Mr. Hepburn had introduced him earlier in the evening. Witness said that a part of his statement, which did not coincide with his verbal testimony, was based on what Mr. Hepburn had told him, and not what he actually knew.

Mr. Hepburn's Denial.

Mr. Hepburn, who frankly admitted staying at the house on the night in question, denied in toto the allegations. He went to bed in the hotel at 9 p.m., and woke at 8 a.m. He did not see the women mentioned as having been there. In effect his statements, to which he firmly adhered, were that some time after the date in question Butler had told him that a charge of keeping a disorderly house had been laid against him, and that he was implicated. Mr. Hepburn had denied the implication, asking what he had to do with the case.

At a later period Mr. Butler had said that unless something was done to fix the inspector the charge would be pushed, and Mr. Hepburn had better see Boughner, who had influence with Mr. Brower, M.P.P., and the inspector, to get the charge called off. If Mr. Hepburn would put up $500 it would be all right. Butler had declared he could get $1,000 from the Conservatives for his story, which would bowl Mr. Hepburn out of the election. These overtures, Mr. Hepburn said, he had indignantly rejected, declaring that as he was innocent of any wrongdoing he refused to have his leg pulled.

The Visit to Boughner's.

Still later, at Butler's request, he went one night to the Albion House, taking Fred. Kaiser with him. Butler had posed as his friend, and a supporter of his politically. Mr. Hepburn left Kaiser in the house, and at Butler's request went outside, where for an hour the latter talked to him, trying to persuade him to go to Boughner's to try and fix it so that the case would not be pressed. He finally consented, and they went to Boughner's, where the matter was talked of in a general way, Mr. Hepburn still maintaining he had nothing to fear, and therefore did not intend putting up any money or taking other like action.

To Mr. Cameron. Mr. Hepburn said in seeing Boughner he was simply acting on Butler's plea to help him. On returning to the hotel Mr. Hepburn began to question Butler as to these proceedings, asking him what they meant. Kaiser at this time was on the sofa, apparently asleep, but he was awake, and heard what was said.

"Finally," said Mr. Hepburn, "Butler said he had been offered $1,000 by Mr. Marshall, the Conservative candidate, and his friends to connect me with these women." This statement Mr. Hepburn stoutly maintained.

Kaiser is in town, and will probably be called to-day.

Mr. Hepburn in closing, said one cause of his withdrawal from the election was the slanderous statements originating against him from the charge against Butler, and the fact that the charge was held over him instead of being promptly brought to trial and giving him a chance to meet and refute the charges.

Butler's counsel wanted to call Inspector Andrews. Butler himself objected, and the case was adjourned till to-day.

A Conservative Plot.

The charge was not laid until August 15. In reality what the Conservatives have been asserting and insinuating, and what all their hopes were based upon, was the contention that W. F. Hepburn, the former Liberal candidate, was a responsible party in connection with the trouble.

It will be remembered that Mr. Hepburn resigned the candidature in order to meet this style of campaign, Mr. Granville Haight being selected in his place. W. K. Cameron appeared for the Crown.

Paris, Oct. 2.—A semi-official announcement of the result of the competition for the James Gordon Bennett cup for international aeronauts was given out last night, as follows:

Chesley, Oct. 2.—Chesley became a town yesterday. It was incorporated as a village in 1879. The present population is 2,012.

Madame Hersee, the famous Prima Donna, who, after a tour through the States, was summoned to sing before the King at Buckingham Palace, has recently reaped great benefit from Bileans. In the course of an interview with a leading journalist, she said: "I was often subject to liver trouble and indigestion, and the usual remedies seemed quite inadequate and gave me no relief. I saw a report about Bileans one one day and thought that I would give them a trial. The result of the treatment was as surprising as it was pleasing. I felt quite another woman. Bileans are so delightfully easy to take, too, and one has not to go through a long weary course before reaping benefit. I am now recommending Bileans frequently to friends and pupils."

Bileans are a household remedy of unsurpassed merit. Their operation on the liver is just what is needed to transform an inactive, diseased organ into a healthy one. They also stimulate the digestive organs. When you remember that biliousness, indigestion, constipation, piles, dizziness, wind pains, and headaches, all arise primarily out of liver and stomach disorder, you at once see how Bileans, by correcting liver and stomach, cure these ailments in the surest possible way. They also cure debility, anaemia, female complaints and liver chills, clears the blood of impurities, and are a boon to pale-faced girls and weak women. Of all druggists at 50c a box, or post free from the Bileans Company, Toronto, on receipt of price.

THE SECOND DEATH.

Son of J. H. Waldman of Guelph, Victim of Danville, Ill., Wreck.

Guelph, Oct. 1.—News was received yesterday afternoon of the death, in Danville, Illinois, Hospital, of Vincent, the second son of J. H. Waldman, from injuries received in the Wabash wreck at Catlin.

The condition of the other two children, John and Marguerite, is more favorable, though the latter is still in a critical state.

The body of the late Mrs. Waldman arrived in Guelph Saturday. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon, and was attended by hundreds of citizens.

Find Body in the Scugog River.

Lindsay, Oct. 1.—The body of R. H Hopkins, who has been missing since Wednesday night last, was found floating yesterday morning about four miles north of Lindsay on the west shore of the Scugog River.

Fatal Car Ferry Capsize.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 1.—Three sailors were drowned and 24 railway cars, together with 800 tons of iron ore and car attachments, were lost in the lake Saturday night when a car ferry capsized less than a mile outside of the Chicago harbor.

Two Dead, 29 Hurt.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—General Manager Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad stated Saturday afternoon that only two persons were killed and 29 injured in the rear-end collision near Eddington, Pa., that morning. The dead are Mrs. W. H. Connell, wife of an employe of the railroad, and Mrs. Mary O'Mally of Philadelphia. The collision occurred on the New York division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, 19 miles north of here. Defective air brakes is given as the cause of the wreck.

LONDON BRIBERY CHARGES.

Messrs. Wm. Service and George Ardey Arrested—Bail For Both.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Messrs. William Service and George Ardey, residents of London, Ont., two of the nine men accused of conspiracy to bribe in the Gray-Hyman bye-election of June, 1904, in that city, spent about ten minutes in Toronto police cells yesterday afternoon, having been brought from their homes by detectives. They were arrested on Saturday in London by Detectives Mickle, Rider and Egerton on warrants issued by Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General. Through the efforts of Mr. T. C. Robinette, K. C., both prisoners were admitted to bail, Mr. John Maguire, a contractor, of Toronto, furnishing two bonds, each of $1,000.

Four Bound to Appear.

In all, four of those accused are now bound to appear at the Police Court this morning, the other two being Mr. John O'Gorman, who was arrested Friday and Mr. George Reid, who surrendered himself on Saturday.

It is said Messrs William J. Mulloy and Daniel Wiley, two others whose names appear in the information will enter the court room this morning of their own volition.

An air of mystery is attached to one of the alleged conspirators, who so far has been said to be Mr. James Pearson of Toronto, but last night information was gathered that Mr. Pearson was not the man wanted. The name, however, could not be learned, though it was admitted that the presence of a lawyer from another city, presumably London, is required before all the accused men appear.

GRAIN COMMISSION.

Special Data Submitted as to Elevator Shortages.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—The Dominion Government Grain Commission wound up its session in Toronto on Saturday morning, when a brief sitting was held. C. B. Watts, secretary of the Dominion Millers' Association, was recalled to give some further special data dealing with elevator shortages, and John L. Fisher of Toronto, manager for James Richardson & Son, grain dealers, of Kingston, presented further claims as to shortage of wheat when delivered from lake port elevators, and also as to shortage of cars.

The Commission will sit in Kingston to-day, and will, after concluding its business there, go to Montreal. They expect to return to Toronto about Oct. 15 to have representations from the farmers of Ontario.

Thief Shoots Detective.

Montreal, Oct. 1.—Detective Le Hequest was shot in the right arm and neck yesterday by Robert Walker, a ticket-of-leave man from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, and Walker was knocked senseless by a blow from a pickaxe handle in the hands of Detective O'Keefe. Detective Le Hequet's wounds are not serious, but the ticket-of-leave man's skull seems to be fractured. O'Keefe and Le Hequet were trying to arrest Walker and another young fellow.

Deserted Girl in Toronto.

Belleville, Oct. 1.—A serious affair is reported from Bancroft, and John Anderson, a cheesemaker at Hyland Grove, has been arrested. Not long ago Toronto papers told of the finding of Miss Angeline Ragan of Deer Lake in Toronto jail in a demented condition. W. H. Ragan, the father of the girl, who issued a warrant for Anderson's arrest, alleges that the latter induced his daughter to go to Toronto and then deserted her there.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Completion of Goderich Breakwater," will be received at this office until Saturday, October 20, 1906 inclusively, for the completion of Breakwater at Goderich, Huron County, Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., H. J. Lamb, Esq., Resident Engineer London, Ont., on application to the Postmaster at Goderich, and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for six thousand five hundred dollars ($6,500.00), must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the party tendering decline the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Further Light Shed On The Western Land Deal

It Was Suggested During R. L. Borden's Memorable Political Tour—Mr. Lefurgey's Evidence—It Was Mentioned to Mr. Lefurgey That Mr. Borden Intended Joining Land Combine—How Inside Information of Proposed Route of Canadian Northern Was Obtained—Sir Thomas Promised Best Going.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—Before the Insurance Commission proper opened yesterday morning Mr. Shepley introduced A. M. Worrell, representing the Bank of Montreal, and C. A. Masten, for the Bank of Nova Scotia, who addressed the Commission on the subject of an inspection of bank books by counsel. Judge MacTavish ruled that since moneys had been traced to the banks it would be necessary to have the books inspected by Mr. Shepley, to satisfactorily carry on the enquiry into the workings of the Union Trust Co.

The Okanagon Lumber Co.

D. O. Bull, barrister, told of his connection with the Okanagon Lumber Co.

A resolution was passed at a meeting of the directors in May, 1904, giving George W. Fowler power of attorney to put through the sale of the property. Fowler therefore became the agent of the Okanagon Lumber Co. The same day the Okanagon Co. gave Fowler an option on the timber limits, the mill and plant, and 11 town lots, for $175,000. Fowler to pay $1 down. Witness had no knowledge of the agreement.

Got $6,000 For His Interest.

The logs were a separate deal, for which Mr. Shepley produced cheques given by the Kamloops Co. to Fowler amounting to $42,000, payable in three different cheques. Counsel then took up the ledger of the Kamloops Lumber Co., showing the Okanagon Lumber Co.'s account. No separate accounts were kept, the purchase of the limits, etc., for $177,855.58, and the purchase of the logs, the amounts corresponding to the cheques. When asked regarding sale, witness said that he had been told by William Irwin and Fowler and McCormack that the members of the company would get $2 for $1 for their investments. He did not know the real price was $175,000, plus $24,000. All he got out of the deal was $6,000 (Mr. Fowler's cheque on the Bank of Nova Scotia).

Mr. Lefurgey a Witness.

A. A. Lefurgey, M. P., Summerside, P. E. I., was the next witness.

Mr. Shepley asked witness to tell of the Great West Land Co. and his connection with it in the fullest possible manner. He said:

"A few years ago, in the course of a trip through the west, Mr. Pope, Fowler and myself decided we would buy a certain number of acres from the C. P. R. On our return here Mr. Pope and Fowlr got an option on the lands from the C. P. R. We took up the lands and Mr Pope and Fowler tried to negotiate the sale and were introduced to people here in Toronto. We gave them an option. The lands were eventually taken up. I don't think I knew then by whom this was, but they developed into the New Ontario Town Sites Co. The C. P. R. accepted them instead of us as purchasers. We bought the land at $3.50 per acre and sold them at $4.50 per acre, to which I was opposed at the time."

Mr. Shepley did not think the story was full enough. He cross-examined the witness at length.

In 1902 R. L. Borden made a political trip through the west. Rufus Pope, W. H. Bennett, Ed. W. Fowler and the witness, all members of Parliament, discussed the scheme of buying land in the west, and mention was made that Mr. Borden might come in the deal. Ten were to be in the game, but no more. The four talked of securing 100,000 acres at least, and later witness paid $200 towards preliminary expenses.

Got It From Dan Mann.

In the meantime Fowler and Pope had seen Dan Mann, and he had given them a tip on the route of the Canadian Northern, so they could get the valuable lands.

"Who came in after Pope, yourself, Fowler and Bennett?" asked Mr. Shepley.

"These were the four that formed the syndicate."

"Was your going ahead dependent on ten coming in?"

"Oh, no."

Mr. Shepley read from papers regarding the suit brought by Mr. Lefurgey against Pope and Fowler."

"On that occasion Mr. Borden expressed a willingness to join us, and it was intimated to me during the trip that he would possibly come in."

"You don't modify that statement now?"

"Oh, no, but I don't think I spoke to Borden myself."

The next time Mr. Lefurgey heard about the matter was in a telegram asking him to go west and select the lands. A short time afterward he was drawn on for $200 for preliminary expenses. There was considerable correspondence with Fowler.

Struck a Pretty Good Thing.

The witness had presumed that Mr. Borden had come into the transaction. Fowler had also stated in a letter to him that he expected to interest a wealthy Englishman called Lister, and also Mr. Peuchen, the head of the Canada Chemical Co., and Sir Henry Pellatt, in the scheme. It was then decided to raise the scope of the deal to 200,000 acres.

Mr. Fowler wrote again on Jan. 1, 1903, in which Fowler said: "Well, old man, I think we have struck a pretty good thing, and you people ought to erect a monument to Pope and myself on account of what we have done for you—"

"I suppose you are measuring the marble now?" asked Mr. Shepley.

If the land could not be sold en bloc, Fowler continued, they would incorporate a company, and sell stock at $5 a share.

"The intention was to sell the land at $5 per acre?"

"Yes."

"Or, at least, Fowler was keeping you quiet by telling you that," commented Mr. Shepley.

Witness had wanted a meeting of the syndicate all along, and Bennett was also getting anxious, but no information was forthcoming.

Borden Did Not Go In.

At the session of the House at Ottawa, in 1903, Mr. Lefurgey got no further information as to Mr. Borden's chek or Mr. Lefurgey, but was informed that Mr. Borden had not gone on with the matter. In fact, he believed then there were only the "original four" in the deal.

Then Fowler wired: "Must have four thousand from you for western deal. Wire me at Windsor where to make draft."

"Please explain that," said Mr. Shepley.

"Well, I knew the others were only asked to put up $2,000 and I thought I must be asked to take double shares. Mr. Bennett told me he was putting up $2,000 only."

The witness was not clear in his mind, but had a vague idea there were ten in the syndicate, and he was being allotted two-tenths. He put up $2,000, being $2,200 he had put up. Bennett did the same and he supposed Pope and Fowler were making good also. He thought his money was for a first payment to the C. P. R. on the land.

"You were quite in the dark as to the way it was being financed?"

"Yes."

"You did not know the amount of the first payment?"

"No, not for long afterwards."

"When I saw Fowler and asked him why he called on him for $4,000 Fowler said he thought I could have another share; someone else was dropped out."

Attended No Meetings.

The Commission were fifty minutes late in starting in the afternoon.

Mr. Lefurgey took the box and produced the papers he had promised to bring for the use of the Commission. Witness had never attended any of the directors' meetings of the Great West Land Co. He had not exchanged his stock in the Hammond Town Sites Co. for stock in the Great West Land Co.

"Mr. Peuchen introduced us to the people we sold to," volunteered the witness.

"Why do you say that?" asked counsel.

"Because Peuchen says so himself."

"Who do you mean by the people you sold to?"

Mr. Foster's Interest.

"The Farm and Town Sites Co., a man called Mr. Day and George E. Foster."

Witness understood when the matter was talked over that the sale was to be made at $4.50 an acre to a party who would form a new company, and resell to the new company at a raise of fifty cents an acre.

"You did not seem to know much about it?" hinted Mr. Shepley.

Witness admitted this, but supposed he would be on the same footing as Pope, Fowler, and Bennett and Peuchen if he should come in. At this time Mr. Lefurgey did not know of the option given to Pope and Fowler by the C. P. R., nor did he know about the agreement of the directors of the Farm and Town Sites Co., and Wilson, McGillivray and Foster.

Was to Have Profited.

"Did you clearly understand that the syndicate that bought from you were going to turn it over to the new company at a profit?"

"Certainly. I was to get $5,000 of it."

"Who was financing the situation?"

"I do not know."

"These people had to pay you all you paid to the C. P. R.; pay the C. P. R. and $200,000 besides?" asked Mr. Shepley.

"Yes."

"Were you curious to know how this money was being raised?"

"No, I thought we were dealing with men who had the money to put up. Fowler never mentioned the Union Trust Co., but Foster attended one of the meetings, and I guessed he had something to do with the syndicate. I don't think I associated Foster in connection with the Union Trust Co."

Feeling Was Becoming Strenuous.

Mr. Shepley was anxious to have all that Mr. Lefurgey knew about the Union Trust Co., but his general knowledge was not very much. Witness went on to tell that for sometime the feeling was becoming strenuous between Pope and Fowler on the one side and himself, Peuchen and Bennett on the other. He had received $6,000 from Pope and Fowler, the total money he had put up. When the cheque on account of profits came along a year or so afterwards an epoch was marked in the game. This cheque was overdue. There also a statement which witness was asked to produce.

The particular part of this report was that there was $20,000 charged by Pope and Fowler for commission. Witness was given one-tenth interest. The profit sum was about $50,000, including two payments on profits.

Would Not Stand For It.

"What did you do?"

"I saw Fowler and Pope and said I would not stand for it. I told them I wanted an account, but I did not get it. I threatened suit. There was one other term of profits after that. Pope and Fowler have always made the distribution, and I received mine on the one-tenth basis."

"How much did you get altogether?"

"About $11,000 or $12,000."

"How many shares have you in Great West Lands Co.?"

"Fifty-five shares."

The suit was brought, and has not been settled. Mr. Lefurgey was under the impression that Pope and Fowler received 7-10 of the stock and 7-10 of the cash when the deal was put through.

Killed in Mill Shaft.

Brockville, Oct. 2.—W. Capron, an employe of the Norwood Paper Mill, was accidentally caught in the main belt and whirled rapidly around the shaft. His body was mangled and torn, his head being crushed to a pulp. His neck was broken, and death was almost instantaneous.

Secretary Taft Hands Advice To The Cubans

Wins Encomiums For Address At University of Havana.

VIVA THE CUBAN REPUBLIC

"Down With American Control" Shout Academy Students In the Streets of Havana—First Hostile Demonstration In Cuba—Disarmament Commission Proceeds to Cienfuegos to Receive Arms From Rebels.

Havana, Oct. 2.—The first anti-American demonstration occurred in Havana last evening at 7 o'clock, when 150 academy students, shouting "Viva the Cuban Republic," "Down with American control." This demonstration was not treated seriously. The crowd received few accessions.

Taft Wins Regard.

Governor Taft's action yesterday have gone far to win him a warm place in the hearts of the people, whose destinies temporarily have been place in his hands.

Presiding yesterday morning at the opening exercises of the University of Havana, he declared his mission here was solely for the purpose of uplifting the fallen republic and restoring it to the path of prosperity, an announcement which was received with demonstrations of delight by an audience representative of the highest society in Havana.

Disarmament Commission.

Jose J. Monteagudo and Carlos Hernandez, members of the disarmament commission, left here last night to receive arms from the rebels at Santa Clara, Sagua la Grande Esperanza, Cruces, Cienfuegos and other points in the centre of the island. The laying down of arms by the rebels in the vicinity of Havana will begin to-day, when the men will be entrained for their homes.

DEATH OF SIX LIGHT KEEPERS.

One of the Dire Results of the Great Gulf Storm.

New Orleans, Oct. 2.—The deaths of Lighthouse Keepers Neil Neilson and Andrew Hunson, and the washing away of their lighthouse into the sea were reported yesterday. This makes six lives known to have been lost in the wrecking of sound lighthouses alone.

Fourteen dead and as many more missing is the result of last Thursday's hurricane in the vicinity of New Orleans.

30 Dead at Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 2.—The known loss of life up to date is thirty, which will probably be increased to 75, while the property loss will exceed five millions of dollars. Hundreds of persons are homeless without food and clothing, and cared for by charity.

Reports Exaggerated.

Mobile, Ala.—(via Meridian, Miss.), Oct. 2.—Paul J. Wilson, secretary of the Commercial Club of Mobile, yesterday requested the Associated Press in Mobile to make a denial of the stories which have been sent broadcast throughout the country regarding the loss of life and suffering in this city. Not a single life has been lost, and the citizens of Mobile have the local situation in splendid shape.

Not of Government Making.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—Premier Whitney stated yesterday that the report of a wholesale investigation of the various institutes for the blind and deaf in the province was founded on a much less extensive fact.

A. J. Russell Snow is going to be asked to investigate certain charges made at the Brantford Asylum for the Blind.

At Belleville, a woman has made a complaint about the treatment of her little girl, and Superintendent Matheson has requested to have an investigation which Mr. Snow will be asked to make, but the enquiry has not been prompted by the Government.

Grand Trunk Blamed.

Guelph, Oct. 2.—The verdict of the jury to investigate the death of Engineer Farley in head-on collision near Gourock blames the Grand Trunk, and points out need of certain legislation.

Killed By Pilot Engine.

Thorold, Oct. 2.—William Bradley, lock tender on the new Welland Canal at Merritton, was instantly killed early yesterday morning by being struck by a Grand Trunk pilot engine.

Took Paris Green.

St. Thomas, Oct. 2.—Duncan Lamont of Kintyre committed suicide by taking Paris green yesterday. He had been in London asylum, but was brought home Saturday.

The Three Hundred Words Chosen for Spelling Reform

The following list of words selected for change in spelling will be found interesting. In a letter to The London Times, Mr. Carnegie says: "So far from being distinctively American, the President's proposed changes in spelling are selected by the simplified spelling board from fully three thousand agreed upon and jointly recommended in 1885, by the Philological Society of London and the American Philological Association after a serious consideration. The list will be found at the end of the last volume of the Century dictionary. Also ten rules were agreed upon in making the changes. This reform, therefore comes from philologists of the whole race. Indeed, Prof. Skeat states in The Scotchman, the list was actually prepared in the Motherland. There needs only one step to be taken by your Government to continue this race reform, namely the appointment of such a committee as advised our Government what words to select from larger list for immediate adoption. If such a commission were appointed I doubt not it would endorse the selection made for the President by our American board. It is never to be forgotten that amended spelling can only be submitted for general acceptance. It is the people who decide what is to be adopted or rejected. That the two Governments agreed to jointly submit certain changes, however, would no doubt result in the eventual adoption of many.

On the other hand George Harvey of New York, calls it the exploitation of a fad, and says: "There is no reason to believe that the Congress will forsake the accepted dictionaries of the English language, nor is it probable that the Supreme Court will attend spelling lessons at the White House. It would be most surprising, moreover, if Mr. Roosevelt's successor should follow in his footsteps in this regard. To the historian of the future, therefore, our public records will seem a veritable hodge podge. Like any other citizen, Theodore Roosevelt has the privilege of spelling in any way he may see fit. It does not seem to have occurred to him that as President he has no such prefogative. Without discussing the merits of the scheme further than to note that the object of writing is to convey to the eye what the speech conveys to the ear, and that the substitution of arbitrary changes for those that come naturally into a live language necessarily permits an individual license, resulting in a jumble, we cannot but frankly regret the performance of an act which brings the great position of the Presidency into a sort of association with vulgar humor. It is a simple fact that during the past fortnight the President's name has been linked in the public mind not with the names of Prof. Matthews Mr. Gilder, et al, but with Artemus Ward and Josh Billings. This seems to us extremely unfortunate, as indicating a lack of care in maintaining the true dignity of the highest political office in the world. It may be that President Roosevelt's meddlesomeness is least harmful when brought to bear upon such extraneous matters, and perhaps we ought to be satisfied if he will leave us the Bible and prayer book in their present form. But somehow this conclusion does not seem as satisfying as we might with reason wish."

CITY GAINS IN POPULATION AND ASSESSMENT

Human Remains Found In Back Yard | City Assessors Have Filed Their Returns

UNION ST. MAN MAKES —WHILE DIGGING IN HIS GARDEN—
A GRUESOME FIND

Found Part of Skull and Leg of Human Being With Flesh Still Clinging To It.

James C. Clark's Find Startles the Neighborhood and Sets the Police Thinking--The Solution

Not Believed That Foul Play Has Been Done--Was it the Work of a Zealous Medical Student?

A discovery which startled the man who made it, and which has set the police department thinking, was reported from 29 Union street last night.

Mr. J. C. Clark, who lives there, walked into the police station about 7 o'clock, with a mysterious parcel wrapped in a copy of The Examiner of Saturday. He laid it down on the desk at the station and informed P. C. Adams, who was in charge at the time, that he was going to present him with a human skull. The wrapping was soon removed, and the lower half of a skull, with some of the flesh still adhering to it, was revealed to the astonished gaze of the guardian of the peace.

A Stranger's Find

The story soon came out. It appears that Mr. Clark, who is a new comer in the city, having lived in the house only about three weeks, coming here from Gananoque, was digging in his garden last night after tea to bury the weeds which had been allowed to grow up during the summer, and before he had been long at work he unearthed what appeared, and later, was proven, to be the lower half of a human skull. It was buried in about eight inches of earth, in a plot where some vegetables had grown this year.

Skull Cut in Two

The top of the skull was seen to have been sawn off at about the top of the ears, and only the lower part remained. That it had not been there long was indicated by the fact that there were still shreds of flesh on the lower part of the skull.

Further developments, however, were to follow. Mr. Clark continued digging, and about two feet from the spot where the skull was unearthed, his spade again came into contact with a hard substance, and this time a leg, from the hip to the foot, including portions of the hip bone, was brought to light. In this case, the skin and flesh were on the bones in considerable quantities.

Report to Police

This discovery was enough for Mr. Clark, who put his spade away, and, thinking it was a case for the police to deal with, wrapped the skull in paper and took it to the police station, where he told his story, leaving the section of the departed human as evidence of the truth of his story.

Not an Everyday Happening

When The Examiner representative went to Mr. Clark's home last night to ask him as to the incidents connected with the find, the family had retired, but in response to the reporter's ring Mr. Clark came downstairs and told the story of his discovery. To the newspaper man's apology for having disturbed his slumbers, he replied that it was "all right—we don't find these things every day you know," he added.

The leg bones were left where they had been thrown when they were dug out, and Mr. Clark told the story, as has been recorded above.

It was rather a startling introduction to life in Peterborough for Mr. Clark, who has been a resident of this city only about two weeks, coming here from Gananoque.

Some History

The house, at 29 Union street, was occupied by Prof. Milner, late organist of St. Peter's Cathedral, and previous to his occupancy, July 1905, a Rickerby family lived there. The house is the property of the Dickson Company.

Statistics For September 1906

Decrease in Number of Births, Deaths and Marriages.

Statistics of the deaths, births and marriages in this city during the month of September and during the same month last year shows a queer state of affairs. There were 11 marriages in September this year as compared with 37 in the same month last year; there were 12 deaths in that month in 1906 as compared with 24 during the same month in 1905, and there were 30 births during September of this year, as compared with 31 during the same month last year.

Thus it seems that the month of September is losing its bymeneal tendencies, and little Cupid's fiery darts are becoming less effective, or the little god, sorrowed by the results of his archery, has laid aside his bow and quiver, allowing man's heart to remain untouched rather than submit him to even a chance for divorce. However, the number of births is not very disappointing, although an increase should be expected. According to the death rate, Peterborough is certainly a healthy place to live in. Dread disease has not had much effect upon the citizens, and it is very satisfactory to learn that the vitality is so high.

Attend Meeting Of Presbytery

Important Business Up For Discussion.

This morning the Peterborough Presbyterian ministers left to attend the Quarterly Presbytery meeting to be held at Hastings. Among those who left this city on the 8.30 train for that town were, Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. J. G. Potter, A. Bright, B. Harrison, Sheriff Hall, Rev. W. Johnston, Millbrook; Rev. E. A. MacKenzie, Centreville; Rev. Peter Duncan, Cobourg, Moderator; Rev. H. E. Abraham, Port Hope. Rev. Dr. Abraham, of Whitby, also went to Hastings where he will address the meeting in the interests of the Missions of the church.

Will Attend The W.M.S. Convention

Which Will Be Held in Warsaw This Week.

The Woman's Missionary Society Convention of the Peterborough District will be held in the Methodist Church, Warsaw, on Thursday, October 4. 'Busses will be at the George Street and Charlotte Street Churches at 7.30 a.m. sharp. A large attendance is hoped for.

An Accident To Employee of C.G.E.

Mr. Mordie McGill Meets With Mishap Yesterday.

Mr. Mordie McGill, an employee of the C. G. E. Works was injured while at work yesterday, a few minutes before 6 o'clock. It is not definitely known what struck him, but is is supposed to have been a heavy can. He was stunned by the blow and was unconscious for some time. The Dan Spence ambulance made a very hurried call and conveyed the injured man to his home at the corner of Lake and Aylmer streets. Dr. Young attended him, but as Mordie was not cut up by the object the accident was not very serious.

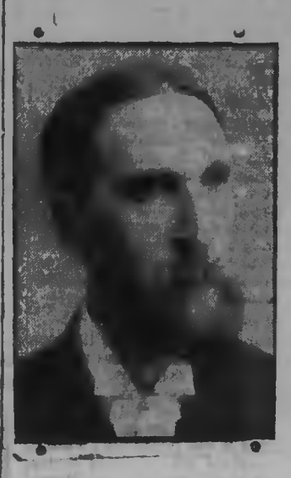
PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY MEETING



REV. E. F. TORRANCE, B.D.

A. BRIGHT, B.A.

REV. J. G. POTTER, B.A.

The Three Peterborough Presbyterian Ministers who are taking part in the Quarterly Meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery at Hastings to-day. This meeting is of more than usual importance by reason of the fact that matters affecting the future of Knox Church, Peterborough, will be discussed.

Mayor Censured By Aldermen For Losing Steel Rolling Mills

Ald. Adams and McWilliams Lay the Blame on Lack of Promptness of the City's Head--Loss is a Black-Eye to Peterborough, Says the Former--Mayor Denies the Charges.

Stormy passages characterized the discussion last night at the Council meeting on why the Peterborough Steel Rolling Mills Company decided to leave Peterborough. The censure was placed by at least a couple of the Aldermen upon the Mayor of the City for his refusal to act promptly when the proposition was first advanced by officials of the company.

He was openly accused by the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light and of the Manufacturers' Committee for the loss of the Company to the city, the former charging him with "dilly-dallying" long after the bylaw should have been submitted to the people.

Ald. Ball in the midst of the warm passages denounced the whole system of bonusing as a means to make the rich richer and the poor poorer. The other Aldermen, however, disagreed with his opinions not in principle, but in practice, and stuck to the old proverb that "when in Rome do as the Romans do."

The question was brought before the Council by a communication from the Steel Rolling Mills Company stating their intention to locate elsewhere and giving their reasons for these intentions. The problem of what share of the expense which the city was put to in preparing the bylaw and advertising it should be borne by the retiring company, first arose. Most of the Aldermen agreed that the Company should bear half the expense.

Ald. Adams Speaks

Ald Adams, who had been awaiting an opportunity, was quickly on his feet and scored the Mayor's lack of promptness in not having the bylaw submitted.

"It's not the expense," he said, "but it's the black eye which the city has received in losing the industry." He had noticed in the press that two members of the council had been blamed for its loss and it had now become quite public property. When local capitalists had been treated in this way it will be a difficult matter to get outsiders to locate here.

The Mayor, he said, was as well acquainted as any person with the reason why so much delay was caused in submitting the bylaw so that in the meantime the company had decided to go elsewhere. There was too much dilly dallying by the Mayor about the matter which should have been settled a month ago. The chances were that the other bylaw would be defeated to-day on account of being handicapped by the refusal of the Steel Company to stay.

Mayor Best—You evidently, Ald. Adams, lay the blame on me because I didn't do so and so. The Company ought to have sent in a communication, asking for what they wanted instead of going to the Manufacturers' Committee. They, themselves, have been to blame.

Ald. Adams—I don't think so.

Death on Bonuses

Ald. Ball was the next speaker. He supposed he was the other member of the council referred to, who assisted in driving the company from the city. He was not afraid nevertheless to state that he was absolutely opposed to the bonusing system. He looked upon it as a grave wrong—as a means to make rich men the richer. "I am a poor man," he said, "yet I would be ashamed to beg from any man," impressing the assertion on his hearers by an emphatic stroke on the desk.

He was convinced from the first that the company was a fake and he was in the council to vote against bonuses and would apologize to nobody.

Ald. Mason—We all object to bonuses but so long as the Government permits we have got to give them like other cities, or we won't get manufacturers here.

Ald. Elliott—Ald. Ball's argument would be all right in the Legislature but its of no use in a municipality.

Ald. McWilliams

The chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee next got the floor and dealt minutely with the negotiations with the Company up to the present. The Company first came to his committee as all others had done and were taken around the city and shown sites. He had telephoned the Mayor, who was somewhat ill at the time, and he had told him to go on with the business.

Mayor Best—Pardon me; I asked you what proposition they had to present, and you said none.

Ald. McWilliams—I beg your pardon: I did not.

Sites were shown them in different portions of the city, the most promising being the McDonald property in East City, but they were held up in the price of this. The Committee of the Whole met soon after at which the Mayor was present and at which Mr. O'Connell wrote out a proposition for him. Other objections were made by the Mayor, said the Alderman, which had nothing to do with the city. It was agreed, however, that a bylaw should be drawn up at a special meeting early in the following week to be submitted to the people. He had seen the Mayor and asked for the meeting but was refused, "and for practically three weeks" emphatically declared the Alderman, "the proposition was entirely blocked by the Mayor's stubborn actions."

The Mayor didn't even have the courtesy of informing him of the arrival of the officials in connection with the Cortes Manufacturing Concern, he said.

"Why has your company, which you have been pushing, decided to withdraw?" asked the Mayor.

"I was not pushing it and I suppose for the reasons mentioned in the letter—they went."

"Why didn't they mention what you have been accusing me of?" asked his Worship.

"Courtesy, I suppose," returned Ald. McWilliams.

With a few other remarks the communication was received.

By-law For New Smith St. Bridge

Will be Submitted to the People at January Elections.

The property owners of Peterborough will be given an opportunity to vote upon a bylaw for the erection of a new Smith street bridge at the municipal elections on January first. They will at the same time be requested to refuse or endorse the construction of a trunk sewer south of Smith street.

Ald. Johnston brought up the matter of the condition of the bridge at the Council meeting last night. Repairs have now to be made on the bridge and he thought that a bylaw ought to be submitted to the people for a new bridge as soon as possible. He also thought that a trunk sewer along the G.T.R. tracks south of Smith street should be constructed, and moved that bylaws be submitted to the people for the construction of both at the January elections.

The Examiner Instrumental In Finding Uncle

The Examiner to-day received the following letter from Alfred Woodhead, the man concerning whom his nephew wrote to Chief Rozel asking for information:

River Road, Otonabee,
Oct. 2nd, 1906

Dear Sir:—Accept my thanks for inserting in your valuable and widely circulated newspaper, the letter from my nephew, Kilner Woodhead, to Chief Rozel asking for information about me. I have written to my dear nephew giving him the information required, and in the future I shall keep in touch with him.

Yours truly,
ALFRED WOODHEAD

Ripe Raspberries In October Month

Mr. W. Asling of Smith Makes a Discovery.

Ripe raspberries in October, is the latest triumph for Peterborough county.

This morning Mr. W. Asling, who lives about three miles from the city, on the old Chemong Railway, was in the Examiner office, and exhibited a black raspberry stalk, with a number of ripe berries. He stated that the whole bush was loaded, and the peculiar thing was that it was the only bush in the garden which had any ripe berries on it.

Error in Prize Winners

—An error occurred in the list of prize winners at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. In the chip wood carving class the prize winners were announced as follows —1, Miss Hatton; 2, Mrs. W. H. Hill. The first prize winner should have been given as W. E. Lech. Miss Hatton was not represented in this class.

CITY'S ASSESSMENT
—ASSESSORS' ROLLS STATE IS—HALF MILLION MORE

Population Increased in Gratifying Manner--The Year Showing a Gain of 631 Over Last.

Progress Has Been Made in Every Ward in Population and in Assessment.

Remarkable Increase in Number of Dogs---Over 300 More Canines Than Last Year.

The assessors' rolls were yesterday returned to the City Clerk by Assessors T. B. McGrath and John Kinsella, and afford some interesting comparisons with the corresponding figures of last year. The greatest change perhaps is in the total assessment of the city, which shows an increase of nearly half a million over the 1906 figures. The actual increase is $447,-069. The total for this year is $7,968,-422, and for last year $6,815,976.

The population also shows a gratifying increase. The total number of persons in families rated as residents is 14,982, a gain of 631 over the total of last year, 14,391. It must be remembered, however, that the returns of the assessors do not represent the actual population, as there are invariably some that are missed. It is therefore expected that the population is actually over 15,000. The gain is one that should prove a source of satisfaction to everyone interested in the welfare of Peterborough.

The business assessment shows an increase of $7,417 and the income tax increases amount to $11,845.

Reception To Congregation

An Enjoyable Social Evening Spent at All Saints.

The congregational reception held last night at All Saints' Church was largely attended, the school room being well filled, and a thoroughly delightful evening was spent. An interesting programme of music was rendered, and a spirit of friendliness seemed to pervade the gathering. The rector, Rev. Wm. Major, acted as chairman, and, in opening, welcomed the visitors and assured them that it was the wish of the members of the church that those who had recently come to the city should become identified with the church.

The following programme was given, the contributors in each case receiving unmistakable evidence of the fact that their efforts were appreciated:

Violin solo, Miss Choate.
Reading, Mr. Runnet.
Sketch (humourous), Mr. Coleman.
Vocal solo, Miss Choate.
Instrumental solo, Miss English.
Vocal solo, Miss Elliott.
Instrumental solo, Miss Mulholland.

The accompanists of the evening were Miss Mulholland and Mrs. Bell.

At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served.

Recital For The Y.M.C.A. Funds

Ladies' Auxiliary to Hold One in Near Future.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. met last night to consider the question of an entertainment. It was decided to hold a recital, at some date in the near future. Three of the new teachers at the Conservatory have agreed to contribute to the programme. These artists are Miss Brodigan, Miss Lina Adamson and Mr. Geo. Collen. The date upon which the recital is to be given has not yet been decided upon.

By-law Produces Normal Interest

But Few Votes Cast at Various Booths.

The voting to-day for the bylaw providing for the purchase of a site by the city for the Rapid Tool Company, is not very brisk. As a general rule the citizens of Peterborough take very little interest in bylaws and the present one is proving to be no exception to the rule. The voting at the several polling booths visited was only normal, showing that the people were not particularly interested in the bylaw.

Found Sleeping On The Sidewalk

A Dream Shows the Fortunes at New Liskeard.

Joseph Genera, a Cavendish man, came down to the city to-day and was just in the midst of a peaceful dream sitting on the sidewalk on George street, when P. C. McGinty awakened him and the two went for a walk. Their destination of course was the police station, and there the man from the north finished his dream. On awakening there he had decided to go to New Liskeard in the spring and spend his life among the mining fields.

ENCOURAGE HOME ENTERPRISE

Naturally, those with an interest in the progress of Peterborough, are indignant over the consequences of the dilatoriness of the Chief Magistrate of the city, which has permitted another place of less importance than Peterborough, to acquire an industry, which originated in our own midst. The delay in calling together the council to deal with the proposition of the Steel Rolling Mills Company, seems to be the cause of the miscarriage of Peterborough enterprise, and Peterborough capital, and the incidental injury to the good name and substantial interests of the city. While the course of action, or, rather inactions, which led to the delay in submitting the by-law permitted other places to "get busy," and make an offer too tempting to be refused, there was doubtless some influence exercised by a concession, perhaps unconscious, but still operative, to the feeling that the company was a local concern, and would stay in Peterborough anyway. In one way the council is to blame, not, perhaps, the present council, but the council as a continuous body. It will be readily recalled, as a case in point, that the Canada Oil Company, now a million dollar concern in Toronto, was cold-shouldered out of Peterborough by the attitude of two aldermen who have never done anything substantial to advance the interests of the town — they have contented themselves with reaping advantages from the enterprise and initiative of others. The success of Peterborough is very largely due to the enterprise of a few citizens, and when they show themselves alive and aggressive, they should not be obstructed, and hindered, by those placed in a position to obstruct by the accident of misdirected popular confidence, but who are always ready to take advantage of the success secured by others, who have taken the risks, and shown the enterprise. Our men in authority are looked to to protect the interests of our own enterprising citizens, and the capital they are public spirited enough to venture, as well as to welcome the outside enterprises seeking a local habitation. Some of our best and most prosperous industries, have been built up on unassisted individual enterprise of citizens, and made prosperous by local capital. The policy should be as much to keep home industries at home, as to give a home to outside industries.

DISCREDITED PROPHECY.

The Conservative protectionists predicted disaster from the action of the Liberal Government of Canada in procuring the denunciation of the German treaties, and the imposition of the sur-tax against German goods. True, this has affected the trade relations of Canada and Germany, but not in the way the pessimists predicted. German imports into Canada have decreased under the conditions existing, but Canadian exports to Germany have increased. According to statistics, exports from Germany to Canada decreased from 38.7 million marks, (a mark is about a quarter of a dollar), in 1902, to 35.8 million marks in 1903, to 35.8 million marks in 1903 to 23.2 millions in 1904, and to 21.8 millions in 1905. Exports from Canada to Germany on the other hand, in spite of the autonomous tariff, increased from 5.9 in 1898, to 9.7 million marks, in 1905. Thus, since 1898, Canada's exports to Germany, have nearly doubled in volume. Whatever merit there may be in having what the protectionists demand, a balance of trade in favour of Canada, has been gained in this case. Yet we hear no Conservative journ- commenting favourably upon the, to them, happy conditions of the trade relations between Germany and Canada.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Borden says his hope is in the young men. Those young enough not to remember the Nest of Traitors will, says the Montreal Herald, begin to get votes about 1916.

A Government commission will investigate the Provincial Institution for the Blind at Brantford. Only the other day Mr. Hanna was horrified, the Toronto Star says, to hear that Grits had been discovered on the premises.

Hon. George E. Foster will go up to the meeting of Parliament in November, like a giant refreshed with new wine. The investigation into the financial methods of the Independent Foresters, has supplied him with new stores of indignation to pour out upon imaginary Liberal scandals.

It cannot be said that, though the parishioners of St. John's church, Ottawa, may be as harmless as doves, they are not as wise as serpents. The Government wants the church property as a site for a new departmental building. The Government appraisers puts the value at $61,000, but the vestry holds out for $120,000.

A glance at yesterday's Toronto papers, shows an unusual number of street car accidents. From the nature of these it would appear that instead of demanding an increased number of cars, attention should be given to instructting the public how to get on and off cars. This may be as difficult a matter as keeping the street railway in order, for it seems impossible to teach a woman, especially, to avoid leaving a moving car contrary to the direction of its movement.

The commercial prosperity of the country at large shows no abatement. The people having the means of purchasing largely, and the activity of industrial development combine to keep up the volume of customs payments. The customs revenue of the Dominion for the month of September amounted to $4,657,412, an increase of $741,394 over the corresponding month of last year. During the three months that have already elapsed of the current financial year the customs collections have been $12,835,743, an increase of $1,506,072.

There seems to be a good deal of solicitude as to what the nature of the tariff revision at the November session of Parliament will be. Mr. Fielding is keeping his counsel, and every forecast is sure to be mere speculation. Nobody, however, has reason to be unduly concerned. The country is prospering amazingly under the present tariff, and from Mr. Fielding's treatment of the tariff question in the past, there is reason to believe that whatever revision will be made, will be made in the interest of the country at large.

We don't hear much of J. Israel Tarte now-a-days. Simply because he does not now belong to a class that is everlastingly projecting itself into the limelight. He belongs to a class that does not parade its good works — does good by stealth, and blushes to find it fame. He is busy at his journalistic desk, and the staid and judicial Montreal Witness thus testifies to the good work he is doing. It says:

"Mr. Tarte is a giant as a journalist, and is doing his country the grandest service as such. There is no other personality in Canadian journalism that can stand beside him as a personality."

Mr. Tarte as a publicist, was a man of unbounded energy, a man of big ideas. If anybody had provided him with the money he would have revolutionized the public works system of the Dominion. He would have made our transportation system a marvel.

Jeremiah Carew, the "star" witness in the London bribery case, has a record, which does not furnish very strong prima facie evidence of his truthfulness and reliability. The following testimony to his character, given by Collins himself, under oath, is interesting and instructive:

"Mr. Robinette then made Collins' record in London public. 'You have had a rather lively time up in London. Up for assault, June, 1902. Dismissed,' read the lawyer from a list.

"'Gambling, March, 1903. $20 fine.'

"'Breach of the Liquor Act in your hotel. Let off.'

"'Charged with assault again. A family affair. Is that true?'

"'Yes,' said the witness.

"'Disorderly, January, 1905. $5 and costs.'

"Witness admitted all the charges after some grumbling.

"'Have you a fair education?' asked Mr. Robinette.

"'No.'"

Collins has for months, it is said, been threatening to sue the Liberal organization of London for moneys which he claims to have spent in the election, but no attention was paid to his demands.

Union Street Man Makes A Gruesome Find

A Solution

To get down to an explanation—Dr. Gray, the County Coroner, to whom, of course, the occurrence was reported, expressed his opinion, after learning the circumstances of the case, that no foul play had taken place. His theory, which he maintains is the only correct one, is that the body was exhumed from some cemetery by a medical student, and after he had his curiosity satisfied, he buried the members in the yard, where they were found. The fact that the top of the skull was sawn off leads him to this belief, and indicates, he states, that it was the work of a student, since that is the practice invariably employed.

Who Did It?

That fact being granted, the next that has to be established, is as to the identity of the person who performed the deed. It is understood that at one time a family lived in the house, one of the members of which was a medical student, and the suggestion is made that this fact accounts for the presence of the remains in the condition in which they were found.

No Inquest

The Coroner does not think it necessary to take any action since there is no indication of foul play. In the meantime, 29 Union street has been given distinction, and will be regarded a little differently in the future from what it was in the past, when it is remembered that probably during the dark nights, when the neighbours were wrapped in slumber, a prospective member of the medical profession was engaged in the study of the human anatomy.

The find has not disturbed Mr. Clark, who this morning went to work as usual.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Sidewalks Must Not Be Obstructed

Fruit Men Appeared in Police Court This Morning.

This morning at the police court one of the Minicolo brothers and Mr. Longa, two fruit dealers, were arraigned before the Magistrate, charged with leaving fruit on the sidewalk on Saturday, after they had been notified to remove it, and that it was contrary to the city bylaw. The men did not quite understand the law and left the fruit on a shelf outside the windows. The Magistrate dismissed them with a warning.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Oct. 2. — Developments this morning favoured further improvement along specialty lines in the stock market and such betterment took place followed by profit-taking which naturally brought about a wholesale re-action. Rock Island and the Wisconsin Central were the features with good advances in each. The Steels were strong and Copper acted well. Southern Pac. was strong late in the day when the rest re-acted. It will go higher.

A big advance in cotton futures caused some selling which seemed to be well taken. The afternoon market was very irregular and confusing, being alternately weak and strong. The close was steady.

Bleeding Piles.

"For two years I suffered from bleeding piles and lost each day about a cup of blood. Last summer I went to the Ottawa general hospital to be operated on, but my old trouble returned and again I lost much blood. My father advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, and two boxes cured me. I have every reason to believe that the cure is a permanent one." — Mr. Arthur Lepine, school teacher, Granite Hill, Muskoka, Ont.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

If you believe in fortune telling anybody can fool you.

After some people have done their duty they act as if they expect people to cheer.

If you are disagreeable, people will hate you. There are no exceptions to this rule.

When a man is compelled to make an effort to be good natured, he should see a doctor at once.

Every man is occasionally against this proposition: He can't afford to, and he can't afford not to.

If the attention of those you are talking to wanders frequently, that is a sign that you are not talking well and see talking too much.

Some people think they are all right if they don't steal. But there are many other things you must do, if you want to stand well with your neighbors.—Atchison Globe.

The Indispensable "Well."

Across the club luncheon table a man looked up from his grilled sole and proclaimed that no man in England can carry on a conversation without saying "well." The usual bet was made. For a week the two friends glared at each other, knowing that "well" is the beginning of most casual sentences. You may not have noticed that. Dumbly they parted day by day, with a handshake and the word "well" frozen on their lips. After a week one of the two had to confess that the language had got the better of him. "Well," he said, "I'd rather drop a sovereign over that dinner than choke that 'well.' I can't talk without it."—London Chronicle.

A Hard Shot.

A prominent lawyer in Ohio, who was very eccentric, always rubbed his hands and went through several other movements before speaking. One day while in court a younger lawyer, after seeing him do this several times, got up and did it, too, in a very slow and deliberate manner, and, after saying what he was going to, sat down, whereupon the older man got up and said, "That young man acts like a good lawyer, but he talks like a fool."

Finnish Matrimony.

All the way our driver had been very chatty. He told us how he had chosen his wife. He said: "There was some talk of her in the village. My aunt's nephew spoke to me of her, but I never saw her till the day before we were engaged. When I heard of her, I went to the puhumy—man of speech—who always arranges these things. I gave him 5 marks for her. She liked what she heard of me, and she gave him, as she was bound, a white shirt. Then I thought I would see her, so we arranged to meet at church at Unniekemi, and we went there, and it was all right. We get on together."—"Vignettes of Finland."

Alluring.

"Yes, he's a cigar manufacturer and yet he never smokes."

"Oh, yes, he does!"

"Why, he told me some time ago that he never smoked in his life."

"That was before he began to advertise. He found his own advertisements so alluring that he just started in."

Diplomacy.

The Friend—Was Mrs. Heviwaite pleased with her portrait?

The Artist—Oh yes. I managed to make her resemble what she thinks she used to look like.—Brooklyn Life.

WITH THE SMALL FRY

An editor got married recently and gave the wedding the following write up:—"This is the first instance in several years of newspaper work that the writer has dared to tell the truth about a wedding for fear of getting licked and does so now with a keen relish. The groom is an editor and not an accomplished and popular leader in society; in fact he does not know as much about it as a rabbit. His hair is red and the freckles on his face crowd each other for room. He has never considered that the futuure looked very bright and promising. The bride judging from the job she has taken on her hands, is a woman of more than ordinary nerve."—Warkworth Journal.

If a local expedition were organized to search for "hidden treasure" there is opportunity, according to rumor, for employment within the limits of the corporation. A wireless report says some of the town boys made a raid upon a neighbouring melon patch the other night and secured a large amount of fruit—part of which has been hidden away somewhere.—Norwood Register.

We "mind the time" when a good, sound young horse could be bought for $100 or less; but that time is past. Last week Mr. Samuel McGee, of Fenelon, sold a two-year-old McNair colt to Mr. John Westaway for $185, and we have heard of still higher prices being paid for older animals. In spite of bicycles and automobiles, horses are getting dearer all the time—which makes us glad that we don't want to buy one.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

At last is has rained, and heavily, too so that those who like to see bon-fires going may gratify their wish withdut much danger to other property. Several little blazes have caused us excitement of late, such as the blaze near Mr. Little's fence, the bon-fire in Mrs. Armstrong's yard, the larger and more disastrous fires in Sam. Patton's bush and at our cheese factory, which is now among past relics of former greatness.—Newcastle Independent.

Let the fellow who is lamenting the shortage of the apple crop this season go up and sleep all night in Wm. Rickard's and if he does not think at the peep of day he is in the Garden of Eden, it will be because he is thinking of women rather than apples.—Newcastle Independent.

Perhaps Omemee can boast of sending more young men to the ministry than any other town of its size. The excellent Public and High Schools, with their splendid teaching staff, no doubt have much to do with the steady advancement from bright childhood to clever manhood and womanhood, and hence they go out in life ready to take their part in any position in which brains and energy are required.—Omemee Mirror.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Cauliflower should be turned head downward in cooking, so that any scum may not by any chance settle on the white portion.

The resistance of glass jars that refuse to open can be overcome by setting them, top downwards, in an inch or two of hot water.

To clean plaster of paris ornaments cover them with a thick coating of starch, and allow this to become perfectly dry. Then it may be brushed off, and the dirt with it.

Now flannel should be put into clean, cold water, and kept there for a day or so, changing the water frequently. Wash well in warm water, using a little soap to remove the oil. Flannel thus washed does not harden or shrink.

Soak new blankets, when washing, in plenty of cold water for about an hour previous to washing. This cold steep is to draw out the sulphur used in dressing the wool. New blankets require much stronger soapsuds than old ones, and must be taken through a greater number of waters.

After washing lace curtains lay a blanket on the floor in some empty room, spread the curtains on the blankets, stretching them carefully, and they will keep their place without any fastening until dried.

To remove coffee stains, wet the spots with glycerine and water, and they will disappear as if by magic.

Heat a lemon thoroughly before squeezing, and you will obtain nearly double the quantity of juice that you would if it had not been heated.

Graniteware can be soldered as easily as tinware by adopting the following method: Brush over the edges of the holes to be mended with shell-lac—both inside and outside—and immediately apply the melted solder, which will adhere firmly.

Molasses stirred into buckwheat pancake batter will make them brown nicely; about two tablespoonfuls to two quarts of the batter. They are apt to burn if too much is used.

The worn and greasy collars and cuffs of a coat can be easily cleaned with benzine and an old, clean brush.

A grease spot on a woollen can be removed by rubbing quickly and vigourously with a coarse, dry towel.

Grass stains can be removed by well saturating the marks with kerosene and washing the garment in very hot water.

To keep cake from sticking to baking pans—after greasing pans well sift in some flour, shake pan so flour will get all over grease, and then turn out what does not stick to pan, and put in your batter.

A couple of little red peppers dropped in kettle with cabbage will keep the odour from going all over the house.

To remove iron mould or rust, the best way is to stretch the spots over a bowl and moisten with salts of lemon until the spots disappear. Then the soiled part should be thoroughly rinsed in warm water to remove the acid.

For paint stains, rub with turpentine or benzine, or, if very obstinate, they can be removed by touching with chloroform.

Machine oil stains should be rubbed with soap and cold water. Perspiration stains should be removed by rubbing with soap and laying the garment in the hot sun.

Shoe leather stains on white stockings may be removed by applying oxalid acid diluted with water, in the proportion of half an ounce of acid to a pint of water. Rinse and repeat until the stain is gone. Wash very thoroughly afterward or the acid will leave a mark of its own.

Put freshly scraped onion on bee or wasp stings and the pain will soon subside.

Bloodlessness or Thin Blood

Because it actually forms a certain amount of blood each day, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an unqualified success as a treatment for bloodlessness or anaemia, as it is sometimes called.

Lack of blood is indicated by paleness of the lips, gums and eyelids, and is usually accompanied by weakness, tired feelings, indigestion and low spirits.

Anaemia is generally very difficult to overcome, but you can be certain that every dose of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing you at least some good, because of its blood forming qualities, and that persistent treatment will be rewarded by thorough cure.

Science has discovered the elements of Nature which go directly to the formation of new, rich blood, and these are most happily combined in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which has in hundreds of thousands of cases proven its marvellous power to create new blood and build new, firm flesh and tissue.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

Bad Attack of La Grippe.

A year ago I had a bad attack of la grippe, and all the doctor's prescriptions proved to be of no avail. I was told to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and found it a great blessing, as it thoroughly cured me. I told my doctor that I intended to recommend it to all my friends." —Mrs. L. Hutton 12 Claremont street, Toronto, Ont.

FOR THE LARGER CANADA.

Dominion Must Have a Soul as Well as a Body—Protest Against Crass Materialism.

It is not what Canada now is or what Canada has done, but what Canada may yet do and may yet become that give distinction and alertness to Canadian life to-day. The interest is that of the unclouded morning of a new day; the enthusiasm is that of an eager and healthy youth; the rejoicing is that of a strong man to run a race. As yet Canada has to its credit, for the most part, only a fair start, a great opportunity, and a worthy ambition. After four decades of reconstruction and readjustment and steady progress the people of this half-continent of the Canadian Dominion feel, as never in the past, the thrill and beat of a new national life. It is the virile and abounding life of the larger Canada.

The elements in our national life, the factors that make for material wealth, or for social betterment, or for moral culture must all be drawn upon, each to contribute its quota for the nation that is to be. The railways and the steamship lines, the great manufacturing industries and the institutions of commerce and trade, the farmer and the miner and the lumberman, the inventor and the artisan, the teacher and the philosopher, the poet and the preacher and the statesman, all who in any way add to the wealth or increase the worth of Canadian citizenship—to them the call comes from the larger Canada.

Life in a half-continent peopled from the ends of the earth cannot but be complex. In its complexity is the charm and the hope of Canadian life. Not a replica of any of the old-world nations, but a composite out of which a new type of national character may emerge, the Canadian type is the opportunity and the ambition of this latest born among the nations.

And if that Canadian type is to survive it must stand for something more than mere bigness, says The Toronto Globe. The larger Canada must have a soul as well as a body or its decay will be certain and swift. A nation is great not because its territory is wide and its natural resources abundant. Its greatness is in those qualities which cannot be reckoned in the counting-house or stored in the granary; in the greatness of its nature, the magnanimity of its impulses, the integrity of its honor, and the worth of its service. In the day of Canada's recognition among the nations of the world its rank will be fixed by the courage with which it faced its difficulties, by the high purpose with which it made use of its unparalleled and unencumbered heritage, and by the worth of its contribution to the spiritual wealth of the world. The Canadian type of character will fix the national rank of the larger Canada.

A Dog Hero.

Dan Dalton, a Wabash engineer, residing in St. Thomas, relates a dog story that is almost beyond acceptance Yet anyone who knows Dalton will admit that he is not given to exaggeration and he is regarded as a man of veracity.

"I was coming west this week with an immigrant special," said Mr. Dalton in telling of the incident. "Between Ekfrid and Glencoe I noticed a large dog on the track. We whistled, but did not think of stopping. My attention was attracted by the peculiar actions of the animal. He jumped around and kept looking straight at the oncoming train. The next time I looked I was horrified to see a little child on the track.

"We closed off steam, put on the brakes, but I knew that the train could not stop in time. It looked just like murder, but there was absolutely no way of avoiding an accident unless the little tot got out of the way.

"The wheels were jarring and the cars were bumping under the brake pressure when we neared the spot. I wanted to turn my head away, but I kept my eyes glued on the dog in front of the child. That noble beast never faltered. He stood like the dumb hero that he is, although in his inferior intelligence the dog must have been warned by instinct to jump out of the way for his own safety. As true as I sat, in that engine, the dog remained in front of the baby, who was standing near one rail, perhaps unconscious of danger and perhaps confident of safety in the dog's company.

"Well, we struck the dog first, but by doing so the dog knocked the child out of harm's way. Neither were injured to any extent, because we were almost stopped at the time. The dog was wild with joy when we picked up the babe and carried it off the track."

In preaching his farewell sermon at Fredericton, N. B., a reverend gentleman surprised his parishioners with a lawyer's letter sent to the pastor of St. Mary's to read to them. The letter stated that certain vestrymen desired an accounting for certain monies which were the proceeds of a concert held at the three churches and stated that if an accounting was not forthcoming legal proceedings would be taken.

City Council Attends To Many Business Matters

Numerous Petitions Received—Reports of Various Committees—Council Passes Resolution Endorsing Petition for Maintaining High Water Level in Canal—School Board's Request Goes to Committee of the Whole.

The city council met in regular session last night, and besides the ordinary routine business of receiving communications, and passpassing bylaws, discussed a number of other problems of vital importance to the city. The most important discussion was on the withdrawal of the Steel Rolling Mills Company from locating in the city, a report of which will be seen in another column.

The members present were Mayor Best, Ald. Tovey, Johnston, Hicks, Mason, Elliott, Graham, Ball, Wilson, McIntyre, McWilliams and Adams.

Communications

From the City Treasurer, stating that none of the property owners now having sewer connections with any of the city outfall sewers, have paid their $25 for connections, as instructed, according to bylaw No. 1200, and asking for further instructions from the council.

Moved by Ald. Adams and Graham that the solicitor be instructed to take proceedings against all who refuse to pay the required amount.

From the Board of Works, asking the council to build sewer on King street from Stewart to Bethune, for the purpose of draining that locality for sanitary purposes.—Board of Works.

From D. W. Dumble and 23 others, asking for a sewer on Aylmer street, from park lot No. 4 to Romaine street, and from Romaine street to Lock street.—Board of Works.

From Jas. Long, confectioner, stating that he had been assessed at the rate of 60 per cent. for business assessment, instead of 30 per cent., causing a difference of $22.05 or more in his taxes, and asking that this be refunded. — Court of Revision.

From A. A. Fowler and 28 other residents, asking for an arc lamp at the corner of Ross and Haslitt streets.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From E. G. Patterson, general superintendent of the C. G. E. Co., asking that the council defer making definite arrangements re fire alarm system for a couple of weeks, as Peterborough manufacturers would like to be heard with some suggestions. The letter also stated that the association would hold a meeting within a week's time, to consider the matter. — Received.

From Thos. Kinnear asking for a granolithic sidewalk on the east side of George street from Dalhousie [illegible] south of Dalhousie.—Board of Works.

From the Dickson Co., Limited, and Alex. Dawson, asking for a granolithic sidewalk on the south side of Hunter street from a point 379 feet east of Queen street to a point 520 feet east of Queen street. — Board of Works.

From Mr. Richard Hall, asking for a granolithic sidewalk on the east side of George street from the north side of lot 25 plan 42, 264 feet to south side of Argyle street. — Board of Works.

From R. W. Grubbe and a number of others, asking for an electric light at the corner of McDonel and Dickson street.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From "one interested," calling attention to the condition of Stewart street, south of Perry street. This block is naturally low and water lies upon it, especially in the spring. A sewer was put in this summer, and the road there is even more impassable now than it was before. — Board of Works.

From Edmison & Dixon, on behalf of a number of ratepayers, asking that Aylmer street be graded from the property of Mayor Best south to the boundary of Prince street, the new street crossing Aylmer street. Board of Works.

From the secretary of the Board of Education, asking for the early construction of the sewer down Aylmer street to Princess street, and along Princess to Lake street, as it is important that early drainage be provided for the new school in the south ward.—Board of Works.

From the Board of Health recommending the city council to appoint a man to look after the health of the community, and that the council be asked to meet the board to confer on the matter.

Moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the matter be referred to the Committee of the Whole.—Carried.

From R. R. Hall, M. P., asking that a petition be sent to the Minister of Railways and Canals, petitioning the Government to maintain the highest possible level in the canal.

Moved by Ald. Adams and Elliott, that a motion be passed endorsing the petition.—Carried.

The report was adopted.

Ald. Adams read the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, which was adopted.

Ald. McIntyre read the report of the special committee with respect to licensing of milk vendors. The report was adopted.

By-laws

Bylaw No. 1251 was read, to authorize the construction of sidewalks on certain streets in the city, and providing for the construction of the same.

Bylaw No. 1251 was read, to authorize the construction of sewers on Douro and Aylmer streets and providing for the construction thereof.

Bylaw No. 1253 was read, providing for the licensing of milk vendors in the city.

Moved by Ald. McIntyre and Ald. Wilson that the matter of appointing an inspector to enforce the bylaw be referred to the special committee dealing with the milk vendors and report at the next meeting.

Ald. Mason thought that it was unnecessary to appoint an inspector for this purpose as the Medical Health Officer could do the work, and save the expense.

Ald. McIntyre's motion carried.

Bad Condition of Streets

Ald. Johnston brought up the matter of the condition in which the streets were left after being dug up by companies laying gas pipes etc., and thought that something should be done to remedy the evil. Ald Mason also referred to the manner in which companies and corporations leave goods for weeks on the streets A number of the other aldermen also censured the way the streets were obstructed, and left after being dug up.

To Have Pole Removed

Mr. Dunslow, who is erecting a factory for the manufacture of show cases and photo mounts near the G.TR. tracks, east of Bethune and north of Dublin streets, was present, and asked to have the Peterborough Light and Power Co. remove a pole in front of his factory, as it obstructed the entrance. The matter was left in the hands of the City Engineer, with power to act.

School Board's Request

A communication was received from the Board of Education asking that the council grant $21,000 towards the fund for the erection of a Collegiate Institute, in addition to the $40,000 available. It was left in the hands of the Committee of the Whole to deal with.

Charged With Pocket-Picking; Was Committed For Trial

Milburn Morrison, Arrested by P. C. Newhall at the Exhibition, Sent Up for Trial—Bail Fixed at $1000 —Evidence Appears to be Strong Against Him.

Sufficient evidence was given this morning at the police court to commit for trial at the fall assizes, Milburn Morrison, the Brockville youth, arrested last Wednesday by P. C. Newell at the Peterborough Exhibition, on a charge of pocket-picking. The testimony of the various witnesses of the Crown appeared to point directly to the guilt of the prisoner, whose actions attracted the attention of more than the officer, who shadowed him on the afternoon of the fair. He was seen to jostle up against crowds at various times and walk quietly away behind the vehicles, collect his money from several pockets, put it together and replace it in an inside pocket.

Letters were read from some of the most influential men of Brockville by his counsel to substantiate his good character, but these were offset by one from the Chief of Police of that city stating he had been arrested on a charge of larceny at one time, which was proven against him, but had been allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Crown Attorney Wood was present on behalf of the Crown, while the interests of the prisoner were looked after by Mr. D. O'Connell.

Policeman's Evidence

P. C. Newell who played the role of the detective so successfully was the first witness against the prisoner. He had all the facts of the pursuit and arrest at his fingers end and varied nothing in the cross examination. He testified he had reached the fair grounds about 2.45 p.m., on Wednesday and while outside the grounds saw the prisoner accompanied by two other young men of dark complexion, pushing among the crowd at the ticket wicket, but making no attempt to purchase any, although they had plenty of opportunities. He was in uniform at the time and the two darker men noticing him watching immediately jumped on an up-town car. He told the conductor to watch them while he watched the prisoner and when he turned around to look for the prisoner he had disappeared. A man, he heard, had lost some money. He then went home and returning in civilian clothes soon caught sight of Morrison again watching the course of events at the Coney Island show on the midway. The prisoner was standing behind an elderly man, pushing him and shouting "Hit the Nigger, boys." His right hand was on the old man's hip and he was making no effort to get between the crowd.

Morrison soon left there and moved on to the next crowd where somewhat similar antics were gone through. He left with his hand in his hip pocket with the palm turned outwards visible to all. His next objective point was the display building where the officer followed him. He picked up a tin box which he thought he purchased. He jostled among several ladies who were in the building but got very fidgety and left by the south door. The Coney Island show again attracted his attentions and this time prisoner placed his chin on a young man's shoulder standing directly behind him. He next walked back to where a number of buggies were situated, drawing bills from several pockets, counted them and put them together in his inside coat pocket. The building was entered again but catching sight of the officer scrutinizing eye, he went on a half run around the clothing tent of Lang and Maher. The witness went the other way and arrested him while sitting on the window sill, telling him he was arrested for picking pockets.

"Picking pockets!—Oh, my God! were his instant ejaculations. "I admit my conduct was suspicious, and I was with the gang; I ought to get a good swift kick. I am a respectable medicine man, and you will find out later."

On arriving at the police station the prisoner was searched, and $16 in bills, besides $1.95 in silver, were found on his person.

Earle Downey's Evidence

Downey gave evidence somewhat similar to that of the policeman concerning the prisoner's actions among the crowd, which had attracted his attention. He concluded that he (Morrison) was assisting the "niggers."

Evidence of Robt. Howland

Robert Howland, porter for Grafton & Co., was the last witness for the Crown, and some heated words passed between him and the counsel for the defence. His story was similar to others in respect to the prisoner's peculiar actions among the crowd at the Coney Island show. Witness said that he had a new suit on that day with brass buttons. The first time witness approached the show the prisoner spoke to the darkey selling the balls, and pointing towards him (witness) held his hand to his mouth in a confidential manner. After the conversation the darkey shook his head.

Mr. O'Connel — Thought you were the Chief of Police, I suppose?

The witness watched him further, and thinking him a suspicious character quietly told P. C. Newhall who had just come up, to "watch that man."

Letters Read

Mr. O'Connel at the conclusion of the evidence, submitted to the magistrate that the prisoner was arrested on a foundationless charge. He then read letters from prominent citizens of Brockville, including Mayor Stewart, Charles R. Dean, barrister, and D. Derbyshire, as to the character of the prisoner. The Crown Attorney also read a letter from the Chief of Police of that city mention of which has been made above.

The Magistrate then committed the prisoner for trial, fixing bail at one thousand dollars, and two five hundred dollars sureties.

The father of the prisoner was also present at the court.

City Takes An Industry Away From Royal City

Coates Carpet Works Were About to Go to Guelph—Lack of Cheap Power Was Factor Which Decided Company Against That City.

It appears that Guelph was one of the competitors with Peterborough for the carpet works, in which the Coates family will establish here. The Mercury, of that city, yesterday said: Ald. J. W. Lyon, chairman of Manufactures, received a concrete example to-day of the benefit cheap power was providing in inducing manufacturers to locate in certain cities. Niagara Falls, Welland, St. Catharines, Orillia, Fort William and Peterborough are favourably situated as to electric power, that convenient source of supply being available at Peterborough at $15 per horse power. This has been the turning point with the Coates Company, the principals of which have been this month investigating manufacturing advantages in Ontario.

Mr. Coates and Mr. Dunwoodie were in Guelph early in the month, and Ald. Lyon impressed upon them Guelph's advantages. He also promised on his own behalf, if they would locate at Guelph, that he would give them a site of five acres adjoining the G.T.R. railway switch and $5,000 cash. Mr. Coates said, on leaving Ald. Lyon, that if they did not locate in Fort William they would in all probability locate in Guelph. This morning he received a letter from Mr. Coates' Toronto representatives, in reply to a letter putting this offer in writing, and inquiring as to whether anything had been done.

The letter stated that the writer could not hold out any hopes of the city's offer being accepted.

Cheese Market Firm And Hopeful To-day

And Prospects for Sales Being at Good Prices To-morrow Here Are Bright.

The Montreal Star, referring to the cheese situation yesterday, said: At the Board this morning, Quebec cheese sold at 12 3-4c. There were several merchants through the market talking the price up again, and sales of Townships were reported to have been made over the cable at 13c. Although some dealers quote 12 7-8c to 13c for Quebecs, 13c to 13 1-8c for Townships and 13 1-8c to 13 1-4c for Ontarios, others claim that trading is not going on at the top figures, but at the lower, although sellers are trying to get the outside. However, if trading is going on at either figure, it is a good indication, as very little was done last week at any price. On the whole, the market is firm and hopeful.

Chicago Lady Visiting Here

Mrs. Geo. Dunoon Here to Attend Aunt's Funeral

Mrs. George Dunoon, of 1308 Sherman avenue, has been called away to Peterborough, Ont., on account of the death of her aunt, Mrs. J. Gibbs, who died on Wednesday, September 26. While in Canada she will visit friends and relatives in Toronto, Lindsay, and in Detroit on her return journey. Mr. and Mrs. G. Dunoon celebrated their thirty-third wedding anniversary this summer, having been married in Lindsay, Canada, in 1873. Mrs. Dunoon will be home about the middle of October.—Western British American, Chicago.

Verulam Steer Raised Objections

To Being Transported From His Native Heath.

Mr. John Britton, Verulam, brought in a fine lot of cattle for shipment. They were loyal to their native heath and had strong objections to being stripped. When they arrived at the station and saw what the little game was they took to the water and made for Buckley's Island. Boats were manned and they were got back to the yard, but one of them, a gray steer, charged through the crowd of drovers and started for home. The turn at the canal was too short for him and he jumped in. After being lassoed and hauled out he was still game, and while having a rope placed on his front foot, made some very pretty play with his hind feet that kept even the bravest at a respectable distance. The poor fellow had in the end to succumb to the overwhelming force, and the inexorable cattle train carried him away from the peaceful fields of Verulam.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

THISTLES AND DANDRUFF

An Interesting Parallel and a Valuable Deduction Therefrom,

Cutting down thistles no more relieves the land of thistles than does scouring the scalp cure dandruff. In each case permanent relief can only come from eradicating permanently the cause. A germ that flows up the scalp in searching for the hair root, where it eats the vitality, causes dandruff, falling hair and baldness. If you kill that germ you'll have no dandruff, but a luxuriant suit of hair. Newbro's Herpicide is the only hair preparation in the world that cures dandruff and falling hair by killing the germ. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

BURLEIGH LOCKS TO BE CLOSED FOR REPAIRS

The Burleigh Locks will be closed on Oct. 15th, and will not re-open until the spring of 1907. This is an order of the Superintending Engineer, Mr. Grant, who has decided to make some necessary repairs to the locks. New lock gates will be made and hung, and a number of other repairs will be carried out during the fall and winter. It is expected that it will require all the time between Oct. 15th and the opening of navigation next year to complete the work of improvements to these locks.

The lake navigation will not by any means be closed by the middle of this month, and it is expected that some slight inconvenience will be caused, but this cannot be avoided.

The Peterborough Branch Report Was Presented

Women's Art Association Annual Meeting Was Held Yesterday in Toronto--The Election of Officers.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Woman's Art Association was held yesterday afternoon in the gallery of the association in Toronto, Mrs. Dignam in the chair. Mrs. John A. Paterson, First Vice-President, read the general report, and also by request those of the Recording and Corresponding Secretaries. The Treasurer, Miss Lindsay, read a condensed report showing a small balance in the bank. The members, of whom there are 548, paid fees to the amount of $1,030. Reports were read from Ottawa (this was formerly organized by H. R. H. Princess Louise), Winnipeg, Peterborough, Halifax, Charlottetown, P.E.I., Fredericton, N.B., Moncton, N.B., St. John, N.B., and Kingston—all the branches speaking of increasing interest in the work, especially in that connected with home industries. Mrs. Dignam stated that she had arranged for a large number of splendid paintings to be sent from Holland and different parts of the Continent. The Doukhobors' work had done extremely well, the workers always faithfully fulfilling the orders, the linen being sent from here to be embroidered. The beautiful basket work, now dying out, and bead work of British Columbia and New Brunswick Indians was also spoken of.

Mrs. Ball, seconded by Mrs. W. H. Clemes, moved the adoption of the reports.

The following unanimous elections were held:

President, Mrs. Dignam.

First Vice-President, Mrs. J. A. Paterson.

Second Vice-President, Mrs. Fitz Randolph, Fredericton, N.B.

Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. C. D. Scott.

Recording Secretary, Mrs. Robert Inglis.

Treasurer, Miss Fannie Lindsay.

The various committees were then appointed, and a large committee, with power to add to their number, was appointed to superintend the arrangements for the exhibition. The meeting adjourned with afternoon tea.

THE GRAND'S GREATEST OFFERING TO-NIGHT

The Red Feather

THE FINEST AND LARGEST MUSICAL COMPANY ON THE ROAD

PRICES—25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.50

AN ORANGE BAND MAY BE ORGANIZED IN CITY

The regular meeting of Diamond L.O.L. No. 80 was held last night in their hall on Simcoe street. There was an unusually large turn-out. Worshipful Master Barkley was in the chair, with the other officers installed, the lodge opened in due form. Among other business committees were appointed for arranging the church parade on Nov. 4th, fixing the place, etc., also a committee for concert and entertainment at Foresters' Hall on the 5th. The question of launching a band, putting a hundred dollars into the venture was introduced.

The Scarlet Chapter will open on the 14th at 4.30 p.m. A number of Brethren are to receive the Royal Arch Degree to-night at Downer's Corners. Bro. Richie, Worshipful Master in charge at the conclusion of business, by special request the Rev. A. H. Brace addressed the Brethren.

WEDDING BELLS

SULLIVAN—CONROY

St. Peter's Cathedral was the scene of an interesting wedding this morning, when Mr. Leo Sullivan, son of Mr. Edward Sullivan, of Douro, was married to Miss Katie Conroy, daughter of Mr. Michael Conroy, of Otonabee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McColl, at 8 o'clock, in the presence of a number of friends of the contracting parties.

The bride was dressed in white estin trimmed with lace. She was attended by her sister, Miss Maggie Conroy, while Mr. J. E. Sullivan, brother of the groom, performed the duties of groomsman. After the wedding the usual breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. McMahon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan will reside on George street.

WOOD—SYMONS.

Many Peterborough friends of the popular groom will be interested in the following report of the wedding of Dr. "Billie" Wood, formerly of Port Hope, from the Toronto Star:—

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Symons of Madison avenue sprang somewhat of a surprise on their friends in announcing the recent marriage of their youngest daughter, Isabel Barnsford, to William Graham Wood, D.D.S., of Toronto and formerly of Port Hope, Ont.

The marriage had been arranged to take place later in the year, but owing to the hurried departure of Dr. Wood for Colorado to fill an appointment recently secured there, and which will necessitate his absence from Toronto for some months, arrangements were hastily concluded, and the marriage took place in Winnipeg, where Miss Symons had been spending a holiday with her aunt, Mrs. Frederick H. Hesson. The ceremony was performed at Holy Trinity church on September 18th by the Rev. Charles W. McKim. The bride was attended by her cousin, our, and was given away by her uncle, Mr. F. H. Hesson.

After an informal supper, in which many Winnipeg friends of the young couple joined, Dr. and Mrs. Wood left for their temporary home in Colorado, expecting to spend the winter in Denver, returning to Toronto in the spring. While the unexpected hasty departure of the bride has been the source of great disappointment to her many Toronto friends, she has been recipient of many congratulations on preferring to forego the usual nuptial festivities to a winter's separation from her fiance, and will, no doubt, be warmly welcomed on her return to Toronto.

McDONOUGH—CHAMBERLAIN.

At St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at nine o'clock, an interesting wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Kelly. The groom was Mr. John McDonough of this city, Miss Nellie Chamberlain of Lindsay, was the bride. Mr. and Mrs. McDonough will reside in Peterborough.

Six Lectures Will Be Given

On Musical History Subjects in Near Future.

Mr. Cecil Carl Forsyth will, during the season, give a series of six lectures on musical history subjects. The first lecture which will be on "The Music and Musicians of Germany," will be given during the first week in November, and thereafter one each month. Each lecture will be enlivened by piano and vocal numbers by pupils of Mr. Forsyth. The whole series will be made instructive and interesting to all lovers and students of music.

Rev. Mr. Manning's Sermons Enjoyed

Preached Anniversary Sermon in Lindsay Sunday.

The Lindsay Post of Monday said: Yesterday was harvest home Sunday at Queen street Methodist church, and for the annual thanksgiving occasion, Rev. Mr. Phelps exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Manning, of Charlotte street church, Peterborough, who delivered two very instructive sermons to large audiences, both morning and evening. The collection was a special thanksgiving offering for a bountiful harvest and blessings. The special harvest music rendered by the choir was choice and much appreciated.

Nervous and Worried.

Mr. Archibald Sutherland, principal of the South Bar School, Sydney, N. S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with nervous dyspepsia, and after meals I often felt like vomiting, and my stomach was sore. I was nervous and worried, frequently had headache and shortness of breath. When several doctors failed I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it has entirely cured me. I shall be glad to be the means of bringing this medicine to the notice of any one who is suffering as I did."

OBITUARY

ALBERT ELLIOTT

The death occurred last night at the Nicholls Hospital after ten weeks' illness following appendicitis, of Albert Ray, only son of Mr. Albert Elliott, of Cavanville. The deceased was 18 years of age and had been at the Nicholls Hospital for some time. The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2 o'clock from the family residence Cavanville, to Gardener's Cemetery.

ROBERT SURTEES, C.E.

Ottawa Free Press.

One of the best known civil engineers of Canada in the person of Robert Surtees, died on Saturday at his Maclaren street home. He came to Ottawa from Hamilton in 1875 to accept the position of city engineer, and under him many of the important civic improvements were carried out. Subsequently Mr. Surtees became engineer of the Improvement Commission and was an efficient adviser in many of the important works that body has brought to completion. He had special talents as a landscape architect. In addition to his civic engineering in the capital, Mr. Surtees installed the waterworks systems of Hintonburg, Hull, Arnprior and Peterborough, and was architect of the County Jail, Protestant Hospital and several other important buildings. The late Mr. Surtees was born at Ravensworth, Yorkshire, Eng., in 1835, and was the son of an Anglican clergyman. He served an apprenticeship as civil engineer in Darlington, and when 21 years of age came to Canada as assistant city engineer of Hamilton.

Mr. Surtees was well known in Peterborough, especially among those in connection with the solution of engineering problems, with which he was associated in Peterborough, especially the city waterworks system, which was installed under his directions.

Many Students Have Enrolled

Peterboro' Business College Night School Opens.

The night classes at the Peterborough Business College were organized for the season last night, and the principal states that the attendance last night was the largest he has ever had on the opening night. There are numbers of others who, while they have enrolled, were not present last night. One of the most encouraging features of the attendance is the fact that a large proportion of the students are those who have taken up the work before, and who, appreciating the benefit it has been to them, are going again.

There are in the city hundreds of young men and women who would do well to take up the work at night in the Business College.

Attempt At Burglary Was Interrupted Just In Time

Someone Tried to Force an Entrance Into the Residence of John Weir, East City—Were Heard at the Windows and Driven Away.

Peterborough is being troubled with an epidemic of burglaries, which are causing considerable annoyance. Last night another was very nearly added to the list, the culprits being frightened away while attempting to enter.

The residence of Mr. John Weir, corner of Burnham and Sophia streets, East City, was the place marked out for pillage last night, but fortunately the schemes of the thieves were thwarted. Mrs. Weir was awakened at 12.30 o'clock by someone trying to force an entrance through the kitchen window at the north side of the house. She listened for a moment and then heard a noise at the shutters on the other side of the house. She awoke Mr. Weir, who went downstairs and found that the parties had made their escape.

This morning an examination of the premises revealed the fact that the plants had been removed from the outside sill of the kitchen window, and foot-prints could be seen on a sofa which stood beneath the window. Foot-prints were also found on the lawn near the other window.

It will be remembered that Mr. Weir's house was entered two years ago and a number of articles taken.

This The Week Of Opportunity

Good Start Being Made in Y. M. C. A. Night Classes.

Last night a good start was made in the formation of the evening classes at the Y. M. C. A. The Drawing Class met last night with a very promising enrolment. Work will begin in this class next Monday so as to allow time for students to secure their outfits and for other students to enrol. All who intend taking this course should advise the secretary at once.

The prospects for the other classes are good. There will be a good attendance at the Debating Club on Wednesday evening.

This is the week of opportunity for young men to plan to improve their spare time this fall and winter.

Expensive Portion Of Pavement

Part of Hunter Street South Will Cost Money.

Street Commissioner Evans yesterday started his sidewalk construction gang on a section of walk which will prove one of the most expensive portions in the city, considering its short length. The pavement referred to is south side of Hunter street, just west of the bridge. There is a big depression here which will have to be filled up to the level of the road, and then it will be necessary to construct a cement retaining wall on the south side of the walk. It is expected that the work will be completed in a few days.

Young People To Hold Social

St. John's A. Y. P. A. to Give Unique Entertainment.

An executive meeting of St. John's A. Y. P. U. was held last night in the Sunday school room and was well attended. The meeting was called for the purpose of making arrangements for an opening social, which will take place on Monday, October 15. On this occasion the young people are launching a new, and somewhat unique programme in the form of a musicale and promenade, after which refreshments will be served by the ladies.

The social will be entirely free and all the young people of the parish are asked to be present.

Considerable other business was discussed and will come up again at the next meeting. This society had over fifty names on the roll last year, and it is estimated that there are at least fifty more who will join this year, so that the outlook for the coming season is very bright.

Lindsay To Have Machine 'Phones

Granted 21 Year Franchise to Automatic Company Last Night.

Lindsay, Oct. 1.—Lindsay is to have competition in the telephone business. The Town Council to-night passed a bylaw granting a 21-year franchise to the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, of Toronto, which has an automatic system installed in Peterborough, and in course of installation in Brantford.

East City Cow Fond of Cabbage

Has Cost the Owner $5.60 for Two Raids.

Jas. Mongraw was charged at the police court this morning for the second time within a fortnight with allowing his cow to run at large. The same complainants, Mr. and Mrs. Schwerdt, of Driscoll Terrace, were there again and both stated that the cow committed the same offence as before—ate several of their cabbages.

Mr. Schwerdt said that 55 cabbages besides cauliflowers had been eaten by the animal.

Mr. Thompson for the defence, stated that he had counted the cabbages yesterday and found 65 head altogether, 25 being eaten and two cut by a knife.

Mr. Mongraw said that his son had been driving the cow to pasture when she escaped to the Schwerdt cabbage garden.

"I paid him before more than they were worth," he concluded, "I can get better for 30c. a dozen any day."

He was fined $2 and costs, amounting to $4.60.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches ar. require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

City League Will Meet On Thursday

Schedule for Season Will be Drawn Up.

There will be a meeting of the City League on Thursday night at 8.30 at Mac's cigar store, when representatives of the teams intending to play should be present as the schedule will have to be drawn up. The Bankers have decided to enter which assures the success of the League. Three strong teams:—the Bankers, C.G.E. and Quakers will be in the struggle for the honours.

Medals For The Collegiate Sports

Valuable Prizes Offered by Citizens.

Four medals have been donated for competition among the Collegiate Institute pupils in connection with the field day of sports and cross country run. Mr. Alex. Gibson has given medals to be presented to the senior and junior champions, and Mr. Ferguson, chairman of the Board of Education, has offered a medal for the senior winners of the cross country run, and Mr. W. G. Morrow, secretary of the Board, a similar medal for the junior winners.

The ownership of the latter two has of course been decided, but the others will be decided on Friday, when the field day of sports will be held.

Rugby Window Is Quite Seasonable

Mac's Cigar Store Shows Rugby Is King.

The window of Mac's Cigar Store affords a striking illustration of the fact that rugby is king in Peterborough just now. The window is decorated with yellow and black, Hamilton colours, and the blue and white, of Peterborough. The effect is brightened by means of a large group picture of last year's intermediate champions, and also with a rugby ball. The colours of the two teams who will battle for honours on Saturday afford an opportunity for neat window dressing and of this ample advantage has been taken.

The Peterborough Team Made Good Impression

Upon the Toronto Press in the Work in Saturday's Game Against the Victorias--Some Bouquets for the Local Players.

The Peterborough rugby team created a good impression in Toronto on Saturday, according to reports. The Toronto Star, referring to it, says:—

Under the circumstances the punting and catching was of a unusually high order, McWilliams, the Peterborough centre half, did the bulk of the kicking for his team, and McWhirter and Kilaly booted the ball for the Vics. The two Mcs. played fine football from beginning to end. Towards the end of the game Mulhern worked in several pretty dodging runs, which enabled the Peterborough team to make large gains when the ball was dangerously near their line.

The Vics. were further handicapped by the loss of Tooze, who was put out of the game for using offensive language to the officials just after Peterborough had tied the score. Playing 11 men against 12, the Vics were unable to stem the tide, although they assumed the aggressive on several occasions after that.

Peterborough Has Good Team

Peterborough has a very nicely balanced team, and will be hard to beat on their own grounds. McWilliams used excellent judgment, and displayed considerable skill at centre half. He is easily as good as Shaw, who played the position last year. Mulhern's running on the slippery turf showed him to be a very speedy player, and hard to down when caught. The other backs worked a few interference stunts, evidently the product of the brain of Arthur Poe. Flagrant violations were penalized, but they got away with them sometimes, to the advantage of their team. Easton, formerly of Brockville, played a fine game at quarter, especially in a broken field. He made some fine catches and advanced the ball by strong rushes.

The Peterborough wings followed up much better than their opponents, Crowley being always conspicuous; in fact, he played the most effective game of anybody on the field. Hurtubise, the champion wrestler, was at centre.

Toronto Star Thinks The Tigers Must Go Some

To Win From Peterborough on Saturday—Good Opinion of Work of the Local Team.

In some notes on the game in Toronto Saturday, the Star has the following:—

The Tigers will have to go some to beat Peterborough on their own ground next Saturday. Hugh Murray of the champions' wing line was in the stand on Saturday getting pointers for the coming game.

Easton, the Peterborough quarter-back comes from Brockville. He handles the ball nicely, and plays as if he knew the game.

Mulhern, the Peterborough full-back is very fast and tricky on his feet. He will improve with the season.

Crowley, the hockey player, is on the Peterborough wing line this year. Last season he played on the back division.

Peterborough won't miss centre half Shaw with McWilliams available to do the kicking for the team.

Biggest Game Of Rugby Season

Hamilton Tigers Will Meet Peterborough on Saturday.

The biggest crowd that ever saw a rugby game in Peterborough will be at Riverside Park on Saturday when the redoubtable Hamilton Tigers with a record of not one defeat in three years will meet the Peterboroughs in a senior O.R.F.U. game. The Tigers are the point-a-minute team of Canada and are accustomed to run up such scores as 49-0 and 57-3. Those who have watched the locals at work are confident that there will be no scores like that on Saturday.

RUGBY.

Notes of the Game

Lou Leclaire will be seen wearing a blue and white uniform against Hamilton on Saturday.

• • • •

There should be the biggest crowd of the season on Saturday. Just to see the famous Tigers perform is worth the price of admission.

• • • •

It looks as if the point-a-minute team will find their scoring speed cut down considerably.

• • • •

Fred. Whiteroft is looking after the team in the dressing room and will have them in shape to go the limit for the big game.

• • • •

Vic. McWilliams has a rugby ball with him in Keene, and is practising kicking every day. He will astonish the Peterborough people on Saturday.

• • • •

The Hamilton Tigers, with an all star cast and strong chorus will appear here on Saturday in the tragedy "It's a long lane that has no Turning," by Sep Du-Moulin. They will be assisted by the local dramatic society under the stage direction of Eugene Hurtubise, who will endeavour to give the visitors a warm reception.

• • • •

The Mountaineers will run an excursion here on Saturday and will have several hundred supporters to wear the yellow and black colours of the Tiger Club.

• • • •

The locals had a good practice last night under Arthur Poe's directions. Good form was shown and the Tigers may have their tails trampled on on Saturday. The following were out in uniform:—Capt. Hurtubise, Crowley, Dillon, Regan, Gillespie, Carmichael, Quinlan, LeClaire, Ford, Craig, Crough. There will be no practice to-night but the boys will work out again to-morrow night at the rink at 7.30. It is important that all players should be out in uniform to-morrow as the signals must be perfectly known before the big game with the ferocious cubs.

• • • •

The City Rugby League is now assured. The Bankers have decided to place a team in the league thus making three teams who have signified their intentions of playing rugby. The money keepers have the nucleus of a good team as some of their men are not strangers to the game and those who are, are quite promising. At a meeting held yesterday afternoon in the rooms over the Ontario Bank, the bankers elected Mr. H. Walkey to the managership of the team and it was decided to dispense with an executive, etc. Mr. Watson of Bank of Commerce was appointed representative to the City League. They will practice in the afternoons after four o'clock on the Riverside Park and full attendance is expected.

Mass Was Celebrated By Bishop O'Connor

At the Golden Jubilee of St. Basil's Church, Toronto—His Lordship Was First Day Pupil of St. Michael's College.

Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Connor was celebrant of the solemn requiem mass at the celebration of the golden jubilee of St. Basil's Church, Toronto yesterday. The mass was for the deceased members of the staff of St. Michael's College, of which Bishop O'Connor was the first day pupil.

In continuation of the anniversary celebration the alumni dinner took place in the college hall and was a most enjoyable function, and, in addition to nearly 100 priests, the staff, students and lay workers were present. The addresses were chiefly reminiscent of the early days of the church and college. The Provincial of the order, Very Rev. Father Marijon, presided, and Bishop Burke, of Albany, N.Y., was one of the chief speakers. He recalled the names of many well-known men connected with the college, mentioning Bishop O'Connor, who was the first day pupil.

The annual meeting of the alumni of St. Michael's College was held yesterday afternoon, when Dr. Amyot was elected president, and Mrs. and amongst the visitors were Rt. Rev. Bishop Burke, of Albany; Bish- H. T. Kelly Secretary-Treasurer. The Archbishop of Toronto presided. op O'Connor, of Peterborough; Vicar-General McCann and many of the clergy of the diocese of Toronto.

Appealed Against Master's Decision

The Waters-Allen Case at Osgoode Hall.

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—An appeal was heard before Chief Justice Falconbridge this morning against the decision of the Local Master at Peterborough, refusing to allow an application of the plaintiff for further particulars in the action of H. G. Waters against James Allan. Waters, who is a hotel clerk is suing Allen who was former proprietor of the C. P. R. Hotel at Peterborough for $10,000 for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—When a person has a grievance they generally go to the "Kickers' Column". Here is mine: On Saturday night in making a purchase at one of our largest stores, I tendered some silver coins in making payment. Among these coins was a 30 cent piece of Newfoundland, with the head of our beloved King on one side, and the usual inscription on the other. After some scrutinizing it was refused—it wasn't Canadian. Let a 50 cent piece of American money with "Liberty's" head and the bakers' dozen of stars, would be received and no questions asked. Why should such a distinction be made and was my case peculiar?

Yours,
CURIOUS.

Editor Post Card Column:

Mr. Editor,—I, with several hundred others, would like to know why the walk on the west side of Stewart street, between Townsend and Wolfe, has not been repaired. It was torn up early this summer while a terrace was being built there, and left in a very bad condition for about forty feet. The crowds of C. G. E. workers who go along that street daily have to wade through clay and mud about three inches deep on wet days. Hoping for immediate repairs, I remain,

A C.G.E. EMPLOYEE.

HIGH PRAISE FOR ABBEY GLEE CLUB

The Westminster Abbey Glee and Concert Party, which appears here on Friday night next, will no doubt give a concert of high order.

A Toronto gentleman says of them:

I am pleased to know that Mr. Edward Branscombe and his Westminster Glee Party are returning to Canada to make another tour and I have the greatest pleasure in testifying to the very great enjoyment which I received from their concerts last year. I heard each of their two programmes, one in Toronto, and the other in Montreal, and I do not hesitate to say that their unaccompanied part-singing was the most genuine musical treat of its class of music that I ever heard in this country. I shall look forward with real delight to meeting them again.—E. S. Parkwood, Toronto.

A Great Hive Of Industry

Where the Furnace and Ives Brass Beds are Made.

One of the most interesting and busiest places in the City of Montreal today, is that of the H. R. Ives Co., Ltd. through which your correspondent had the pleasure of making a visit of inspection a few days ago.

To one not familiar with foundry work and workings in Metal generally, it would be doubly interesting, and it is only after visiting a modern plant like this and seeing the wonderful machines and labour saving appliances at work, that one can understand how goods of the quality that the H. R. Ives Co., make, can be sold at their present moderate price. In the Iron & Brass Bed Department for instance, every device that years of experience and wide awake progressive management could suggest, that effects an improvement of the product and a lowering of the cost, has been adopted. This, together with the latest and most attractive designs, accounts for the Ives Co. holding the first place in the great stock of brass beds just out of the workmen's hands and all shining like gold, awaiting the final wrappings, that are to protect them from damage in course of shipment.

The same progressive policy is seen in the other Departments. Their New "Bison" Hot Water Furnace is an evidence of this in the Boiler Department. The "Bison" is a radical departure in design from all other well-known makes, and results have proved the wisdom of making the great outlay required to perfect this furnace, and provide all the patterns necessary for a range of sizes, etc. As in an ordinary Kitchen Range the "Bison" furnace has a direct draft for a quick fire and an indirect draft for a steady fire and to retain and utilize all the heat. This principle is patented and is not to be found in any other furnace.

It is exceedingly interesting to follow the process of making these boilers from the stream of molten iron as it runs out of the cupolas to the finished and tested article ready for shipment.

The design of this furnace appeals to one's common sense and carries conviction with it, and this, with the written report of those using them, is irresistible.

Possibly the most interesting department, however, is that of the Ornamental iron work. It is here that the beautiful and artistic bank work is turned out—works of art in iron, bronze brass, etc., also great iron stairways balconies, and fire-escapes. It is with architects and contractors that the company has principally to deal, in connection with this class of work, and the general public may be interested to know that the Ives Co supplied the beautiful iron, brass and bronze work for the King Edward Hotel in Toronto, the new C.P.R. Hotel, Winnipeg, and similar work at Toronto, Ottawa and McGill Universities. In nearly all of the modern fire-proof buildings in Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg and in nearly every beautiful banking rooms in Canada may be seen artistic metal work, counter railings, etc. turned out by this company.

Honour Roll At S.S. No. 2. Smith

The Pupils Who Made Good Showing in September.

Relative Of Local Man Was Shot In Montreal

Is a Prominent Detective There and Nephew of Mr. John Lachcur, Rubidge Street—Was Arresting a Desperate Burglar.

A Montreal despatch of Monday tells of the shooting, but not fatal, of Detective Le Huquet who is a nephew of Mr. John Lachcur of this city. He was engaged in the arrest of a desperate burglar who with a partner attempted to rob a store. He is fairly well known in Peterborough having visited here two years ago. The despatch says:—

In a desperate attempt to escape from a store that he was robbing this morning, Robert Walker, a ticket-of-leave man from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, shot and seriously wounded Detective Le Huquet, and was himself knocked senseless by a blow from a pickaxe handle in the hands of Detective O'Keefe. His skull is fractured, and he is not expected to recover. A companion who assisted him in the burglary escaped, and has not yet been captured. Both detective and burglar had to be taken to the hospital in an ambulance. Walker and his companion had been seen loitering around the premises of the Starke Hardware Company near the waterfront, and as their purpose as suspected, a warning was sent to police headquarters. Detectives Le Huquet and O'Keefe were immediately sent out, and when they arrived at the Starke warehouse they found that a pane had been removed from a back window. Entering, they heard a conversation upstairs, and so waited below for the men to come down. Presently they came, and as they reached the bottom of the stairway Le Huquet stepped out, and, levelling a revolver called on the burglars to hold up their hands. Walker replied with a shot. The first bullet struck Le Huquet's pistol arm at the elbow, disabling it. The second took effect in the right side of the neck, and the third in the left side. None of them is likely to prove fatal.

O'Keefe was carrying a pick axe handle, and he was a few paces away. Three shots were fired before he could strike a blow. His first stroke, however, sent Walker sprawling, and time the other burglar escaped. Walker is only nineteen years old. He has already served a considerable time in prison. To-day he carried three revolvers, all fully loaded.

"Black Knight" Lectured To A Havelock Audience

Rev. J. H. Hector Greeted With Good House in Railway Town—Village Council Met and Transacted Business—Some Business Changes—Personal Movements.

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Oct. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Lang, of Norwood, visited friends in town on Sunday.

Rev. J. H. Hector, the famous coloured preacher and lecturer, preached in the Methodist church on Sunday last and lectured on the following Monday evening. As usual an immense crowd went to hear Mr. Hector and were delighted with him. He was accompanied by Mrs. and Miss Hector who favoured the audience with some very beautiful singing.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor, of Chandos Mission Field, occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning and evening.

We are pleased to learn that Miss Ethel McBurney, who has been ill for some months past is recovering rapidly.

Mrs. Dennis, of Cordova, entertained a number of young people on Wednesday evening.

Miss Jones, of Smith's Falls, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. John Tolman.

Mrs. Christie, of Toronto, visited Mrs. Jesse Campney this week.

The Misses McWilliams held their Millinery opening on Tuesday.

Mr. E. Long, of North Bay, formerly of Havelock, is in town renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Adams and daughter, of Norwood, were in town on Sunday.

Miss M. Johnston has accepted a position in Mr. W. A. McMasters dry goods store.

Messrs. Andrews and Clark, of Norwood, were in town on Sunday.

The Village Council met in the town hall on Monday, Oct. 1st. Present Councillors Morrison, Campeny, Curtis, Young and Reeve Thompson. The following accounts were ordered to be paid:—

Jos Baccus	$11 25
A Smith	75
D Hogg	50
Jos Baccus	7 89
Wm Mathison	30 00
Electric Light Co	1 35
W Rose	1 00

Moved by Messrs. Young and Morrison, that the rent of hall for outside shows be, first night $9.00; second night $6.00, and each additional night $5.00. Local concerts $5.00. At Homes, where no admission is charged, $8.00; where admission is charged $10.00.

Council adjourned.

Miss Helen Davidson, of Norwood, has accepted a position in Mr. Jas. Watson's store.

The Bell Telephone central will be changed this week from Mr. A. C. Dunkes' drug store to Mr. W. A. McMasters' store.

Mr Flood of Perth, has been engaged as tinsmith in Mr. F. C. McMasters' hardware.

THE PROPER WAY TO MAKE TEA

The most important point in making good tea is to use the water as soon as it boils. If it boils for any length of time it becomes hard and flat and will make but an imperfect infusion. Avoid also water that has been boiled and put aside on the stove and then reboiled at tea-making time. Scald the teapot, put into it while hot a teaspoonful of "SALADA" Tea for every two cups, pour on the freshly boiled water and allow it to steep for from five to eight minutes, then serve. Tea should not under any circumstances be made in a metal teapot.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Both Right.

MISS MARIE CAHILL was discussing the talkative woman, and incidentally told the following good story about a married couple.

"The wife in the middle of the night, was awakened by the loud snores of her husband. She endured the horrible racket as long as she could. Then, pinching the man sharply, she said:

"Herbert, you'd make less noise if you kept your mouth shut."

Herbert, sleepy and surly, answered:

"So would you."—Young's Magazine.

Already Crowned

A PREACHER, addressing a Sunday School, towards the close of his remarks said: "And, my little friends, if you do all these things some day you will wear a gold crown. Yes, each of you, some day, will wear a gold crown."

A little chap on the front row, catching the preacher's eye, piped: "My father wears one now."

"No!" said the preacher, "that can't be."

"Yes, he does, too; right on his tooth," said the little chap.

An Impostor

A PROUD young father telegraphed the news of his new responsibility to his brother in this fashion: "A handsome boy has come to my house and claims to be your nephew. We are doing our best to give him a proper welcome." The brother, however, failed to see the point, and replied, "I have not got a nephew; the young man is an impositor."—Buffalo Commercial.

That Was Easier

IT IS SAID of a noted Virginian judge that in a pinch he always comes out one ahead. An incident of his childhood might prove this. "Well, Benny," said his father after he had been at school for about a month, "what did you learn to-day?" "About a mouse, father." "Spell mouse," his father asked. After a while Benny answered "Father, I don't believe it was a mouse after all—it was a rat."—Lippincott's.

Pangs of Hunger Lead To Crime

Rendered Desperate by Inability to Get Work—Girl Swindles Negros.

Examiner Special.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Driven to desperation because of her inability to secure a position, and, according to her own statement, forced to obtain money by false pretences to secure the necessities of life, Julia Kane, 19 years old, 1459 Fourteenth street, was arrested at the instance of several coloured persons in Georgetown, who allege she visited them and secured money ostensibly in behalf of a hospital and orphan asylum for coloured people. On investigation, it was found that there was no such institution to be built.

When confronted with the persons whom she is said to have victimized, the young woman broke down and confessed.

"I have tried, oh, so hard, to get a position," she wailed, "but my efforts were unsuccessful. I am willing to work at anything. Although I have been in poor health, I was willing to labour until I dropped from exhaustion. My youthful appearance seemed against me. People would say, 'Why, you are nothing more than a child. What can a slip of a girl like you do?' It was the same thing, day in and day out. I would tramp the city from one end to the other, willing to do just anything to keep body and soul together.

"It was no use, however. No one seemed to realize that I was hungry—in fact, almost starving.

"Finally, driven to desperation, I visited several coloured people, announcing that I was soliciting subscriptions for a coloured hospital and orphan asylum. I obtained a little money in this way, but it was very little—only about $5 or $6. I am sorry for it; but what was I to do?

"My home is in Swedesboro, N.J. My parents are dead, and I have no one to help me. I am willing and anxious to do for myself if I could only find a position. I came to Washington last December and secured work at a dressmaking establishment on Seventh street. I saved a little money and then I became ill. When I recovered, my savings were all gone, and so was my position. Since then I have been unable to obtain work."

Cavan Swamp Drain Will Cost About $11,400

Will be Seven Miles Long—Opens Up Two Leading Roads to Peterborough—Rev. Mr. Whitelaw Likely to go to Fairbank—A Suggestion on How to Keep Ministers.

Examiner Special

Mount Pleasant, October 2. — The report is in circulation that the Cavan swamp drain has been let to Contractor Hilton of Thorold, to be completed by January, 1908; the cost is to be $11,400. The drain is seven miles long and will open up two leading roads to our market, the city of Peterborough, and will shorten the distance between here and Peterborough greatly.

We hear that the Rev. Mr. Whitlaw, of Omemee, is said to have a call from Fairbank, in the Toronto district. It seems strange that since ministers of the Presbyterian church, who minister to the united congregations of Mount Pleasant, Lakevale and Omemee, since they have taken to reside in Omemee, their stay has been of short duration. The late Rev. J. Ewing, whose residence was for a short time on the manse property near Mount Pleasant, then for many years in Mount Pleasant, remained with the united congregations for about 45 years. Since his death, only a few years ago, we have had three ministers. Would it not be advisable to sell the manse in Omemee and build one on the ten acres owned by the church near Mount Pleasant?

Mrs. William Marsh and her two daughters are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. McLean.

Mr. A. P. McLean and family, Peterborough, made a flying visit to the parental roof.

Mr. W. Graham and his wife, have returned from Dakota safe and sound.

The annual meeting of the Mount Pleasant branch of the Bible Society will be held in the Methodist church here on the 9th of October, at 7 p.m. The agent, Rev. D. Thompson, will address the meeting.

Couldn't Play Organ In Low Neck Dress

The Rector Made Organist Don Shawl and Hat Before She Could Play Wedding March.

Examiner Special.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Miss Lina Mae Haines, organist of the Presbyterian Church at Edgewater, is still indignant over the rebuke she received last Wednesday evening, when Rev. Richard Rowley, of the Episcopal Church at Rogers Park, refused to allow her to play the organ at a wedding in his church until she had covered over her decollete gown and put on a hat. Miss Haines had taken pains to look her prettiest because the bridal couple were special friends of hers. She did not know the Rev. Mr. Rowley was so set against low-neck attire nor that he had preached to his feminine parishioners against coming to church without hats. She had, in fact, never been in his church before.

The bride and bridegroom were waiting for the wedding march to strike up, when the Rev. Mr. Rowley saw Miss Haines radiant in her low-neck dress and glistening black hair, begin to ascend the steps to the organ loft.

"Wait!" exclaimed the terror-stricken pastor. He darted from the room and returned with an old bonnet and a cotton shawl.

"You must wear these if you play in this church," he said, firmly. "We don't allow our young ladies to appear that way."

Miss Haines almost wept as she donned the shawl and hat.

"I was so mortified that I could hardly play the wedding march," she said. "I wouldn't have cared so much if I had been given time to send for my new Gainsborough and a pretty silk fascinator. But to appear in those old things the parson gave me just broke my heart. I'll never get over it."

Pyromaniac Remains Puzzle

Detroit Boy Confessed to Starting Six Fires.

Detroit, Oct. 3.—What to do with Frank Smith, the 11-year-old firebug, who confessed on Friday to starting the six fires that caused so much damage to Garner Bros.' barn, in the rear of 179 Alexandrine avenue east, is causing Lieut. Breault, of the truant squad, and County Agent Lawrence an unusual amount of worry.

The authorities at the Industrial School in Lansing do not want him sent there for fear he might burn down the institution; the neighbours in the vicinity of the boy's home insist that he be placed where he can start no more conflagrations, and between the two fires the county agent is in a dilema.

On Saturday the boy was examined by County Physicians Stapleton and Forbes. The result of the examination convinced them that while the boy is not insane, he may be a pyromaniac; "queer" only on the subject of fires.

"He insisted to us," said Dr Stapleton, "that he had only started one fire."

Frank admits that he finds his greatest joy watching firemen at work. The pleasure of viewing a baseball game comes a close second, but he has no hesitancy in expressing his preference for fires.

Frank is 11 years old and in the fourth grade at the Lincoln school, which shows an average mentality for boys of his age. Still the main question is:

What can be done with him?

STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman — a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years.

Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for many years under her direction, and since her decease, she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women, you cannot well say, without trying it "I do not believe it will help me."

Has Taken a Thousand

Zutoo

Always Cured Headache. Never Affected her Heart.

Here is a testimonial from the wife of Doctor W. L. Shurtleff, K.C., of Coaticook, Que., who has taken a thousand Zutoo Tablets (the Japanese Vegetable Headache remedy.)

It should convince any doubting one, that while the tablets cure headache, they do not, like the drug cures, affect the heart, nerves or stomach. No one would or could take such a number if they were not perfectly harmless. Mrs. Shurtleff herself had to discard the drug cures.

Here is what she says:

I have always been a great sufferer from headache, and have taken a great many headache cures. I found that after taking them for a time they caused palpitation of the heart. Three years ago I began using Zutoo. I have likely taken over a thousand tablets. I have never yet felt the least ill-effect from using them and they cure my headaches as quickly as any remedy I ever took.

They are Harmless as Soda.

SOON after Fenimore Dayton became a reporter his city editor sent him to interview James Mountain. That famous financier was then approaching the zenith of his power over Wall street and Lombard street. It had just been announced that he had "absorbed" the Great Eastern and Western railway system—of course by the methods which have made some men and some newspapers habitually speak of him as "the royal bandit." The city editor had two reasons for sending Dayton—first, because he did not like him; second, because any other man on the staff would walk about for an hour and come back with the report that Mountain had refused to receive him, while Dayton would make an honest effort.

Dayton turned in at the Equitable building and went up to the floor occupied by Mountain, Ranger & Blakehill. He nodded to the attendant at the door of Mountain's own suit of offices, strolled tranquilly down the aisle between several rows of desks at which sat Mountain's personal clerks and knocked at the glass door on which was printed "Mr. Mountain" in small gilt letters.

"Come!" It was an angry voice—Mountain's at its worst.

Dayton opened the door. Mountain glanced up from the mass of papers before him. His red forehead became a network of wrinkles, and his scant white eyebrows bristled. "And who are you?" he snarled.

"My name is Dayton—Fenimore Dayton," replied the reporter, with a gracefully polite bow. "Mr. Mountain, I believe?"

It was impossible for Mr. Mountain altogether to resist the impulse to bow in return. Dayton's manner was compelling.

"And what the dev—what can I do for you?"

"I'm a reporter from the"—

"What!" roared Mountain, leaping to his feet in a purple, swollen veined fury. "How dare you enter here?"

"But—why not?" Dayton looked surprised. "No one tried to stop me."

"Impudence!"

"Pardon me—not impudence." Dayton smiled agreeably. "Impudence is unsuccessful audacity. For example, if you had failed to get the Great Eastern and Western, they'd have said you were impudent to try. As it is, men call it audacity. Now, if I'd failed to get here—perhaps"—

Mountain listened with a grim smile. He saw in young Dayton the signs of a quality he especially admired. He couldn't help softening toward him. "I stand corrected," he said gruffly. Then he laid his hand on the young man's shoulder and pointed toward the large room. "Do you see those clerks?" he demanded.

"I do," said Dayton.

"There are thirty-seven of them, and that big numskull at the door makes thirty-eight. I employ those thirty-eight men to save me from audacity such as yours. Yet here you are, in my private office! How do you explain it?"

Dayton laughed. His laugh was very contagious. "I don't know, I'm sure," he said. "Perhaps if they were the sort of men who could outwit me they'd be doing my work and I'd be doing theirs."

Mountain's eyes smiled. The longer he looked at Dayton's refined yet resolute face the better he liked it. "Sit down," he said in an ironic tone of mock resignation. "But be quick, and be careful not to irritate me with questions that are—audacious. My digestion is poor, and, therefore, my temper is not what it might be."

That is the first recorded story of Dayton's "colossal cheek." Now for the last one—the one since which his "cheek" has been thought of and spoken of, admired and envied as "Napoleonic daring."

He soon rose to be a notable special correspondent. One winter afternoon at a musicale in the studio of his friend, Brownlee the artist, he met a girl with whom he straightway fell in love. She was Elsie Grant, the only daughter of Mrs. James Wickford Grant. She had spent most of her life abroad, and her mother was even then negotiating for an Italian prince who thought well of Elsie and also of her large dot. And then Dayton had come, and he was never the man to shy at obstacles.

He beguiled her mother into not seeing what was going on. He made love to her daughter in a straightforward way. To Elsie, who then could think only in terms of the Almanach de Gotha, it seemed the way of a Rudolph of Hapsburg issuing from his barren mountain farm in Switzerland to conquer men with his sword and women with his smile and to found an empire. When the Grants went abroad in March he succeeded in getting a roving European commission from his newspaper and went in the same steamer. He put the issue squarely before her the day before they landed. He did not speak of love until she had given him the right not only by encouraging him, but also by making it plain that she passionately wished to hear the words that lay behind his looks and tones. "Don't answer me now," he said. "I don't want you on impulse. You're going down into the country for a week. When you come up to London you will know."

He went on to London and began to plan about for something out of the ordinary to send his paper. In a Times report of a meeting of the Royal society he found the hint he was seeking. The world renowned philosopher and scientist, Lord Frampton (Hubert Foss), had addressed the society on "The Destiny of Democracy."

"I'll interview Foss," said he to Iveagh, the London correspondent of his paper. "Everybody in America knows his name, and what he'll say along those lines will make a lot of talk over there just now."

"But"—Iveagh was an Englishman, unused to and abhorrent of American ways—"you can't do it, Mr. Dayton. Lord Framptou," with emphasis on the title, "is a very old man, almost ninety. He lives as quietly as possible—sees no one. He wouldn't think of interviewing. He's very old fashioned, dislikes even our newspapers, and he's been a sort of recluse all his life."

"No harm in trying," said Dayton. "I'll just drop him a line."

In the mail two mornings later came the answer. Dayton opened it in the presence of Iveagh. It was a printed slip which read:

Lord Frampton appreciates your courtesy. He regrets that age and the state of his health make it impossible for him personally to thank you.

"I thought so," said Iveagh, not concealing his delight at Dayton's discomfiture. "He sends that to everybody who tries to intrude upon him."

Dayton mechanically turned the printed slip over. "What's this?" he said. There was writing in a feeble, cramped hand:

My Dear Sir—I am lunching at the Athenaeum club the day after tomorrow (Thursday) and shall be pleased to see you there afterward—at 3.

FRAMPTON.

Dayton thrust the note into his pocket, concealing his feeling of triumph. "I may cable what he says—if it's worth while. It might make a good feature for them on Sunday." And he went away.

Iveagh looked after him, dazed. "Yet there are some people who say there's no such thing as luck!" he grumbled. "Who'd have thought old Frampton had gone stark mad?"

At the Carleton Dayton found a telegram:

Shall be at Claridge's tomorrow. Be sure to come at 8 precisely.

ELSIE GRANT.

"Whatever shall I do?" he said after he had reread the telegram and Lord Frampton's note to make sure. Both for Thursday; both at the same hour. I can't put either of them off. What shall I do with Foss?"

No; Foss could not be put off. He must be seen at the time he had appointed or the great Sunday feature would be lost. "I must send some one in my place. But who? It must be a newspaper man, a man with the newspaper instinct and training; it must be a man of the best possible address and up in philosophy and sociology and Foss. Where can I get him?"

It seemed absurd to think on such a problem, yet after nearly an hour Dayton jumped up and said, "Why, of course—just the man—better than I could possibly do it myself," and began fumbling in a compartment of the trunk that was full of letters, papers and cards. He soon found what he was searching for—a card bearing the address of Henry Carpenter. A common friend in New York had given it to him, saying: "Look Carpenter up and, if you can, put something in his way. I hear he's badly off."

As Dayton said to himself, Henry Carpenter was probably the best equipped man in the world for an interview with Foss for an American newspaper. He was a Yale man with a Ph. D. from Gottingen, and a writer on economic subjects who had won some fame. But philosophy is not profitable, and Carpenter made his living as a newspaper reporter. He had been one of the cleverest in the profession, then had married and taken to drink and gone to the bottom.

The address on the card was in the far end of Pimlico. Dayton set out, calling at the Victoria. There were several New York newspaper men in the lounge. He asked them if they had seen Carpenter. "Just left him," said one. "He was bound for the Criterion." Dayton drove to the Criterion and began a search of the crowded rooms. He soon saw Carpenter wandering about the bar, noting each face as if he were looking for an acquaintance. His clothes, his very expression, proclaimed poverty and failure, and Dayton, knowing his habits, was particularly impressed by the weakness of his chin. But in spite of the air of "hard luck" Carpenter looked the gentleman, the man of superior intelligence. He greeted Dayton effusively, and as soon as the business was disclosed eagerly offered his services.

"There's only one difficulty—will Lord Frampton receive you when he is expecting me,"

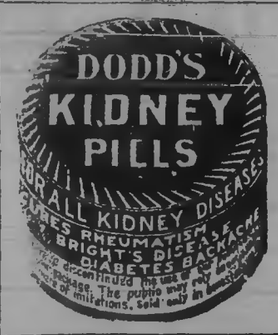
CURE SICK HEADACHE.



"We'll have to take our chances on that," said Carpenter.

"But I never take chances if I can help it. I've been thinking—he doesn't know me and he doesn't know you. Why shouldn't you send in one of my cards—impersonate me?"

Carpenter's face brightened.

"Yes; that is the best plan," continued Dayton. "With your special knowledge you'll do the interview far better than I could. He'll really profit by the deception."

It was so agreed, and Carpenter went away, Dayton advancing him two sovereigns. When he returned the next afternoon his appearance was in every way satisfactory, and Dayton's last misgivings disappeared. He went with Carpenter to the Athenaeum. "It's a little early, old man, but you can send in your—or, rather, my—card and wait. And don't forget you're both under assumed names. If you are calling yourself Dayton when you're Carpenter, isn't he calling himself Frampton when he's Foss?"

"You may rely on me. I'll do my best," said Carpenter.

He saw Carpenter enter the clubhouse; saw him give his card to the attendant. Not until then did he drive away. His heart was light. Fate had been kind to him. On the stroke of 3 he was in the writing room at Claridge's. Elsie did not keep him waiting. "Mother has changed her plans," she said, hurrying in. "I thought we'd have a clear hour, but she may be back at any moment."

He was looking at her steadily. "Well?" he asked.

She flushed and cast down her eyes. Then she lifted them and returned his gaze steadfastly. "Yes," she said.

He gave a long sigh.

They were silent for a few minutes. "Mother"— she began.

"She will not consent?"

"It's of no use to ask her. You know that."

He nodded cheerfully. "But we don't need her consent. You're of age."

"What do you suggest?"

"Well, I had arranged—in case you accepted and your mother wouldn't have it—that we should marry at the American consul general's. He's an old friend of mine and has promised to attend to everything for me. All we have to do is to let him know when we're coming. He's even got an American preacher at hand."

She laughed. "And when did you dare to do this?"

"Yesterday, as soon as I had your telegram. It wasn't daring, was it, to assume that you meant what your telegram implied?"

"Whatever it was or was not, I like it."

"I thought," he continued, "that we would better marry in some way that would leave her a chance to come around quietly afterward."

"Yes, that is better than going to Scotland," said Elsie reflectively.

Dayton laughed. "And who dared to think out an elopement away off to Scotland?" he said.

Elsie was still blushing when her mother came in. Dayton invited them to dinner and the theater, and Mrs. Grant accepted.

At 8 the next morning, as Dayton had finished shaving and was going into his bath, there was a knock at the outer door of his sitting room.

"What is it?" he called.

"A gentleman to see you, sir," came through the door.

"Carpenter," he said to himself. Then to the servant: "Show him up, please. Bring him to the sitting room and tell him I will see him directly."

With this he unlocked the outer door and went back through the bedroom into his bathroom. Soon he heard the outer door open and the servant showing his caller in. When he had bathed he returned to the bedroom. The portiere was drawn across the door into the sitting room. He could wait no longer. "I say, old man," he shouted, "did you get a good yarn?"

There was a sharp rustling, then silence. He went to the portiere and threw it back and stood in the doorway, his bathrobe half open, his face and neck red from the cold water, his hair tumbled. He was transfixed. Before him, gaping at him, sat an old man, a study in the black of broadcloth and the white of linen and skin and wool-like hair and side whiskers. His head was wagging and his mouth ajar as he stared stupidly at Dayton. He raised himself with the aid of a gold headed cane and put up his eyeglass. "I must apologize to you," he quavered. "I'm so disturbed that I hardly know what I'm about this morning. I fancied I was in the rooms of a Mr. Fenimore Dayton."

"I'm Fenimore Dayton," said Dayton. And then a horrible thought flashed into his mind.

The old man's mouth had flown open again. "What?" he exclaimed. "Impossible!"

Dayton, all the blood in his body in his face, stood there unable to speak or move. "Great heavens," he thought, "what shall I do? What has Carpenter been up to?"

Lord Frampton passed his hand over his face. "Impossible!" he muttered. "Incredible!" And again he rubbed his face confusedly. "Tell me," he looked strangely at Dayton, "did you or did you not have a talk with me at the Athenaeum club Yesterday in the afternoon?"

Dayton opened his mouth several times before he could articulate, "I did not—that is"—

"Then who was it? Where is he?"

Lord Frampton looked angrily around. "I insist upon an explanation, sir!"

"Excuse me just a few minutes. I must finish dressing. I was and I wasn't there. I'll explain." Dayton withdrew to the bedroom, pulling the portiere over the doorway.

He hurried into his clothes and returned to the sitting room. He stood before Lord Frampton, looking ashamed, repentant, honest. "I am going to make a clean breast of it, sir," he said. "I could not keep my engagement with you yesterday. I did not wish to lose the interview. I sent a perfectly competent man, thinking it made no difference to you, as you did not know me or care especially who did the interview, so long as it was done properly."

"But where is he? Where is he?" Lord Frampton tapped his cane angrily on the floor.

"I—I don't know, sir. I"—

"This is outrageous. A person representing himself to be a Fenimore Dayton, an American journalist, wrote me a note. I don't know what demon of ill luck possessed me. I had never submitted to an interview. I am a very old man and in poor health I

"What!" he exclaimed. "Impossible!" permit no strangers to come near me. But something—perhaps in the note—I don't know—at any rate, I consented to receive this person at my club. He, or some one representing himself to be him, came, and we talked for about two hours. He was most agreeable, most intelligent, but he had been drinking—at least I feared so—I became nervous about the interview. He promised to bring me what he had written last night. As he did not, I came here this morning. I wish to recall the interview. I forbid the publication of a word from me. I shall hold you responsible, sir! It is an outrage! It is scandalous! I shall protest publicly, sir!"

"I have no excuse to offer, sir," said Dayton humbly. "I can only throw myself on your mercy. But first let me say that your interview is safe—at least it has not been published and will not be." Then he went on to confess the whole truth, holding back nothing—his love for a young American, the impossibility of keeping both engagements and the impossibility of breaking either. "And I suppose, sir," he said in conclusion, "that Carpenter slipped away after I took several drinks before seeing you and then kept on drinking afterward. In spite of his habits, sir, there isn't a man in the world more competent to get such an interview than Henry Carpenter."

"Hasn't he written on sociology?" inquired Lord Frampton. He had been interrupting Dayton's narrative with a descending series of exclamations, beginning with "Shocking!" and "Depraved!" and "Insolent!" and ending with such milder ejaculations as "Most astonishing!" "Extraordinary!" "Surprising!"

What People You Know Say About Gin Pills

TORONTO, June 6th, 1905.

I take great satisfaction in writing to you and telling you of the splendid condition of health that I am now in, which was brought about entirely by taking your Gin Pills.

For years my kidneys have been my weak spot and kept me unhealthy, and although I knew the cause, I could not get relief. Six weeks ago I heard that Gin Pills were being widely sold in Ontario, and I concluded to try them, though I did not believe that they could entirely cure me, but they have, and I am now sure that my kidney trouble has disappeared.

I will always have some of the pills on hand, and will recommend them to my friends who are troubled with ailments due to the defective work of their kidneys.

Yours respectively,
F. R. BASKERVILLE.

Can Consumption be Cured?

There is plenty of indisputable evidence to prove that Consumption has been cured even after the symptoms were well defined and the lungs actually involved.

On the other hand, there has always been a point beyond which the disease has been considered incurable. Until a comparatively recent date this point had a place at a very early stage of the malady, but modern scientific discovery and common-sense methods of treatment have gradually moved the hopeless point further and further back, until now the Consumptive is not "given up" until the very last stage of the disease is reached.

Nothing in recent years has done so much to improve the chances of Consumptives as the advent of

FERROL

In fact, it is claimed that, with plenty of fresh air, sunlight and comfortable surroundings, FERROL has pushed the hopeless point to the limit, that is to say, where these fail the chances of cure are very slim indeed.

FERROL does not kill the germs of Consumption (anything that will do that will kill the patient), but FERROL does the work by repairing the waste tissue, enriching the blood, toning the nerves, in short, by building up the whole system and thus enabling nature to expel the disease.

The only possible chance of curing Consumption is by proper nutrition, and FERROL is the only perfect nutrient, because it combines in palatable and easily digested form the very essentials of life—Oil, Iron and Phosphorus.

We feel some diffidence in claiming that FERROL will cure Consumption, lest we be misunderstood, but we have not the slightest hesitation in stating that it is an infallible cure for BRONCHITIS, CHRONIC COUGHS, CROUP, WHOOPING COUGH, CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, NERVOUS EXHAUSTION, SCROFULA and all wasting diseases.

For restoring lost weight and building up the run-down system FERROL is absolutely without an equal.

SUFFERED 15 YEARS.

Mr. Ozial Rounds, Welland, Ont., a retired lumberman and a resident of Welland for half a century, writes:

"For fifteen years prior to 1900 I was a sufferer from hay asthma and chronic diarrhea. I grew weak and emaciated and was tortured with insomnia.

"I was treated by eminent physicians but if anything, was worse than ever. In fact, I was in as miserable a condition as a man could be.

"Yes," replied Dayton eagerly, entering the opening and hurrying on to remind Lord Frampton of the titles and subjects of Carpenter's best known essays.

Lord Frampton was somewhat mollified. He said: "It was a disgraceful trick to play upon an old man, sir, but I've been young myself. You Americans—a wonderful people, sir, but"—with a sudden twinkling in his old eyes—"will you get the young lady?"

"I think so," said Dayton.

"I don't doubt it if impudence is as effective with the ladies as it was when I was a young fellow," Lord Frampton chuckled.

"Would you mind if I showed you a photograph of her, sir?" asked Dayton, shamelessly using his bride to be as a pacifier of the old man's wrath. He brought the photograph, a fair haired, clear eyed girl with a resolute face looking straight out of the picture at you.

"A fine American type," said Lord Frampton.

They talked for a few minutes of America, then Lord Frampton suddenly remembered his wrongs and was angry all over again. "I am very old," he said peevishly. "This will shorten my life. And where, sir, is that associate of yours, this Carpenter?"

"We'll find him," said Dayton, and after he had hastily taken coffee and a roll they set out for the far end of Pimlico. They found Carpenter's lodgings down a dismal alley in a house which, had it been built of wood instead of stone, would have been obliterated decades before. A pinched New England female face answered the knock at the door to which the slattern in charge had directed them.

"What do you want?" said she, in what is sometimes called the "pie and pickles" voice.

"Where is Mr. Carpenter?"

"That's what I'd like to know," Mrs. Carpenter answered.

A few minutes' talk made it clear that no news was to be got there. "We'll have to look for him," said Dayton, as if they were sure to find him. And on the way back to the Piccadilly-Strand district he tried to persuade Lord Frampton to go quietly to his club and wait.

"No," said Lord Frampton crossly; "I go with you. Really, Mr. Dayton, this is a most extraordinary proceeding. When peace and quiet are absolutely necessary to me, I find myself rushing about London in search of a wild drunken creature. My whole life has been spent in quiet, and now, at ninety, thanks to my accursed folly in answering a note from a wandering American journalist— I must have been out of my mind! I feel like pinching myself to see whether I am awake. I shall not leave you until we find him. I must look to my reputation. Why did I—why did I answer that devilish note?"

Toward 9 at night Dayton, in the effort to calm one of the old man's tirades—he was very tired and sleepy—told him that Elsie and he were to be married on Monday. "As her mother won't consent, we shall go quietly to the American consulate. I've arranged it all with a friend of mine."

"Most extraordinary!" muttered Lord Frampton. "More impudence! And what am I doing here—at my age—in my health"—

"Will you come?" interrupted Dayton.

"Come! Come where?"

"To the wedding. We'd be delighted."

Lord Frampton stared. "God bless my soul!" he ejaculated. "Am I dreaming? I—invited to take part in a runaway marriage—I!"

"I suppose you're afraid there might be a mistake and you'd be the bridegroom."

Lord Frampton smiled, then chuckled, then laughed. But they were just at Carpenter's lodgings—their fourth visit. Yes, Carpenter had returned, had staggered in about an hour before, and was now upstairs. His wife opened the door. There he lay upon the bed, his clothes torn and mud bedaubed.

"Roll 'im on the floor," suggested the eldest boy. "Let me throw water on 'im. Mar'm always does, don't you, mar'm?"

All, including the renowned philosopher, who used his cane vigorously as a prod, joined in the effort to revive the drunken man. When he at last opened his eyes Dayton said, "Here, here, Carpenter, where's that interview?" and kept on shaking him to prevent his lapsing into the stupor.

"Pocket," mumbled Carpenter. "Iss a gran' ol' man. Ol' Frampy passed 't out hot. Gran' ol' man, Frampy."

Dayton reached into the inside pocket of the coat and drew out a notebook.

"Ha!" Ol' Frampy clutched it, put on his eyeglasses and glanced over the pages. "Yes, this is it. I never expected to see it. Bless me, what a relief!"

Dayton gave Mrs. Carpenter a sovereign, "on account," he said, for lack of any other disguise of the charity, "and when he comes around tell him I want to see him."

Dayton and Lord Frampton hurried away.

"Where shall I set you down, sir?" said Dayton.

Lord Frampton gave the number of a private hotel in Dover street. They drove in silence for ten minutes, then the philosopher chuckled. Dayton glanced at him furtively. He had been devising a plan for approaching the subject of the interview. Perhaps he could induce Lord Frampton to give up the notebook. When the old man chuckled again he ventured to speak.

"Will you forgive me, sir?"

"Forgive you, you young rascal? I oughtn't, but—it is certainly very ridiculous—how my friends, my readers all over the world, would laugh if they could know what I've been doing." He chuckled again.

"Then you'll come to the American consulate on Monday at 10—to the wedding?"

"The spirit of adventure has got into my blood. Yes, I'll be there—if I don't die of the reaction."

"And that interview"—

"There, there! Not a word about that. I'll overlook it"—

"But I mean—it's a great impertinence to ask it—only"—

Lord Frampton turned in the cab and looked at Dayton's calm, earnest face in amazement. "You don't mean, my dear sir, that you are daring to ask me to—no; it's impossible. Even you wouldn't dare!"

"But, sir, it seems a shame for you to have all this annoyance for nothing. I can transcribe the notes and have them typewritten and bring them to you. And if you are not satisfied you can tear them up or use them for some other purpose."

Lord Frampton was laughing. "I have always held," said he, "that surprising results were to come from your race under the political, social and geographic conditions of the new world. But I must say"—

"And," pursued Dayton, "I could cable it over tomorrow for Sunday's paper, and I'm sure it would be a great hit. The Americans are tremendous admirers and readers of your work."

"Yes, I have been much gratified at the sales of my books over there—far better than here. But—it is tempting fate."

Dayton was discreetly silent. "You Americans!" Lord Frampton exclaimed humorously as he after a few minutes handed over the notebook. "I've rescued my reputation from a drunken man only to give it into the keeping of a harum scarum rascal who is probably crazed by—by—she is a devilish pretty girl, young man!"

"But wait till you see her on Monday," said Dayton. "I'll call with the copy at—what hour in the morning?"

"I shall rise late. I need rest. Call at 11."

At that hour the next morning, Saturday, Dayton brought the typewritten interview. Lord Frampton was looking fresh and cheerful.

"How do you feel, sir?" inquired Dayton.

"I ought to feel done, but the fact is I never felt better. I think it did me good—stirred me up. Astonishing! I must be out of my mind!"

Lord Frampton sat at his desk, reading, making slight changes, nodding approval. "A most interesting young man," he mumbled, "in spite of his bad habits—most intelligent. I certainly talked surprisingly well, bless me! I had no idea I had put that so effectively."

"Are you satisfied to have it go, sir?" asked Dayton when the old philosopher had finished.

"I think so. I think so."

"And I'll see that you get a copy of it and also all that is said about it in the American journals."

On Monday at the appointed hour, with Lord Frampton as one witness and the consul general as the only other, Dayton and Elsie were married. Lord Frampton was more than cheerful; he was gay. He had come with his top hat a little back on his head and noticeably tilted to one side.

"Oh, I almost forgot," said Dayton. "Here's a cablegram from the office on your interview."

Lord Frampton read:

Dayton, Carlton, London:
Frampton stuff howling success. Congratulations.

"Stuff! Howling!" Lord Frampton repeated the words as if he delighted in them. "Most gratifying," he said: "most gratifying, I'm sure. God bless me, I'm getting demoralised!"

"And now for your mother," said Dayton to Elsie.

Lord Frampton noted with astonishment the calmness of these two young people. "Will she be angry?" he inquired.

"Angry? She'll be wild," said Dayton cheerfully. "She's mad on the subject of titles. Now, if Elsie were going to tell her that she had married you"—

"And now for your mother," said Dayton.

Lord Frampton laughed till his sides ached at the implication of this idea. It seemed to take another ten or twenty years from his rapidly rejuvenating mind.

"That suggests an idea," he said. "If I went with you—interceded for you—do you think it would help?"

Elsie put out her hand to him. "Isn't he fine?" she said to Dayton.

And the three of them advanced upon Claridge's in a cab, Lord Frampton with his arm along the back of the seat, patting Elsie on the shoulder—merely to encourage her. Mrs. Grant went rapidly through her moods—from fury to hysteria, to tears, to reproaches, to a discussion with Lord Frampton, to acquiescence, to "making the best of it."

Lord Frampton left them, but came toddling back.

"Oh!" he said and took Elsie to one side.

"If there should be—you know," he chuckled, "my name is Hubert, and I haven't got any of me own."

Elsie blushed, and he almost ran away, his old legs springing with a ludicrous affectation of youth.

"How can I thank you?" said Dayton as he put him in a cab.

"Thank me? How can I thank you?" said the old man heartily. "Send that disreputable friend of yours to me. Something may be done for him. Goodby. You Americans!"

The Word "Tattoo."

Taptoe is not the only way in which tattoo was formerly spelled. Tatto and taptoo are also to be found in old books. Watson's Military Dictionary, fifth edition, 1758, gives the following: "To beat the tatto, to order all to repair to their quarters; tatto, sometimes called the retreat; the beat of drum at night for all soldiers in garrison to retire to their quarters and to their tents in the field."

In the 1788 edition of Grose's "Military Antiquities" the following is to be found: "Taptoo, the signal for soldiers to retire to their quarters or barracks and to the sutlers to draw no more liquor, from whence it derives its name; the taptoo is seldom beat in camp."

In Johnson's Dictionary "tapotes tous," meaning a general beat of drums, was given as the derivation of tattoo, but that was surely one of the "whimsical guesses at etymology suggested by previous writers." Watson says that the beat called "the general" was to give notice to the forces that they are to march and that "batterie de tambour" was the corresponding term in French.—Notes and Queries.

When an Actress Buys.

"Actresses are among my best customers," said the saleswoman in the waist department. "They usually have a clear idea of what they want. Their figures are good, and it is therefore easy to fit them. They do not economize on the price. When I see an actress come in I know I am going to sell a good waist with no trouble at all. She will state exactly what she is looking for. She will slip it on, glance at it quickly but with the knowing eye, order it sent and be off, without wasting her time or mine. She's a delightful relief from the woman who tries on three dozen blouses, doesn't know what she wants in the first place and at the end of two hours goes away without buying anything. Oh, yes; there are plenty of such women, but they're never actresses!"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

WANT AND NEED.

There's a big difference between what a baby wants and what he needs. Deny him the one, give him the other. Most babies need Scott's Emulsion—it's the right thing for a baby. It contains a lot of strength-building qualities that their food may not contain. After a while they get to want it. Why? Because it makes them comfortable. Those dimples and round cheeks mean health and ease. Scott's Emulsion makes children easy; keeps them so, too.

Billy's Tenderfoot

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE

COPYRIGHT by S. S. McCLURE CO.

DURING one spring of the early seventies Billy Knapp ran a species of road house or hotel at the crossing of the Deadwood and Big Horn trails through Custer valley. Travelers changing from one route to the other frequently stopped there overnight. He sold accommodations for man and beast, comprising plenty of whisky and plenty of hay. That was the best any one could say of it. The hotel was of logs, two storied, with partitions of sheeting to insure a certain privacy of sight if not of sound; had three beds and a number of bunks and boasted of a woman cook, one of the first in the hills. Billy did not run it long. He was too restless.

The personnel of the establishment consisted of Billy and the woman already mentioned and an ancient Pistol by the name of Charley. The latter wore many firearms and had a good deal to say, but had never, as Billy expressed it, "made good." This in the west could not have been for lack of opportunity. His functions were those of general factotum.

One evening Billy sat chair tilted against the logs of the hotel, waiting for the stage. By and by it drew in. Charley hobbled out, carrying buckets of water for the horses. The driver flung the reins from him with the lordly insolence of his class, descended slowly and swaggered to the barroom for his drink. Billy followed to serve it.

"Luck!" said the driver and crooked his elbow.

"Anything new?" queried Billy.

"Nope."

"Held up?"

"Nope."

That exhausted the situation. The two men puffed silently for a moment at their pipes. In an instant the driver turned to go.

"I got you a tenderfoot," he remarked casually. "I reckon he's outside."

"Guess I ambles forth and sees what fer a tenderfoot it is," replied Billy, hastening from behind the bar.

The tenderfoot was seated on a small trunk just outside the door. As he held his hat in his hands Billy could see his domelike bald head. Beneath the dome was a little pink and white face, and below that were narrow, sloping shoulders, a flat chest and bandy legs. He wore a light check suit and a flannel shirt whose collar was much too large for him. Billy took this all in while passing. As the driver climbed to the seat the hotel keeper commented.

"Say, Hen," said he, "would you stuff it or put it under a glass case?"

"I'd serve it a lay Tooloose," replied the driver briefly, and he brought his long lash S-shaped across the four startled backs of his horses.

Billy turned to a reinspection of his guest and met a deprecating smile.

"Can I get a shakedown here for tonight?" he inquired in a high, piping voice.

"You kin," replied Billy shortly and began to howl for Charley.

That patriarch appeared around the corner, as did likewise the cook, a black eyed, red checked creature, afterward counted by Billy as one of his eight matrimonial ventures.

The tenderfoot.

"Snake this stranger's war bag into th' shack," commanded Billy. "And, Nell, jest nat'rally rustle a few grub."

The stranger picked up a small hand satchel and followed Charley into the building. When, a little later, he reappeared for supper he carried the hand bag with him and placed it under the bench which flanked the table. Afterward he deposited it next his hand while enjoying a pipe outside. Naturally all this did not escape Billy.

"Stranger," said he, "yo' seems mighty wedded to that thar satchel."

"Yes, sir," piped the stranger. Billy snorted at the title. "I has some personal belongings which is valuable to me." He opened the bag and produced a cheap portrait of a rather cheap looking woman. "My mother that was," said he.

Billy snorted again and went inside. He hated sentiment of all kinds. The two men sat opposite each other and ate supper, which was served by the red checked girl. The stranger kept his eyes on his plate while she was in the room. He perched on the edge of the bench with his feet tucked under him and resting on their toes. When she approached, the muscles of his shoulders and upper arms grew rigid with embarrassment, causing strange, awkward movements of the hands. He answered in monosyllables.

Billy ate expansively and earnestly. Toward the close of the meal Charley slipped into place beside him. Charley was out of humor and found the meat cold.

"—— —— yore soul, Nell," he cried, "this yere ain't fitten fer a hog to eat!"

The girl did not mind, nor did Billy. It was the country's mode of speech. The stranger dropped his knife.

"I don't wonder yo' don't like it, then!" said he with a funny little flare of anger.

"Meanin' what?" shouted Charley threateningly.

"You shore mustn't speak to a lady that way," replied the stranger firmly, in his little piping voice.

Billy caught the point and exploded in a mighty guffaw.

"Bully fer you!" he cried, slapping his knee. "Struck pyrites"—he pronounced it "pie rights"—"fer shore that trip, Charley."

The girl, too, laughed, but quietly. She was a little touched, though just this winter she had left Bismarck because the place would have no more of her.

In the face of Billy's approval the old man fell silent.

About midnight the four inmates of the frontier hotel were awakened by a tremendous racket outside. The stranger arose, fully clothed, from his bunk and peered through the narrow open window. A dozen horses were standing grouped in charge of a single mounted man, indistinguishable in the dark. Out of the open door a broad band of light streamed from the saloon, whence came the noise of voices and of boots tramping about.

"It is Black Hank," said Billy, at his elbow. "Black Hank and his outfit. He hitches to this yere snubbin' post occasional."

Black Hank in the hills would have translated to Jesse James farther south.

The stranger turned suddenly energetic.

"Don't you make no fight?" he asked.

"Fight!" said Billy, wondering. "Fight! Co'se not. Hank ain't plunderin' me none. He jest ambles along and helps himself, and leaves the dust fer it every shot. I jest lays low and lets him operate. I never has no dealin's with him, understand. He jest nat'rally waltzes in and plants his grub hooks on what he needs. I doesn't know anything about it. I'm dead asleep."

He bestowed a shadowy wink upon the stranger.

Below, the outlaws moved here and there.

"Billy!" shouted a commanding voice. "Billy Knapp!"

The hotel keeper looked perplexed.

"Now what's he tollin' me fer?" he asked of the man by his side.

"Billy," shouted the voice again. "come down here, you siwash. I want to palaver with you."

"All right, Hank," replied Billy.

He went to his "room" and buckled on a heavy belt, then descended the steep stairs.

The barroom was lighted and filled with men. Some of them were eating and drinking; others were strapping provisions into portable form. Against the corner of the bar a tall figure of a man leaned, smoking—a man lithe, active and muscular, with a keen, dark face and black eyebrows which met over his nose. Billy walked directly to this man.

"What is it?" he inquired shortly. "This yere ain't in th' agreement."

"I know that," replied the stranger.

"Then leave yore dust and vamoose."

"My dust is there," said Black Hank, placing his hand on a buckskin bag at his side, "and you're paid, Billy Knapp. I want to ask you a question. Standing Rock has sent $50,000 to Buck Tail. The messenger went through here today. Have you seen him?"

"Narry messenger," replied Billy in relief. "Stage goes empty."

Charley had crept down the stairs and into the room.

"What 'n blazes you doin' yere, you rankikaboo ijit?" asked Billy truculently.

"That thar stage ain't what you calls empty," observed Charley, unmoved.

A light broke on Billy's mind. He remembered the valise which the stranger had so carefully guarded, and, though he is common sense told him that an inoffensive noncombatant, such as his guest, would hardly be chosen as express messenger, still the bare possibility remained.

"Yo're right," he assented carelessly; "thar is one tenderfoot who knows as much of ridin' express as a pig does of war."

"I notice he's almighty particular 'bout that thar carpetbag of his'n," insisted Charley.

The man against the counter had lost nothing of the scene. Billy's denial, his hesitation, his half truth, all looked suspicious to him. With one swift round sweep of the arm he had Billy covered. Billy's arms shot over his head without the necessity of a command.

The men ceased their occupations and gathered about. Scenes of this sort were too common to elicit comment or arouse excitement. They knew perfectly the laissez-faire relations which obtained between the two westerners.

"Now," said Black Hank angrily in a low tone, "I want to know why you tried that monkey game."

Billy, wary and unafraid, replied that he had tried no game, that he had forgotten the tenderfoot for a moment and that he did not believe the latter would prove to be the sought for express messenger.

One of the men, at a signal from his leader, relieved Billy's belt of considerable weight. Then the latter was permitted to sit on a cracker box. Two more mounted the little stairs. In a moment they returned to report that the upper story contained no human beings, strange or otherwise, except the girl, but that there remained a small trunk. Under further orders they dragged the trunk down into the barroom. It was broken open and found to contain clothes of the plainsman's cut, material and state of wear, a neatly folded Mexican saddle showing use and a rawhide quirt.

"Tenderfoot!" said Black Hank contemptuously.

The outlaws had already scattered outside to look for the trail. In this they were unsuccessful, reporting indeed that not the faintest sign indicated escape in any direction.

Billy knew his man. The tightening of Black Hank's close knit brows meant but one thing. One does not gain chieftainship of any kind in the west without propping ascendency with acts of ruthless decision. Billy leaped from his cracker box with the suddenness of the puma, seized Black Hank firmly about the waist, whirled him into a sort of shield and began an earnest struggle for the instant possession of the outlaw's drawn revolver. It was a gallant attempt, but unsuccessful. In a moment Billy was pinioned to the floor and Black Hank was rubbing his abraded forearm. After that the only question was whether it should be rope or bullet.

Now, when Billy had gone downstairs the stranger had wasted no more time at the window. He had in his possession $50,000 in greenbacks which he was to deliver as soon as possible to the Buck Tail agency in Wyoming. The necessary change of stage lines had forced him to stay overnight at Billy Knapp's hotel.

The messenger seized his bag and softly ran along through the canvas partitioned rooms wherein Billy slept to a narrow window which he had already noticed gave out almost directly into the pine woods. The window was of oiled paper, and its catch baffled him. He knew it should slide back, but it refused to slide for him. He did not dare to break the paper because of the crackling noise. A voice at his shoulder startled him.

"I'll show you," whispered the red cheeked girl.

She was wrapped loosely in a blanket, her hair falling about her shoulder and her bare feet showing beneath her coverings. The little man suffered at once an agony of embarrassment in which the thought of his errand was lost. It was recalled to him by the girl.

"There you are," she whispered, showing him the open window.

"Thank you," he stammered painfully. "I assure you—I wish"—

The girl laughed under her breath.

"That's all right," she said heartily. "I owe you that for calling old whiskers off his bronc," and she kissed him.

The messenger, trembling with self consciousness, climbed hastily through the window, ran the broad loop of the satchel up his arm and, instead of dropping to the ground, as the girl had expected, swung himself lightly into the branches of a rather large scrub oak that grew near. She listened to the rustle of the leaves for a moment as he neared the trunk and then, unable longer to restrain her curiosity in regard to the doings below, turned to the stairway.

As she did so two men mounted. They examined the rooms of the upper story hastily, but carefully, paying scant attention to her, and departed swearing. In a few moments they returned for the stranger's trunk. Nell followed as far as the stairway. There she heard and saw things, and fled in bitter dismay to the back of the house, when Billy Knapp was overpowered.

At the window she knelt, clasping her hands and placing her head between her bare arms. Women in the west, at least women like Nell, do not weep. But she came near it. Suddenly she raised her head. A voice next her ear had addressed her.

She looked here and there and around, but could discover nothing.

"Here, outside," came the low, guarded voice. "In the tree."

Then she saw that the little stranger had not stirred from his first sighting place.

"Beg your pardon, ma'am, for startling you or for addressing you at all, which I shouldn't, but"—

"Oh, never mind that!" cried the girl impatiently, shaking back her hair. So deprecating and timid were the tones that, almost without an effort of the imagination, she could picture the little man's blushes and his half sidling method of delivery. At this supreme moment his littleness and lack of self assertion jarred on her mood. "What you doin' there? Thought you'd vamoosed."

"It was safest here," explained the stranger. "I left no trail."

She nodded comprehension of the common sense of this.

"But, ma'am, I took the liberty of speakin' to you because you seems to be in trouble. Of course I ain't got no right to ask, an' if you don't care to tell me"—

"They're goin' to kill Billy!" broke in Nell with a sob.

"What for?"

"I don't jest rightly make out. They're after some one, and they thinks Billy's cachein' him. I reckon it's you. Billy ain't cachein' nothin', but they thinks he is."

"It's me they's after all right enough. Now you knows where I am, why don't you tell them an' save Billy?"

The girl started, but her keen western mind saw the difficulty at once.

"They thinks Billy pertects you jest the same."

"Do you love him?" asked the stranger.

"God knows I'm purty tough," confessed Nell, sobbing, "but I jest do that!" And she dropped her head again.

The invisible stranger in the gloom fell silent, considering.

"I'm a purty rank proposition myself," said he at last as if to himself, "and I got a job on hand which same I oughta put through without givin' attention on anything else. As a usual play, folks don't care for me, and I don't care much for folks, women especial. They drives me plumb tired. I reckon I don't stack up very high on the blue chips when it comes to cashin' in with that sex anyhow, but in general they gives me as much notice as they lavishes on a doodle bug. I ain't carin', you understand, nary bit, but once in a dog's age I kind of hankers for a decent look from one of them. I ain't never had no women folks of my own—never. Sometimes I thinks it would be some scrumptious to know a little gal's waitin' for me somewheres. They ain't none. They never will be. I ain't built that way. You treated me white tonight. You're the first woman that ever kissed me of her own accord."

The girl heard a faint scramble, then the soft pat of some one landing on his feet. Peering from the window, she made out a faint shadowy form stealing around the corner of the hotel. She put her hand to her heart and listened. Her understanding of the stranger's motives was vague, but she had caught his confession that her kiss had meant much to him and even in her anxiety she felt an inclination to laugh. She had bestowed that caress as she would have kissed the cold end of a dog's nose.

The men below stairs, after some discussion, had decided on bullet. This was out of consideration for Billy's standing as a frontiersman. Besides, he had stolen no horses. In order not to delay matters the execution was fixed for the present time and place

Billy stood with his back to the logs of his own hotel, his hands and feet bound, but his eyes uncovered. He had never lost his nerve. In the short respite which preparation demanded he told his opponents what he thought of them.

"Proud?" he concluded a long soliloquy as if to the reflector of the lamp. "Proud?" he repented meditatively. "This yere Hank's jest that proud he's all swelled up like a poisoned pup. Ain't every one kin corral a man and git $50,000 without turnin' a hair."

Black Hank distributed three men to do the business. There were no heroics. The execution of this man was necessary to him, not because he was particularly angry over the escape of the messenger—he expected to capture that individual in due time—but in order to preserve his authority over his men. He was in the act of moving back to give the shooters room when he heard the door open and shut.

He turned. Before the door stood a small, consumptive looking man in a light check suit. The tenderfoot carried two short barreled Colt's revolvers, one of which he presented directly at Black Hank.

"'Nds up!" he commanded sharply.

Hank was directly covered, so he obeyed. The newcomer's eye had a strangely restless quality. Of the other dozen inmates of the room eleven were firmly convinced that the weapon and eye not directed at their leader were personally concerned with themselves. The twelfth thought he saw his chance. To the bewildered onlookers there seemed to be a flash and a bang instantaneous. Then things were as before. One of the stranger's weapons still pointed at Black Hank's breast; the second at each one of the others. Only the twelfth man, he who had seen his chance, had collapsed forward to the floor. No one could assure himself positively that he had discerned the slightest motion on the part of the stranger.

"Now," said the latter sharply, "one at a time, gentlemen. Drop your gun!" This last to Black Hank. "Muzzle down. Drop it! Correct."

One of the men in the back of the room stirred slightly on the ball of his foot.

"Steady there!" said the stranger. The man stiffened.

"Next gent," went on the little man, subtly indicating another. The latter obeyed without hesitation. "Next! Now you. Now you in the corner."

One after another the pistols clashed to the floor. Not for an instant could a single inmate of the apartment, armed or unarmed, flatter himself that his slightest motion was overlooked. They were like tigers on the crouch, ready to

Best Kidney Remedy Known To Science

For pain in the back—scanty urine—highly colored urine—irritated bladder—irregular bowels—bad stomach—there is nothing that will bring such quick relief and so certain a cure as FRUIT-A-TIVES.

These marvelous tablets are nature's natural remedy for irritated or weakened kidneys. They act directly on the kidneys—soothe the irritated membranes—clean, heal and strengthen the organs—and help them to new vigor with their work.

Often kidney trouble is not due to any organic defect in the kidneys. If the bowels are constipated—if the skin does not throw off the tissue waste of the body—then these impurities are carried to the kidneys. In a vain endeavor to rid the system of impurities, the kidneys are overworked—the blood vessels are dilated—the nerves inflamed. That causes a host of kidney troubles.

Fruit-a-tives
OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

not only heal and strengthen the kidneys but they also increase the action of the skin, and act directly on the liver, thus curing the constipation.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are the natural and logical cure for all kidney troubles. They are made of fruit and tonics—are pleasant to take—and a guaranteed cure when faithfully used. 50c. a box or 6 boxes for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your druggist does not handle them.

A Friend Told Me About Bu-Ju

THE GENTLE KIDNEY CURE

Hundreds of people, who have been cured of Kidney Trouble by Bu-Ju, were first induced to try this wonderful remedy by friends who had themselves been cured. The sales of Bu-Ju are daily increasing, because everyone who takes them is benefitted—and these in turn, tell others. So the good news is spread.

Here is what a Picton man says about Bu-Ju:—

"I have used Bu-Ju with great benefit to myself, and cheerfully recommend to all who, I think, are suffering from Kidney Troubles and Rheumatism.

"I think Bu-Ju the best remedy made."

Yours sincerely,
JAMES MILLS.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Completion of Goderich Breakwater," will be received at this office until Saturday, October 20, 1906 inclusively, for the completion of Breakwater at Goderich, Huron County, Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., H. J. Lamb, Esq., Resident Engineer, London, Ont., on application to the Postmaster at Goderich, and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for six thousand five hundred dollars ($6,500.00), must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the party tendering decline the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

LACES AND DELICATE FABRICS are so pretty and expensive that it seems a shame to have them eaten up and rubbed to pieces by using harsh soaps.

"SURPRISE" Soap is so pure that it can't hurt the most flimsy lace. Then it cleanses without boiling or rubbing, so there is no wear at all.

The best way to wash is to make a suds with "SURPRISE" Soap—and then let the soap loosen up the dirt.

After that simply move the fabric around and let the water circulate through it, and the dirt will drop out.

"SURPRISE" is the highest grade soap made. It costs the same as common kinds.

Billy's Tenderfoot

spring the moment the man's guard lowered. It did not lower. The huddled figure on the floor reminded them of what might happen. They obeyed.

"Step back!" commanded the stranger next. In a moment he had them standing in a row against the wall, rigid, upright, their hands over their heads. Then for the first time the stranger moved from his position by the door.

"Call her," he said to Billy—"the girl."

Billy raised his voice. "Nell! Oh, Nell!"

In a moment she appeared in the doorway at the foot of the stairs without hesitation or fear. She had slipped on a dress. When she perceived the state of affairs, she brightened almost mischievously.

"Would you just as soon, ma'am, if it ain't troublin' you too much, just sort of naturally untie Billy?" requested the stranger.

She did so. The hotel keeper stretched his arms.

"Now pick up them guns, please."

The two set about it.

"Where's that infernal old reprobate?" howled Billy suddenly, looking about for Charley.

The patriarch had quietly slipped away.

"You can drop them arms," advised the stranger, lowering the muzzles of his weapons. The leader started to say something.

"You shut up!" said Billy, selecting his own revolvers from the heap.

The stranger suddenly picked up one of the Colt's single action revolvers which lay on the floor and, holding the trigger back against the guard, exploded the six charges by hitting the hammer smartly with the palm of his hand. In the thrusting motion of this discharge he evidently had design, for the first six wineglasses on Billy's bar were shivered. It was wonderful work, rattling fire, quicker than a self cocker even. He selected another weapon. From a pile of tomato cans he took one and tossed it into the air. Before it had fallen he had perforated it twice, and as it rolled along the floor he helped its progression by four more bullets which left streams of tomato juice where they had hit. The room was full of smoke. The group watched, fascinated.

"'Nds up!" he commanded sharply.

Then the men against the wall grew rigid. Out of the film of smoke long, vivid streams flashed toward them, right and left, like the alternating steam of a locomotive's pistons. Smash, smash, smash, smash, hit the bullets with regular thud. With the twelfth discharge the din ceased. Midway between the heads of each pair of men against the wall was a round hole. No one was touched.

A silence fell. The smoke lightened and blew slowly through the window and open door. The horses, long since deserted by their guardian in favor of the excitement within, whinnied. The stranger dropped the smoking Colts and quietly reproduced his own short barreled arms from his side pockets. Billy broke the spell at last.

"That's shootin'!" he observed, with a sigh.

"The fifty thousand is outside," said the stranger. "Do you want 'em?"

There was no reply.

"I aims to pull out on one of these here broncs of yours," said he. "Billy, he's all right. He doesn't know nothin' about me."

He collected the six shooters from the floor.

"I just takes these with me for a spell," he remarked. "You finds them, if you looks hard enough, along on th' trail—likewise your broncs."

He backed toward the door.

"I'm layin' for the man that sticks his head outen that door," he warned.

"Stranger," called Black Hank as he neared the door.

The little man paused.

"Might I ask your name?"

"My name is Alfred," replied the latter.

Black Hank looked chagrined.

"I've heard tell of you," he remarked.

The stranger's eye ran over the room and encountered that of the girl. He shrank into himself and blushed.

"Good night," he said hastily and disappeared. A moment later the beat of hoofs became audible as he led the bunch of horses away.

For an instant no one spoke. Then Billy exclaimed, "Hank, I means to stand pat with you, but you let that kid alone or I plugs you!" Billy was the only man armed.

"Kid, huh!" grunted Hank. "Alfred a kid! I've heard tell of him."

"What have you heard?" inquired the girl.

"He's the plumb best scout in the southern trail and the best pistol shot in the west," replied Black Hank.

The year following Billy Knapp, Alfred and another man named Jim Buckley took across the hills the only wagon train that dared set out that summer.

REMARKS FROM THE PUP.

She's taught me that I mustn't bark
At little noises after dark,
But just refrain from any fuss
Until I'm sure they're dangerous.
This would be easier, I've felt,
If noises could be seen or smelt.

She's very wise, I have no doubt,
And plans ahead what she's about,
Yet after eating every day
She throws her nicest bones away.
If she were really less obtuse
She'd bury them for future use.

But that which makes me doubt the most
Those higher powers that humans boast
Is not so much a fault like that,
Nor yet her fondness for the cat,
But on our pleasant country strolls
Her dull indifference to holes!

Oh, if I once had time to spend
To reach a hole's extremest end,
I'd grab it fast, without a doubt,
And promptly pull it inside out,
Then drag it home with all my power
To chew on it in a leisure hour!

Of all the mistresses there are
Mine is the loveliest by far.
Fain would I wag myself apart
If I could thus reveal my heart,
But on some things, I must conclude,
Mine is the saner attitude.
—Burges Johnson in Harper's Magazine.

A Too Amorous Bear.

Among the attractions of the Cavanagh House at Peterborough are a bevy of good-looking girls, and a half-tamed bear. Whether it was the weather, or whatever the cause, Mr. Bruin became amorous one day last week and when Bridget went out with his dinner he at once stood upon his hind feet, and with his arms embraced Bridget. The girl screamed for help, and then started to battle for life against the too affectionate bear. The other girls in the kitchen heard the screams and rushed to her assistance. The cook was the first to arrive. She caught hold of the girl and started to pull her out of the bear's embrace. Almost immediately all the girls in the house were on the scene, and were lined up, all pulling against Bruin. By this time many of the men around the place had arrived and took a hand in the combat. It was a difficult task for the men, because by the time they arrived Bridget was partially disrobed, and every now and then another garment was torn in shreads and dropped off, until finally, the poor girl was almost without any covering. At this point the men retreated and the bear gave up the fight. It was a close call for Bridget, and had it not been for the cook she would have been well hugged. As it was, she got off with a number of scratches and the loss of her clothing.

In Place of Tobacco.

Coltsfoot or the leaves of lettuce, being slightly narcotic, would form a harmless make believe for the good folk who persuade themselves that they could not sleep a wink were they deprived of their evening comfort. Ages ago both Greeks and Romans, according to Dioscorides and Pliny, found comfort in smoking through a reed or pipe the dried leaves of coltsfoot, which relieved them of old coughs and difficult breathing. And as to lettuce, it has been famous since the time of Galen (Claudius Galenus), who asserts that he found relief from sleeplessness by taking it at night.

Mother Earth's Call.

Force ourselves how we will to lead a strained, unnatural life, we can never get entirely used to it. It is never satisfactory. There is a yearning for the simple life, for the natural life, and, for most of us, country life. We want to feel Mother Earth, to breathe the fresh air, to drink in the beauties of flower, of field, of mountain and of sunset, which never tire or pall upon the mind.—Exchange.

Good Advice.

"Oh, my!" exclaimed the excited woman who had mislaid her husband. "I'm looking for a small man with one eye."

"Well, ma'am," replied the polite floorwalker, "if he's a very small man maybe you'd better use both eyes."

Philanthropic Sparrows.

An incident which, the writer declares, raised the pugnacious sparrow several degrees in his estimation is described in Outing. It shows that the sparrow has other good qualities besides his sturdiness and self reliance. For several days four or five sparrows had visited a certain place on the roof near my window. They always brought food for another little fellow, who never tried a flight from the spot. The visiting sparrows never came empty billed. They would drop tiny morsels of food near the little sparrow. When it began to eat the crumbs the others set up a great chirping and then flew away. After watching this for a few days I went out on the roof and approached the lone bird. It did not flutter away from me and made no resistance when I picked it up. The sparrow was blind. Its eyes were covered with a milklike film.

"Shoost a leetle ways," was the reply.

"Yes, but how far?" again asked the traveler.

"Shoost a [illegible] ways," more emphatically.

Figures of Speech.

At a literary club, some novelists and poets discussed figures of speech.

"A striking figure of speech," said a sonneteer, "came from the pen of an amateur, the pen of Gordon Cumming, the rich English explorer. Gordon Cumming described a tropical jungle as 'a forest of fishhooks, relieved by an occasional patch of penknives.' Not bad, eh?"

"Not at all bad," said a novelist of the historical, or "knee-pant" school. "A figure I have always remembered is used in Guy de Maupassant's 'Bel Ami.' Maupassant, in describing a woman's painted face, says that her red mouth resembled a wound. I thought that figure a stroke of genius till I read in Balzac that a certain lady's mouth was like a wound. George Moore, by the way, says in 'Agnes Lahens' that the painted mouth of Agnes' mother was like a wound, too."

"Similes and comparisons," said an elegiac poet, "take best if they are alliterative. Consider the popular comparisons of the day, how alliterative they are—'as plump as a partridge,' 'as good as gold,' 'as large as life,' 'as blind as a bat,' 'as flat as a flounder,' and so on."

"Western journalists often hit upon original figures," said a realist. "It was a western journalist who wrote 'He seemed dazed and confused, like a lobster, awakening from a nightmare. He was a tall man, and stepped as high as a blind dog in a wheat field. As for his voice, it was rasping and shrill, like a crowbar falling on a tin roof. Though he looked as gloomy as if he had swallowed a hearse and pair of black horses, he needed assistance no more than a frog needs a watchpocket.'"

Not in Tune.

"I see you have made 'short' and 'sport' rhyme," said the critic, as though the idea was too absurd for anything.

"What is the matter with that?" asked the poet, who took criticism about as pleasantly as a small boy takes castor oil.

"You know," said the critic, shaking his head gravely, "when a sport is short he is out of tune with everything."

WHY YOU CAN'T SLEEP.

It's just like this. Somewhere in the brain cells or blood vessels that supply the brain with blood, there is SOMETHING WRONG. That wrong must be righted or you'll go to smash.

Your physically exhausted body needs building up, needs more nutritious blood, needs tone and vigor. Your only hope is FERROZONE, which completely overcomes sleeplessness.

FERROZONE

IS GOOD FOR THE SLEEPLESS.

Every FERROZONE Tablet contains more concentrated goodness than you'll get in quarts of liquid medicine. It benefits instantly.

FERROZONE fairly fills the blood with nourishment. Feeds it with iron and oxygen, invigorates as nothing else can.

The refreshing sleep of a little babe, the restfulness and comfort of childhood's days will come every night of your life by using FERROZONE. Avoid substitutes!

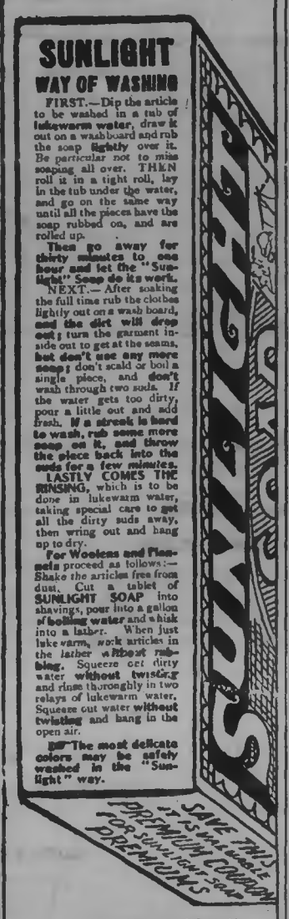
SUNLIGHT SOAP

is better than other Soaps but is best when used in the Sunlight way. Follow directions.



SUNLIGHT
WAY OF WASHING
FIRST.—Dip the article to be washed in a tub of lukewarm water, draw it out on a washboard and rub the soap lightly over it. Be particular not to miss soaping all over. THEN roll it in a tight roll, lay in the tub under the water, and go on the same way until all the places have the soap rubbed on, and are rolled up.
Then go away for thirty minutes to one hour and let the "Sunlight" Soap do its work.
NEXT.—After soaking the full time rub the clothes lightly out on a wash board, and the dirt will drop out; turn the garment inside out to get at the seams, but don't use any more soap; don't scald or boil a single piece, and don't wash through two suds. If the water gets too dirty, pour a little out and add fresh. If a streak is hard to wash, rub some more soap on it, and throw the piece back into the suds for a few minutes.
LASTLY COMES THE RINSING, which is to be done in lukewarm water, taking special care to get all the dirty suds away, then wring out and hang up to dry.
For Woolens and Flannels proceed as follows:—Shake the articles free from dust. Cut a tablet of SUNLIGHT SOAP into shavings, pour into a gallon of boiling water and whisk into a lather. When just lukewarm, work articles in the lather without rubbing. Squeeze out dirty water without twisting and rinse thoroughly in two relays of lukewarm water. Squeeze out water without twisting and hang in the open air.
The most delicate colors may be safely washed in the "Sunlight" way.

David Butler Was Convicted On The Charge

Hotelkeeper Found Guilty, Convicted On His Own Evidence.

A STARTLING STATEMENT.

Magistrate's Criticism of the Unlicensed Hotels—Says a Number of Them In Local Option Townships Are Houses of Prostitution—Criticism of the Action of Temperance People In Regard to Question.

Aylmer, Oct. 3.—The hearing of evidence in the charge against David Butler, proprietor of the licensed Albino Hotel at Orwell, of keeping a disorderly house, was concluded yesterday afternoon before County Police Magistrate F. Hunt. A conviction was registered, but the imposition of a penalty was deferred pending the argument at St. Thomas next week on a technical point as to whether the conviction is to be regarded under the amended liquor license act as a second conviction, one having been previously made against Butler a few months ago.

The case was the one in which the Conservative machine sought to throw the onus on Mr. W. F. Hepburn, the former Liberal candidate for East Elgin, and it has been hanging fire for weeks. But though the Magistrate convicted Butler, he pointed out that he did so absolutely on defendant's own testimony. Butler, he declared, had failed to exercise proper care in the conduct of his house.

There was also the apparent attempt to bring in Mr. Hepburn's name at every opportunity and make it appear that he was on trial. This led to an emphatic declaration from the Magistrate to the effect that the charge was not against Mr. Hepburn or anyone else, but Butler.

A Deplorable Condition.

After disposing of the case, as stated, Magistrate Hunt addressed the crowd in the court room as follows:—"I want to say, because I see a good many ratepayers here, that I consider it in the interests of the public, and especially of the young people, that these public houses, ill-conducted or unlicensed, should be conducted in a moral way. We have had in parts of Elgin county, in Yarmouth and Southwold, for instance, local option elections. Women and temperance men have become very much excited in these elections. They have held public meetings and prayer meetings to ask the aid of the Almighty to carry local option acts, and what is the result? The result is that in the room of having licensed hotels we have in a good many cases, not in all, unlicensed bawdy houses. I know whereof I am talking. I am out through the county two or three times a week. Going by these places I see from ten to thirty rigs tied up by these unlicensed houses, and I know that in every one of these rigs have been a man and a woman, and often a girl under fourteen years of age. I think it far better myself to have licensed houses than to have these unlicensed houses of prostitution if they cannot be wiped out.

Temperance People Criticized.

"What is the attitude of the temperance people after they have carried these local option laws? I will give you an example: A man came to me the other day and he said, 'Squire, there is a local option hotel in my neighborhood and I am sorry to say my boy is going there at nights. I see many girls going there almost every night from the city (St. Thomas), and many young men, too. I want you to put a stop to it.'

"I said, 'How do you know this?'

"He answered, 'I have watched it with my own eyes.'

"I said to him, 'You lay the information and I will take care to look after the matter.'

"But," continued the Magistrate, "he did not want to do this for fear, he said, of creating bad feelings. Then I told him to lay the information anyway, and I would subpoena his boy. His answer was, 'Squire, I am afraid my boy would not tell the truth,' and he declined to lay the information.

"Two or three nights later there was a prayer meeting, and this same man asked Almighty God to close up that bawdy house. I am afraid that in the day of judgment the Almighty will want to rule him out of court for contempt. In place of asking the Almighty to shut up that house that man and his friends should have got a hustle on, secured the evidence necessary to convict the keeper of that house, laid an information, and I would have done the rest."

Deserts Boy on Train.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 3.—Leslie Ferguson, 10 years old, is stranded in the Soo because his father mysteriously deserted him at Saxon, a station on the south shore in Wisconsin. BANK HAD TO OPEN BOOKS

Objection Entered by the Bank of Nova Scotia But the Chairman of the Commission Rules Again That Mr. Shepley Must Have Chance to Inspect Fowler Papers — Mr. Shepley Visited the Bank.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—Yesterday, R. L. Borden, K. C., in a statement issued concerning the mention made of his name in connection with the Fowler-and-others land speculation scheme, says:

"I never had the slightest interest in or connection with the purchase of these lands or any other lands in the west of Canada. Messrs. Pope, Fowler, Bennett and Lefurgey, or some of them, told me of their proposed venture and asked me to join them. My discussion of the proposal with any of these gentlemen was during our trip to the west in 1902 before any details of the purchase had been made. The discussion was of a very casual and general character, and I was so much occupied with political matters that I gave it very little consideration. I returned to Halifax from the west about the end of October, 1902, and on the 7th of the following month Mr. Pope telegraphed to me that he was leaving for the west, and on the same date I replied by telegram that I would not take any interest.

"I never attended any meeting in connection with the purchase, never had any communication with Sir Thos. Shaughnessy or any other railway official on the subject, and had no confidential information about the route of any railway.

"It was never suggested or hinted to me that any funds of the Union Trust Co. were to be used for the purpose of purchase.

"I never heard that company mentioned in connection with it. The proposal made to me was that each person who might become interested should finance his own share."

Bank Has to Produce Books.

The Insurance Commission took a rest yesterday, while Dominion Counsel Shepley visited the Bank of Nova Scotia, where he examined the accounts and documents of S. W. Fowler, M. P., now in possession of the bank. The continued absence of Mr. Fowler, is, as it were, prolonging the agony. He was at Ender Bay on the 24th of September, but it is not known definitely that he will be here this week. In the meantime Mr. Shepley has other irons in the fire and will go along another line.

The Commission sat for a few minutes in the afternoon, while Mr. Shepley explained that he could do nothing further until the bank books were examined. The Commission will resume at 10.30 this morning.

Book Production Argument.

When the Commission opened yesterday morning there was an argument about the books, documents and papers, belonging to George W. Fowler, in the possession of the Bank of Nova Scotia, which the manager had been asked to produce. C. A. Masten, addressed the Commission at length, pointing out that Mr. Fowler was not in town, and that the bank was not able to communicate with him. He submitted that the books and papers were outside the jurisdiction of the Commission on the grounds that the Okanagon Lumber Co. was entirely an independent company, and whether or not Fowler accounted to his associates for all the monies therewith had nothing whatever to do with the affairs of the I. O. F.

Mr. Shepley reminded the Commission that the money of the I. O. F. had gone into the Union Trust Co., its creature, from there to the Kamloops Lumber Co., to the Okanagon Co., and to Mr. Fowler.

Judge MacTavish said that the Commission would stick to their former ruling that the books be produced, not because it had been made, but because the Commission thought it was right.

A Veiled Threat.

"If there is any direction needed we are prepared to give it, but I hope it won't be necessary," he added.

John M. McWhinney, acting manager of the Union Trust Co., was called. He had with him the investment ledger of the Union Trust, a map of the lands bought by the Union Trust in the Northwest and all the papers and documents relating to $835,000 that was expended in connection, which witness said he would produce.

Mr. Shepley also wanted some shareholders' minutes, of which witness made a note and will produce. The minute regarding the increase in the Standard Bank loan, the remuneration of the directors, agreement with shareholders, further loan from Traders' Bank, inspection committee, the increase in the number of directors, relating to the call of 50 per cent. call on Northwest Lands and the bylaw, relating to Matthew Wilson, the agreement of the Great West Land Co. will b given by Mr. Shepley.

Charged With Manslaughter.

Guelph, Oct. 3.—As a result of the coroner's jury finding in the inquest on the Gourock railway wreck, Conductor Joseph Thompson and Engineer G. B. Reed of the fruit special were placed under arrest yesterday, but shortly afterwards released on bail. They are charged with manslaughter and will appear before the magistrate this morning. Thompson's home is in London and Reed lives in Hamilton.

A true bill of manslaughter was also returned by the grand jury against Peter Wilson, who shot and killed little Berdina Swackhammer in Erin Township. His trial will take place to-day.

Devlin Retires From Galway.

London, Oct. 3.—In a letter to his Galway constituents, C. R. Devlin says: "It is my great regret that my means will not allow me to continue longer as your representative." Referring to political matters, he says: "Our cause is sure to succeed at an early date."

Grand Trunk Report.

London, Oct. 3.—The G. T. R. report issued yesterday states that the gross receipts for the half year ending June 30 were £3,021,681, compared with £2,729,008 last year. Working expenses were £2,184,821, compared with £1,923,438. Net revenue receipts for the half-year, after adding receipts from all sources, were £944,867, and the directors recommend dividends on four per cent. first and second preference, and to carry forward £16,077. Passengers carried totalled 4,616,957, compared with 4,303,705. On the Canada Atlantic there was a net revenue deficiency of £30,296.

Gallery Appeal Heard.

Toronto "World" Concedes The Big Factory To This City

Says Coates Works Will be Located Near Here---Coatesville Name of the New Village.

Homes for Workmen and Their Families Also To Be Erected —Will Reside Here.

Manufacturing Building Will be 1,100 Feet Long—2 Stories High--3 Storey Office Building

The Toronto World to-day says:—"Canada is soon to have another big factory and a village beautiful. The factory, 1100 feet long, is to be built and operated by the Coates Manufacturing Company of Canada, Limited. The village is to be christened Coatesville.

"The company has a Dominion charter, and the president is Henry Coates of Perth, Scotland, and the vice-president and managing director is Joseph Dunwoodie of Glasgow. They leave Toronto this morning in company with Senator Cox to select a site of 100 acres near Peterborough.

"The company will manufacture tapestry and axminster carpets. It will also operate a large litographic plant for advertising purposes and other industries.

"Adjoining the works will be a model village for the operatives and their families. The main building is to be 1100 feet long, and two storeys high, with an ornamental three-storey office building.

"Messrs. Coates and Dunwoodie have been in Canada for about six weeks. They sail for Scotland on the Empress of Ireland, on Friday, but Mr. Dunwoodie will return in a few weeks. Mr. Coates, too, will soon return, and both gentlemen will take up their residence at Peterborough. Mr. Coates is the son of the late Andrew Coates, who founded the American branch of the great thread industry known as J. W. Coates, Limited, whose chief works are in Paisley, Scotland, with branches all over the world."

Whipped Child Until Stopped

Atlanta Woman Accused of Inhuman Treatment.

Examiner Special.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 3. — With a strap, whose blows could be heard a long way, so neighbours say, Mrs. Jane Redd beat her 14-year-old daughter, Lena, until persons attracted by the child's screams intervened and put a stop to the alleged inhuman treatment.

According to statements of people living near by there is a great deal of dissension in the Redd family, and the child, Lena, seems to suffer frequently at the hands of her mother and her brother, Will. Mrs. Redd stated that Lena had a habit of going off with other girls and would not do her share toward supporting the family, and that it was to correct her in these things that she was whipped.

"I don't care to live with those people any longer," said Lena. "They are always beating me about something, and not long ago Will hit me in the breast with his fist."

Both Will and Lena Redd work in the Fulton bag and cotton mills. Some of the people living in the same house with the Redds said that Lena made her own living, purchased her own clothes, and paid to have it made. Will Redd works about half the time in the cotton mill, but has been at home for several days, claiming to be sick, and it is stated that the child was whipped in order to make her work, the family needing money.

As to his side of the case, Will Redd stated that it was necessary to whip the child on account of her conduct, and that he had to help his mother to correct her.

Prize Winners May Have Cheques

By Calling at Bank of Commerce on Saturday.

Secretary F. J. A. Hall, of the Peterborough Industrial, wishes to inform those who were the winners of prizes at the fair, that they may have their cheques by calling on the president, Mr. D. Hughes Charles, on Saturday next. The cheques will then be ready.

FILED PLANS FOR ---PETERBOROUGH BRANCH OF--- NEW GRAIN LINE

According to Plans Filed at Lindsay Line Will Go South of Chemong Lake.

Pigeon Creek Will Be Crossed, According to Plan Filed, Near Cowan's Bridge.

Lindsay, Oct. 3.—Two more plans of the Georgian Bay and Seaboard C. P. R. Line have been filed in the Registry Office in town. One comprises the remaining section in Eldon; the line passes thence through the northeast corner of Mariposa and the southwest corner of Fenelon, just north of the present Midland line; thence through Ops to the Stewart farm, just north of the town.

The other section commences at the east boundary of Emily, south of Chemong Lake, and comes westerly parallel to the Peterborough travelled road, and (turning north of the old forced road) then turns north quite close to the schoolhouse on the middle line, and northwesterly towards Cowan's bridge, near which place Pigeon River will be crossed.

The remaining section will no doubt soon be filed, as the plans have been approved by the Railway Commission at Ottawa. Nothing has yet been given out by the Construction Company concerning the plans for commencing work, or where the start will be made.

Gold Watch And Money Stolen From Sleeper's Room

Burglar Entered Mr. J. J. Lundy's Residence, East City --Watch Was Gift of His Late Mother--Both Taken From Vest Pocket--Two Arrests Made.

The attempted burglary of Mr. Weir's residence on Monday night was not the only one which has excited East City residents. The property of Mr. J. J. Lundy, Burnham street, suffered a heavy loss from the light-footed burglars, Mr. Lundy's gold watch and chain and pocketbook having been stolen.

Mr. Lundy supposes that the thieves entered the house between 2 and 3 o'clock, in the morning. He had retired at about 10 o'clock to his room, where the thief visited, leaving the front door unlocked for another member of the family who found it ajar shortly after 2.

Footprints on the south verandah, which are yet visible, and an open south window told the silent story of how the burglar gained an entrance. The window was unfastened and would not have required much of an effort to raise as it reaches almost down to the verandah. The thief evidently had an exit on both sides of the house prepared beforehand.

After entering the building, it was an easy matter for him to ascend the carpeted stairs. He first passed through the sitting-room to the right, which leads to Mr. Lundy's bedroom on the west side. The gold watch which was stolen was doubly valuable to the owner, it being the last gift from his mother on his birthday. This, besides his chain and pocketbook, containing a considerable sum of money, was taken from his vest pocket, which was lying on a chair.

Clothes Were Scattered

When Mr. Lundy awoke yesterday morning he found his clothes all strewn over the floor, and not on the chair where he had left them on retiring. He immediately felt for his watch and money, but both were gone. It would therefore appear that it was well known that Mr. Lundy had money with him, but he states that it was impossible for any person to know. He had been given it the evening previous by his nephew, but on account of the banks being closed, it was impossible to make a deposit. It was about the first time in his life, he stated to the reporter, that he had kept a large sum of money over night in his house, and admitted circumstances did indicate that the crooks had known he had money in his possession.

Becoming Epidemic

Burglaries are certainly becoming epidemic in the city, and this is another lesson that houses should be carefully locked up when unprotected.

Two suspects spent the night at the police station, and this morning were charged with vagrancy. Nothing suspicious was discovered upon their persons, but they were given 24 hours to leave the city by the Magistrate.

Farm Lands In County Are Selling Rapidly

Messrs. Blewett and O'Brien Sold $34,850 Worth of Farms in Month of September.

The first month's business for Messrs. Blewett and O'Brien, has been very satisfactory, the farm business having been beyond their expectations. During September this firm sold six farms, the total prices obtained for them being $34,850, an average of nearly $6,000 each. These farms were all in the vicinity of Peterborough, and indicate the activity in farm lands near this city.

In addition to the farm business this firm has sold a number of city properties, this branch of the business totalling $12,700, the total business of the firm during the month reaching $47,550, a record which is a remarkably good one, particularly for a young firm.

William O'Brien Dies While Eating Dinner

An Old and Respected Resident of the City Died Suddenly Today in East City.

At noon to-day a sudden death occurred at Mr. P. Hogan's Hotel, in East City, when Mr. William O'Brien, a resident of the city for many years, expired while sitting at the table eating his dinner. Death, which was practically instantaneous, was given as due to heart failure. Coroner Grey was notified, but after learning the particulars decided that an inquest was unnecessary, since death was undoubtedly due to natural causes.

The late Mr. O'Brien had been living with Mr. Hogan for the last ten years, and has been very highly respected by all who knew him. He leaves seven sons, Maurice, John, William, Robert, Thomas, Joseph and Charles. He was married to Miss Johanna Walsh, of Douro, who died in 1895 at the age of 46 years.

Mrs. Patrick Kennedy, 10 Crescent street, is a niece who is the only relative the deceased had in the city.

At the time of going to press arrangements had not been made for the funeral.

Plans For Peterborough Normal School Described

Are Now in Possession of Chairman of Board of Education For Inspection.

Building Will Cost in the Neighbourhood of $50,000 and Will Be An Attractive One.

Specifications State That Only Best Material In Every Case Will Pass Approval.

Tenders Are Now Being Asked For The Erection Of The New Structure In This City.

The chairman of the Board of Education is now in possession of the plans and specifications of the Peterborough Normal School, to be erected in Dixon Park, before the first of September, 1907.

The plans are blue print tracings and, besides showing views of the different floors, there are also front and side views, and transverse and longitudinal sections.

The front view of the building is of a very attractive appearance, facing the south, and with a large tower to adorn it. The estimated cost of the building is $50,000. It will consist of three stories, and in dimensions will be 110 feet long by 78 feet in width. The foundation will consist of concrete up to the grade line, and the remainder will be constructed of stone and brick. The interior will be finished in clear white pine of the best quality.

The Basement

The important parts of the basement are the manual training rooms, of which there are three, and the large gymnasium to the rear, 48 x 36 feet in dimensions. A main hall runs to the gymnasium and connecting this are the janitor's and boiler rooms, coal vault and men's lavatory.

Ground Floor

At the main entrance to the ground floor are a large lobby and entrance hall opening to the large hall, 20 feet wide, running to the library in the rear. To the left of the entrance lobby will be situated the secretary's room, 11 x 20 feet, and in the south-west corner the principal's room, 14 x 16 feet. Cupboard and lavatory intervene between these and the cloak room, 33 x 11 feet 6 inches. A hall way comes next, leading to a porch and side entrance. The next apartment on the west side is a class room, 42 x 31 feet, and to the rear of this in the north-west corner, will be a large library and reading room, 24 x 47 feet.

In the south east corner, to the right of the main entrance, will be another class room, 26 x 33 feet. A cloak room comes next, 13 x 23, and another hall, 10 1-2 feet wide, leads to a side entrance. In the north-east corner, and occupying the remainder of the rear of the building will be a class room, 26 x 33 feet.

First Floor

On the first floor a large hall, 20 feet wide, runs within 28 feet of the rear. On the west side will be a teachers' room for men, 20 x 26 ft. A ladies' cloak room and a janitor's room, intervenes between this and a class room, 24 x 31 feet. A large lecture room, 27 x 47 feet, will occupy the north-west corner of the first floor. On the east side of this floor, the first apartment to the south will be the lady teachers' room. A laboratory, 26 x 33 feet will be next on the east side, with an apparatus room attached, 13 x 23 feet. A conservatory projecting in a wing to the side, will also be a portion of this floor. Another class room, 26 x 33 feet, will occupy the north-east corner.

Second Floor

An immense assembly hall will be the prominent apartment on the second floor. The dimensions of this will be 72 x 68 feet, covering most of the floor. In the north-west corner, an art room, will be situated, and in the north-east, a domestic science room, 24 x 32 feet. Between these will be a domestic science dining room, making up the total of the second floor.

The plans were drawn up by Architect F. R. Heakes, of the Public Works Department, and now await inspection from contractors, who intend to figure on the building.

Majority For The By-laws, But Defeated All The Same

Majority of Those Who Voted Yesterday Were in Favour of Assisting Industries.

Necessary One-Third of Ratepayers Voting For Them Not Obtained, However

The Details Of The Vote---Small Number Of Ratepayers Turned Out.

Some Of The Reasons For the Small Vote Polled--Less Than 1-6 Of Available Votes Recorded.

The vote yesterday on the bylaw to spend $1200 in purchasing a site for the Rapid Tool Company, resulted in the measure being defeated, although there was a majority in its favour of 272.

In order to go into force it was necessary that a third of those having a vote should vote in favour of the bylaw. The required number was not nearly reached, the number of votes for the bylaw being 352, while the required number is 716. The total possible vote is 2145, so that it will be seen that less than one-sixth of those having votes supported the bylaw.

The withdrawal of the Steel Company from the city may be considered as directly responsible for the defeat of the Tool Company bylaw. Very many people who were strong supporters of the Steel Rolling Mills were little interested in the other, and when it became known that the Rolling Mills Company were to leave Peterborough they did not turn out to vote for the other. The usual indifference exhibited by the citizens of Peterborough was in evidence yesterday, the vote all through being very small. Every sub-division showed a majority for the bylaw.

Contrary to expectations, a vote was taken on the Steel Rolling Mills bylaw. Although the company had decided to remove from Peterborough, the council did not withdraw the bylaw at their meeting on Monday night, and no instructions were given the returning officers to stop the voting. On Division No. 1, Returning Officer Josiah Robinson, acted without orders, and did not issue ballots, consequently there was no vote there for the Steel Company. There was a majority of 239 in its favour, although, as in the case of the Tool Company bylaw the vote cast was not large.

Following are the figures by sub-divisions:—

Broken Rail On Canal Bridge; Accident Averted

Bridge at Nassau Has to be Crossed Carefully—Prompt Action Prevented Trouble.

The Trent Canal and G. T. R. offices here were notified today of an accident to the bridge which spans the canal at Nassau, and as a result a staff of men was despatched to repair the injury, which consisted of a broken rail on the bridge.

The trains this morning were able to cross the bridge, but passed over it very slowly.

It was a very fortunate circumstance that the break was discovered in time. Had it not been for this fact it is probable that a bad accident would have taken place at the canal.

Assistant Secretary Of Vancouver, B.C., Y.M.C.A.

Mr. T. H. Hutchinson Again Enters Association Work—A Prosperous Branch There.

Mr. T. H. Hutchinson, who for some time was assistant secretary of the Y.M.C.A. here, has recently been appointed to a similar position in the Association at Vancouver, B.C., in which city he has been living since he left Peterborough. He has been following business pursuits in the West, but has again joined the working force of the Y.M.C.A. The Association in Vancouver is in a flourishing condition, and has a very large membership. It is in charge of Mr. Graham, a former Ontario man, going West from Stratford to take charge of the Y.M.C.A. at the coast city.

Mr. Hutchinson has many friends in this city who will learn with pleasure of his return to the work which he seemed so well qualified to do successfully.

Board Of Trade Will Be Organized Soon

Lakefield Will Probably Have One in the Near Future--No Merchant's Association.

Examiner Special.

Lakefield, Oct. 3.—A well attended meeting of the business men of the village was held on Monday night last when an address was given by Organizer Egan, of the Ontario Retail Merchants' Association, with reference to the proposal to form a branch of the Association here. The matter was pretty fully discussed, but it is not probable that a branch will be organized here in the near future. The question of the proposed Board of Trade, however, is one which seems to be meeting with more general favour, and a committee was appointed at the meeting to prepare a constitution and submit it at a meeting which will be held early next week, when it is expected, the Board will be formed.

It is felt that there are a number of questions of considerable importance to the village, which could be dealt with by a Board of Trade if one were formed. The general material welfare of the village will be the special care of the Board of Trade.

FURNACE BOTTOM DROPPED; 100 SAID TO BE ROASTED

Special to J. R. Heintz & Co.

New York, Oct. 3. — A private despatch received from Denver, Col., says: "A score or more persons reported roasted to death in a furnace bottom dropping out, at the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company's plant at Pueblo. Gates closed and officials refuse to tell how many are dead." Another private despatch says the loss of life is reported to be one hundred.

Were Arrested For Vagrancy

Given 24 Hours To Get Out of the City.

Joseph Beavis and Robert Gibson were arraigned before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning on charges of vagrancy. The former pleaded that he had asked an East City resident for a pair of boots, but had never begged money from anyone. The other was a slight youth who said little. Both stated that they intended leaving shortly for a lumber camp, and were given two dozen hours to leave the city.

Jealous Girl Tried To Kill Her Rival

Cartridge Failed to Explode, Saving a Murder.

Zanesville, Oct. 3.—There would have been no wedding for Walter Marple and Helen Hoffman if the revolver held by Mary Francis had not missed fire when she pulled the trigger in Marple's face at noon.

Marple was walking past the Francis home when Mary Francis confronted him and without a word struck the revolver in his face and pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to explode. Marple ran to police headquarters and had the woman arrested.

Downers' Corner's Orange Lodge

Held Good Meeting and Refreshments Were Served Last Night

Downer's Corners L.O.L. had a very busy night at their regular meeting on Tuesday evening.

Worshipful Master, Bro. Rishie, was in the chair. He was supported by the Rev. A. H. Brace, who acted as Chaplain for the occasion.

Four applications for membership received favourable ballots. There was one other received the Orange Degree and three were raised to the Royal Arch Purple.

On motion the lodge will meet on the 1st and 3rd Tuesdays in the month, until further notice.

A good deal of routine business was put through. The purchase of a drum recently by one of the brethren was sanctioned by the lodge.

At the close of business tables were laid, tea and coffee served and a good spread enjoyed.

Downers Corners Lodge is alive and forging ahead.

A SHARP LESSON

The result of the voting upon the Rapid Tool Company bylaw yesterday was its decisive defeat—by default, an insufficient number of affirmative votes having been polled to constitute the one-third of the available vote necessary to pass it. This result is not due to lack of popular appreciation of the merits of the bylaw in itself. The complication arising out of the withdrawal of the Steel Rolling Mills bylaw, created an apathy and a feeling of disgust towards the Council as controlled by the Mayor. That such a feeling existed is shown by the fact that almost as large a vote was polled for the Rolling Mills bylaw as the other showing a large popular indignation against the authorities.

While the Mayor is primarily to blame for the delay which lost the Rolling Mills industry to Peterborough, the Council as a whole can reasonably be held to considerable responsibility. There is surely some means by which the members of a Council can deal with a recalcitrant Mayor who takes it upon himself to defeat the purpose of a majority of the Council, and to imperil and injure the interests of the city. By permitting what was done to lose the Rolling Mills industry to the city, the Council as a body must take a share of the blame.

It is hoped that this will be a sharp lesson to the people's representatives, and lead to a more open and generous attitude towards local enterprise and capital, which has just reason to be discouraged and disheartened at the treatment accorded in the case in question and in others.

The case of the Rolling Mills is not a pleasant one to contemplate. In some quarters the unworthy feeling was held that the originators of the enterprise being local people, the idea of their going elsewhere, was only a "bluff," and in others the still more unworthy feeling that as the company was sure to stay here they should be given no encouragement. Then again the narrow spirit was shown that the enterprise was a fake, and that the promoters were not able to carry forward the industry successfully.

The promoters behind this enterprise were very largely the same as those who promoted the Shovel and Tool Company, one of the most thriving and promising city industries, which has perhaps made greater progress and developed the largest importance in the same length of operation of any of our local manufactories. If a success like this attended the enterprise of our own citizens, it stands to reason that a similar success would have been made of the Rolling Mills enterprise. This latter organization would have helped the Shovel and Tool Company's enterprise because the material produced would be used by the latter with the advantage represented by the saving of freight, etc.

The Shovel Company in its inception was antagonized in high civic quarters, and that is by no means an isolated example. The same influence was exerted to throw cold water upon the Brinton Carpet Company enterprise, and if it had not been for the efforts, and action, of an outsider — a gentleman who, although in one sense he was coldshouldered out of the city, has been one of the best and firmest friends Peterborough has ever had in relation to the promotion of our industrial and material interests, and to whom we owe several of our largest and most flourishing industries.

Another case in point, referred to in these columns yesterday, was the Canadian Oil Company, now of Toronto. The same influence, aided by other members of the council, was responsible for its removal from Peterborough to Toronto. The local capitalists behind it, were scouted as "no good," it was pronounced a fake. Now, it is in existence in Toronto, one of the largest oil concerns on the continent, outside of the Standard Oil Company; it owns oil wells in the United States and Canada, manufactures oils, paints and varnishes, and is an industry employing in its operation a capital of a million and a half of dollars, one that Toronto counts among its most important concerns. There are many shareholders of it in Peterborough. Thus we see local capital, which aimed to give Peterborough the benefit of the industry it promoted, giving, through unpatriotic local opposition, the benefit of its use to Toronto.

The people of Peterborough should come to realize the situation and frown down and discourage the spirit that belittles and obstructs local, as well as outside, enterprise. We have often heard it complained that many Peterborough citizens will not use their capital, will not risk it in commercial nor industrial enterprises, but content themselves with employing it in a manner, productive of benefit only to themselves. Yet when enterprising citizens embark upon an enterprise, and courageously risk their capital, we find persons so lacking in public spirit, so lost to local patriotism that they throw cold water upon such enterprise, and obstruct its realization, to the injury of the city at large, and of its best interests.

It is hoped that the sharp lesson read by the present situation will be laid to heart by our people's representatives, and that they will be led to take larger views of their responsibilities, and so exercise them, that lasting injury will cease to be done by, and to, our own citizens, to not only the reputation of Peterborough as a desirable manufacturing centre, but also to the material interests and progress of the city.

LACK OF SLEEP.

Recently there has been what may be called an epidemic of railway accidents, representing deplorable destruction of life, and great damage to property. But the latter counts little in comparison with the loss of human lives, especially since the property loss falls upon the railway companies, which are, to a large extent, responsible. Without analysing, if means were available, the causes of the several accidents, enough is known, however, to justify the conclusion, that many of the mishaps are due to over-worked employees, who, from lack of sleep, are physically incapable, no matter how willing they may be, to properly attend to their duties. In the course of an inquest into the cause of the death of Thomas Farley, a locomotive engineer, who was killed in a collision at Gourock, near Guelph, astonishing evidence was elicited. It was proven that the engineer, in a run of 267 miles, worked 20 hours out of the 24 without sleep. It was worked out that in the four days' run the engineer averaged only three hours' rest per day. While a healthy, robust man may do without rest for one or two nights, a continual loss of rest and sleep must render a man incapable of exercising the vigilance which is demanded of a man to whom the lives of others are entrusted.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If you see an eligible man attending church in opposition to his usual Sunday habits, it may be concluded that he is a coming candidate for alderman.

The world is coming to a fine pass. An eighteen-year-old Toronto girl, who was reproved by her mother for being out late Sunday night, ended her life by going to her room, and swallowing carbolic acid. One can hardly call this a calamity. A girl that will persist in night-walking the streets, if unrestrained, stands to meet a fate worse than death.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., sets a high standard for the political future of Ireland. He is visiting America, and, in a speech at a banquet in New York, said that he believed that "in a quarter of a century Ireland will have all the rights that have been accorded to Canada." Mr. O'Connor is neither too optimistic nor unreasonable. British justice, when it becomes unshackled, cannot consistently deny to Ireland the justice it accorded to Canada in regard to self-government sixty years ago.

At a conference in Berlin, Germany, on child study, a professor declared that the evidence of young children in law courts is absolutely worthless. The professor does not know it all. This is a question whose answer does not need great learning. An intelligent child is far more likely to tell the truth than an older witness. Such a witness has not the skill to concoct a false story, nor the "nerve" to stick to a false story, if previously coached. Besides, the most callous-hearted judge would not permit a brow-beating counsel to bully a child into perjury.

Employed Boys' Y.M.C.A. School

One of the Most Helpful Features of the Work.

One of the most helpful of the courses in the Y.M.C.A. evening classes is that for Employed Boys. Those who have had to leave school, within the past two years to learn a trade or engage in other work, without having had a fair chance to get grounded in the common branches of study, should be especially interested. Carefully prepared figures show that of this class two-thirds of those who are in school, at 12, drop out of school at 14.

The Employed Boys School opens at the Y.M.C.A. on Friday evening of this week. The subjects will be Arithmetic, Spelling and Writing. The school will meet two evenings a week. The instructor is Mr. J. C. Smith, who has in past years proven an expert in handling this course. All employed boys who require such instruction, should enrol on or before Friday.

Charivaring Don't Go There

Bowmanville Youths Were Fined For This Offence.

Charivaring a companion on his marriage night got ten town youths into serious trouble recently. They made too much noise beating tin pans, shouting, singing, etc., for the neighbours, and the police were notified, the result being that they all had to appear before Mr. W. M. Horsey, P. M., and, pleading guilty, were mulcted in $2 each and $1 each costs, $30 in all. There is a bylaw of the town forbidding that sort of serenading, and the magistrate had no alternative but to fine them.—Bowmanville Statesman.

Pills and Piles.

A prolific cause of Piles is the use of cathartics and pills of a drastic, violent nature, which is always followed by a reaction on account of the resinous, drying properties they contain.

There are other causes, but no matter what the cause or what the kind of Piles, Mr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid can be relied upon to cure—to stay cured.

It's an internal remedy that removes the causes of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Suppurating Piles.

A guarantee goes with each package containing a month's treatment. It can be obtained for $1.00 at druggists', or The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Father Keilty's Cousin Had Miraculous Escape

An Ottawa Man Who Passed Through a Trying Ordeal —Lost in Temiskaming Woods for Five Days.

The Ottawa Citizen has the following interesting story of the escape of Mr. G. L. Kirwans, a cousin of Rev. Father Keilty, of Douro, who is very proud of him, and who, in his younger days possessed the same powers of endurance:—

Happiness has returned to the home of P. T. Kirwin of 210 Charlotte street, for Saturday night the family received a card from the son, G. L. Kirwin, whom a few days before they had feared was lost in the wild forests of the Temiskaming district. But he was found after spending over five days wandering about alone, and without food or shelter, exposed to the fall winds and rain. During the time the young man was astray he subsisted on water and maple leaves, and although weak from the enforced fasting he is otherwise well after his unhappy experience.

Young Kirwan is 18 years of age and last June he left the city with Dr. Barlow's geological survey party to survey the country, northwest of Lake Temiskaming. The party had been working for some time near St. Isader, 12 miles south of that lake, in the Province of Quebec. On Wednesday, September 5th, the party left in the morning as usual to work about Long Lake. Kirwan and a man named Buckley were left behind to take charge of the camp. As they had nothing much to do they decided to go locating lakes.

At 11 o'clock Buckley said: "Let's open the lunch basket."

"You open it and I will be back in a few minutes," was Kirwan's reply, as he started off into the woods. Buckley was busy arranging the meal, and when it was ready he called to his companion. There was no answer. Buckley wondered that his friend had gone so far, and waited fork a few minutes before he called again. On the second occasion he shouted several times, but to his surprise and fright still there was no answer. He continued to call, but all in vain. After three-quarters of an hour had passed he rushed back to the camp and gave the alarm.

The party had returned, and it did not take long to arrange a search, for all knew too well how dangerous it was to be lost in this uninhabited region. The searchers followed about the edge of the lake and for some time saw nothing to guide them. At last they come to an old boat which was lying on the shore. It had been moved recently, and the tracks in the sand showed that Kirwan had been there but could not use the boat, as it had a rotten bottom.

Step by step the anxious party followed the tracks of the missing comrade, but at last they gave it up on account of the hardness of the sand. After the loss of the trail they continued to search about the forest and as it grew dark regretfully withdrew to the camp.

Day followed day, and each night the searchers returned baffled. Not only the members of the survey party, but the few residents and Indians joined in the search. One day they found where Kirwan had spent the night and the remains of a fire he had kindled. Otherwise they found no clue.

Meanwhile, totally at a loss as to his whereabouts, Kirwan wandered along. There are numerous lakes in this district and these tended to confuse him. He climbed tree after tree, to widen his vision, but to no avail. He saw no familiar landmarks. He ate maple leaves and slept in the open. On the sixth day, almost despairing of being saved, he wearily dragged himself up another tree in a last effort to recognize some spot within his view. To his unspeakable delight Lake Cameron appeared in the distance and with this he was familiar. He had been wandering farther and farther from his companions, in his efforts to reach them. This time he carefully took his bearings and started for the only lake he had seed with which he was familiar.

But he did not reach it. He had gone only a short distance when he met a fire-ranger, Mr. Beaulieu, who had spent his life in the woods, and soon he had led the weakened man back to the camp. The searchers were recalled, and there was rejoicing over the return of the companion who had been given up as lost.

It was not until last week that word reached the city that Kirwan was safe, when Rev. Father Murphy received a telegram to that effect. The card with the particulars arrived on Saturday night. The party with which Mr. Kirwan is connected consists of seven men. He is well and will soon be at work again.

Used A Mirror To Cheat In Poker Game

A Member of Leading Political Club in Pittsburg, Caught in the Act in a Slick Game—How He Worked It.

Examiner Special.

Pittsburg, Oct. 1.—In a game of stud poker in the early hours of the morning at the Americus, one of the leading political clubs of the country, D. Joseph Johnston, a member, was suddenly grabbed by the wrist by Frank Sauer, another player, Johnston's captor twisted around the hand he had grabbed, revealing a mirror, about the size of a dime, attached to a ring that Johnston wore on the third finger of his right hand, by the use of which he had taken the visible supply of money of his antagonists.

The exposure of Johnston as a cheat at cards was the climax of suspicions held against him for some time. He came here less than a year ago, was supposed to be a broker, and had obtained entrance to several leading clubs. He dressed flashily. The game last night was by his invitation, to celebrate his last night in town, as he had decided to leave a field he had worked to the limit. In a few hours he had most of the money on the table and Sauer's diamond ring and shirt stud.

When the mirror was discovered there was a fight, but Johnston managed to escape with his booty. Later he was arrested on complaint of Sauer, a wealthy young man of Allegheny, who charged him with obtaining money under false pretenses. The charge was not pressed, but Johnston was forced to pay back to Sauer several thousand dollars. Sauer said he had lost to him, and to restore the diamonds which were found in his pockets. He was then fined $50 as a suspicious person and told to hurry out of town for good.

The mirror was of sufficient power to show to the practical eye of Johnston as he dealt the cards he was dealing to his fellow players.

Johnston is said to be one of ten who have made it a business to take money from wealthy club members, and the losses at cards in the big clubs here to the sharpers is said to have been little short of a million. An official of the Americus Club said to-night that five other members had been thrown out of the club within the last six months for cheating at cards.

The accused did not have the money, but promised to be on hand with it in the prescribed time.

Latest Purchase

Messrs. A. H. Stratton & Co. have purchased the wall paper stock of F. C. Cabitt, of "The Fair." As Mr. Cabitt has only been in business about one year, the stock is comparatively new. This stock of wall paper, over ten thousand rolls, was purchased at a flat price, which will enable us to sell wall, ceiling and border at the same price. To clear quickly this fall we will sell the whole stock at four prices, namely: 8c per roll, 5c per roll, 8c per roll, and 10c per roll; border and ceiling the same price. This is a splendid chance to fit up your home for the long winter evenings at a very small cost. Come early and be sure to bring the size of your rooms. The pretty designs and the prices are sure to make quick sales. A. H. Stratton & Co., 417 George street.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Oct. 3.—Further bullish operations were conduced in the stock market, particularly along specialty lines and the list rose until the disappointing action occurred in Atchison when a selling movement by the floor and professionals carried prices down under weight of liquidation, which was not large in the aggregate, however. The market still displays the irregularity to be expected until the monetary and political factors are moved.

Rock Island went up to new high prices as did the Colorado Southern issues. C.P.R. after opening weak suddenly spurted to 183 5-8 on the news of the dividend of 1 per cent extra. Southern Pac. was the best feature of the whole market and we believe it will go much higher. The dividend on Atchison was increased to 5 per cent., but was somewhat disappointing as six had been expected in some quarters. The close was weak.

Strikers Riot And Some Are Badly Injured.

Three Men Shot in Serious Row At Fort William.

THEIR WOUNDS NOT SERIOUS

Strikebreakers From Winnipeg Cause Italians and Greeks to Attack the Boarding-House of C. P. R. Co.—Strike Called Off Unconditionally —Unsuccessful Attempts Made to Burn C. P. R. Freight Sheds,

Fort William, Oct. 3.—At noon yesterday a mob of striking Italians and Greeks attacked the C. P. R. Co.'s boarding-house, in which were fifty Galicians, who had been brought from Winnipeg.

The C. P. R. Co.'s police, twenty in number, defended the boarding-house, and in the exchange of shots one of the police was slightly injured, and a number of the Italians were shot in the legs.

The Strike is Off.

A request was made to the mayor of Fort William for the militia, as it was expected the rioting would be resumed. The mayor and Councillor Morton met the Italians and Greeks, and later called upon Mr. Bury, general superintendent of the C. P. R. Finding that the railway company's position was a fair and strong one, the Italians called off the strike unconditionally last night.

Several attempts were made to burn the Canadian Pacific freight sheds, but the blazes were discovered early and were put out without serious damage.

Freight handlers at the Canadian Northern docks, 150 in number, have not yet gone out. It is possible that the Fort William coal dock employes will go out.

Seven boats are now waiting to unload, the Arabian and Monarch having arrived Monday.

Account From Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Oct. 3.—The strike has assumed a serious aspect at Fort William. Two strikers and one officer were shot in a conflict which occurred about noon. Special officers ordered the strikers back, and on their not doing so they emptied the contents of a revolver into the crowd.

Two men fell, one being badly injured.

Officer Taylor received a nasty wound in the neck from a bullet. After the first exchange of shots the men got behind cars, and from places of concealment fired at officers and men, and it was only by a miracle that the superintendent and others were not killed.

At Port Arthur things were quieter, there being no demonstrations. The men in the elevators all went back to work. It is expected that to-day will see the winding up of the strike.

Many boats are being unloaded by crews.

THE GULF HURRICANE.

Capt. Morris, Wife, Sister and Three Children Drowned.

Halifax, Oct. 3.—In the storm at Mobile, Ala., the schooner King of Avan was lost, and Capt. Morris, his wife, sister and three children, as well as Mate Preston of Halifax, were drowned. The King of Avon was dismasted, capsized, and driven ashore.

Capt. Morris and his wife were in Port Arthur with the King of Avon when the Japs bombarded the city.

GAS KILLS WELL SINKERS.

Fergus and Cape Breton Men Go Down to Death Twenty-Five Miles South of Regina, Saskatchewan.

Regina, Sask., Oct. 3.—Two men named Richen and Moffat, natives of Fergus, Ont., and Cape Breton, respectively, were suffocated by gas, twenty-five miles south of here, Monday night.

They were sinking a well on the farm of George Vail, and one of the men had gone down to adjust some of the machinery.

When he did not give the signal to haul up, his comrade followed him into the well, and both were dead when taken out yesterday morning.

A heavy flow of gas had been encountered, and when lanterns were lowered into the depths of the shaft they were immediately extinguished by the damp.

MORTALLY WOUNDED.

Swedish Vice-Consul Attacked and Killed While Driving.

Batum, Trans-Caucasia, Oct. 3.—M. Hager, the Swedish vice-consul here, was mortally wounded yesterday while driving in a carriage in the outskirts of the city, and died in the hospital to which he was conveyed. His murderers escaped.

Murders Judge In Court.

Askabad, Trans-Caucasian Territory, Russia, Oct. 3.—During the trial Monday of the second section of the troops who mutinied here in June, an unknown man entered the court room and killed the judge advocate, Gen. Rinkevich, and attempted to shoot the president of the court, Gen. Ushakofsky, but was shot down by an officer.

Pays the Penalty.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 3.—The assassin of Gen. Kozlov of the headquarters' staff, who was murdered in the park at Peterhof July 14 last in mistake for Gen. Trepoff, was executed yesterday.

PUBLICITY THE CURE.

Better Than Legislation For Evils of Insurance Management.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Insurance Commissioners from all over the United States assembled here yesterday in their 37th annual convention. In his address President James V. Barry said:

"The time will never come when the companies will be successfully managed either by statute or supervision. More actual good has been accomplished by the publicity incident to the Armstrong committee investigation than will ever be accomplished by the Armstrong laws, so-called, and this observation is not meant to be in any sense a reflection upon the recent New York enactments. I simply desire to emphasize my belief in publicity rather than in legislation designed to cover every detail, as an effective remedy for evils of whatever nature."

MONEY WAS PLENTIFUL.

More Witnesses of London Swear That They Were Bribed—Collins Had the Cash.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—Money was plentiful in the London bye-election of 1905, according to the sworn evidence of additional witnesses in the hearing of the conspiracy and bribery charges before Police Magistrate Denison yesterday. Curious as it may seem, votes were apparently all won over at the same price, namely, $10, and the witnesses declared in most cases that it was the hand of Jeremiah Collins that paid the money. Generally it was he who made the preliminary arrangements as well, they said. The examination of the witnesses did not occupy much time, and as a result ten of them were questioned in an hour and a quarter. The greatest interest was manifested as the men from London, one after another, took the stand and told their experiences with alleged election workers.

George McCoy swore he agreed to accept $10 for his vote, but Jeremiah Collins gave him only $7.50, retaining the balance because of a debt.

George H. Bonser said he had received $10 for his vote from an unknown man in a buggy at night.

Charles Forward claimed he had agreed to sell his vote for $10, but in making payment Jeremiah Collins kept $1 as commission.

John Archer gave evidence that William Service had paid him $10 to vote right.

William Hier had agreed to accept $10, but had not voted, because the poll officials desired him to take the oath.

Henry Donohue had obtained $9.50 from Collins after the election.

J. W. McKay had also received $10, and he understood Service had held the money.

Nicholas McDonald had parted with $90 to Collins after the election. He understood Collins wanted it for election expenses.

Nicholas Kargus had been promised $10, but had never received it.

Mr. T. C. Robinette, K. C., made two protests against the hearing being conducted in Toronto instead of London, but Magistrate Denison stated emphatically he was going to hear both sides of the case. The full contingent of witnesses who came from London were heard, and more of them will give evidence when the case is resumed this morning. Two of those who testified yesterday have been ordered to bring their bank books and cheques from London for examination before the court.

TAFT HELPED BY REBELS.

Ex-President Palma Departs From the Scene of His Brief But Turbulent Regime—Business Improves.

Havana, Oct. 3.—It is believed that all the revolutionists about Havana will have been peacefully dispersed in three days. Generals Guerra and Del Castillo are actively co-operating to this end.

Together with Guzman, the commander-in-chief of the rebels in Santa Clara Province, they called at the American legation yesterday and renewed their promises of assistance.

They also thanked Governor Taft for his courtesy and discussed the projected American amnesty proclamation. Governor Taft told his visitors that he would take up this subject later, not having time now to give the necessary attention, and said that when the matter did come up he would investigate personally all cases which might require his attention in order that justice be done.

Palma Leaves Havana.

While the departure yesterday from Havana of ex-President Palma was the most important event of the last 24 hours, the former President left the capital so quietly that the public did not realize he had gone until the news was given in the afternoon papers. Only his Cabinet Ministers and a few intimate friends accompanied the ex-President and his family to the railroad station.

Business is picking up wonderfully.

Wheat Elevator Collapses.

Weyburn, Sask., Oct. 3.—The MacKinnon elevator collapsed yesterday. The foundation gave way. The elevator contained 250,000 bushels of wheat at the time of the fall, which will likely be saved with the exception of a thousand bushels. The elevator is a total wreck.

Your Eyes Show You What You See

Your sight tells you where you are. The vision cannot be overtaxed with safety. All eyes require spectacles sooner or later, and a large majority of those possessing sight would improve what they have if they used glasses. Generally speaking unless the eyes are strengthened by glasses, they are apt to become weakened and any defects that exist are certain to increase by neglect. Question Of Separation Discussed By Presbytery

Meeting Held at Hastings Yesterday—St. Paul's and Knox Church Still United—Will be Finally Settled at Next Meeting—Reports From Mission Fields—Address on Augmentation Fund.

The quarterly meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery was held yesterday in the Presbyterian Church at Hastings, at which a number of the local clergy were present and where an important question was discussed. This was the separation of Knox Church from St. Paul's, and the ordination of Rev. A. Bright.

Those who attended from Peterborough were Rev. E. A. Torrance, D.D.; Rev. A. Bright, Sheriff Hall and Mr. Robert Harrison.

Only one session was held, the members meeting in the church about 9.30, and leaving at 6 o'clock. Rev. Peter Duncan, of Cobourg, occupied the Moderator's chair, Rev. A. Thompson, of Hastings, being the clerk of the session.

The first matter of business was the reading of the reports of the various mission fields of the Presbytery. Rev. Mr. Reeves, of Campbellford, read the report from the Cordova and Marmora missions; Rev. A. E. Camp, of Havelock, that from Coandoe, and Rev. W. L. Atkinson, of Warsaw, the report from the Cardiff district. These reports showed very satisfactory results and were gratifying to the members of the Presbytery.

The Augmentation Fund was also discussed, an address being given on it by Mr. Robert Harrison.

The most important questions of the session were, however, the ordination of Rev. A. Bright and the separation of Knox Church from St. Paul's. These were discussed at length, but no definite conclusion was arrived at. The ordination will be finally settled at the next meeting of the Presbytery on December 2, at Port Hope, and if this is agreed upon the separation of the two churches will necessarily follow. Rev. Mr. Bright, however, received his licensure to preach in the Peterborough Presbytery.

Fire Brigade Passed Resolution Of Condolence

To Mr. John Gibbs, Sr., in His Recent Bereavement—Progress is Being Made With the Sick Benefit Fund.

At the regular meeting of the Peterborough Fire Brigade last night with Assistant Chief J. W. Metheral in the chair, the following resolution of condolence, moved by Chief Rutherford, seconded by Fireman A. Jones, was unanimously passed :—

"That we the members of the Peterborough Fire Department, desire to express our condolence to Mr. John Gibbs, sr., in the loss of his loved wife, who for nearly half a century was his faithful companion and helpmate and to assure him that he has the heartfelt sympathy of every member of the department in his bereavement. Several of us remember the energetic services so freely given to this department by Mr. Gibbs who ably fulfilled the position of Chief for some years, and is to-day an honourary member of this brigade."

It was decided to issue new rubber boots to the firemen who needed them.

The brigade will see that the fire charts giving the number and location of fire alarm boxes are properly placed and as soon as they are worn out or lost, they will be replaced by new ones.

Some discussion took place over the benefit fund of the brigade in which good progress is being made. The details have not yet been fully worked.

Natural Food Company To Place 3000 Samples

Mr. Geo. Bishop, the Company's Representative, in the City—Citizens Will be Given Opportunity of Sampling the Company's Products.

Mr. George Bishop, representing the Natural Food Company, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., manufacturers of Shredded Wheat Biscuit and Triscuit, is in the city, and will sample it with the produce of the company. Mr. Bishop states that his men will place three thousand free samples in the homes in the city. The Natural Food Company is very generous with its samples, too. Instead of giving a mere taste, as is usually done with samples of this kind, the free package which the citizens will wake up some morning and find on their front doorstep, will contain four full sized Shredded Wheat Biscuits and six Triscuits.

The business of the company, according to Mr. Bishop, has grown rapidly in Canada, which has become a prolific field of operations of the Natural Food Company.

Mr. Bishop is a son of Rev. Dr. Bishop of Lindsay, and was for some years connected with the Soo enterprises, when they were under the direction of the versatile Mr. Clergue, and afterwards under the late Cornelius Shields. He is a progressive young business man, and the affairs of the Natural Food Company will not suffer at his hands. He will be in the city, which, after only one day's sojourn in, he confesses himself in love with, about a week.

NO UNDERGROUND WIRES UNTIL SPRING, ANYWAY

No work will be done on the underground conduits for the Bell Telephone Company, this fall, even if the company and the council come to an agreement now.

This is the statement made by the local manager of the company to-day. A considerable quantity of the conduits, which were stored in the Charlotte street rink, has been shipped away to other places, where the company is carrying on underground work, and in any event now the poles on the streets of this city will have to remain there, so far as the Bell Telephone Company is concerned until next spring.

Kidney Disease—Gravel

"I was afflicted with kidney disease and gravel in its most severe form, having often a stoppage of water, accompanied by the most rendful agony. By using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills the disease was eradicated from my system in less than six months. I have gained in weight, sleep well and feel better, than I have for twenty years." — Mr. W. Smith, Port Dalhousie, Ont.

Wm. Sherring Of Marathon

Tells How Zam-Buk Helped Him.

Wm. Sherring of Hamilton, the world-famed winner of the Marathon race the proud son of Canada, who side by side with the Crown Prince Constantine (who ran the finishing portion with him), came first to the Stadium at Athens, in the great race, has since his return told how Zam-Buk, the great herbal balm, helped him to bring the honour to Canada. Speaking to a Hamilton Herald representative, he said :

"While training for my great Marathon race at Athens I used Zam-Buk, and it proved a great boon to me. I have used it both as an embrocation and as a salve for chafing sores, bruises caused by stepping on to stones while running in light shoes, and other bruises, and have found it the best salve and ointment I have ever tried. Its healing powers are exceptional, and for general household use it should be a wonderfully fine curative. I have pleasure in expressing my appreciation of its value."

Sherring is undoubtedly right, for as a house-hold balm Zam-Buk has no equal. Zam-Buk is to be regarded as much a skin food as a medicine. When skin diseases, such as eczema, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, etc., occur, the skin needs increased vigor to overcome the evil. Zam-Buk provides it. When you sustain a cut, a bruise or a burn, the surrounding tissue has to do extra work to overcome the damage. Zam-Buk helps it. Ever since the dawn of creation vegetable essences and extracts have been the proper sources of human medicines, and in Zam-Buk is found a blending of the finest herbal extracts it is possible to obtain.

Sufferers from any of the above mentioned skin diseases should give Zam-Buk a thorough trial. This unique balm is also a cure for chapped hands, chilblains, sore nipples, eczema, eruptions, itching, scaling sores, etc. It eases the pain and the itching of piles, and stops the bleeding. For skin rashes, ringworm, or scalp sores in children it is an effective remedy, and for all purposes to which a household balm may be put it is unequalled. All druggists sell it at 50 cents a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Company, Toronto, on receipt of price, six boxes for $2.50. Write for free sample box, sending a one cent stamp to pay return postage.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

RED FEATHER

The presentation of the "Red Feather" at the Grand last night called forth an audience which, although scarcely so large as that which greeted "The Gingerbread Man," was one of the largest of the season and one delighted with the opera from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

Red Feather is a comic opera with a great many distinctive features and at times a tinge of drama was displayed, lending a more substantial setting to the dainty plot which circles around the love and political intrigues of the Countess Hilda Von Draga, who also appears as the mysterious Red Feather in the closing scene. Captain Trevors a stalwart soldier seeks the heart and hand of the Countess, but he makes a wager with the Crown Prince of Romancia and his rival, to capture Red Feather or lose his titles and his name in the army of Romancia. His efforts to take Red Feather single handed are fruitless until the conclusion of the last act when the Countess appears in his costume just as he was about to be taken prisoner.

Cheridah Simpson in the title role is an accomplished actress and cut a rather striking figure in her various costumes. She has a soprano voice of considerable strength which showed to advantage in "The Garden of Dreams." The baritone and tenor of the company played the parts of the Crown Prince and Captain Trevors, respectively, and in the song "The Prince of Good Fellows," the former made a decided hit. Three comedians were among the caste and whenever they appeared, with the least effort easily provoked to mirth the big audience. The comic Baron Strauss, who made the hit of the evening, acts in an easy manner and quite neglects to strain himself to maintain the humourous vein of the piece. The others were a disguised Colonel and nondescript personage not unlike the style of "Sunny Jim" of Force renown. Their dancing in concert was also a feature and the funny way in which they played their respective roles appealed delightfully to the listeners. The little Baron made a hit in the song "They All Looked at Me," and the Colonel in "The Humourous Ghost."

The costumes were unusually fine and fairly cracked with newness and the chorus work was excellent.

A TRIP TO THE HIGHLANDS

One of the most successful musical plays that is now being presented is "A Trip to the Highlands," which is booked to appear at the Grand on Saturday evening. It is a refined musical play, free from slapstick comedy, and contains a bright, and sufficient plot with a chain of incidents better connected, and more consecutive, than is usually found in plays of this sort. Such are the features that have won a verdict of approval. It is a difficult matter to describe with any degree of accuracy what stands for success in "A Trip to the Highlands." There is a captivating chain of neat lyrics and catchy melodies; there is the deep interest we feel in the first appearance here of the popular Scotch humourist, Spottiswoode Aitken. It is the combination of talent and ability that makes for perfection and that insures the success of the pleasant entertainment that we are about to have.

WEDDING BELLS

KENNEDY—MICHAELS

This morning at 9 o'clock in St. Peter's Cathedral, the wedding of Mr. Joseph Hilliard Kennedy, of Hope, to Miss Laura Michaels, of the same township, was celebrated by Rev. Father Kelly. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Agnes Michaels, of Port Hope, while Mr. Alfred Michaels, brother of the bride, supported the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy left on the 11.45 G.T.R. train for their future home in Port Hope.

Pleasant Social At St. Andrew's

The Ladies Were "At Home" to a Large Number of the Congregation.

The Ladies' "At Home" at St. Andrew's church last night proved to be eminently successful. The lecture hall was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and foliage plants, and the windows prettily adorned with curtains covered with evergreen. A large number of those who have recently attached themselves to the church were present as guests, while many whose love for St. Andrew's has covered many years were present to make the strangers feel at home.

During the evening Misses M. Brightman, L. McMillan and English contributed piano selections, while Mrs. Bruce Anderson, of Oxbow, Man., a former member of the congregation, sang to the delight of everyone, "The Land O' The Leal," and responded to an encore in another pleasing Scotch song.

Refreshments were served during the evening and a most delightful time was spent.

Mrs. (Dr.) Prust presided at the piano for the vocal numbers.

Relative Of Benj. Cathfield Wanted

Believed To Be Living in the Vicinity of Peterborough.

The Examiner has the whereabouts of another man to assist in finding. The wanted man's name is Cathfield. Mr. Ed. Finney, the city's night watchman, received a letter from Kinloss, near Kinmardine, telling of the drowning of Benjamin Cathfield, aged 56 years, on September 22, in the lake at Kinloss. It is believed that a brother of the deceased resides near Peterborough, and any information will be gratefully received by Mr. Ed. Harrison, constable at Kinloss.

A Car Load Of Happy Thoughts

Best Stove Company Received a Big Shipment.

That the season of stove buying has commenced is evidenced by the fact that yesterday the Best Stove Company unloaded a carload of Happy Thought stoves from the Buck Stove Company, of Brantford. The local agents state that the prospects of big sales of this popular stove this season are very bright.

A Resolution Of Condolence

Was Passed at Meeting of Cheese Board To-day.

At the meeting of the Cheese Board this morning the following resolution of condolence was passed to Mrs. Isaac Manning, widow of the former salesman from Selwyn cheese factory, whose tragic death was recorded a few days ago :

"Moved by Andrew Fairbairn, seconded by A. E. Kennedy, that we desire to express our deep regret and sorrow for the sad circumstances which brought about the death of Mr. Isaac Manning, who represented the Selwyn Dairy Company on this Board, and we desire to express our sincere sympathy and condolence with Mrs. Manning and the bereaved family, and pray that God may abundantly administer all needed comfort and consolation."

"John Riddell, Secretary.
"T. D. Young, President."

Copies of the resolution will be sent to Mrs. Manning and to Mr. Northey, President of the Selwyn Cheese Board.

Manufacturers To Meet Council

To Discuss Placing of New Fire Alarm Boxes.

The Manufacturers' Association held a meeting last night in Mr. Denniston's office, at which there was a good attendance of members. The question of the placing of the new fire alarm boxes was discussed, and it was decided to ask the Council to hold a joint meeting with the Manufacturers' Association, in order that the alarms may be placed as advantageously as possible.

SLOT TELEPHONES AT THE TWO RAILWAY OFFICES

To-day the Bell slot telephones, installed in the G. T. R. and C. P. R. stations, were connected up, and are in operation. These 'phones are in the usual talking cabinets, and have slots for 5c., 10c., and 25c. pieces, making it possible to use the long distance lines from the stations.

It was found necessary, Mr. Doan states, to instal these 'phones in order to facilitate the work of the railway companies, because at times there were such a large number of persons using the phones that the business of the company was interfered with.

For local conversations the usual tariff of five cents will be charged.

COUNTY DAIRY ASSOCIATION LIKELY TO BE FORMED

A Recognition of the Fact That Peterboro' is One of the Best Dairying Sections in Province.

Some of the Benefits Which Would Accrue From Such an Organization.

Peterborough county is likely to have a County Dairymen's Association in the near future, and in view of the fact that this county is rapidly developing into the best dairying section in the province, there are good prospects for its success.

Referring to the question, the Canadian Dairyman in its last issue, says that the matter is one which requires careful consideration.

"The Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, as constituted at present, has been in existence many years and has done excellent work. Most of the greatest improvements that have been made in connection with our dairy industry, can be traced to the work of the association or to that of its twin in Western Ontario. The proposal to completely Ontario the present form of organization, and to adopt one that, with but one exception, has never been tried elsewhere in Canada or the United States requires careful thought. The directors of the association, therefore, are acting wisely when they hesitate to advocate such a radical change.

"Nevertheless, we are inclined to believe that the proposal to form county dairymen's associations, is in the right direction. There is a great need for the holding of more dairy meetings among the farmers of the province. Several of these should be held in each dairy county each year.

"A few counties in Ontario are branding all their cheese. This is a live question in other sections. It would be certain to provoke a keen and profitable discussion were a favourable opportunity for its consideration afforded. The cool curing of cheese is receiving more attention than ever before. Could representative dairymen from factories that have introduced this system with success, be sent to address meetings in other dairy counties, great good would result.

"It is admitted that our system of selling cheese is rotten, and that a better one is needed. It has been proposed that our cheese might all be shipped to central warehouses or to Montreal and sold there after it has been inspected. This is a matter that requires more attention than it has received. Recently the suggestion has been made that all the dairy instructors in Ontario should be made sanitary inspectors, and that their salary and expenses should be defrayed in part by a tax to be levied on every factory and creamery in the province. This also is a matter that affects every dairy farmer in Ontario. Yet there is no means by which dairymen generally can meet for their consideration. These, and similar matters, such as the certificating of members, and the grading of cheese and butter, are not being discussed owing to a lack of favourable opportunities to deal with them."

MORE PRAISE FOR ABBEY PARTY

Another Toronto man expresses his views in the return to Canada of the Westminster Abbey Glee and Concert Party. He writes:—

'Nothing of a refined musical character ever gave me so much delight as the Westminster Glee and Concert Party on their last visit to Toronto, and I am glad to learn that they will make another appearance in Canada. I listened with the greatest of pleasure to their artistic work while here before and I look forward with the greatest delight to hear them again, and I have no hesitation in stating that their unaccompanied part-singing will again, as before, be a musical treat which no lover of refined music should fail to hear.

Shipping Notes From Otonabee

Steamers Very Busy — Resorts Closing for Winter.

The traffic on the river still continues unabated. The captains of the different vessels are still busily engaged towing scow loads of wood, grain, etc., to the city. The steamer Water Lily brought down a load of 1500 bags of Portland cement from Lakefield yesterday. The greater part of this cement is to be used in the construction of the new building at the C. G. E., while the rest will be shipped from the city.

The Lily's next trip is to Harwood for a scow load of grain for Mr. Mather of this city.

The steamer Rainbow brought up a load of wood from Rice Lake yesterday to the East City wharf for one of the wood merchants across the river.

The steamers Rainbow and Monarch are conveying people to the Keene Fair from many points on Rice Lake.

Mr. Gilman, proprietor of the Lakeview House at Jubilee, and Mr. Hutchinson of Idyl Wild, have closed their resorts for the winter, and returned to Peterborough. Mr. Gilman had a very prosperous season despite the fact that his hotel license was taken away by local option. Mr. Hutchinson also enjoyed a very good season and is satisfied that he had his share of the picnics and campers that spent their holidays at Rice Lake.

It is generally stated by people that next year will probably see Rice Lake more popular than it has ever been before. New cottages are being built, and improvements are under way at most of the resorts, and if connections can be secured with Cobourg Rice Lake will become a premier summer resort. At present there is little doing in that line. The visitors are nearly all gone, and the duck season has not enticed many sports, owing to the warm weather and the paucity of ducks.

Wycliff Alumni Association Met

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt is Attending Meeting From This City.

The Wycliffe Alumni Association began yesterday a three or four days' meeting in Toronto. Owing to the absence through illness, of Rev. Rural Dean T. A. Wright, of Brantford, Rev. J. W. J. Andrew, of Berlin, vice-president, is acting president. Yesterday Archdeacon Lloyd addressed the graduates the rest of the session being spent in appointpointing committees. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt is attending this meeting.

IN THE GOOD OLD FASHIONED DAYS

Powdered Wigs Formed an Important Adjunct to a Gentleman's Apparel.

It is safe to say that the majority of bald men of to-day would gladly revive the old, dignified custom if they could. But they can do the next best thing to it; that is, hold on to what hair they have.

In cases where the hair root or hair bulb has not been completely destroyed by parasites that infest it, Newbro's Herpicide will do wonders in encouraging a new growth of hair. Destroy the cause and you remove the effect. That is the successful mission of Herpicide.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10 cents in stamps for a sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, special agents.

Ladies Of St. Peter's T. A. S. Re-organize

Ladies Appoint Officers for Literary Society for Coming Season—Great Interest Manifested.

A meeting of the Ladies' Literary Committee of St. Peter's T. A. S. was held in their rooms last evening for the purpose of re-organizing for the present season.

The following committee was appointed: Misses F. Carvett, Coughlin, S. Crowley, Coleman, J. Clancy, L. Dennard, Cahill, Desautels, Fitzgerald, Holmes, Hurley, Heffernan, Lynch and O'Connell.

The officers were elected as follows:

Director, Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
Treasurer, Miss M. A. O'Connell.
Secretary, Miss H. M. Cahill.

Plans were discussed for the literary work of the season with an earnestness which augurs well for its success. It is a matter of congratulation for the members that this society is beginning its seventh year with the same enthusiasm which has made each year since its organization more successful than its predecessor.

At the meeting last evening many suggestions and new ideas were advanced which, when carried out, will tend to make the meetings more than ever a source of benefit and pleasure to its members.

The first literary meeting will be held on Friday, October 12, when a lecture will be given by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. As heretofore, the meetings will be held fortnightly. Membership tickets may be obtained from members of the committee.

Cheese Took Drop To-day; 12 3-4c. Was Price Paid

Board Cleared at 12 3-4c.--3544 Boxes Were Boarded at Fortnightly Meeting To-day--The Buyers Present--Features of the Sale.

The price of cheese took a drop at this morning's meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board, the Board selling out at 12 3-4c. This represents a drop of 3-8 of a cent from the prices offered two weeks ago, when most of the cheese sold at 13 1-8c. The bidding was not very brisk.

Before the sale commenced, a resolution of condolence was passed to the widow and family of Isaac Manning, the late salesman of the Selwyn factory, who was killed the day following the last meeting of the Board. The mover and seconder of the resolution, Messrs. A. Faribairn and A. Kennedy, spoke in terms of highest praise of Mr. Manning, and the resolution was carried unanimously.

The buyers present were Messrs. Kerr, Cook, Wrighton, Whitton, Gillespie, Morton and Brenton.

The factories boarded as follows:

Keene	120
Warminster	96
Shearer	75
Central Smith	120
Selwyn	137
Villiers	70
Warsaw	95
Westwood	150
Oakdale	110
Lakefield	85
Pine Grove	130
Peterborough	60
Maple Leaf	100
Myrtle	165
Ormonde	300
Young's Point	70
Lang	110
Indian River	110
North Dummer	55
East Emily	120
Trewern	85
Bonsfort	150
Cedardale	75
Cavanville	187
Crown	110
Mount Pleasant	78
Fleetwood	160
Buckborn	121
Brickley	145
Shamrock	131
South Burleigh	34
Norwood	100
	3544

Mr. Whitton opened the bidding at 12 1-4c. Mr. Wrighton raised to 12 1-2c. Mr. Whitton to 12 11-16c, and Mr. Gillespie to 12 3-4c, getting the call.

At that figure he secured Buckhorn, Keene, Central Smith, Villiers, Westwood.

Mr. Cook, at the same price, secured Lang, Indian River, Shearer, East Emily, Mount Pleasant, South Burleigh.

Mr. Morton bid 12 3-4c, and took Fleetwood, Bonsfort, Cavanville, Cedardale, Pine Grove, Lakefield, Warsaw, Warminster, and Young's Point.

Mr. Brenton, also at 12 3-4c, secured Myrtle, North Dummer, Selwyn, Oakdale, Trewern.

At the prevailing figres Mr. Kerr got Ormonde, Norwood, Shamrock, and Brickley.

Mr. Cook, at 12 3-4c, took Crown, and Mr. Gillespie, at the same price, Peterborough and Maple Leaf, clearing the Board.

The Board then adjourned to meet again in two weeks.

Canadians And Britishers Become Sons Of The Empire

A Club of That Name Formed in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

The Examiner is indebted to Mr. Frank Dumble, son of Mr. D. W. Dumble, Police Magistrate, for copies of Minneapolis papers giving details of the formation by resident Canadians and others of a patriotic club to be called Sons of the Empire. It is a remarkable fact that there are in Minneapolis 80,814 Canadians and 134,587 Britishers. The club was organized at a meeting which was addressed by Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, who in the course of his address touched upon the present relations between this country and Great Britain. Hee said the entente cordiale left nothing to be desired, and that the efforts of both Britain and the United States were in the direction of peace and harmony. Speaking of trade relations with Canada, the former premier said:—

"In regard to the present trade relations between the United States and Canada, the United States drove Canada to its present policy when it cut off its products and adopted a policy of higher protection. Since that time the Canadians have been forced to produce those protected articles themselves, and now are not dependent upon the United States as they were a few years ago. I am willing and anxious to extend trade between the United States and Canada, and although we are not dependent upon the United States the way we were before the treaty was annulled, we are almost one people and the relations between the two countries shouuld be most intimate. There is no reason why Canada and America should ever have trouble that cannot be arbitrated, as the tendency of the age is against war."

In discussing the frequent statement that the many Americans who are settling the Northwest country will eventually Americanize Canada, the former premier stated that the latter country is already Americanized so far as the mode of living is concerned, but that Canada will no more be Americanized as to form of government than the United States will be Canadianized by the Canadians.

"I believe it is right and proper" he continued, "that Englishmen and Canadians should move to States and that Americans should take up their residence in Canada. It is a characteristic of the Anglo-Saxon race never to be content to settle down and plug away. They must be moving. One reason why so many young Canadians succeed here and why so many young Americans succeed so well in Canada is that when they are away from home they will do that which their pride will not permit them to do while at home, and thus they prosper."

To Select A Site For The New Stony Lake Pavillion

Mr. Alex. Gibson, of This City, On a Committee to Make the Choice of a Site.

Norwood, October 3rd. — A committee composed of Mr. Alex. Gibson, Peterborough, and Messrs. H. G. Buck, George Duffield, and George Mills of Norwood, were at Stony Lake a few days ago for the purpose of selecting a site for the new pavilion which will be erected at Crowe's Landing.

It is intended to have this building up in time for use next year, and it has been made necessary by the recent rapid increase in the number of summer residents at the head of Stony Lake, who are of the opinion that they should have a pavilion of their own.

BARNARDO HOME BOY WAS SHOT NEAR MINDEN

Minden, Oct. 2.—A shooting accident occurred near Minden yesterday, in which John Kenyon, a Barnardo Home boy, about 16 years of age, was accidentally shot by his companion, William Little, a boy about 13 years old, and died this morning. It appears that the boys loaded their guns and started out for a hunt, Kenyon taking the lead. After proceeding a short distance, he turned to his companion, and Little's rifle was accidentally discharged, the ball striking Kenyon in the breast and piercing his body.

Prize Winners In Wood Carving

Mr. W. E. Lech Was Winner of First Premium.

An error occurred in the published list of prize-winners at the Peterborough Fair. In chip-wood carving the prize-winners were: 1st, Mr. W. E. Lech; 2nd, Mrs. W. H. Hill. Miss Hatton was given as the winner of the first prize, but she did not exhibit in this class.

New Officers Of Young Men's Guild

Election of Officers for Coming Year Last Night.

The members of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild met in the guild room last night for the purpose of electing officers for the coming season. The guild is one of St. Andrew's most popular bodies, and is an important factor in promoting sociability among the members of the church. The following officers were elected:

President, Mr. W. Richardson.
Vice-President, Mr. E. Reed.
Treasurer, Mr. Geo. Evans.
Corresponding Secretary, Mr. C. E. Anderson.
Recording Secretary, Mr. H. Rosboro.
Councillors — Messrs. E. Dormer, R. Bowerman, F. Richardson, H. McCullough.

With the above gentlemen to look after its interests, the guild should enjoy a prosperous season and be even more successful than last year.

Lindsay Wants To Tax The Shows

A By-law to This Effect Will be Passed—Perhaps.

At the council meeting in Lindsay on Monday night a motion was made instructing the clerk to prepare a bylaw for next meeting imposing a tax on all entertainment troupes showing in Lindsay. The mover pointed out that Peterborough had recently passed a similar bylaw, and went on to say that a man in Toronto receives $5 every time a show is given in Lindsay, and the town should get a slice also — we would get some of our own money back. "Watch the crowds passing into these performances and you will see there people whom we have to keep and aid during the winter or remit their taxes."

Tony Anthony Visits Brother

Former Italian Fruit Dealer Here From Braddock, Pa.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches etc. require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

EYES

A Peterborough gentlemen says:—"For the past six years I have had very poor sight, and although treated by the best eye specialist of Liverpool, Eng., and later by a famous specialist of South America, yet J. W. Browett, Doctor of Optics, of Philadelphia, is the first to discover the real trouble and remedy it by Glasses, which now give me perfect sight. I believe some noted men fail to give necessary time, and thus overlook a complicated eye trouble." J. W. Browett is doing wonderfully good work for the citizens of Peterborough. You may wish to ask him about your eyes, and have examination free.

Testing Association Are Doing Good Work

Average Yield of Milk in Ontario and Quebec Not Much Over 3000 Pounds Per Annum.—Factory Owners Asked to Co-operate.

Ottawa, October 2nd. — Since Jan-1906, sixteen cow testing associations, have been organized through the initiative of the Dairy Commissioner's Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Records are being kept of the production of 4,500 cows, owned by the 350 members of these associations. The results will be tabulated and published as quickly as possible after the season is finished. This is only the beginning of what should be a great national movement for the improvement of the dairy industry in Canada. Sufficient data have been been collected already to show that there is no line of work in the whole range of dairy effort which is calculated to increase the profits of dairy farming to the same extent, as is this matter of the improvement of the dairy herds. In order to serve the purpose properly the work of record keeping must be persistent and continuous, and followed up by intelligent action on the part of the owners of cows in the matter of breeding and selection.

Our records show that the average yield of milk in Ontario and Quebec, is not much over 3000 lbs. of milk per cow per annum, yet we find herds of twenty cows and over that average 5,000 lbs. In every instance the herds which show a high average of production have been built up by just such methods as the cow testing associations are intended to promote.

The members of the different associations have had an excellent opportunity of comparing the records from the different associations, and different herds in the various associations.

With a view of promoting correspondence between the various members of the associations, I am authorized by the Dairy Commissioner to announce that the name and post office address of the owner of any herd in the records, will be given to any person who applies for it to the Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa. The idea is that members may learn from the owners of profitable herds as to the methods by which such satisfactory results have been reached. We think the correspondence idea might be very properly included as a feature of this work. We trust that owners of these first class herds will be good enough to answer such enquiries in a broad-minded and helpful manner.

It is to be hoped that the members of the association will not become slack in keeping the records as the season advances, because it must be remembered that unless a full record for the whole milking period has been made a portion of it will be of very little value.

Members of the association must not overlook the importance of the feeding question. This has been touched upon but very little so far in this work, but eventually we hope to see careful records kept of the amount of feed consumed by the cows.

We take this opportunity of again pointing out the desirability of the owners or managers of factories taking an interest in their work, and making the cheese factory or creamery the centre for further organization for the purpose of keeping records and testing.

A large amount of correspondence has been received from individuals in localities where associations have not been organized, and many farmers are equipping themselves to do the testing on their own account. A copy of Bulletin No. 9, entitled "Instructions for Testing Individual Cows," will be sent to anyone who applies for it.

The steamer Rainbow carried nearly a hundred passengers from Keene and Hiawatha across the lake on Friday to attend Roseneath Fir.

Rev. J. H. Hector, the "Black Knight," lectured in the town hall Thursday evening. The hall was crowded and the audience was well entertained by that clever and witty speaker. A silver collection, taken up at the meeting in aid of the Dominion Alliance, amounted to over $35.00.

The steamer Rainbow took a scowload of cordwood to Peterborough on Monday, from Keene, for Messrs. Weir and McIntyre.

To-day is the first day of Keene Fair, which promises to be a record-breaker. The number of exhibits already entered are much in excess of previous years.

The Gymnasium Class Opens

Large Number of Young Women in the Class.

Miss Coventry commenced her gymnasium classes at the Y.W.C.A. last evening. A good number were present and classes were formed for the winter. A number of the girls then took their first lesson of the term, and all present to witness the display felt that they too would like to join the gymnasium. The Y.W.C.A. has every reason to believe that the classes under Miss Coventry's able management will prove a success and a great benefit to many of the young women of Peterborough this winter.

The Annual Meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Bible Society will be held in the George Street Church on Monday, Oct. 8th, at 8 o'clock. An orchestra will be in attendance and the speaker will be Rev. R. E. Welsh.

Tigers Will Not Run A Special Train Here

The Heavy Guarantee Frightened Them--Dumoulin and Ballard Will Be On The Team Saturday.

No special train for the Tigers on Saturday, according to the following from the Hamilton Herald:—

The senior team will leave at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning for Peterborough via the C.P.R. The management tried to make arrangements for a special train, but the guarantee necessary scared them off, and the team will go without any rooters unless anyone would like to go on the regular. Good connection can be made for the return trip, so that the team will be back here about 8 o'clock.

Every member of the senior team will have to be out this week, and get a line on the new signals that are going to be tried on the Peterborougns on Saturday. There are a lot of candidates for the senior team this year, and a good deal of kindly rivalry will be awakened among the men to catch a place on the team. Dumoulin and Hallard will both be out to-night, and a good practice will be held. Some young men who would like to help the Tigers win the Dominion championship and who are willing to act as rubbers for the men after the practices would be very welcome just now at the field.

Lindsay Will Have A Fast Junior Team

To Enter the Junior Series of the O. H. A. This Season—Some of the Available Material.

The Lindsay Post of Monday said:—

Yesterday, October 1st, was the last day in which a hockey player could change his residence and how is it not about time "Artie" Parkin, manager of last year's Lindsay Midgets, got busy for the season 1906? Last year Lindsay had a good team, but at present things look even better than a year ago, that is on paper. Of last year's crack seven, there are still in town "Pacer" McDougal, Kenneth Randall, "Bill" Stoddard, "Bas" Newton, and "Sullie" Sullivan. Amos McWilliams has got beyond the junior age limit, as has also Maxwell, the clever wing man. However, don't think for an instant that will hinder the boys, as the saying is, "there are others."

Of a certainty it will be junior hockey this year. Last season's venture in junior hockey guaranteed the fact that junior was what Lindsay sports like the best. We have had lots of intermediate and some good teams at that, but not fast enough to beat Fenelon Falls. Last season it was junior and Fenelon Falls, the Terrors of the North, were defeated, so it is sure to be junior this year.

Wear Your Colours At Saturday's Game

Get Some Blue and White and Show Your Loyalty.

All Peterborough supporters who attend Saturday's game with the Tigers, should wear the colours of the local club as an emblem of their loyalty to Peterborough. In other places the colours of the home team are worn by everyone but Peterborough people seem backward in falling into the practice. Get a yard or two of blue and white and have them where they will be prominently displayed.

All Seniors Are Wanted To-night

Big Practice to be Held in the Rink.

The Peterborough team will practice to-night at 7.30 in the Brock street rink in preparation for Saturday's game with the Tigers. Every senior player should be out in uniform for drill in signals and team play.

The following players are asked to be out to-night:—Poe, Crowley, Hurtubise, Mulhern, Gillespie, McWilliams, Ford, Easton, Craig, Leclaire, Regan, Meagher, Craugh, Gilbert, McGrath, Quinlan, Carmichael.

Excitement Over Big Rugby Game

Saturday's Contest With Tigers Will be Great Battle

The greatest game in the history of rugby in Peterborough will be the contest between the senior Hamilton Tigers and Peterborough at Riverside Park at 2.45 o'clock on Saturday. There will be people there who never saw a rugby game before the fact that the most famous rugby organization in Ontario will play here, being an irresistible attraction. Speculation is rife as to the winner of the struggle. Many supporters of the local club look to see the Tigers defeated and every one is of the opinion that the Ambitious City team will be given the hardest game in their history. They will have their best team and are not going to take any chances. Dullaulin, Moore, Simpson Ballard, Tate and all the celebrities who have done so much for the Hamilton team will be on hand.

Curlers Arrange Their Groupings

For Tankard and District Cup Competitions.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association held in Toronto yesterday, the following groupings were arranged for the Tankard and District Cup Competition:—

Tankard,—

Group No. 5.—Oshawa, Brampton, Colborne, Peterborough, Bobraygeon, East Toronto Aberdeens, Toronto Caledonians Toronto Parkdales, Toronto Queen City, Play at Toronto, Umpire, Mr. David Carlyle.

District Cup,—

District No. 2.—Oshawa, Peterborough Keene, Cobourg, Lindsay, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Port Hope, Lakefield. Play at Peterborough. Umpire, Dr. Bourner.

RUGBY.

The Peterboroughs will hold their final practice before the Hamilton game at Riverside Park at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Every senior who can possibly turn out is requested to do so, as a practice in the field is worth two in the rink.

• • • •

Secretary Hay, of the O.R.F.U. has suggested H. C. Griffiths of St. Catharines as referee for Saturday's big game. The locals are not particularly enamoured of the prospect. They would prefer Messrs. Hayes and Robins, of Hamilton, which officials are not acceptable to the Tigers.

• • • •

The Quakers will practise to-night at Nicholls Oval at 7.30. The moonlight is excellent now and the Quakers intend snatching the opportunity to get into shape "beneath the silvery light of the moon." All interested in the Quakers are requested to be present.

Fell From The Top Of Ladder

Yet Concession Street Man Received No Injuries.

Falling a distance of more than fifteen feet from the top of a ladder, Mr. W. McKnight, of Concession street, miraculously escaped from injury. He was painting his house when just about noon the top of the ladder broke, dropping him to the ground, but when he picked himself up was glad to find he had escaped unhurt.

Another Entry For Road Race

Mr. Wm. Todd Has Sent in His Application.

Another Peterborough young man has decided to enter the Examiner Road Race. Mr. Wm. Todd sent in his name last night on the official form. This makes the fourth entry up to date.

The 1906 Simplex Cream Separator

Recognized to be the Pick and Choice of all Good Separators

Now that the season has again come round when farmers and dairymen give especial attention to cream separators, it will not be amiss to offer a few words of commendation in behalf of one of the most complete machines manufactured by a Canadian company, viz., The "Simplex" Link Blade Cream Separator.

The number of these machines in actual use in this and adjoining counties has grown so rapidly every year that to many no words of recommendation are needed. But to a large number of farmers who have not yet purchased a separator, and to others who are discarding machines which have been found to be inferior and worked at a loss, a reference to the excellent fatures of the "Simplex" Link Blade will no doubt prove valuable in assisting a decision before purchasing.

In the first place, the "Simplex" is a guaranteed separator. The company stand ready to demonstrate all they claim for it, either in their circulars, catalogues or letters. This is an important consideration, and one that should carry weight, if the purchaser wants to have his interests safeguarded.

In the second place the Link Blade device worked a new era in cream separator construction. It accomplished the perfection of the vertical thin layer system. In other words, it increased the capacity from 30 to 50 per cent. over the processes in other machines, combined with very clean skimming under a wide range of conditions as to milk, temperature, etc. In the Link Blade machine the milk pursues a straight course from the bottom of the bowl. Each space between the blades act as an irdependent separating chamber, and as the milk passes up it is gradually separated into cream and skim milk. The heavier skim milk particles follow the concave sides of the blades in their upward and outward direction, and the cream particles follow the convex side in their progress upward and inward to the cream outlet. The result of this process being increased separating capacity, as well as a more thorough separation.

In the third place, the gearing of the "Simplex" tends to the simplification of the separator and to make it the lightest running separator in proportion to capacity.

The "Simplex" hand separator have low down supply cans, and yet the delivery spouts are not too low. The height of the crank on the "Simplex" is 32 inches from the floor, which has been proved to be the right height for the average person.

For many other reasons, which space will not permit of explaining, the "Simplex" is the ideal machine for the farmer. It is simple, light-running, gets all the fat out of the milk, and it can skim cold or warm milk; lastly, it is moderate in price.

Here is one of many practical testimonials of the efficiency of the "Simplex," which comes from a source that should carry weight. Mr. T. E. Kline, secretary of the Lakefield Butter Company, writes as follows:—"We tested this machine in every way and with other machines. It was the only good machine in this section and it compared with the best tester in Canada. We bought the machine because there was no better on the market."

The general agents for the "Simplex" are Messrs. White & Gillespie, No. 336 George street, Peterborough, who will always be pleased to explain the full workings of the machine. The practical knowledge which Mr. Geo. Gillespie has shown in handling this separator, and the sincerity which has characterized his demonstrations of its advantages, has been largely instrumental in increasing its sales in this and adjacent territory.

Nervous and Worried.

Mr. Archibald Sutherland, principal of the South Bar School, Sydney, N. S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with nervous dyspepsia, and after meals I often felt like vomiting, and my stomach was sore. I was nervous and worried, frequently had headache and shortness of breath. When several doctors failed I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it has entirely cured me. I shall be glad to be the means of bringing this medicine to the notice of any one who is suffering as I did."

Big Factory To Come Here; Council Approves Proposition

Messrs. Coates and Dunmoodie Met the Council Yesterday--Will Start Work on Big Plant Almost at Once--Hundreds of Hands Will Be Employed.

As the result of a meeting yesterday afternoon, between the city council, Hon. George A. Cox, and Messrs. Coates and Dunwoodie, of Scotland and England respectively, the immense factory of the Coates Manufacturing Company, of Canada, Limited, is assured to Peterborough.

The proposition submitted by the company was considered satisfactory by the council, and an agreement, approved by both parties, was adopted; so that the matter is definitely decided, and Peterborough people may congratulate themselves on gaining a very large industry.

The Coates Manufacturing Company will first manufacture carpets and conduct a lithographing business, but it is said that they will not confine their attention to these branches, but will also manufacture other lines. A gentleman who is well qualified to speak on such a subject stated yesterday that the new industry would be not only the largest in Peterborough, but possibly the largest in Canada.

The company will employ at the start two hundred hands, and before the end of fiv years will give employment to one thousand.

This is a very conservative estimate of the number of hands needed, and on the best authority it is stated that it is quite likely that the company will employ five or even ten times that number.

The plant will consist of a large three story office building, extending out from which there will be two three-story wings. One of the buildings, which will be used for the manufacturing of carpets, will be 1100 feet long, and 40 feet wide. It will give a better idea of the length to say that the building would extend from the Examiner office to Charlotte street. The other building will be 700 feet long, and will be used for the lithographing department.

In addition to these buildings the company will erect model dwellings for the workmen.

The work on the plant will commence in a very short time. Mr. Dunwoodie left last night for England, and will return in four or five weeks to take up residence here. Mr. Coates will also reside in Peterborough.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

A RECORD TOUR

The Westminster Abbey Choir party, which will appear here Friday night at the Grand opera house, under Mr. Edward Bramcombe's direction, since its last visit to Canada, has covered more ground than any other company. The first tour embraced a consecutive series of 300 concerts, spread over a distance of 62,000 miles, beginning in Canada and the United States, including Newfoundland and British Columbia. Then they journeyed across from Victoria to San Francisco, where they sailed for New Zealand and Australia, returning by the United States to London. The next journey was to South Africa, then to India and China and thence returning to Australia. They will be gladly welcomed here on their final visit to Canada. The party numbers eleven, including four soprano boys, whose voices are, to quote, the Montreal Gazette, "like sun-kissed raindrops."

Authorize Construction Of Georgian Bay Line

C. P. R. Shareholders Agree to the Proposal to Construct Grain Line From Peterborough to Georgian Bay—Will be Bonded at $30,000 a Mile.

At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the C.P.R., held yesterday in Montreal, authority was given by the shareholders to proceed with the work of construction of the Peterborough-Victoria Harbour branch. Two resolutions in reference to this project were presented to the meeting by Sir William Vanhorne and adopted unanimously. These resolutions are as follows:—

"Resolved that as an additional and more economical avenue for movement of your traffic in either direction between the head of ocean navigation and the Georgian Bay will shortly be required, that, after careful investigation and surveys, your directors are of opinion that this can best be secured by the construction of a railway from Peterborough, on your Ontario & Quebec section, to Victoria Harbour, a distance of 96 miles. By the route the distance from Montreal to the Georgian Bay will be 388 miles, as against 46 miles by your present Owen Sound route, and the gradients will be much more favourable.

"Resolved, that an agreement be entered into with the Georgian Bay Seaboard Railway Company, who have a Dominion charter covering this territory, to construct this line and to lease it to your company for a period of 999 years at a rental equivalent to interest at 4 per cent. per annum on the bonds of the Georgian Bay & Seaboard Railway Company, issued with the consent of your company, bonds not to exceed an aggregate rate of $30,000 per mile."

Another Discovery Of Silver Ore Reported

Mr. T. E. Bradburn Has a Rich Silver-Bearing Property in Galway—Increasing Activity Reported From the North End of Peterborough County—Many Rich Finds Being Made.

"Galway is as rich as Cobalt," was the statement made to The Examiner by a gentleman associated with mining affairs to-day. This statement was inspired by the fact that a large piece of ore, which was almost pure silver, was brought to the city a few days ago by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, who took it to Toronto to-day to have an assay made of it, with a view to determining its value.

It appears that the silver deposit from which the lump of ore referred to was taken is on a property owned by Mr. Bradburn, and that a gang of men are now at work developing it. The mining is particularly easy by reason of the fact that there is practically no shaft sinking. All that has to be done is to dig into the side of the mountain.

Those who have seen the property and who understand mining state that it is very rich, and moreover, there are other locations which give promise of equally rich deposits.

The present prospects are that this township will develop into one of the richest mining regions in the Province. A number of prospectors who have heard of the finds being made there are on the ground, and are going over the township thoroughly. A great many finds are being made, but the majority of the lucky prospectors are keeping their good fortune quiet until they have secured the property.

It will be a great surprise to people in the south to learn of the activity being manifested in mining matters in the township of Galway, and the belief that it will be only a matter of a short time before a thriving mining community will be established in the township would seem to be well founded.

Muskoka Girl Held Bear While Its Throat Was Cut

Interesting Story of the Capture of Bruin—Girl of Thirteen Shows Remarkable Strength.

Toronto Star of last night says:—The following story was brought today from Windermere, Muskoka, by a Torontonian who is reliable:

A big black bear has been lurking around there for a fortnight. It was first seen by Mrs. Ingram, a Toronto lady summering there. As she was strolling over the rocks near her cottage on Eaton Bay she saw the dark fellow in the bushes. An alarm was given, but the settlers round about were unable to again catch sight of him.

Yesterday the animal was killed under interesting circumstances. Miss Edna Hough, a girl of 13, together with her younger brother and Dick King, a strong millhand, were out rowing near Windermere. They were turning to go home when the girl insisted she saw an animal in the water ahead of them. They went ashore, got stones, and threw at the dark object, but no movement followed. They got more missiles and a club, but this time the object moved and struck for the shore. The three in the boat arrived at land first, and as the bear scrambled up the rocks Dick deftly clubbed him on the head. The animal, half stunned, again endeavoured to climb ashore. The girl, whose father is reputed to be the strongest man in Muskoka, grasped the brute by the back of the neck and doubled its head back while Dick cut its throat.

Windermere people could hardly believe the story, but a photograph, which was taken shortly after by Matthew Macrae, Dr. Elmore Harris' engineer proved the story to be true.

Another Elopment Case In The City

Christopher Carter, a Married Man, Believed to Have Left City With a Young Lady—Wife Left Alone and Wants to Get Him Back—Case May be an Interesting One.

There appears to be an epidemic of domestic infelicity in the city these times, and the latest that has been ventilated is an elopement. It is understood on good authority that Mr. Christopher Carter, who quit work at the Quaker Oats Company's establishment yesterday at noon, left the city on an evening train accompanied by a young lady, and has left his wife alone. It has been stated that the two have been too intimate for some time and the elopement last night was the culmination of the affections.

Mrs. Carter called at the police station this morning and told the story of her desertion by her husband and seeking redress. Yesterday when he came home to dinner he stated to her that either one would have to leave, but she omitted to tell the reasons for their strained relations. In the afternoon he went to the Quaker Oats Company's office and drew $10 on his wages and, she states, he left the city on the evening train informing her he was going to Perth.

Nevertheless she believes her husband has gone to Toronto and asked the Chief to assist in getting him back. She was willing to pay something towards his return, but would not waste too much money on him. Further developments in the case are likely to follow.

Another By-law Will Be Submitted To People

Rapid Tool Company Are to Have Another Chance—Tuesday's Vote Affected by the Withdrawal of the Steel Company.

It is likely that another by-law to provide a site for the Rapid Tool Company will be submitted to the people on the 1st of January when the municipal elections will be held. Representatives of the Company met the Manufacturers' Committee yesterday afternoon and the Council expressed the opinion that the bylaw had not a fair chance on Tuesday owing to the withdrawal of the Steel Company.

It was decided to, that if the Company agreed to go ahead with the work, a new bylaw would be submitted on the first of January and further that the Council would urge upon the people that they should pass the bylaw.

Northernmost Reach Of Trent Canal Completed

Water Let Into 12-Mile Reach From Kirkfield to Lake Simcoe—Lift Lock to be in Operation Soon.

Work has been completed upon the northernmost section of the Trent Canal—that from the steel lift lock at Kirkfield, to Lake Simcoe. Actual work on this section has been finished for some days, the water let in and the reach slowly filled. The lift lock at Kirkfield is now the only obstacle to through navigation, and it is expected that this will be completed within a fortnight and available for use.

Therefore by, perhaps, Thanksgiving day, navigation on the Trent Canal will be open from Healy Falls to Lake Simcoe—to Orillia and Barrie—and at the southern end of the lake to within about 30 miles of Toronto. This will mark another advanced step in the completion of the Canal from Georgian Bay to Trenton—or Port Hope.

JACK'S AD. SKI-DID IT.

NO. 1?.
Little Jack Horner, stood on the corner,
Mending his bicycle tire;
He put in a plug
Snug as a bug in a rug
And soon set "the roads on fire."
For he'd lost his cow,
And didn't know how
To find the old loon.
People said it had cleared the moon,
But a short "Exam. ad.",
Found 'er in Trinidad.
The cow was sold, and with the gold,
Jack expects to be married nex' June.

LIQUOR LAWS AND THEIR FRIENDS.

A law enacted in any interest which is not enforced, inevitably tends to injure the cause it is theoretically designed to advance. This applies to such legislation as the local option law. From the character of such legislation interfering as it does with long established customs and habits, which to the minds of a very large minority of the public do not form legitimate objects of arbitrary repression, one difficulty arises. Thus, instead of there being universal sympathy with such a law there is a large body of antagonism, which is unfriendly to the enforcement of the law. Additionally there is a practical apathy on the part of the professed friends of the law, which, combining with the hostile element, represents a difficulty of enforcement which militates very powerfully against the effective enforcement of the legislation referred to. There is evidence to show that in many local option centres the help essential to good enforcement, is not forth-coming on the part of the sentimentally active advocates of temperance. The magistrate, Mr. Hunt, who tried the somewhat well known Albino Hotel case of local option law infraction, in Elgin county, has been expressing his opinion. He is reported as saying:—

"What is the attitude of the temperance people after they have carried these local option laws? I will give you an example. A man came to me the other day and he said, 'Squire, there is a local option hotel in my neighbourhood and I am sorry to say that my boy is going there at nights. I see many girls going there almost every night from the city (St. Thomas,) and many young men, too. I want you to put a stop to it.'

"I said, 'How do you know this?'

"He answered, 'I watched it with my own eyes.'

"I said to him, 'You lay the information and I will take care to look after the matter.'

"But," continued the magistrate, "he did not want to do this for fear, he said, of creating bad feelings. Then I told him to lay the information anyway, and I would subpoena his boy. His answer was, 'Squire, I am afraid my boy would not tell the truth,' and he declined to lay the information."

Shortly afterwards the magistrate attended a prayer meeting at which the Divine aid was invoked to close up this house. He thinks that who prayed should have worked.

It has been often urged that as was pointed out by Hon. Edward Blake twenty years ago, it is impossible to find a public sentiment against a breach of the liquor laws as solid and universal as that against theft or similar crime. In regard to these, public sentiment is practically unanimous, but public sentiment in regard to liquor laws is about equally divided numerically, with this difference in quality that the opponents of such laws have the courage of their convictions and will actively work in their own interest, while the friends of the law will do little or nothing, but talk in favour of their convictions. When it comes to action they are found wanting. If a professed temperance advocate like him, cited by Mr. Hunt, prefers to take the risk of the ruin of his son to incurring the odium of making a formal complaint, what can be expected of sentimentalists who have no sons to be ruined? Until the friends of local option and license law enforcement are willing to supplement their preaching by practice and to assist the authorities in the always difficult, almost impossible task of enforcement, and, without the general co-operation and assistance of these friendly to this object, there will be ineffective work done.

BRITISH INHERITANCE TAX

The Succession Duties Tax in Ontario though an essentially British "institution," was strongly opposed by the super-loyal Ontario Conservatives. It was more than hinted that the succession duties discouraged becoming rich, at the public expense, and enduring from generation to generation.

But the British seem to be more anxious than even we in Ontario, to make the rich "fork over." An article in an exchange says that they know how to make the inheritance tax tell in Great Britain. For example, the estate of the late Duke of Rutland paid in $187,000. Considerable as this figure is, it is but a mere bagatelle compared with some other recent payments by estates in Britain. The tax on Alfred Beit's estate this year was $5,000,000. A billionaire who died recently was Sir Charles Tennant. His estate paid $1,500,000. The curious thing is that this was collected under Mr. Asquith, Chancellor of the Exchequer, married to a daughter of the late Sir Charles, who inherits part of the estate. The wealth of George Smith of Chicago, a Scotchman who made his millions in America, and went home to die, paid $4,500,000 tax. Estates which have paid huge sums within the last few weeks are those of the Earl of Rochester, Lord Masham, the inventor of textile processes and machinery; John Goddard, a retired provision dealer; Mr. Steinkopff, founder of a table water, and owner of the old St. James' Gazette. Mr. Asquith's estimate of the total to be received this year by the imperial treasury from death duties, is $62,500,000. The figure is about the usual. Last year the total was slightly less. The year before, 1903, it was more, $65,000,000.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

So long as the politicians are permitted to exploit the funds of a great benevolent order to make themselves rich, how, asks the Stratford Beacon, can the country hope to prevent the the Jerry Collipses buying and selling votes?

The elect of the Democratic party are repudiating Hearst's candidature so generously that unless the great unwashed show a pretty solid unanimity his chances for winning the seat of the Governor of New York are not very brilliant.

There is among the people of Great Britain, says the Brockville Recorder, to great a disposition to regard the Province of Ontario as merely a stepping stone to the west. Ontario is fast becoming depopulated by the rush of its young men and women to the prairies of the west. It is essential, if the premier Province is to maintain its position among its sisters of the Confederation, that it should advertise its attractions. No portion of the British Empire presents greater opportunities to the British immigrant than does Ontario. Its farms are well developed; it is near the seaboard; it has a magnificent system of rail and water transportation, and above all it has an ideal educational system.

A propos of the suggestion to create an Ontario Minister of Health the Brantford Expositor says that when in opposition the Conservative party thought the country could get along without a Minister of Public Works, and that Agriculture could be doubled up with some other department. Had this been done when the party came into power, there would now be only five cabinet ministers. What has really taken place? Instead of reducing the number of ministers, the government has increased the portfolios to eight, and in addition has appointed three ministers without portfolio, and half a dozen commissions to do work which cabinet ministers usually do. To now add a Minister of Health would be from a government point of view a most unhealthy proceeding.

WHITNEY AND HONOUR

Ottawa Free Press.

So far there has been no announcement by Premier Whitney of the resignation of Robert Birmingham from the provincial Colonization Department to enable that distinguished electioneer to become organizer of the Conservative party in North Renfrew bye-election. True it is that Mr. Birmingham has himself clearly intimated that he has resigned from the civil service, but why the silence of Premier Whitney in the matter? Surely it is his duty to verify the statement of his staunch henchman at a time when that gentleman is being condemned by newspapers in every part of the province, among them the strongest organs of the Whitney Government, including the Toronto News and the Ottawa Citizen. But the premier's silence is as profound as it is unusual. It at least lends belief to the opinion already so general that Mr. Birmingham's "resignation" is only pigeonholed to be withdrawn when he has performed the work expected of him in North Renfrew.

The Hamilton Times is likely right in its conclusion when it says:—

"And when the funny work in the constituencies is done and the salaries of organizers cease, don't be surprised if you find Bob at the colonization desk again, with no visible cessation of the salary stream, although the source of supply may possibly be different, trying to while away the time between his visits to the bank to draw his pay.

"But Whitney's face is saved. He did not fall into untruth. He just jumped over the gap and to the joy of his followers cleared the lie, by the thousandth of an inch. When you think over it you will have to acquit him of falsehood in the matter and marvel at his astuteness. Genius and honour of that kind are not so frequently met with as to remain unnoticed even in a Premier."

Toronto Party Lost Their Way

Lost on Stony Lake—was the peculiar plight of a Toronto party of gentlemen who were coming to Lakefield yesterday from Burleigh Falls. The party consisted of Mr. Homer Walker and two others from the Queen City. The lake being almost free from inhabitants they could not inquire their way and landed at Gilchrist's Bay—Hell-gates narrows apparently having no attraction for them.

They were fortunate in finding the steamer Majestic at the Bay and came down to the city yesterday, leaving on the evening train for Toronto.

Domestic Trouble Before The Court

Wife Wants Her Husband to Assist in Maintenance.

A peculiar case of domestic unhappiness was ventilated at the Police Court this morning—a case in which a wife attempted to collect alimony from a husband who was physically weak and somewhat mentally impaired.

Mr. W. H. Moore appeared for the defendent, Mr. John O'Brien and Mr. D. O'Connel for the plaintiff, his wife.

In her remarks Mrs. O'Brien stated she had been working to support herself almost ever since she was married to O'Brien, who was her second husband. She had five children by her first, the youngest being seven years old, and none of these was she able to keep without her husband's assistance. She has not been in extra good health for some time and has a discontented mind, she said.

To Mr. Moore she said she had heard that O'Brien was in the Asylum before they were married, but she did not credit it. She was always willing to help maintain a home and she would be yet as agreed by the holy bonds of matrimony when they were joined together.

Mr. Conroy, with whom the defendent has lived for some time testified that O'Brien was always a delicate man and was twice in the asylum. He wasn't ablee to do anything but chore around and had not the strength to do any heavy work.

The magistrate deemed that it would be inadvisable to unite the two as he felt certain the defendent had not the strength to work and the case was dismissed.

Gold Brick From Star of East

Good Results From Two Days Run at the Mine.

LADIES' LITERARY ST. PETER'S T.A.S.

In the report of the organization meeting of the Ladies' Literary Committee of St. Peter's T. A. S., the name of the president was omitted. The officers will therefore be:

Director—Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
President—Miss L. Deannard.
Treasurer—Miss M. A. O'Connell.
Secretary—Miss H. M. Cahill.

This organization has done a good work in stimulating the literary ambition and developing the literary culture of its members and in providing sane and elevating entertainment; and its usefulness the coming season seems to promise even better results in this connection.

Human "Steam"; Keeping it Up

The Secret Of That Tireless Energy Some People Possess.

There is another kind of steam than that in which the boy James Watt, watching his mother's tea-kettle, first saw the great possibilities that long since have become realities.

This other kind of steam is human "steam." And it is a most important factor in our affairs.

Some people call this human "steam" by other names. They call it "Push" sometimes, or "hustle," or "get-up," or "life." Well, it's all of these, but after all it's just "steam." It's the power to do things, a seemingly tireless power which some people possess.

Malta-Vita, the perfect malted whole-wheat food, fills men and women and children with the power to do things. It makes them strong in body and mind. It keeps up their "steam."

When Malta-Vita comes from the ovens, every flake baked crisp and brown, it is the most delicious and most healthful food in the world, containing only one per cent of moisture. The other 99 per cent is nutrition, digested most readily, even by the weakest stomach, because the gelatinized starch of the thoroughly cooked wheat has been converted by fine malt extract into maltose, or malt sugar.

There's no other food like Malta-Vita! None "just as good." Sold by all grocers, 10 cents.

Latest Purchase

Messrs. A. H. Stratton & Co. have purchased the wall paper stock of F. C. Cabitt, of "The Fair." As Mr. Cabitt has only been in business about one year, the stock is comparatively new. This stock of wall paper, over ten thousand rolls, was purchased at a flat price, which will enable us to sell wall, ceiling and border at the same price. To clear quickly this fall we will sell the whole stock at four prices, namely: 3c per roll, 5c per roll, 8c per roll, and 10c per roll; border and ceiling the same price. This is a splendid chance to fit up your home for the long winter evenings at a very small cost. Come early and be sure to bring the size of your rooms. The pretty designs and the prices are sure to make quick sales. A. H. Stratton & Co., 417 George street.

Think It Only Stomach Trouble

"It is only stomach trouble," many people say, when in reality the liver, bowels and kidneys are also affected.

Such symptoms as headache, coated tongue, disgust for food, vomiting, feelings of weight and soreness, dull pain near shoulders, muddy complexion, constipation, alternating with looseness of the bowels, irritability of temper, are sure indications of biliousness or torpid liver.

Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are marvellously prompt and certain as a cure for sluggish action of the liver. While awakening the liver they also regulate the bowels and invigorate the kidney action.

In this way the filtering and excretory systems are thoroughly cleansed of all poisonous impurities and the cause of pain, sickness and suffering removed.

In every family there is need of just such a medicine as Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills to cure constipation, backache, biliousness, indigestion and prevent dangerous and fatal diseases of the kidneys and bowels. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WEDDING BELLS

JOHNSTON–DIXON

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. John's church last evening at 7.15, when Miss Margaret Dixon, niece of Mr. Jas. McWilliams, Edinburgh street, became the wife of Mr. Charles Johnston, formerly of Collingwood. The ceremony was performed before about forty guests, by the Rev. Canon Davidson. The bride who was handsomely attired in white cashmere, was assisted by Miss Annie McLean, East City, also dressed in white cashmere. The groom was attended by Mr. Mongraw. After the ceremony the guests repaired to the home of Mr. McWilliams, 202 Edinburgh street, where a dainty feast was served. The bride and groom were the recipients of a large number of pretty presents showing their popularity. They have taken up their residence on Antrim street.

PRESTON–STENSON

"Sunnyside Cottage," the residence of Mr. Wallace Stinson, Percy, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, Sept. 26th, when his daughter, Minnie J., became the wife of Mr. J. A. Preston, of Hastings.

The ceremony was conducted under an arch of evergreens prettily decorated with daisies, the Rev. W. Elliott officiating. Prior to the advent of the bride, Miss Edith E. Campbell, of Norwood, sang very effectively, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden," followed by Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by the bride's cousin, Miss Ethel M. Stinson.

The bride, who was unattended, looked exceptionally well, in a becoming gown of cream crepe de chine trimmed with silver lace and chiffon, rosettes of taffeta completing the effect. She wore the customary veil and wreath and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and ferns.

After a very enjoyable evening Mr. and Mrs. Preston left for their home in Asphodel, carrying with them the best wishes of a host of friends, the bride wearing an Eton suit of grey, with touches of green passementrie, and hat to match.

Friends were present from Brighton, Cobourg, Westwood and Castleton.—Com.

Marked By Fine Weather Keene Fair Was A Success

One of the Best Exhibitions in History of the Society —Entries in All Classes Were Large—Many Peterborough People Were There.

Favoured by perfect fall weather, the success of the Otonabee Exhibition, held yesterday at Keene, was such as to give those in charge the greatest satisfaction. The exhibition was one of the most successful in the history of the organization, both in point of attendance, and in the excellence and number of the exhibits. Keene, situated as it is in the midst of one of the richest of farming districts in Peterborough county, if not in Ontario, with the most progressive farmers, would naturally be expected to conduct a splendid agricultural show, and yesterday exhibit was fully up to the standard of what would be looked for from a place so splendidly located.

803 Entries

The number of entries this year was 803, which is about fifty more than last year. In every class there were large entries, especially in horses, in which many fine animals were shown; great interest was displayed in the judging of the roadsters, especially in the class which called for lady drivers. Each fair handler of the ribbons had many admirers, and there was much excitement over the contest, in which the judges had their work cut out for them.

2,000 on Grounds

The attendance on the grounds was estimated at 2,000, which on the 7 acres of the exhibition lot, looked like a very big crowd. The gate receipts amounted to $300, about the same as the total last year. Many people from Peterborough were in attendance, either driving or going by train. The Rice Lake steamers brought big contingents to swell the crowd. The Rainbow with a barge, carried nearly 300 people from various points on the lake, and the Monarch also brought a large crowd. The countryside turned out in a body to attend the fair, and most of them brought exhibits with them, too.

In fact, the success of the exhibition was due not only to energetic and faithful work on the part of the officers, and directors, but also to the unanimity displayed by the people of Keene and the surrounding country in supporting and encouraging the fair in every way possible.

Midway not Large

The Midway was not extensive, consisting for the most part of refreshment booths. The Coney Island dodgers, who made their debut at the Peterborough exhibition, were on hand, however. The directors refused to allow any games of chance on the grounds, and exponents of the gentle art of extracting money from verdant visitors, were nowhere in evidence.

The display in the main building was most creditable, and compared favourably with any of the district fairs. The ladies' work, fine arts, and domestic manufactures displays were artistically arranged, and contained some most praiseworthy exhibits, which reflected credit upon the ladies of the district. In the main building, too, were the displays of fruit and vegetables, which while not so large as other classes, included some very fine specimens of the products of the field and garden. The building was always thronged during the afternoon.

Fine Horses Shown

In all the fairs of the Peterborough district this year, one of the principal features has been the splendid entries in horses. Keene fair was no exception to the other fairs in this respect. While of course there were not so many entries as in some of the larger exhibitions, the equines entered were very fine. Some splendid heavy horses were shown, and a good showing was also made in the carriage horse class.

BACK TO NATURE.

Bileans Are Purely Herbal.

"You cannot get any remedies so potent, so beneficial, so eminently designed for the use of mankind, as the essences and juices of the herbs of the field," says an eminent authority. This description sums up exactly the constituents of Bileans. Bileans are purely herbal, and they have been proved in every clime to meet the needs of ailing humanity. They operate on the liver and stomach and cure all disorders arising from derangement of these important organs. Liver complaint, biliousness, indigestion, headache, female ailments, constipation, piles, debility, liver chill, all yield to Bileans. From their use both rich and poor are every day benefitting. One correspondent says: "I had to do laundry work to get the money for a course, but they gave me health." As a contrast to this Sir Chas. Clifton Browne, of Deal (Kent), says: "Bileans cured me of biliousness and bilious headaches. I think they are a really good remedy." Of all druggists at 50 cents a box.

Debating Club Elects Officers

Annual Meeting of Y. M. C. A. Club Held Last Night.

The ninth annual meeting and election of officers of the Y.M.C.A. Debating Club was held last evening. The attendance was large and an enthusiasm prevailed that promises even greater things than were accomplished as the result of last season's very satisfactory work.

President Reid occupied the chair and reviewed the work of the year. The constitution and by-laws were read and confirmed.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—

President—W. G. Shiner.
First Vice-President—C. H. Reid.
Second Vice-President—W. MacLaren.
Secretary—Frank Simpson.
Treasurer—Fred. Ray.

The officers will constitute an executive committee.

A general discussion took place in regard to the programme for the season and many helpful suggestions were made.

The next meeting will be on October 17th.

Shop Arithmetic And Geometry

These Classes at Y.M.C.A. Are Very Helpful.

Another of the very practical courses in the Y.M.C.A. evening classes this year is the shop arithmetic and practical geometrical drawing in charge of Mr. E. C. Srigley, Commercial Master P. C. I. Mr. Srigley possesses high qualifications for such a class, being a graduate in the manual training, wood carving and turning courses; also holding certificate in advanced geometrical perspective and mechanical drawing.

All men employed in machine and other shops will do well to consider this course.

BOSTON'S BARBER REGULATIONS

Board of Health Orders Sterilization of All That Barbers Use on Customers.

A special despatch from Boston, May 5, 1900, to the New York Sun, gives new regulations of the Boston Board of Health as to barber shops: "Mugs, shaving brushes and razors shall be sterilized after each separate use thereof. A separate, clean towel shall be used for each person. Material to stop the flow of blood shall be used only in powdered form and applied on a towel. Powder puffs are prohibited." Wherever Newbro's "Herpicide" is used for face or scalp after shaving or hair cutting, there is no danger of infection, as it is antiseptic, and kills the dandruff germ. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

Social Bible Club Re-organizes

A Progressive Club in Connection With Y.M.C.A.

Among the number of Y.M.C.A. organizations that got a good start this week is the Social Bible Club for employed boys, which was re-organized last evening. There was an encouraging attendance of enthusiastic boys. The club will meet every Wednesday at 7.30 p. m. and is under the able leadership of Mr. Jos. Middleton, L.D.S.

The life and work of Jesus, as recorded by St. Mark will be studied. The following officers were elected:—

Hon. Director—G. H. Williamson.
Director—J. Middleton.
Vice-Director—Fred. Hall.
Secretary—H. Jeffries.
Treasurer—Geo. Martin.
Organist—S. Madill.

A C.P.R. Freight Wreck at Tweed

Through Train Crashed Into a Way Freight.

Tweed, Oct. 4.—Shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon as the west bound way freight was backing down east of the C.P.R. bridge for the purpose of shunting some cars into the Power Company's siding, a west bound freight, consisting of six cars and caboose, crashed into the caboose of the way freight. Some three or four cars were completely wrecked and thrown into the ditch alongside of the track. The engine of the west bound freight telescoped the caboose of the way freight. Fortunately there was no one in the caboose at the time, and the engine of the west bound freight was not seriously damaged, nor was anyone injured to the slightest extent.

It is impossible to state where the responsibility rests. The brakes were applied to the through train, but not soon enough to materially reduce its speed.

Here's a Way To Save Doctor Bills

Physicians Give Free Advice by Which Parents May Profit.

It's a matter of general interest just now how one's physical condition can be got into shape to best receive the benefits of the summer season. Especially is this true of the children. They have become run down by a winter of unnatural manner of living, because of ill-considered food and much time spent indoors. Spring comes with its sunshine, its fresh vegetables and all else invigorating, but the children are in no condition to receive nature's remedies.

Many parents call in the family physician. Many other parents take advantage of what the physician told them when he was first called in consultation. All good family physicians says: "Give the children Castoria." Healthy parents know this remedy of old, for they took it themselves as children. It was more than thirty years ago that Castoria made a place for itself in the household. It bore the signature of Charles H. Fletcher then, as it does to-day. The signature is its guarantee, which is accepted in thousands of homes where there are children.

More Improvements To Upper End Of The Canal

Superintendent in Lindsay Arranges for Many Needed Repairs to the Canal—Will Greatly Benefit Navigation in That Section.

The Lindsay Post of yesterday, said. Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the Trent Canal, was in town yesterday for a few hours on his way north with Engineer Clegg, of the Railways and Canals department. Accompanied by Mr. R. J. McLaughlin they drove out to Ops, swing bridge, and took measurements for a new swing, which will be proceeded with as soon as navigation closes. The material will be British Columbia fir, warranted to last 30 years and the bolts and plates in the present structure will be utilized as far as possible. The two rest piers and central pivot piers will be built of cement.

Supt. McClellan was on his way to Victoria Road, where he will set a number of men at work clearing obstructions out of a small stream that runs close to the village and empties into the Talbot river. Owing to these obstructions there is no current during the dry season, and in places the water becomes sluggish and foul, and consequently dangerous to health. The blasting out of some rocks and removal of flood drift wood will allow the pure water from Balsam Lake to flow through.

Extensive repairs will also be undertaken at Burleigh Falls locks, which will be closed to traffic on October 15th for that purpose. New gates of British Columbia fir will be made and hung and leaks will be cemented, etc.

Lindsay boatmen and citizens will be pleased to learn that next spring it is probable the new lighthouses at either end of the cut will be covered with phosphorescent paint, which will shine out on the darkest night. It is also the intention to plant forty or fifty squared cedar piles at the several dangerous points and turns, and the tops of these will also be dipped in phosphorescent paint. With these aids to navigation out boatmen will be well content—for a time.

Crowds To See The Detective

Over Three Hundred Visit Le Huguet at the Hospital.

LeHuguet, the Montreal detective, who was shot the other day by a burglar, and who is a nephew of Mr. John Lacheur, Rubidge street, is getting along well. He has crowds to see him every day in the hospital. A despatch from Montreal says:

Detective LeHuquet, who was shot three times by the burglar, Robert Walker on Sunday in the premises of the Stark Hardware Co., St. Peter street, is doing well in the general hospital. Unless complications set in he will be all right in a week. By order of Ald. Proulx, chairman of the Police Committee, Le Huquet has been removed from the public ward where he lay, to a private room, where he will be given the very best attention. Three hundred persons called at the hospital yesterday to inquire for or see the detective, and visitors have also been numerous today.

Walker, who shot Le Huquet, and was stretched senseless by Detective O'Keefe with an axe handle, is still weak, but is moving on the road to health very rapidly.

The Forty Hours Mass at Hastings

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor Will Officiate.

Next Tuesday at 9.30 o'clock, the "Devotion of the Forty Hours" will commence in the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, at Hastings, and continue until Thursday morning. Sermon in the morning at 9.30 mass, and at the evening service at 7.30. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor will preach next Sunday morning.

Funeral of Late William O'Brien

Will Take Place To-morrow Morning to R. C. Cemetery.

The funeral of the late Wm. O'Brien, who died so suddenly while at dinner yesterday in the Albion Hotel, East City, will take place to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. Patrick Kennealoy, 10 Crescent street. It will proceed to the cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholi cemetery for interment.

The Grand Trunk Pacific's Cars

New Railway's Freight Cars Seen in Peterborough.

A train of new Grand Trunk Pacific box cars passed through the city to-day en route for Midland, where, with others, they will be loaded with grain, which is to be conveyed to Montreal. The cars are equipped with all modern freight car improvements, and present a fine appearance. The painting is in Grand Trunk brown, with large sign denoting the railway for which it is intended. These cars are the first to be used over this line, and among the first turned out for the new railway.

New Pattern Shop Opens Next Week

Mr. Herbert Latimer Will Have First in the City.

A pattern shop to manufacture wood patterns for moulding purposes is the latest acquisition to the city. Next Monday Mr. Herbert J. Latimer opens his shop in Green's Foundry, McDonel street, ready for business. Mr. Latimer is well acquainted in the city having worked for three years in the Canadian General. His ability to perform satisfactory work is unquestionable. Besides working at the C. G. E. he spent a number of years in Toronto, Montreal, Buffalo and Chicago, engaged as a pattern maker.

HUNTERS' EXCURSIONS

The fact that the C. P. R. line runs for so many miles through ideal hunting lands, where moose and deer and smaller game galore wax fat, and await the advent of frill and the accompanying guns and dogs, is, of course, the principal reason why, about this time of year, the enthusiastic sportsman turns to the well-known yellow-covered guide, and studies time-tables and maps so industriously. Hunters' excursions are around again, and single fare will soon be the order of the day. The C. P. R. announces that from October 9th to November 6th return tickets to all stations on their main line, Mattawa to Port Arthur, and Mattawa to Temiskaming and Kipawa, will be on sale at single fare, and from October 25th to November 6th, tickets at the same low rate to stations on the Lindsay branch. Stations between Sudbury and the Soo and Havelock, and Sharbot Lake. All tickets will be good to return until December 8th, with stop-overs allowed anywhere. Special steamship rates to the Soo and Port Arthur will also be in effect. Intending hunters should make a point of calling at the nearest C. P. R. ticket office for further information and for copies of "Fishing and Shooting," "Sportsman's Map," and "Open Seasons and Game Laws," all of which are of particular interest and use to sportsmen, and are free for the asking. C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C. P. R., Toronto, will gladly mail them to any address, if difficulty is experienced getting copies. 3d31

200 Applicants After A Position Advertised

Some of the Results Which Followed the Insertion of Want Ads. in The Examiner—Some Concrete Examples of the Efficacy of This Paper's Advertising Columns.

The Examiner has told its readers before of the efficacy of its want ad. column. Sometimes concrete examples of results obtained from its use have been quoted, and at other times the benefits have been told of in the abstract.

To-day, however, the efficiency of this column in The Examiner has been so conclusively demonstrated that it is thought pardonable to refer to the circumstances. Yesterday's Examiner contained these three want ads., among many others, of course:

FOR SALE. — A WOOD COOK Stove; nearly new; cheap. Apply 191 King street. 3eod77-1117.

WANTED — A GOOD MAN TO LOOK after horses and make himself generally useful. Apply J. J. Turner & Sons, Tent Mfgrs. 1d-1112.

LOST—A BLACK LEATHER SATCHEL, with chain handle, containing Post Office Key, Latch Key, Small Green purse, containing a small sum of money, and a few other articles. Name of owner on the bottom of satchel and on handkerchief. Finder kindly leave at this office. 3d78-1121.

There's a little story connected with each of these ads. The first, that advertising the stove, was ordered for three insertions, but one was enough. Its first insertion was in Tuesday's paper, and last night the stove was sold, and Mr. Campbell came to the office to order the ad. out and pay for it. It cost him 25c. and he considered it a quarter well spent, as it was.

This morning Mr. J. J. Turner, Sr., telephoned to this office, and this is about what he said:

"I want you to take my ad. for a man out of your paper. I ordered it in for one night, and you put it in again last night. I've had about 200 applications. Fully 20 men called on me the same night, and I had no trouble selecting a man. It certainly pays to advertise," concluded Mr. Turner.

The third ad. was inserted for the first time yesterday, and this morning, before 8.30, the lost satchel was returned to this office, where the owner may have it.

These cases, which all developed last night and to-day, demonstrate the fact that it pays to make your wants known through The Examiner want ad. column. You don't have to take our word for it—let the testimony of those who have proved it convince you.

Peterborough Guests At A Lindsay Wedding

The Bride Was Given Away by Her Uncle, Mr. Robert Hall, of This City—An Interesting Society Event in Lindsay.

Lindsay, Oct. 3.—The home of Mrs. Chas. Henderson, 16 Sussex street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding this afternoon, Wednesday, October 3rd when her eldest daughter, Miss Louise E., was united in marriage to Mr. Fred. J. Buller, of the Canadian Northern Railway, Toronto.

The bride entered the artistically decorated drawing room on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Robt. Hall, of Peterborough, and looked beautiful attired in a very handsome Venetian lace dress, trimmed with seed pearls over ivory satin; she wore a veil and orange blossoms, and carried a beautiful shower boquet of roses and lillies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Lilias Henderson, sister of the bride looked charming in a dress of pale blue chiffon tafetta, trimmed with Spanish lace, and carried pink roses.

The flower girl was little Miss Jean Waite, of Orillia, neice of the bride who looked very sweet, dressed in white accordian pleated tafetta, and carrying a dainty basket of flowers. The groomsman was Mr. J. Worth Mitchell, of the Central Canada Loan & Savings Co., Toronto. The wedding march was played by Miss Rose Dyer, of Lindsay.

The popularity of the bride and groom was well shown by the numerous and costly presents received, among which was a handsome gold watch, set with diamonds and beautiful chain and purse of gold, presented by the citizens of Lindsay to the bride; a beautiful piano to the groom from the senior clerks of the Canadian Northern Railway; and a china bouillon set from the junior members of the staff.

The happy couple left via C.P.R. to visit Montreal, Boston and New York, before taking to their residence in Toronto. The bride's going away gown was a hunter's green broadcloth, with pretty hat to match.

Among the numerous guests from a distance were:—Mrs. Robt. Nell, Mrs. C. Stapleton, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Hall and the Misses Hall, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey, Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Buller, Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. J. Buller, Toronto; Mrs. Percival MacLean, Peterborough.

Former Peterborough Man Gets Promotion

Mr. James A. Ellis, Formerly With C. P. R. Here, is Given Important Position With Chicago Great West Railway at Omaha.

Mr. James A. Ellis, a former resident of this city, where he was employed with the C. P. R., has many friends here, who will learn with pleasure of his success in the United States.

Mr. Ellis is a brother-in-law of Mr Wm. Buller, manager of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company. He left Peterborough 18 years ago, to take a position with the Chicago Great Western at Marshalltown Io, The Register and Leader of Des Moines, Iowa, has the following:

"J. A. Ellis, for the last two and a half years agent for the Chicago Great Western Railway in Des Moines, has just been promoted to the important position of general agent at Omaha, with jurisdiction over Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs. Mr. Ellis will be succeeded in this city by R. A. Belding, who comes from Denver to a field in which he is already well known, through his former connection with the Des Moines short line. In Des Moines Mr. Ellis has had charge of the freight business of the city, but in Omaha he will be in charge of both the freight and passenger business.

Mr. Ellis has had a long service with the Great Western, beginning nearly eighteen years ago. His first important position was at Marshalltown, where he remained for twelve years, until March, 1904, when he was promoted to his position in Des Moines. Mr. Ellis entered into railway work first in Montreal, his boyhood home, with the Canadian Pacific. In his long service with the Great Western, Mr. Ellis has established himself in high favour, and has acquired wide reputation as a railroad man of ability. In Des Moines his relations with patrons of the Great Western were especially happy."

Preparing To Cope With Spring Flood

Building Wooden Wall Along Creek From Dalhousie to the C. P. R.

The crib work on the creek which runs through the town is being replaced between Dalhousie street and C.P.R. station. The old wooden wall was not high enough and the spring freshets used to inundate the surrounding parts. Mr. Jos. Kimberly who has long been engaged by the C.P.R. in the work of bridge construction is in charge of this job. He has a stationary engine and pile driver and has already placed the heavy posts in position. It remains now to lay the huge beams in their place and then next spring's flood will work their strength against this wall in their vain endeavour to surmount it. Although this work was necessary yet the town should follow the C.P.R.'s example and construct a similar crib along the creek above Brock street, where much greater area is annually flooded and more damage done.

Ballasting On Bethune Street

Track Will be Raised a Couple of Inches.

A number of men are engaged on the Lakefield branch of the G.T.R. putting in ballast and setting down ties. Their work is confined to part of Bethune street, between Mcdonel and Dublin streets. It is the intention to raise the track at the corner of London and Bethune streets a couple of inches above the concrete crossing, where now is a somewhat dangerous hollow.

Young Ladies Kept Umbiella

Borrowed it From a Man at Street Corner and Did Not Return.

The guile of the feminine sex is singularly remarkable in many cases. The above statement is substantiated by a story told of an artifice used by a couple of young ladies the other day, who are now the wealthier by a good ambrella.

The other day Mr. David Kernoghan was standing at the corner of Mcdonel and Aylmer streets protecting himself from the rain by an umbrella. Two young ladies came along bearing the brunt of the weather, and asked him for the loan of his umbrella, remarking that they know him well and would return it.

Mr. Kernoghan readily consented, as he had not far to go, but he has never sat his eyes on the young ladies or his property since.

Editor Leaves For New Country

What Mr. Scriver Says in Introducing Peterborough Man As New Proprietor.

In relinquishing control of the Hastings Star to Mr. Fred Hubbs, of this city, Mr. T. E. Scriver, makes the following observations:—

"I now take pleasure in introducing Mr. F. S. Hubbs who is now editor and proprietor.

"Fourteen years ago I entered this office as an apprentice and nearly six years ago I became editor and proprietor. That time here brought me in contact with nearly every person in the district, which helped me a good deal in the business. This knowledge my successor has still to acquire but I bespeak for him the same kind treatment that I have always received. As apprentice and editor I believe I have had the best wishes of all my acquaintances. My successor is taking charge of The Star, when, as a paying concern, it was never better.

"Being yet a young man I intend to try conclusions in a newer country. I will leave Hastings with the best feelings towards all. My native town will be kindly remembered by me, and, as in the past, I will always wish it well."

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

I would like to call the attention of those interested to the vacancy of the "Old Oxford Hotel" of which Mrs. Bowman was former proprietor. I have noticed many times that travellers have in vain sought that place for refreshments because of its being closed. Someone should take this place, improve it and open it for the public. The former proprietor was very loth to vacate it thus I would judge that it is a good location. The C.P.R. ought to do something as passengers often in need of food cannot obtain any near by and the distance up town is too great.

Sir Wilfrid Addresses Large Audience At Lorette.

MAKES A TELLING SPEECH

Address to the Premier From the Electors of Quebec County Gave Him Cordial Welcome and Assured Him of Homage and Respect — Premier Gouin, Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux and Other Speakers Present.

Quebec, Oct. 4.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier arrived in Quebec yesterday forenoon and proceeded to Lorette, in the county of Quebec, where an immense political meeting was held in favor of the Government candidate, Mr. George E. Amyot. The Premier was accompanied to the meeting by Hon. R. Lemieux, Hon. Lomer Gouin (Premier of Quebec), Hon. R. Roy, Messrs. L. A. Taschereau, K.C., Cyr Delage, M.P. for the county, and other Liberal leaders. The meeting was held in the open air, and fully five thousand people were present from all parts of the county.

The meeting was presided over by the Mayor of the parish, who read an address from the electors to the Premier, bidding him a most cordial welcome, and expressing pleasure at the opportunity afforded them to present their homage and respect. They greeted him not only as a fellow-countryman, but as Prime Minister of the Dominion, who sheds lustre upon his race and country. They rejoiced at his advent to power in 1896, and eulogized his uprightness of character, patriotism and devotion to Canadian interests, and believed that he would restore harmony among the races comprising the population of the vast Dominion, and bring prosperity and well-being to all.

Sir Wilfrid made a telling speech in response, and in the course of his remarks referred to the prosperity and expansion of Canada under the Liberal regime. He strongly urged the candidature of Mr. Amyot, who, he said, was a worthy man, capable of representing their interests in Parliament and supporting the Government in its measures for the people and country. Referring to his endorsation of Mr. Amyot, he said surely his position entitled him to an opinion in the choice of a candidate to support the Government and represent the electors.

Hon. Messrs. Lemieux, Gouin and Roy made excellent speeches, followed by Messers. C. Devlin, C. Delage and others, that were enthusiastically applauded, and the conclusion of the meeting showed that Mr. Amyot would be returned at the polls by an immense majority.

Mr. Lorenzo Robitaille, one of the Liberal candidates in Quebec county, has taken an action for damages against Mr. G. E. Amyot, the amount claimed being $10,000.

GUN IN THE BOAT.

Alfred Corrigan Shot Accidentally Near Rainy River.

Rainy River, Oct. 4.—Alfred Corrigan, employed at the Rainy River Lumber Co., four miles above here, accidentally shot and killed himself Tuesday afternoon. The unfortunate young man was intending to row up the river, and took his shotgun, which he placed on the seat, while he was bailing out the boat, and in some unaccountable way the gun went off, the charge hitting him in the left breast just above the heart. He died a few minutes after.

Phillips Case Traversed.

Toronto, Oct. 4.—The York County Loan smashup was recalled, when Joseph Phillips, the manager, was arraigned before Judge Winchester in the sessions yesterday on a charge of stealing $2,500. At the request of Arthur Ardagh, the case was traversed to the December sessions. Phillips pleaded not guilty. A. M. Hobberlin again became bail bondsman for $5,000.

BLOOD POISON.

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, sickness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, sores in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is clothed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 26 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

Shield Offered Football Contest

Corinthian Guarantors Want to Promote Game in Canada.

Here is another opportunity for the Quaker Association Football team to win honours before the year has died away. "The People", the English paper the guarantors of the Corinthians have decided to offer a shield for competition by Canadian clubs. The Galt Reformer in speaking of the question says:—

The announcement has been made by Mr. G. A. Parker, manager of the Corinthian football team, which recently toured Canada and the United States, that the guarantors of the Corinthian team, namely, the English paper, "The People", have decided to still further encourage the game in Canada by donating a hundred guinea challenge shield to be competed for by Canadian clubs.

Mr. Parker has written to the secretary of the Galt club, asking if the Galt club will take part in the competition and if the club will play either Dundas or Toronto in Galt a week from Saturday, October 13.

The finals in the competition will be played off in Toronto later on, the winner of the west playing the winner of the east, Montreal has entered a team.

A meeting of the executive of the Galt club will be held this evening to consider the proposition.

Tigers Will Run Special Train

Providing They Can Get Their Guarantee.

So many people have expressed a desire to go with the Tigers to Peterborough on Saturday that it has been decided, if enough names can be secured to run a special train, leaving Hamilton via the C.P.R. at 11 o'clock, and returning the same evening. A rate of $1.65 has been secured, but it will be necessary to get 100 names before the train will be secured. A list has been placed in the C.P.R. ticket office, and all who desire to go should leave their names by 'phone or personally before to-morrow night.—Hamilton Spectator.

Royalist Hockey Club Organized

First Hockey Club for the Season Ready.

The first hockey club organization meeting for the season has been held Last night at the Y.M.C.A. a gathering of juvenile hockey enthusiasts was held, when the Royalists effected an organization, and elected officers as follows:—

Hon. President—Mr. W. H. Meldrum.
President—R. Baker.
Manager—S. Ray.
Secretary-Treasurer—E. Fox.
Captain—Harold Meldrum.

The players, all of whom are under 16 years of age, who will uphold the honour of the club in the hockey arena this season, are:—H. Meldrum, W. Clancy, S. Wade, E. Fox, S. Long, F. Giroux and L. Barrodaile.

Trouble In The Hockey Ranks

Stratford Hockey Players are in Trouble.

Stratford, Oct. 3.—There is trouble in local hockey circles. The team is kicking against the present management, and has refused point plank to serve under it. A meeting of disgruntled players met at the Crescent Club's rooms, and a new organization was formed, the club to be the future home of the senior O.H.A. team. The following seniors players have promised to play under the new management—Ramsay, Keller, Forbes, Roberts, Herne, McLaren, Edwards, and Lloyd.

Team Will Be In Great Shape

For Saturday's Game With The Tigers.

The Rugby team had a great practice in the rink last night and with another work out to-night will be ready for Saturday's game with the Tigers, which promises to be the best ever seen here. All the seniors wre out and worked for an hour and a half. They will be in great shape for the struggle and are confident of giving the Tigers the hardest game in their history. There promises to be an immense crowd at the game judging from the interest it is creating.

City League Meets To-night

Meeting Called for 7.30 at The Examiner Office.

A meeting of the City League will be held this evening at 7.30 sharp at the Examiner office. Representatives should be on hand early and the business will be quickly carried out, the most important thing coming up being the drawing up of the schedule. The meeting will be over early and will not interfere with any of the attractions billed for to-night.

RUGBY.

Why Don't You Try?

The "devil" has handed in the following effusion which he recommends to the Cast Iron Chorus for use in Saturday's game:—

Do you think that you can scare them
With your half backs coming through?
Do you fancy they'd be guiltless
If you scored a touch or two?
Do you think that you can kill them
In the scrimmage—make them die?
If you think that they are easy,
Why don't you try, why don't you try?

* * * *

The seniors will hold their last practice before the big game to-night in the rink. Every player should be out for a final drill in signals. The team will be chosen after practice.

* * * *

It will be learned with great regret that Percy Gilbert the outside wing of the seniors will be out of the game at least a week with an injured knee. He was hurt in the game with Victorias last Saturday.

* * * *

Lou Leclaire is in good shape to make his debut to a Peterborough audience on Saturday. He will likely be seen at inside wing.

* * * *

The Tigers had another good practice yesterday, there being a good turnout of both seniors and intermediates. Both teams are now in readiness for Saturday's games and should give a good account of themselves. The players in uniform at last night's practice were:—Seniors,—DuMoulin, Ballard Craig, Murray, Moore, Tope, Simpson, Barron, Isbister, Marriott, Burkholder, Lyons and Kirkpatrick.— Hamilton Spectator.

* * * *

The Quakers performed on the Nicholls Oval stage last night. The moonlight was turned on and with a large caste they presented a good performance.

* * * *

The seniors will hold a signal practice this evening in the Brock street rink.

* * * *

The Quakers will have a work out in the Brock street rink to-morrow night at 7.30 sharp. All the players are requested to turn out.

Annual Field Day Sports To-morrow

Collegiate Boys Will Contest in Friendly Sped Events.

To-morrow afternoon the Collegiate Institute's annual Field Day of Sports will be held, weather permitting, on the Nicholls Oval. Judging from former field days the competitions to-morrow should be good. The boys who will take part have devoted some time to training and the events should be keenly contested. The friends and relatives of the pupils should attend and by their presence encourage the to do their best. There is no probability of records being broken as the premier athletics have come and gone.

The cadets, of which every boy in the school is a member, will march to the Oval in a body. A dressing tent will be erected on the grounds, and an express wagon will be engaged to carry any impedimenta required, that the boys, being on the march, cannot carry.

NEAT CIRCULAR OF A MODISH TAILOR

If the quality, style, neatness and fitness of the clothing supplied by Mr. Ed Hall, importing Tailor, 140 Hunter street, corresponds with the opening announcement just issued from The Examiner office, he may count upon a large share of the highest encomia. His announcement is a beautiful specimen of the typographical art, and one can see by a view of the stock of fine and fashionable materials and beautifully tailored completed garments and cloths that one is quite worthy of the other. Those in search of well made well fitting garments composed of the latest and most fashionable fabrics would do well to call on Mr. Hall at 140 Hunter, street.

Decorating For Big Rugby Game

Merchants Recognize the Importance of the Occasion.

The merchants of the city are recognizing the importance of Saturday's big Rugby game, by decorating their windows with the colours of the Hamilton and Peterborough teams. Richard Hall & Son, Grafton & Co., and Mac's cigar store, have attractive window displays, with blue and white, and yellow and black.

Has Returned From The North

Mr. Albert Taylor Has Been a Fire Ranger.

Mr. Albert Taylor returned this week from the northern part of the province, where he has been engaged for the last three months as a fire ranger on the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific. He was employed 200 miles north of North Bay, and had a beat of five miles each day to patrol as a precaution against fires. Mr. Taylor leaves to-morrow to resume his studies at Toronto University.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Oct. 4.—Stocks for the most part were quiet to-day. Opening prices were slightly higher under the influence of a higher London market, which was influenced by the Bank of England discount rate remaining unchanged.

The pyrotechnics of the day were furnished by Rubber, which did some fine stunts, breaking five points from last night's close on the report that no dividend would be declared to-day. Irregularity characterized the general list, which showed a reactionary tendency. C. P. R. being the chief offender, with a decline of two points. U. S. Steel was heavily dealt in at a fractional advance. The room element had control of the market. The best institutions are recommending a conservative action at present, and we believe the best results will, as they say, be gained by purchases of standard stocks on the reactions when weak. The money situation is much better, but a disposition to give politics more attention is developing. The close was quite firm, with a rally in progress.

The Races

The races afforded considerable excitement and were watched with much interest by the big crowd of spectators which lined the third of a mile track.

Harry Devit, owned by H. Nesbitt, Peterborough, won the trotting event. The novelty race, in which the contestants had to hitch up their horses, walk them around the track, then trot a lap and finally unhitch, was interesting.

The following is the summary:

Trotting Race—
Harry Direct, H. Nesbitt, Peterborough..... ....1 1 1
Little Girl, J. Elmhirst... .....2 3 3
Little Will, A. Elmhirst... ...3 2 2

Novelty Race—
Little Peggy, Chas. Fife,—1.
Duke, Jos. Steele,—2, 3.
Minnie, Geo. Elliott,—3.

The judges were H. C. Winch, Martin Connors, and J. Clancy, of Peterborough.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

What helped to make the Otonabee Fair more interesting than usual this year was the number of excellent special exhibits of various kinds, other than those pertaining purely to agricultural pursuits. A few descriptive notes of these will be found worth reading.

BIRDSALL & SON'S OXFORD SHEEP

The stock farm of Messrs. Frank Birdsall and Sons, the reputable breeders of Oxford Down sheep, and shorthorn cattle, was represented by two pens of thoroughbred sheep. There was a full exhibit, consisting of one thoroughbred lamb ram, imported this year from the North of England; one three-year-old imported ram (a prolific breeder), two shearling ewes, two ewe lambs, and two aged ewes. The English ram lamb "Sunrise" has been exhibited by the importer, Mr. Arkel, at a number of the leading shows this fall, including Toronto, London, Syracuse, etc., and has been a great prize-winner. Birdsall and Sons have not been able to exhibit any of their shorthorn cattle at any of the fairs this season on account of the difficulty of procuring proper help. They have some excellent stock for sale, including three young shorthorn bulls, ready for service. Birdsall is their postoffice address.

EXHIBIT OF THE CHATHAM SPECIALTIES

Mr. Chas. C. McDonnell, of Downer's Corners, Otonabee, made an attractive exhibit, in which was shown the Chatham fanning mill and big filler, a handy labour-saving kitchen cabinet, an incubator, and the Chatham patent platform scales. Hundreds became interested in this exhibit, and those who were not present at the fair should write for catalogues.

LANG & MAHER'S UNIQUE CLOTHING CAMPAIGN

The clothing display of Messrs. Lang & Maher, the "Daylight" Clothiers of Peterborough, was the most unique tented exhibit on the fair grounds. It stood alone on a plane by itself and in a class by itself, and presented the most novel features. It occupied the unique position of being itself, its only unit of comparison. There were none like it, and it cannot be said to imitate anything else that has yet been seen on any fair grounds in this district. It was first in the visitor's eye as he entered the fair grounds, as it was first in point of interest and originality. It represented a portable clothing store of coloured design, with features that attracted everybody, and an inspection of the clothing exhibited furnished a comprehensive knowledge of the new styles of the season.

Messrs. Lang & Maher are building for the future, and their activity of to-day means that business must come to-morrow. They don't wait for the demand for their clothing—they create it. Push, hustle and determination are giving them the necessary publicity, and the fifteen hundred visitors at the Keene Fair must have been strongly impressed with that fact by the expensive advertising methods employed by this firm.

Mr. J. T. C. Lang, the senior member of the firm, who is well and favourably known by a very large proportion of the residents of Otonabee, was at the fair and had charge of the firm's campaign of publicity. The beautifully executed and catchy signs of the firm were displayed prominently from all parts of the grounds, and the visitors could not help seeing them at every turn.

The clothing sold by this progressive firm is known to have a distinctiveness about it which at once stamps it as different from the ordinary ready-to-wear clothing. The "Sovereign" brand, "Fit-rite" and Northway garments, handled by Lang & Maher, are thoroughly up to the required point in style, and in most cases just a little ahead of other brands, while the make and quality are of the very best. If you have not seen the new season's overcoats and suits, drop into their Peterborough store, Nos. 409-411 George street, and see the swell new comers, which they call the "limit of Swaggerdom." You are always as welcome to look as to buy.

W. T. MATHER'S HOME-MADE BUGGIES, CUTTERS, ETC.

Mr. W. T. Mather, of Mather's Corners, Otonabee, had another splendid display of his own make of buggies, cutters, sleighs, etc. It was an exceedingly creditable demonstration of the high-class work turned out by an unpretentious country shop. A very handsome piano box buggy, with spindle seat, was shown. Steel axles and fine strong gear were used, and wheels with rubber tires. There was a leather upholstered adjustable cushion, fitting on the spindle seat, and the price of this buggy was $125. Another buggy was shown for general use, with hard tires, wide canopy top, and feather seat in dark green, and handsomely nickel-plated. The price was $85. There were three fine roomy cutters shown, upholstered in red and green plush and nickel-plated—very comfortable family cutters, and very reasonably priced, at $45 each. A two-seated sleigh, with red bobs and gear, was a fine winter-turn out, and priced at $55. The finish and workmanship on these rigs showed excellent care and skill. The painting and finishing was especially worthy of praise, being the handiwork of Mr. W. Mather, jr.

INTERNATIONAL STOCK FOOD

An exhibit which was well put up and was of the most practical value to farmers and dairymen, was that made by Mr. George T. Gall, of Keene. It was shown in the centre of the main building, and was well looked after by Mr. Gall himself. The International Stock Food Company's specialties consist of valuable stock food for horses cattle, sheep and poultry, which is fast growing into the confidence of the dairymen and farmers. "Three feeds for one cent," explains how remarkably cheap this food is offered at. Mr. Gall contributed several special prizes of stock food to the prize list.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINE

Mr. Gall, the local agent, also exhibited three of the Singer Sewing Machines. Mr. Gall demonstrated the merits of these machines to crowds of admiring ladies. Wives, mothers and daughters took an especial interest in these wonderful machines, which are capable of doing so many different kinds of family work, as well as artistic and ornamental sewing. Whether ladies desire a machine or not Mr. Gall will prove to them that there is much to interest them by calling at his place of business.

STILLMAN BROS.' DISPLAY

This enterprising Keene firm made a good exhibit in the main building, consisting of stoves and cream separators. A handsome Oxford steel range was shown, with high warming shelf, and a complete outfit of culinary articles. It was generally admired for its fine proportions and cooking and baking features. There was also shown a "Florence" hot blast, air-tight heater.

Stillman Bros. also exhibited two of the "Melotte" cream separators. Farmers crowded around to see the features of this "King of Separators," explained, and many went away with good impressions formed of its superiority. The "Melotte" has had a wonderful record. It appears that over 150,000 farmers use and praise the "Melotte" outside of the United States.

GRAFTON & CO.'S HIGH GRADE CLOTHING

As usual, Grafton's High-Grade Clothing occupied a conspicuous section in the entrance to the building. A very effective exhibit was tastefully arranged, showing graduated tiers of their fine hand tailored clothing, sample suits, in single and double breasted styles, made from genuine fabrics, of nobby patterns, and overcoats, with all the style one might expect to see in the merchant tailored garments.

Year in, and year out, this firm of clothing manufacturers leave no stone unturned in persistently keeping the many merits of their high-grade clothing before the public attention in every part of our country. They stand behind their clothing—every garment they sell has their bona fide guarantee of No. 1 value.

The exhibit made at this year's Fair by the energetic representatives of their Peterborough establishment, was a convincing one. It was attractively trimmed and dressed and showed the season's brightest styles in men's suits and overcoats and juvenile clothing. Their most popular claims and mottoes for their clothing were printed on fancy show cards, which enlivened the exhibit: "Union made Clothing," "From Maker to Wearer," "No Middlemen's Profits," "Premiums Given Away," told of some of their attractive methods. It was an ideal clothing display, reflecting credit on the manufacturers, the local manager and the men in charge of it. Mr. W. Conway, the manager, was on the grounds, renewing acquaintances with many of the patrons of the firm.

Mr. Herb. Conway, of the Peterborough branch store, was in charge of the exhibit, and very creditably arranged the exhibit. He was assisted by Mr. Robert Howland, the firm's hustling handy man, and by the well known Peterborough decorator, Mr. Alf. Kingscote. An interesting feature with Grafton's exhibit this year was the performance of two graphophones, in charge of Mr. Charles Munden. The exhibition grounds were ablaze with the attractive bulletin boards of the company.

Grafton & Company offered three special prizes at this fair, for the best three teams of general purpose horses, the horses, harness and wagon to be counted in awarding the prizes. The first prize was a $6 tweed suit; the second a $2.50 pair of worsted pants; the third, a $1.50 pair of tweed pants.

Harvey Fair Great Success; Big Crowds; Fine Exhibits

Peterborough People Attended Lakehurst Exhibition—Entries in Cattle Were Very Fine—Reflects Creditably Upon People of Harvey.

The annual Harvey Fair at Lakehurst yesterday was one of the most successful in the history of the organization. The attendance was very large, people being present from Peterborough, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Ennismore, as well as practically the whole population of Harvey. The weather conditions were perfect. The entries in every class were numerous, and the cattle shown were especially fine, some splendid Durhams being exhibited. In roots and fruits there were large entries and fine exhibits.

The fair was opened by Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., who referred in glowing terms to the agricultural prosperity of the county, and complimented the people of Harvey upon the success of the exhibition.

The Bobcaygeon band was present and rendered an enjoyable programme during the day. A programme of races was run off, affording much interest to the spectators.

Among those from Peterborough who were present were Messrs. Ed. M. Elliott, Geo. E. Elliott, and R. H. Leary, who acted as judges of horses; Miss Melville, who was a judge of ladies' work; Mr. G. W. Bonnett, Mr. R. R. Hall and Mr. W. H. Meldrum.

Wholesale Grocer To Retire From Business

It is Understood Mr. M. Carton is Going Out of Business—Has Been on Simcoe Street for Twelve Years—Mr. Chas. Richor His Successor.

Another important business change, it is understood, has taken place in the city. It is learned that Mr. M. Carton, wholesale grocer, Simcoe street, has disposed of his business to Mr. Charles Richor, formerly manager for T. Kinnear & Co., who have just erected a building on George street.

Mr. Carton has been in the wholesale grocery business for the past 12 years, having begun in 1894. Previous to that he kept a retail grocery store on George street, south of Charlotte. He is well known in the city as a successful business man, and it is understood, Mr. Carton will retire from active work. He has also been identified for a number of years with Mark street church, East City, where he is very well known.

The many grocerymen in the city who have been doing business with Mr. Carton will miss him greatly as well as those in the surrounding district.

McDonel Drain Will Give Trouble No More

Drain is Being Deepened and Cement Tile Will be Laid to Connect With Other at Bethune—Floods to be Eliminated in Future—Property Owners Jubilant.

The Board of Works Department have now a number of men engaged on the deepening of the southern end of the drain, which has caused so much trouble and loss to property owners on McDonel street, between Aylmer and Bethune streets, and on the latter. That portion of McDonel street on which the drain lies will be deepened about one foot, and cement tiles 24 inches in diameter will be laid to join the other at Bethune street, which has already been laid to the creek.

This will certainly make a noticeable improvement on the flow of water along the drain, which hitherto has, a couple of times a year, been impeded at the corner of Bethune and McDonel streets, and which has flooded the road in that section and also the cellars of the property owners who have suffered so much during the past few years.

It is possible that when the tile has been laid along McDonel street that the residents and property owners there will ask for a granolithic sidewalk, and it will then be possible to lay it down. It is a pretty street, and a new sidewalk would greatly enhance its appearance.

At any rate, the disastrous floods that have devastated so much the property in that section in the spring will be eliminated in future, a circumstance which will be most acceptable to the residents there.

District Convention Of The Methodist W. M. S.

Gathering Held Yesterday at Warsaw—Many Delegates Were Present From Peterborough Churches—The Programme.

The annual convention of the Peterborough district of the Woman's Missionary Society was held yesterday in the Methodist Church at Warsaw. Representatives were present from Bensfort, Fairmount, Lakefield, and George Street, Charlotte Street and Mark Street Methodist Churches, Peterborough. The contribution of the last three churches to the convention was fifty-one ladies, who drove out yesterday morning.

Mrs. Payne, of Warsaw, presided at the morning session, which was devoted to the receiving of reports from the auxiliaries and bands.

At the morning session reports were received from representatives of Auxiliaries, as follows: Peterborough, George street, Charlotte street and Mark street; Lakefield, Fairmount, Warsaw and Bethany; and the following sent in reports: Bailieboro, Bridgenorth, Millbrook, Bensfort. Cavan auxiliary was unrepresented. The reports of the three mission bands in the district were very encouraging.

A memorial service was held for members who had died during the year. These were Mrs. Samuel Russell, of Millbrook; Mrs. Cromper, of Lakefield, and Miss Smith, of Mark street; and Mrs. McClelland, of Bensfort.

On motion of Mrs. J. K. Moore, seconded by Mrs. (Rev.) Campbell it was decided to send a letter of condolence to Mrs. Kelly of Bridgeporth, on her bereavement, and Miss Munro in her illness.

The organizer, Mrs. Kilgour, of Peterborough, then gave a brief financial statement of the district for the year, as follows:

Number of auxiliaries, 12.
Number of Mission Bands, 3.
Membership of auxiliaries, 311, of which 14 are charter members.
Membership of Mission Bands, 193.
Total amount sent to Branch treasurer, $1084.99, and $176.52 was contributed to the Mission Bands.

The Easter thankoffering was $229.17, and the amount raised for the Silver Anniversay Fund was $152.94. Goods have been sent from Auxiliaries and bands to the amount of $250.

George street Auxiliary will be enriched by the addition of two life members, by a bequest of $100.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session was marked by the reading of some very interesting papers on mission work, which were listened to with close attention by the delegates. Mrs. W. Sterin, of Lakefield, read a splendid paper on "Our Mission Bands," dealing with ways in which they could be made more profitable and useful. The paper was discussed by the delegates.

Mrs. Jas. Kendry, of George Street Methodist Church, gave an excellent address on "China, and the Crisis in Japan," dealing with the topic in an intelligent manner that made it most interesting and profitable to the gathering.

Mrs. J. K. Moore, of Charlotte Street Church, read a paper on "The Need of Prayer in Our Work." Mrs. A. Morrow, of Peterborough, gave an interesting address upon "Our Progress in British Columbia." Mrs. Morrow was a missionary for the West for some time and thus is able to speak with authority on the conditions existing there and on the progress that has been made.

A question drawer, conducted by Mrs. (Rev.) A. R. Campbell, of Peterborough, was an interesting feature of the afternoon programme.

During the afternoon, Mrs. (Dr.) Douglas, of Warsaw, rendered a solo in excellent voice, and Mrs. Wasson and Mrs. Douglas were heard in a most enjoyable duet.

The ladies of the Warsaw church were most hearty in their hospitality an entertained their visitors most pleasantly. The two repasts served by them were triumphs of the culinary art.

The following ladies were present: Peterborough, George street, Mesdames Kendry, Pentland, A. Allison, D. Allison, Morrow, A. Morrow, Payne, Davis, Dormer, Stubbs, Lindsay, Long, S. A. Oke, Rutherford, Micks, Mann, A. R. Campbell, Wm. Mason, Thornton, Craig, Turner; Misses Rutherford and Sherin. The following went as visitors: Mesdames McGuire, Hutchinson, McClellan, Stewart and Miss Lumsden.

Charlotte street — Mesdames Kilgour, Manning, Moore, Lyle, Switzer, Storey, Carver, Thistlewaite.

Mark street — Mesdames Lewis, Taylor, Fowler, Speer, Sargeant, Carlie, Smiley, Matchett, Payne, Gamble and Miss Adamson.

Bethany—Mrs. Johnson.

Warsaw—Mesdames S. R. Payne, Douglas, W. Wason, U. Payne, J. Edwards, White, Saunders, Watts, Lynn, Newham, Brown, G. Taylor, Matthews, R. Crowe, Clements, Snider, A. Edwards, B. Payne, H. Payne and Misses Wason and Emma Payne.

Fairmount — Mrs. Howden (and Mrs. Hooton.

Dentist Leaving For Toronto

Dr. Bagshaw Will Leave Peterborough Next Week.

Dr. Bagshaw, who has been identified among the successful dentists of the city, leaves next week for Toronto, where he will continue in the same profession. He has been in Peterborough for about two and a half years, and leaves to the general regret of a large number of friends. They will however be pleased to learn of the doctor's success while here and hope for its continuance in his new field of labour.

His office in Toronto will be situated on Avenue Road.

OBITUARY

MRS. GEO. DUNSFORD

Word has been received in the city of the death in Llandudno, North Wales, of Clara Howard Gamble, relict of the late Geo. Dunsford, of Peterborough. The deceased left this city in June last to travel for her health in England and Wales. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Ellis, and was to have sailed for Canada on the 27th of September. She became seriously ill in Wales and grew steadily worse until her death occurred on Sept. 28rd. She had been ill for some years and it was in an effort to recover her health that she went abroad. She had suffered from heart disease for some time.

The deceased was one of the best known residents of Peterborough. She was born here and spent all her life in this city. She was a daughter of the late John Gamble well known to early residents of Peterborough, and was fifty-seven years of age. Since the death of her husband, Geo. Dunsford, a well known barrister, some years ago, the deceased has lived alone in her residence on Simcoe street, near the Bank of Montreal. She was active in church work, being a faithful member of St. John's church, among whose congregation she was well and favourably known.

There are no surviving relatives in this city. Two sisters and two brothers are left to mourn her loss. They are Mrs. Ellis, with whom she was travelling, Mrs. Rosborough, of Utica, N. Y.; David Gamble, in Bermuda, and Samuel, living in Illinois.

Interment will likely take place here and the remains will be brought by Mrs. Ellis, who is to sail on the Dominion Line steamer the Kensington.

Canon Davidson read a paper before the Alumni which was greatly appreciated. Canon Cody and Prof. Norman Andrews, of Brantford Conservatory of Music also contributed brilliant papers on the religious movements at present stirring Europe and the value of music in church services, respectively.

Team of Greys In Runaway

Mr. H. P. Kennedy's Delivery Wagon Slightly Injured.

About noon to-day the greys attached to Mr. H. P. Kennedy's delivery wagon ran away, doing some damage to the vehicle. They started at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte and were not captured until they reached Little Lake Cemetery on their way to Mr. Kennedy's farm in Otonabee.

The wagon was somewhat damaged but will be in commission again by to-morrow morning.

A COMMENDABLE ACTION

The action of the Official Board of the George Street Methodist Church, as reported in another column, in purchasing seats for the members of its choir for the concert of the Westminster Abbey Choir, in the Grand Opera House to-night, is entirely commendable for more reasons than one. In the first place, it argues an official appreciation of the services rendered by the choir, something which the average church choir does not always receive. The appreciation of congregations is, as a rule, too frequently expressed in the form of finicking criticism, patronising compliments and other delicate forms of attention. As a rule, choirs deserve a great deal more than they receive. No one knows, except those who have had experience, the sacrifice of time and pleasure, in other forms, which conscientious connection with a choir involves. If a choir does well, the congregation assumes the placid attitude of conceding that that is what it exists to do. If the least departure from perfection is made, then criticism, caustic, and not any too considerate, comes into play. To the average church choir is due a large degree of allowance. Necessarily, it can't be composed of finished vocal artists. The few capable and music-reading members are mixed up with others who have little knowledge of music—their equipment for their positions consisting largely of a natural tuneful talent, zeal, and love for the work, and interest in promoting the welfare of the church to which they belong, by assisting in the musical portion of the service. They improve the only talent they possess much more than many more-gifted pew-warmers do the more that is theirs. Choirs give their services for nothing but the reward of a duty done. Some cynics may say that that is sometimes abundant remuneration, but it is a mighty poor church choir that cannot do better than nine-tenths of the chronic fault-finders, who, from the vantage ground of the pew, offer frivolous and pin-pricking criticism. Church choirs should receive more consideration and credit than they receive, and the action of the church board, though, is a pleasure to say, it is not an isolated example of recognition, takes a form which, at the same time, involves a graceful recognition and confers a great and decided benefit. All musicians know the benefit of coming into contact with skilled musicians. The hearing of high-class music performed by finished artists is no unimportant part of a musical education; it is at once an inspiration and an instruction. A church choir, listening to such music as the Westminster Choir is able to present, cannot but be benefitted, and the church and congregation to which its services are given will reap the advantage. In the third place, the encouragement given to music of good quality is not the least important consideration. In the interests of music, it is the part of all lovers of pure music to encourage its use, if for no other purpose than to discourage the perilously popular, light and frothy rag-time juggling, with sound which is dignified with the name of music. It is only by aiming at high ideals and discouraging low ones that eminence in any sphere of human activity is achieved.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

That the wild ventures of the trustees of I.O.F. funds, successful in pulling off a profit, does not justify speculative exploitation of trust funds. Because a burglar succeeds in getting away safely with his swag," does not justify that form of making money. There are enough safe investments to remove any excuse for financial kite-flying.

The Hamilton newspapers are truly rural in their recriminative style of journalism. They are continually fighting with each other, on some subject, or no subject. Now they are "in holts," over the filtration system of their waterworks. This may or may not be out of joint, but one thing is certain, the style of language used by these journalistic brethren wouuld be considerably improved by filtration—and disinfection.

The Canadian Associated Press understands that a prominent Canadian who recently endeavoured to secure one thousand Scandinavian labourers for work in Canada, asked permission of the Scandinavian authorities to advertise. He was informed that the first advertisement of such kind that appeared he would find himself in jail.—Exchange.

That paragraph goes to explain, the Hamilton Times asserts, why the Government would not give away the names of the men who as the North Atlantic Trading Company had been conducting there a campaign of emigration to Canada. And the Conservative leaders, who made so much scandal about nothing, knew it full well.

ELECTION PROSECUTIONS IN ONTARIO.

Winnipeg Free Press.

With bye-election campaigns on in Ontario, the Attorney-General's Department of that province has brought cases against several men in London, on charges of corrupt practices in the interest of Hon. Mr. Hyman, the Dominion Minister of Public Works, in the Dominion election in London, in June of last year. The accused men are being brought before the police magistrate in Toronto, not in London, and a great hue and cry against them has already begun in the Conservative papers. Whatever may be the outcome of these prosecutions, the proceedings, so far, wear a familiar aspect from a Manitoba point of view.

The accused men may be guilty of the wrong-doing they are charged with. They are entitled to a fair trial, however, and to a suspension of judgment in the meantime. If the story of their alleged wrong-doing, which has been given to the public with such a flourish of trumpets at Toronto, proves true, they will be punished. But the truth, or the falseness of that story, cannot be ascertained, until after the bye-elections are over.

If the Whitney Government is taking a leaf out of the book of the present Government of this province, and making its department of justice a factor in politics, it will be well advised to consider how disastrously such tactics have resulted in Manitoba. The election prosecutions, instituted by the Attorney-General of this province, solely for political purposes, have done no harm except to those responsible for them. The Whitney Government is entitled to a suspension of judgment until the final disposal of these cases, but the time and the place and the manner of the springing of these cases upon public attention, give a certain ground, it must be admitted, for the presumption that the administration of justice is being subordinated in Ontario, as it was in Manitoba, to party purposes, even if it should turn out in Ontario as it did in Manitoba, that the prosecutions are founded on actual wrong-doing.

Northern Reach Of Trent Canal

Soon Ready for Navigation—Str. Sovereign Will Make First Trip Through it and Lift Lock

The northern reach of the Trent Canal from the Kirkfield lift lock is said to pass through a fine country, and is an excellent section of canal work. It is probable that its navigation qualities will soon be tested. While it is not expected that the steel lift lock at Kirkfield will be formally opened, it will, during this season, nevertheless, be available for navigation within a few days. It is probable that the steamer Sovereign carrying local canal officials will in a few days make the voyage through the waters leading to the new reach of canal and to Lake Simcoe. The town of Orillia is deeply interested in the opening of the canl and if the Sovereign extends her voyage to Orillia an open-arms reception will be extended.

Havelock Men Were In The Tweed Smash-Up

Had a Very Narrow Escape—Engine Badly Damaged in the Collision—Moving Exchange Office of the Bell Telephone Company.

Examiner Special

Havelock, Oct. 4.—What might have proved to be a very serious accident occurred at Tweed on Wednesday, when a special C. P. R. freight train collided with the way-freight. Both trains were coming up from Smith's Falls. The way freight, No. 566, which was in charge of Engineer Connor and Conductor Marks, had stopped on the main line at Tweed, when another west-bound freight, No. 683, in charge of Engineer Voyer and Conductor Green, crashed into the rear. As a result, four cars and a caboose, and also the front end of engine No. 683 was damaged. Fortunately no one was injured.

Miss Lila Mackey, formerly of Havelock, visited friends in town on her way to Chicago.

Mr. Dennis Mahoney, of Norwood, was in town Thursday on business.

Mrs. John Batison is visiting at her home in Millbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Christie, of Toronto, who have been for the past week at their summer cottage at Trent Bridge, fishing, returned to their home Thursday.

Mr. Jno. McMullen, Norwood, gave us a business call Thursday.

Mrs. Wm. Henderson, of Cordova Mines, is in Toronto visiting her daughters.

Miss Dot and Mr. Clarence Williams, Campbellford, visited their brother, Mr. Claude Williams, on Wednesday evening.

We are pleased to learn that Miss Maggie Marks, who was severely injured a few days ago by a kick from a horse, is able to be around again.

Mr. Simpson, of Campbellford, and Mr. Hampton, Deseronto, were in town on Thursday arranging for the removal of the Bell Telephone central from A. C. Denike's drug store to W. A. McMaster's dry goods store.

The Rev. J. H. Hector lectured at Victoria Church on Wednesday evening to a very large audience, and on Thursday evening he lectured at Round Lake Church, but owing to the inclemency of the weather the crowd was not quite so large as usual.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—As a rule I do not make a practice of finding falut with civic arrangements, but when I come within an ace of meeting with serious injury or perhaps death, I have very good grounds for registering a knock. Sunday evening with my little daughter I was crossing George street at McDonel, when I was almost run down by a horse driven at a furious pace by a couple of hoodlums. Now, Mr. Editor, there is a practice that is all too freely indulged in by many of the youth of the city. The police, it is true, cannot catch every offender, but they should take as many as they see, and the magistrate has no particular love for these offenders. If examples were made of a few of them there would soon be less cruelty to the poor animals, and less furious driving in the city's limits.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

THE DISCOVERER

Of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the Great Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement.

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles or such hosts of grateful friends as has

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacement, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life.

It has cured more cases of Backache and Local Weaknesses, than any other remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels tumors in an early stage of development.

Irregular, Suppressed or Painful Periods, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility quickly yield to it. Deranged organs causing pain, weight and backache, instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it invigorates the female system.

It quickly removes that bearing-down feeling, extreme lassitude, "don't-care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, dizziness, faintness, sleeplessness, flatulancy, melancholy or the "blues" and headache. These are sure indications of Female Weakness, or some derangement of the organs which this medicine surely cures. Chronic Kidney Complaints and Backache, of either sex, the Vegetable Compound cures.

Those women who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred thousand times, for they get what they want—a cure. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Refuse all substitutes.

"Body Snatching" at Lindsay

—There was a case of "body snatching" at the Grand Trunk station this morning. Some person was generous and kind enough to present "Friday" Madison with a genuine plump chicken. "Friday" placed it on the seat of the cab, but in an interval when the bird was left unguarded, someone else was unkind enough to rob the "coop." The bird was afterwards discovered secreted in another cab.—Lindsay Post.

The Famous Battle Creek Sanitarium Health Foods

—An opportunity is offered the citizens of Peterborough, who have not used them, to test the merits of several of these foods manufactured at the London factory of the Battle Creek Health Food Company. These foods, which are so thoroughly cooked and easily digested, are used extensively in the best sanitariums in America. Mr. E. A. Shoebotham, representing the London factory, is in the city calling on the grocery trade, with the following lines, viz.,— Granose Flakes, Granose Biscuit, Granola, and Cereal Coffee. The Granose Flakes and Biscuit are considered the most tempting and nourishing of all wheat food products, and the city house keepers will make no mistake in having a package of each on their order list for Saturday morning. These excellent goods all sell at 15c. per package.

Latest Purchase

Messrs. A. H. Stratton & Co. have purchased the wall paper stock of F. C. Cubitt, of "The Fair." As Mr. Cubitt has only been in business about one year, the stock is comparatively new. This stock of wall paper, over ten thousand rolls, was purchased at a flat price, which will enable us to sell wall, ceiling and border at the same price. To clear quickly this fall we will sell the whole stock at four prices, namely: 3c per roll, 5c per roll, 8c per roll, and 10c per roll; border and ceiling the same price. This is a splendid chance to fit up your home for the long winter evenings at a very small cost. Come early and be sure to bring the size of your rooms. The pretty designs and the prices are sure to make quick sales. A. H. Stratton & Co., 417 George street.

Will Discuss The New System

Mr. Larmonth Will Meet Fire, Water and Light Committee.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee will hold a meeting to-night when Mr. J. H. Larmonth, of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, will discuss the changes which the company proposes to make in the street lighting system.

The matter has been before the committee for some time and it is expected that some steps will be taken to-night to settle the question.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Oct. 5.—Bullish operations were conducted on a moderate scale in the stock market this morning, after which dullness took place, but with fairly good undertone and a mixture of sentiment. The belief is expressed in well-informed circles that a good bank statement will be reported to-morrow, and that the market will recognize its significance by improvement generally.

In the afternoon the buying woke up under the heavy buying of Steel common, thousands of shares of which were dealt in at rapidly advancing prices, carrying it to new high records. Copper was strong, and Reading advanced sharply on short covering. The general market became more active toward the close, with big advances in some issues between sales. General Electric rose five points, and Sloss 2 1-4. The closing was furiously active and strong at the best of the day.

COD LIVER OIL.

It almost makes you sick to think of it, but it isn't nearly as bad as it used to be. The improved method of refining it makes it much easier to take, and when made into Scott's Emulsion almost every one can take it. Most children like it and all children that are not robust are benefited by it. When the doctor says "Take cod liver oil," he generally means Scott's Emulsion; ask him if he doesn't. They know it is more easily digested and better than the plain oil.

Two Criminal Cases At Assizes

Alleged Burglar and Pickpocket Will Appear Before Justice Britton.

There are only two criminal cases before Mr. Justice Britton at the Fall Assizes which open next week.

Milburn Morrison, a Brockville young man will appear on a charge of pocket picking at the Peterborough Industrial Fair. Mr. D. O'Connell will appear for the prisoner. He was sent up for trial by Magistrate Dumble last Tuesday.

The other is Thorp, charged with burglarizing Mr. T. C. Elliott's store, the Bee Hive, a number of months ago, by forcing an entrance through the rear door.

Hotelkeeper Accused Of Telling Lies

Magistrate Said He Told Lies — While Giving Evidence.

MAY BE A PERJURY CHARGE

London Bribery Cases Present Additional Interest — Lewis Walked Into Court and Was Subjected to Lengthy Examination—His Journey to Detroit Is Questioned — Had Been In Other Elections.

Toronto, Oct. 5.—Accused of perjuring himself by reason of his many contradictions, Thomas Lewis, ex-hotelkeeper in London, and veteran of many elections, was the centre of interest in yesterday's proceedings against the men held on a charge of conspiracy and bribery in connection with the London bye-election of June, 1905. The examination of Lewis was a lengthy one, it being commenced before the adjournment for lunch and not concluded till nearly 6 o'clock.

He has been wanted as a material witness ever since the investigation was opened, but yesterday morning he walked into the court room of his own volition. Between last Friday, when the case was first begun, and Wednesday night Lewis had a trip to Detroit, and it was around this partly-explained journey that many of the questions revolved. So many different times were given concerning this trip and so incoherent was the testimony that Magistrate Denison was forced to ask the witness if he had been drinking. His inconsistencies were pointed out time after time, while it was adduced that he had done election work in other ridings besides London.

Did Not Connect Himself.

However, Lewis did not connect himself with any of the alleged illegal work in London, and nearly every imputation along this line was flatly denied. At the conclusion of the examination, which had been a strenuous one at the hands of Mr. Du Vernet, Lewis was much fatigued.

William Serviss, the discharged prisoner, was again in the witness-box, and reiterated much of his previous testimony.

Others gave evidence to the effect that they had received money for voting Liberal.

During yesterday's hearing many remarks were heard relevant to Mr. E. J. Sifton, whose name appears on the original information, and it was hinted by lawyers that they believed him to be out of the country.

It is said that Lewis may be charged with perjury, and, though taken into custody by the police yesterday because of being a material witness, who had not previously been at the hearing, was allowed out on bail. The investigation was adjourned a week.

MR. MARSHALL ELECTED.

East Elgin Returns a Conservative By a Majority of 77.

Aylmer, Oct. 5.—After one of the most hotly-contested fights in the political history of the riding, Mr. David Marshall is elected over Mr. Granville Haight, the Government candidate, by a majority of 119, with one poll in Yarmouth to hear from. Last night great crowds of people paraded the streets, cheering, blowing horns and in many other ways celebrating the victory. A meeting was held in the skating rink and speeches were made by the victorious candidate and others. Following is a summary:

Majorities for Marshall:
Port Stanley	18
Malahide	35
Bayham	62
Vienna	1
Aylmer	41
Total	157
Majorities for Haight:
South Dorchester	3

Three-Score Passengers Go Down With Ship

Capt. Clifton and 60 Passengers of the Charterhouse Lost.

EMIGRANT STEAMER SINKS

Voyaging From Hoihow to Hong Kong When She Foundered—Twenty-Three of the Crew of Two Women Picked Up by North German-Lloyd Steamer Kohsichang Had Been Adrift on a Raft For 43 Hours.

Hong Kong, Oct. 5.—The emigrant steamer Charterhouse, voyaging between Hoihow and Hong Kong, foundered off Hainan Head on Sept. 30, Capt. Clifton and 60 passengers were lost.

The North German-Lloyd steamer Kohsichang picked up a raft belonging to the Charterhouse, on which were Chief Engineer Dowce, twenty-three of the crew, and two women, after they had been drifting for 43 hours.

The home port of the steamer Charterhouse was Singapore. The steamer was built in Greenock, and flew the British flag. Her capacity was 1,278 net tons.

Texier the Sole Survivor.

L'Orient, France, Oct. 5.—The mate the sole survivor of the French steamer Coat-Coal, has been landed at Genoa. His name is Texier. He declares that after the vessel sank on the night of Sept. 15, the crew, numbering 13, clung to floating bits of timber. One by one their strength gave out, and they sank to their death. The Coat-Coal left L'Orient Sept. 15 for Newport, England, and was never heard from again.

Schooner Rams Ferry.

New York, Oct. 5.—Bowling along under full sail in a fine sailing breeze, the schooner Julia A. Berkle, yesterday struck the Long Island ferry boat Rockaway fair in the side. The schooners bowsprit tore through the wall of the woman's cabin, spreading terror among the women passengers. No one was injured, however, and the Rockaway quickly righted herself.

50 Dead In Pocahontas Mines.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 5.—A Times-Star special from Pocahontas, Va., says: "After 24 hours' work the rescuing party in the west mines of the Pocahontas Collieries Co., is nearing the point in the mine where the explosion took place. The officials are unable to determine how many men are caught, but the number is estimated at from 30 to 50."

Five Killed In Wreck.

Lansingburg, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Five passengers were killed outright and a score of others seriously injured in a rear-end collision between a regular passenger train and a military special on the Boston and Maine Railroad, three miles north of Troy, N. Y., yesterday.

Injured by Thresher.

Toronto, Oct. 5.—Leonard Vennicomb, 14 years old, was brought to the city from Snelgrove, Ont., last night suffering from severe injuries caused by a threshing machine. He was taken to St. Michael's Hospital.

Killed In an Elevator.

Toronto, Oct. 5.—Percy Hill, aged 25, a carpenters' laborer, had his neck broken by the weights of a passenger elevator on the thirteenth floor of the Traders' Bank building yesterday. Coroner Aikens will hold an inquest to-day. Hill and his wife lived at 5 Clarence square.

Falls From Steamer, Drowns.

Owen Sound, Oct. 5.—Robert Simpson, shed foreman of the C. P. R., was accidentally drowned Wednesday night somewhere in Owen Sound Bay, off the pleasure steamer Venettas. He was with a shooting party to Griffith Island, and fell off the stern of the boat.

RUSSIAN BOMBS AGAIN.

One Officer Killed, Another Injured and More Are Threatened.

Moscow, Oct. 5.—Capt. Dziankowsky, who was shot and killed in a street here Wednesday, was assassinated in pursuance of a sentence of the revolutionists.

He was the commander of a company of the Pernova Regiment, which, on Aug. 16, killed two political prisoners during an outbreak among the political offenders confined in the central prison of Moscow.

Several members of drumhead courts-martial have also been sentenced to death by the revolutionists.

Governor of Simbirsk Wounded.

Simbirsk, Province of Simbirsk, Russia, Oct. 5.—Gen. Starynkewitch, governor of Simbirsk, had a narrow escape from assassination yesterday. A bomb was thrown at him, wounding him in the hand and leg. His injuries are not fatal.

Will Sell Estate to Peasants.

Pavlograd, Province of Yekaterinoslav, Russia, Oct. 5.—Count Vorontzoff-Dashkoff, viceroy of the Caucasus, has offered to sell his estate here to the peasants, with the proviso that the allotments shall not be less than ten acres to each purchaser. The estate consists of 80,000 acres.

G. T. R. Employes Sue C. P. R.

Goderich, Oct. 5.—As a sequel to the railway trouble at the harbor, three Grand Trunk employes have issued writs for damages against the C.P.R. people.

W. Hanna has entered suit against the Guelph and Goderich Railway, Mr. Peterson and Mr. Roberts, for unstated damages, for assault, imprisonment and malicious prosecution.

Wm. Purcell and D. Conway claim $5,000 damages from the same defendants for malicious arrest and prosecution.

THE POPE'S PROPHECY.

Delegate's Report On Condition in Canada Is Most Satisfactory.

Rome, Oct. 5.—The Pope yesterday received in private audience Monsignor Donato Sbarretti, the apostolic delegate in Canada, who arrived here Wednesday.

The Pope was most satisfied at the delegate's report on the condition of the church in Canada.

After hearing the Canadian representative give an account of the great progress of Catholicism in Canada, the Pope remarked that the time was approaching when the whole of North America would be mainly Catholic in religion.

Archdeacon Was A Guest

Rev. Mr. Warren, of Lakefield at Toronto Reception.

The Toronto Star of last night said: A reception was held last night for Alumni and students of Wycliffe College by Dr. and Mrs. O'Meara. A most enjoyable evening was spent. All lovers of music appreciated the musical programme rendered by Rev. E. C. Earp, Mr. Geddes, and some of the students from Havergal College, after which refreshments were served from a table prettily decorated with flowers. Some of those present were Dr. and Mrs. Hoyles, Archdeacon and Mrs. Sweeny, the Rev. Floyd Tomkins, Canon Dixon, the Rev. Mr. Vance, Canon Cody, Prof. Wrong, Mr. and Mrs. William Boyd, Rev. Bernard, Archdeacon Warren (Lakefield) Prof. Pitcher, Miss Knox, Miss Naatel, Dr. and Mrs. Millman, Mr. and Mrs. Stapleton Caldecott, and many others.

The Independent 'Phones Installed

East and West Durham Lines Now Connected.

The Independent lines of East Durham were connected with those of West Durham on Monday of this week. The new instruments are giving the best of satisfaction. Arrangements are being made as fast as possible to have instruments in the homes of all who are fairly well to do. This will probably mean between 100 and 200 in the township of Hope alone, as the price does not stand in the way.—Port Hope Times.

To Inspire High Ideals In Young People To-day

This Was the Keynote of Address by Rev. Dr. O'Brien Given to Lindsay Catholic Literary Society—A Prosperous and Flourishing Organization.

In connection with the annual meeting of the Catholic Literary Society in Lindsay, held on Wednesday night, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, of this city was present and gave an address, on topics of interest to members of the Society. The Lindsay Post, referring to it says:—

The chairman then called upon Rev.

REV. DR. O'BRIEN, Who Addressed Lindsay Catholic Literary Society.

Dr. O'Brien, whose phenomenal success in society work in Peterborough increased the eagerness of all to hear him. The reverend doctor held the attention of his audience by the forcible and convincing manner of his address and the eminently practical tenor of his remarks. "Be a man and do something," "Choose a calling in life and labour to succeed in it," was the substance of his advice to the young men. In order to be a man one must form correct ideas of what manliness consists of. One must learn the dignity of Christian manhood—you will hear nothing conducive to your present or future happiness, from the lips of those who frequent the saloons, the pool rooms or the street corners, but rather in a society such as this, which, being under the auspices of the church, develops in the young men's minds truly Christian ideas, and wards off the ostacles that would interfere with the building up of a manly character. In order to succeed you must choose a vocation and direct your energies towards success in that particular line.

The young man who shifts his energy from one object to another will never succeed in anything. In order to succeed you must work. All those who have made a success of life have been workers. Talent counts only in conjunction with work — without application a talented man will at best achieve only spasmodic success. Save your money; it is the product of the energy of the body and mind that God has given you, and to squander it even on innocent pleasure is a sin. Without thrift you will not succeed. Some young men say the town is no good—that one cannot save money here. The fault is not in the town, but in themselves. They do not know the value of money. They do not respect that money which represents God's natural gifts to them. You may look as wise as Socrates, but if you have not made a success of your business the world will not listen to your wisdom. It listens to the man that has made a success of his own calling.

The annual election of officers took place and the Society is on a good footing for the season's work.

Elopment Story Was All A Bad Mistake

Christopher Carter Only Went to Toronto to Look for a Position—He Neglected to Tell His Wife and She Thought He Had Eloped.

It appears that it wasn't an elopement, after all. Christopher Carter, whose wife told the police that he had left town, she feared, with another woman, and who solicited the help of the department to locate him, is again in the city, and says it was all a mistake. He was out of the city, it is true, and it is equally true that he went without telling his wife that he was going, which fact, of course, accounted for her anxiety.

As proof of the fact that he was not eloping, Mr. Carter presented himself at The Examiner office this morning, and stated that he had gone to Toronto to look for a situation and did not tell his wife that he was going, because, he said, she would not have allowed him to go had she known of his intentions. The next time he leaves the city, however, he will advise her of his movements to prevent her from reporting to the police that he has eloped.

The information published in The Examiner yesterday was based on Mrs. Carter's statements to the police, but, fortunately, she was mistaken as to her husband's intentions.

Confirms Mr. FitzGerald's Report Of New Ontario

Haliburton Man Who Has Surveyed Ten Townships in Northern Part of the Provinces Tells of Their Agricultural Qualities—G. T. P. Line Passes Through Them, Too.

Mr. J. W. FitzGerald's report on the value of the Northern Ontario townships so far as the presence of agricultural land is concerned is verified by the statements of Mr. Alex. Nevin, of Haliburton, who was in Toronto on his way home from the north. Mr. Nevin who had charge of a government survey of the outlines of ten large townships in the northern clay belt between the Missinaibie river and the Mattagami river in the district of Algoma, reports that nearly every acre of the territory, which consists of 1,600 square miles or over one million acres is agricultural land of good quality. The country, generally, is rolling, with an occasional muskeg, and the soil a rich clay loam, with some areas of sandy loam. The timber is the largest Mr. Niven has yet encountered in his surveys in Northern Ontario. It is chiefly black and white spruce, the latter averaging from sixteen to thirty inches in diameter, and being suitable for lumbering.

The survey for the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway passes through the new townships.

Neighbours Come To Blows And Lively Fight Ensues

A Garden Hill Farm the Scene of Feud Between Two Families—Pitchforks a Means of Offence and Defence.

Campbelcroft, a farm near Garden Hill, on the C.P.R., was the scene of a neighbourly scrap between Mr. Thos. Stevenson and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, which came into court, the former being the plaintiff. Mr. Stevenson has a farm rented from Mr. Wilson, and not long ago he was at his home waiting for a man who was coming to buy a cow from him. Mr. Wilson happened to be passing and ordered him to keep the cow in the field behind the house. On the plaint ff's refusing to do this, Mr. Wilson struck him and threw him to the ground, while he did not strike Wilson with a stick he had at the time. Mrs. Stevenson gave similar evidence to that of her husband, adding that she procured a heavy poker and took a hand in the melee. However, she was soon put hors de combat by Wilson, with the assistance of his wife and children. The fight then became general. It resembled a McGill-Queen's scrimmage, except for the skirted participants. Everyone was in the game with hands and feet, kicking, scratching and pulling. Stevenson and his wife were getting the worst of the bout, and decamped, the woman shouting, "I will take your heart out and show it to you." Magistrate Holland advised them to become friends again, and on their agreeing to do this he allowed them to go, Mr. Wilson having to pay the costs of the case.

A Sterling Investment

Business Chances Which Bring 100 Cents on the Dollar.

In the past few years the commercial world had had practical demonstration of the good judgment of business men who buy high-class goods.

In Saskatoon recently a merchant sold his stock at 100 cents on the dollar, and the chief reason the buyers ascribed for paying the price was that the seller had the Slater Shoe Agency. A franchise for the exclusive handling of the Slater Shoe is a valuable asset. The Slater Shoe stock usually brings a premium, and would have done so in this case but for the fact that other goods of shrinkable value were in the stock. R. Neill, exclusive agent, Peterborough.

WEDDING BELLS

ORDE—EDWARDS

Special to the Examiner

Keene, Oct. 5.—Mr. John Edwards' home, Lang, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday evening, when his daughter, Jennie Edwards, was united in marriage to Mr. Leonard Orde, of Otonabee. Rev. D. D. McDonald, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Keene, officiated. Mr. L. Mather acted as groomsman, while Miss Mabel Dickson, cousin of the bride, was maid of honour. After the ceremony the guests to the number of about sixty, sat down to a charming wedding breakfast. The bride was the recipient of numerous costly and useful presents. The happy couple will spend their honeymoon at Young's Point. They will reside in Peterborough.

COLLERY—REX

A quiet wedding was solemnized last evening at 7 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Wm. Brown, Mark street, when Miss Mary E. Rex, daughter of Ezra Rex, Peterborough, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. John R. Collery, also of this city. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few friends by Rev. J. G. Lewis. The bride was attended by Miss Mary J. Beaman and the groom by Mr. Jas. Rex, a brother of the bride. They will reside in Peterborough.

Few Orders For Canadian Cheese

A Lull in the Trade Reported From Montreal.

The Montreal Star in its Review of the cheese situation in that city said yesterday:—

The market showed no change this morning. There is not very much going on, and dealers report very few orders from the other side. In the country yesterday as high as 13c was reported paid, but merchants here declare this was not the case, 12 3-4c being the top figure at the market referred to. Woodstock makes the somewhat unexpected report that the make there is heavy.

Prices here are steady at 12 3-4c to 12 7-8c for Quebec makes, 13c for Townships and 13 1-8c to 13 1-4c for Ontarios.

Receipts reported on the Board of Trade were 14,720 boxes.

Two Fawns Passed Through The City

Appears Like a Breach of the Game Laws.

The Examiner is informed that a wagon containing two fawns passed down through the city this morning. Where they came from or where they were being taken has not been learned, but at any rate the fawns were dead, presumably shot. If this is the case a breach of the game laws has been committed as the hunting season for deer does not begin until November 1st.

The vehicle containing the fawns was seen going down Aylmer street.

Pickpockets At Port Hope Fair

A Welcome Farmer Relieved Of $12.

Mr. Thomas Martin, of Welcome, had his money removed from his pocketbook on the Port Hope fair grounds Wednesday afternoon while unloading pigs for the purpose of exhibiting. Mr. Martin left his coat on the ground and one of those fellows who are always looking for opportunities of this kind, removed the purse from the inside pocket of the coat. On missing the purse Mr. Martin at once commenced a search and he found it near the grandstand but the twelve long greens were missing.

PRAISE FOR THE WORK OF A PETERBOROUGH ARTIST

The following paragraph from the Toronto Saturday Night, refers to the artistic triumphs of a lady well known in Peterborough. The fact may not be generally appreciated that admission to the Paris Salon represents the hall-mark of genius:

"Young Canada's voice is beginning to be heard and heeded all over the world. Sometimes one find him or her working sturdily and steadily, 'pursuing the gleam,' and catching it or the inspiration of it. A Canadian girl in Paris, Miss Katherine E. Wallis, has for the past two or three years done her art and country proud by passing the critics in triumph, and securing a place for her sculpture in the Salon des Artistes Francais. In the Salon of 1904 her life-size stone statue, 'Mercury under the Charm of his Own Invention,' was the exhibit of the young Canadian. In this year's Salon she has a bust in marble, 'August's Daughter;' her bust in marble 'Mignonne,' was in the Royal Academy in 1903, and is now at the rooms of the Woman's Art Association, in the Confederation Life Building here. I believe that Miss Wallis is the only Canadian sculptor who has exhibited in marble or stone in the Salon. Among other things are 'The Piper of Hamelin,' a graceful bronze, fourteen inches high, and a bit of terra cotta ten inches high, 'The Grandfather,' a bowed, little old man, in a long surtout and soft battered hat, riding a chubby, barefooted child upon his back. It would be a worthy act for those in high places to secure the 'Mercury' of this clever young sculptress, and set it somewhere in her native land, where her compatriots could admire it. The greatest pleasure Canadians could give to their talented people abroad is such a recognition."

As the French say, Miss Wallis has "arrived," and the Examiner's congratulations are heartily tendered her, and also Peterborough, as being the birthplace and home of an artist who is winning such flattering distinction.

WHAT CAUSES DANDRUFF.

Greatest European Authority on Skin Diseases, Says It's a Germ.

The old idea that dandruff is scales of skin thrown off, through a feverish condition of the scalp is exploded. Prof. Unna, Hamburg, Germany, European authority on skin diseases, says dandruff is a germ disease. The germ burrows under the scalp, throwing up little scales of cuticle, and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root. The only hair preparation that kills dandruff germs is Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Not only cures dandruff, but stops falling hair and permits a luxuriant growth. Delightful hair dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Adjusted The Fire Insurance

On the Omemee Presbyterian Manse—Other News From That Village.

Examiner Special.

Omemee, October 3rd. — The village is quite lively with visitors, and many have returned to boating, fishing and shooting.

The health of the village is good.

The loss by fire at the Presbyterian manse, was satisfactorily adjusted by Inspector Power, of the Insurance Department. He gave great praise to the heroic efforts used in saving the body of the manse and the church adjoining.

Misses Curry and Stephenson made a very pleasant visit to Peterborough and were the guests of Rev. Mr. Langfeldt and Miss Kincaid.

Dr. Nugent's lecture before the W. F. M. S. proved very interesting and profitable to all. He said if any one ever sought this avocation thinking that it was an easy task, they had better abandon the idea of ever engaging in missionary work. The lecturer and Mrs. Nugent had an experience of seven years in providing for the wants and needs attaching to famine and plague stricken individuals.

There are many going to the Millbrook Fair from this place.

Major and Mrs. Neill are here for a short time after spending the summer holidays at Rosedale. They intend residing in Toronto.

The Peterborough show was better attended from this neighbourhood than in former years, and the general opinion was that it was a decided improvement on former years.

Mr. J. Weir, cheesemaker, captured several prizes for his colts.

HUNTERS' EXCURSIONS

The fact that the C. P. R. line runs for so many miles through ideal hunting lands, where moose and deer and smaller game galore wax fat, and await the advent of fall and the accompanying guns and dogs, is, of course, the principal reason why, about this time of year, the enthusiastic sportsman turns to the well-known yellow-covered folder, and studies time-tables and maps so industriously. Hunters' excursions are around again, and single fare will soon be the order of the day. The C. P. R. announces that from October 9th to November 6th return tickets to all stations on their main line, Mattawa to Port Arthur, and Mattawa to Temiskaming and Kipawa, will be on sale at single fare, and from October 25th to November 6th, tickets at the same low rate to stations on the Lindsay branch, stations between Sudbury and the Soo and Havelock, and Sharbot Lake. All tickets will be good to return until December 8th, with stop-overs allowed anywhere. Special steamship rates to the Soo and Port Arthur will also be in effect. Intending hunters should make a point of calling at the nearest C. P. R. ticket office for further information and for copies of "Fishing and Shooting," "Sportsman's Map," and "Open Seasons and Game Laws," all of which are of particular interest and use to sportsmen, and are free for the asking. C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C. P. R., Toronto, will gladly mail them to any address, if difficulty is experienced getting copies. 3d81

Millbrook Fair Attracts Crowds

Train Was Overcrowded--People Clinging to Railings.

The Millbrook Fair, like that of Keene, Lakefield, Lindsay, and of other small places, attracted a large number of Peterborough people. It is a queer occurrence that such large crowds like in these fairs and enjoy themselves so well, when at Peterborough there is not half as much enthusiasm displayed. The regular noon train to Port Hope was late when it arrived at the local station, and the coaches were filled to their utmost capacity, the stations along the line contributing their quota of Fair people. One of the coaches of the Lakefield train was attached, but this was hardly sufficient. With the addition of the Peterborough crowd, every corner of the train was filled. There were some even on the bottom steps, and had another coach been added, the seating even then would have been but comfortable.

Quite a number drove from the city to Millbrook, and altogether, that little village will be flooded with strangers to-day. It has always had the reputation of providing a good fair with any amount of fun, and thus it is well patronized.

PREPARATIONS FOR ST. JOHN'S TEA

Favourable answers have been received from a large proportion of those invited to the complimentary tea to be given by St. John's congregation on Tuesday next, and from present appearances, it will be an important gathering of representative Peterborough citizens connected with the different churches of the city.

Distinguished guests from a distance will include Mr. E. J. B. Pense, M.P.P., of Kingston, proprietor of the Whig, Frank E. Hodgins, K. C., and N. F. Davidson, of Toronto; Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., Belleville, late of the George street church, and probably Hon. Geo. A. Cox, Toronto.

The subject for discussion during the evening will be "How can the Church best Serve the Community?"

A DELIGHTFUL WINTER RESORT

It is announced that this year the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's fine hotel at Caledonia Springs, Ont., will be kept open for accommodation of visitors all winter. The company has great faith in Caledonia Springs as an all-year-round resort, something better than a mere summering place, and this action will without doubt be appreciated by many people to whom the Springs have been hitherto closed more than half the year, owing to the lack of accommodation. 3d80

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

'TWIXT DUTY AND INTEREST

Position Into Which Ex-Minister of Finance Is Forced by Mr. Shepley of Insurance Commission—Short Land Measure From Pope and Fowler —Witness of Day et al Made 50 Cents An Acre on the Sale.

Toronto, Oct. 5.—Mr. Foster was called to the box when the Insurance Commission resumed yesterday morning.

Witness told the story of the disposal of 8,640 acres of land which had been held by the Union Trust Co. in trust for Pope & Fowler, to the Great West Land Co., at $5 per acre. The syndicate bought the 8,640 acres of land but did not know, nor did not enquire, where Pope and Fowler got the option, beyond the fact that they had the option from the C. P. R. There was no idea that the land was included in the original option of 200,000 acres.

Mr. Shepley read the option and pointed out that the 200,000 acres were not scheduled and set out, but were to be selected from a large area. Witness could not agree, claiming that Pope and Fowler got a definite fixed number of acres, all scheduled and laid out.

Counsel wanted to know if the witness knew that these lands were originally rejected in the first selection. Mr. Foster answered in the negative. The purchase was made for the Great West Land Co. by George E. Foster as the agent at the advance of $1 an acre to the syndicate, who would in turn hand the lands over at an advance of 50 cents per acre to the company.

All parties in the Union Trust Co. and the Great West Land Co., according to the witness, were aware that the syndicate was making 50 cents an acre. The directors' report, however, showed that these lands were bought at $5 per acre.

That Dual Position.

Mr. Shepley again pointed out the dual position held by Messrs. Foster, McGillivray and Wilson in this deal. They were the agents of the Great West Land Co., the executive of the Great West Land Co., and at the same time making money on the deal. Mr. Foster recognized this.

In answer to the counsel, Mr. Foster said he did not know that Sir John Boyd was aware of the facts, but Mr. Schofield was.

Mr. Foster said that he had never had any deal with Pope and Fowler in regard to these lands.

Mr. Pope had said that there were three of them in the deal, and Mr. Shepley asked Mr. Foster if he knew who the third party was.

"It might have been the syndicate," he suggested. He (witness) would not have gone into the deal if he had known these were discarded lands.

"The lands," continued Mr. Foster, "were presented for sale. Our interest demanded that we should see that they were worth the money, but our interest ended there."

Duty vs. Interest.

"Do you see any conflict between duty and interest?"

"How?"

"In taking up the option from Pope and Fowler and passing it along at a profit?"

"Well, theoretically there may be a conflict between interest and duty, if we had an interest in these lands we had an interest in their being worth the money given for them. As far as getting the lands, they were reasonable in price and quality. The interest we had and the interest the Great West Land Co. had were the same."

Counsel dissected the price paid, witness assisting him. Eight thousand three hundred and twenty dollars was to be given in stock and $34,880 in cash; $12,960 was the gross profit for the two syndicates. Pope and Fowler got all the cash and the Foster syndicate got the stock.

The next phase of the matter was the readjustment on the basis of the 200,000 acreage. All the money that had been paid in the selection of Pope and Fowler had been paid by the Great West Land Co. The total acreage sold by Pope and Fowler was 193,197 acres. There had been no accounting of the differences. The stock itself had never been adjusted, certain reasons for which were advanced by the witness.

A Hard Question

The Great West Land Co. had paid to Pope and Fowler just the same as to the C. P. R. Witness understood that Pope and Fowler had given all the land defined in the schedule.

"Are you aware that Pope and Fowler did not transfer to the Great West Land Co. all the lands selected by the C. P. R. option?"

Mr. Foster could not answer the question. He insisted that he and the counsel were at cross purposes, and refused to answer a question he did not understand.

Mr. Shepley traced the matter from the beginning and repeated his question five times, when finally Mr. Foster admitted that at the outset he had understood it was the whole selection, but since then he had indefinite knowledge that this had not been done.

"You are surprised to hear that they were retaining some of these lands for their own use?"

"I did not know."

"Yes and No."

"Were the additional 8,640 acres turned over with the view of making up the quantity which they were not able to hand to you out of the selected lands?" asked Mr. Shepley.

"Yes, and no. After comparing schedules we came to the conclusion we had not the 200,000 acres. We found it would not amount to 200,000 acres and the 8,640 might be taken because we wanted 200,000 acres."

Mr. Shepley read a deposition of Mr. Lefurgey, showing that Pope and Fowler bought 208,000 acres, and after giving 193,000 to the Great West Land Co., and the 8,640, they still had left 6,000 acres.

"Did you know this?"

"No."

"Are you surprised?"

"I won't express an opinion."

Mr. Foster stated that he had no interest in these lands, or any lands bought by Pope and Fowler from the C. P. R. at any time.

"Are you able to say that the Great West Land Co. got all they paid for?"

Mr. Foster explained that he thought the company had all they were entitled to.

"You paid the C. P. R. for 200,000 shares?"

"Yes."

Minutes Unsigned.

Mr. Shepley turned his questions to the connection of the Union Trust Co. with the transaction up to the time of the mortgage. Mr. Foster said he advocated the holding of stock as security, but Mr. Stevenson had favored a first mortgage.

"My impression," said Mr. Foster, "is that Mr. Stevenson wanted to be rid of stock transactions absolutely, bonus stock as well as the ordinary stock, but if Mr. Stevenson says he wished to retain the bonus stock, I would not contradict him. Whatever the Foresters' representatives wanted was carried out."

Mr. Shepley called the attention of the witness to the minutes of the Union Trust. The minutes of Nov. 7, 13 and 28 were not signed. On Nov. 13 Mr. Stevenson was credited with moving the resolution authorizing the company to enter into the contract. Mr. Foster said Mr. Stevenson, as vice-president, was in the chair at the meeting on Nov. 13. He did not consider it unusual for the chairman to move a resolution. He said Mr. Stevenson had left the next day for England, and hence the minutes had not been signed.

"The contract," Mr. Fowler said, "was entered into on the initiative of the Foresters and without any insistence by us. Instead of a stock partnership as at first agreed, they changed to a first mortgage. My opinion of that is that you can't have your cake and eat it, too. Under the preceding contract, if there had been any loss, the Union Trust Co. would have had to shoulder its share of the loss, according to the stock. Mr. Stevenson, to prevent this, took first mortgage, thus having the whole security, while the loss, if any, would fall on the stockholders."

Stock Assignments.

The examination was resumed in the afternoon.

Mr. Shepley took up the assignments in the stock books. One was found to be for 340 shares, made to Matthew Wilson, in trust for the syndicate. It was signed by George E. Foster. The other certificate, 237 shares, was also assigned to Wilson in trust, signed by Foster, and neither stamped the Union Trust Co.

The agreement of the surrender of the bonus stock was taken up. It was signed for the trust company by McGillivray and Foster and for the Great West Land Co., by Wilson and Foster.

A meeting of the shareholders of the Union Trust was held shortly after to carry out the transfer. Counsel took exception to the notice sent out calling the meeting, claiming that it did not recite the reasons for the meeting, nor anything about bonus stock.

"Is there anything in your notice giving the shareholders any idea that they were about to give away some of their property for nothing?"

"I did not make out the notice."

Put It Through Fast.

At the meeting of the directors of Dec. 11, at which were present Sir John Boyd, Matthew Wilson, McGillivray, Davidson and the witness, Matthew Wilson explained the agreement of the surrender, but witness could not swear that the documents were read. Both Dr. Oronhyatekha and Mr. Stevenson were away from home, and Mr. Shepley pointed out that the shareholders present were the syndicate and two others.

At the same hour the shareholders of the Great West met. The same were present, and in addition, Schofield, Vandusen, L. Gregory and the Union was represented by proxy.

Mr. Shepley asked if the witness was aware that the Union Trust Co. were about to undo the transaction. Witness was. Mr. Shepley asked what Mr. Foster's attitude toward that matter.

Mr. Foster did not intend to give it up without a fight. The Union Trust Co. and the syndicate were abundantly able to take care of themselves.

"Did you hear Dr. Oronhyatekha swear that he held that stock in trust for the Union Trust Co.?"

"Yes."

"What is your attitude in that case?"

"The same attitude."

"Who signed Dr. Oronhyatekha's name to the original transfer?"

"Mr. Davies, an official of the Foresters."

Oronhyatekha's Stock.

"What had the Foresters to do with that?" asked Mr. Shepley. "How did you assume to deal with that 100 shares of stock standing in the doctor's name by a transfer without his knowledge?"

"It was carrying out the agreement."

"An agreement to which the doctor had not part?"

"The Union Trust Co. was under agreement; it was understood that both of the blocks were——"

"Who represented the bonus stock side of the question?"

"Mr. Stevenson represented the bonus stock."

"Why was the matter not submitted to him?"

"Because he was on the water."

"Why did you not wait until he came back?"

Mr. Foster said that it was to be completed before the end of the year.

"Was there any necessity of haste?"

"We wanted to carry out the agreement."

"Who handed the stock over to Matthew Wilson? Were you going to pledge the stock?"

"Oh, no."

Foster Won't Cough Up.

"You went ahead and kept the Foresters in the dark. You and your associates have the stock, and got it in a way that was irregular, and yet you refuse to give it back?"

"I did not say that, Mr. Shepley. I may compromise."

Mr. Foster was connected with a company called the Eastern and Western Land Co. C. E. Scott is the secretary of that company, and he was a director.

Mr. Shepley dissected the minute books of this company. One minute took up the purchase of 6,500 acres at $5.75 per acre. Counsel wanted to know if the Pope and Fowler proposition was over before the Eastern and Western Land Co., when the transaction was being put through. Witness answered in the negative.

From his brief report of a letter from Mr. Fowler concerning the purchase of land from Pope and Fowler by the Eastern and Western Land Co., witness gave a hazy answer that it was leading up to a purchase. He did not know of it.

Mr. Shepley took up other letters.

More Companies.

This brought out the fact that the board of the Eastern and Western Land Co. sold to the Union Trust Co., or tried to sell, certain lands and Mr. Foster was to negotiate for both companies. This brought out the dual position again, and Mr. Shepley pointed out the conflict between interest and duty.

Mr. Foster said the interest was too small, and that he was doing his duty to both companies.

Mr. Shepley kept on. He lead the ex-Finance Minister through statement after statement proving definitely that Foster was the accredited agent of both companies, and the witness coolly evaded the matter and said his duty was nothing more than to lay the proposition exactly as it was before the Union Trust Co.

"Had you any more interest in the Union Trust Co. than in the Eastern and Western Land Co.?"

"I—don't—know—that—I—had," murmured Mr. Foster.

"Then you don't see you had a duty to urge the sale on one side, and a duty to criticise on the other?" asked Mr. Shepley.

"I can't see it that way."

Charged 50 Cents Advance.

The agreement was read regarding the purchase of township No. 44 from Mr. Foster by the Union Trust Co. Mr. Shepley did not understand the terms of the contract. Witness explained that the price charged was $5.75, or 50 cents advance; that the Eastern and Western Land Co. bought it for. They had gone to all the expense in getting the proposition in shape, and hence got the advance in price. But when the terms were made the Eastern and Western were to receive interest on the original price, viz., $5.25 on the bonus or one-sixth cash and the balance on time.

Some weeks after Irwin dropped out of the Kamloops deal. Foster and Fowler had a conversation about the transaction. Witness was anxious to get in the company, but had not the money. Fowler said he would sell some of his stock, but nothing was done at that time. Some time afterward the matter was spoken of again, and then it was left so that if witness wanted stock at any time Fowler would give it to him.

Kamloops Again.

In the meantime Fowler would hold the shares for witness and when he could pay it he could get it at par. This was in the summer of 1904, and when certain investments came in Mr. Foster got Mr. Fowler to draw up papers and hand him the stock.

Mr. Shepley hinted that Mr. Foster should have got Wilson to advance him money to get in on this good thing. Mr. Foster's voice became weak.

"I don't think you ought to taunt a man with his 'poverty'."

Mr. Shepley then pointed out that this was the year Mr. Foster got the loans from Mr. Fowler. Witness said nothing.

The written agreement declaring George E. Foster the real owner of 300 shares of Kamloops Lumber Co., was read by Mr. Shepley. In the meantime, however, Mr. Foster was to be the trustee of Fowler until the money ($30,000) was paid over.

Mr. Foster stated at this juncture that Mr. Stevenson never challenged him about having stock in the Kamloops Co. at any time. He first told Mr. Stevenson that he had this shadowy interest in Fowler's stock. His stock in the company, and Mr. Fowler's stock had been surrendered to the Union Trust Co.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

City League Schedule Has Been Arranged

First Game Will be Played on October 13th—Three Teams Will Compete for the Honours—No O. R. F. U. Players Allowed.

A meeting of the City League was held last night in the Examiner office, when there were present J. E. Sullivan and P. Fitzgerald of the Quakers; L. M. Watson, of the Bankers and G. Armstrong and J. Dixon of the C. G. E. team and secretary Craig.

Some discussion took place as to the advisability of allowing O. R. F. U. players to play in the City League. It was decided to allow no one who has ever played in the O.R.F.U. to play in the City League. Exceptions to this rule will probably be made in the cases of Quinlan and McGrath, neither of whom have played many league games.

It was decided that in case a City League player should advance into senior company, he will be allowed to return to the City League provided he does not play more than one game in the senior series.

Owing to the lateness of the season it will not be possible to play a double schedule and the following was adopted:—

October 13th—Bankers vs. Quakers.
October 20th—Quakers vs. C. G. E.
November 3rd—C. G. E. vs. Bankers.

Team Selected For The Big Game With Tigers

The Twelve That Will Meet the Mountaineers To-morrow—Hamilton Will be Here With a Big Bunch of Supporters.

The Peterborough team had another good practice in the rink last night and have their signals and team work in shape for to-morrow's big game. The back division was out for over an hour in the rain yesterday afternoon, practising punting and catching. The following line up has been selected:—

Back—Mulhern.
Halves—Gillespie, McWilliams, Ford.
Quarter—Easton.
Snap back—Capt. Hurtubise.
Inside wings—Craig, Leclaire.
Middle wings—Regan, Meagher.
Outside wings—Crowley, Crough.
Spares—Dillon, Quinlan, Carmichael.

Gilbert is suffering from a bad knee and will be out of the game to-morrow.

The team is in the best of shape and will put up a great fight against the big and fast Tigers whose reputation is enough to make the average team take to the woods. They have their signals working splendidly and are in physical condition to stand the gait.

The game will start at 2.45, sharp, and there should be the biggest crowd on hand that ever watched a game in Peterborough. The Tigers will arrive shortly after noon on a special train and with the new organized Hog Trust—that is to say, the Rooters' Club.

Wear your colours, get a megaphone and make all the noise you can. The team needs financial and other support.

The Hamilton Tigers Are Stronger Than In 1905

Which Means the Locals Will Have To Go Some To-morrow—A Special Train Will Run After All.

The Hamilton Spectator hands out the following cheery line of talk:—

The Tigers will be in good shape when they meet Peterborough on the latter's grounds on Satuurday. The boys have been training faithfully and are in mid-season condition. The team is as strong, if not stronger, than last year and will make a bid for both the Ontario and Canadian championships.

Last night the boys were given a chalk talk, and this afternoon they will have their final workout for Saturday's game.

It is likely that the team will go to Peterborough by special C. P. R. train, leaving here about 11 o'clock Saturday morning. A special rate can be secured if 100 rooters signify their intention of accompanying the team. Lists are now open at the C. P. R. office, and there are already many signatures on them.

Professional Hockey League In Ontario

A Circuit Proposed to Include Stratford, London, Woodstock, Galt and Brantford.

Woodstock enthusiasts are talking of organizing a senior hockey team, and incidentally the question of joining a professional league is under consideration. It is said that a compact league consisting of Stratford, London, Woodstock, Galt, and Brantford, could be formed.

The question of players has also been given some thought, one suggestion being that the players be not paid a regular salary, but that a division of the receipts be made at the end of the season. This arrangement would prevent jumping or throwing games, as it would be to the players' interest to have as big a gate as possible. Nothing definite has been done as yet, but it is time some move were made, says a Woodstock despatch.

Programmes For The Big Game

Will Give Names and Positions of Players Etc.

The Peterborough Rugby Club have conceived a new scheme for educating the public to appreciate the great autumn game, and at the contest to-morrow will provide an official score card and programme.

This will give the name of each player, showing his position, a diagram of the field, the rules governing scoring, and many other facts about Rugby, which will make the game more interesting to the novice spectator. The programmes will be sold at 5 cents each.

"Alerts" Are First To Re-organize

Alert Basketball Club are Ready For Coming Season.

The members of the Alert Basketball Club met in the parlours of the Y.M.C.A. last night and reorganized the team for the coming winter. The boys are as enthusiastic over the game as ever and will put forth whole-hearted efforts in any games they play. It is expected that other teams will be formed at the Y.M.C.A. and a league formed as formerly. The following officers were elected:—

Manager—Mr. R. Baker.
Captain—G. Fitzgerald.
Secretary-Treasurer—H. M. Yelland.

The boys are trying to secure a night a week in order to get in condition.

Cast Iron Chorus Will Be Strong

Parody Of "John Dough" Will Will Be A Feature.

The Edison cast iron chorus, 400 strong, and led by the tool room quartette, will attend the Tigers-Peterborough game to-morrow. The following chorus, sung to the tune of "John Dough," the hit of "The Gingerbread Man," will be one the numbers on their repertoire:

"DuMoulin, DuMoulin,
We are looking for you, ha, ha, ha!
You are wanted for that,
You are wanted for this,
For Ballard's signals that are going amiss,
You know, it's so,
This game to Peterborough is sure to go,
In 1906, we will show you tricks,
Of the original Arthur Poe."

Prospects Good In The Bay City

Hockey Team Will Represent Belleville in O.H.A. or Federal.

The Belleville Intelligencer has the following to say about the prospects of hockey in that city this coming season: "Prospects for good hockey in Belleville this winter, we are told are excellent. The question of Belleville's admittance to the Federal League has not yet been settled, but in case admittance to that body is refused an intermediate O.H.A. team will be entered. It is said there are three cracking good players on the rolling mills staff, who will get their skates on and help along any team that is formed. There is, however, strong hopes of gaining admittance to the Federal which would suit the sport lovers of this city best.

HAMILTON WILL HAVE STRONG TEAM

The Hamilton team for to-morrow's game is not definitely known here yet but it will be seen stronger than that of last year. The back division will consist of Tope, full back; DuMoulin, centre half; Simpson, left half; Moore, right half; Ballard, Quarter. On the wing will be Craig, Marriott, Barron Isbister, Burkholder and Lyons.

RUGBY.

The Crescent rugby team defeated the Separate School team on Wednesday last by the score of 15-10. Fortye and Lewis for the Crescents and Hayes for the Separates, did good work. The Crescents have not been defeated this season yet.

• • • •

The Quakers will practise to-morrow afternoon at 1.15 on Central Park. All members of the team should make it a point to get out.

• • • •

Mr. J. B. McArthur, of Toronto, has been chosen as referee for to-morrow's game. He will also choose the umpire.

• • • •

The Quakers will practise in the Brock street rink this evening at 7.30 and the following players are requested to be on hand:—

Fitzgerald, Quinlan, Moore, Huston, F. Craig, Collins, Latimer Canniff, Sisson, Bolin, Giroux, Lillie, Henderson, Clarke, Moher, Roddy, Metheral, Williams, Walker.

• • • •

Those who have season tickets for the rugby games will have to present them at the ticket office at the grounds to-morrow in order to get an entrance ticket.

• • • •

Be sure and buy a ticket for the Tiger-hunt to-morrow afternoon.

• • • •

Tickets and official programmes and score cards for to-morrow's game are on sale at Mac's and O'Brien's cigar stores.

• • • •

Several more George street merchants are showing that they appreciate the importance of to-morrow's game by decorating their windows. Mr. A. W. Cressman has an effective display of blue and white and yellow and black and Mr. Frost also uses blue and white to advantage in his window dressing.

FOOTBALL

The Quaker Association Football team are requested to leave the sweaters and stockings belonging to the club with the secretary at the earliest convenient time. Both junior and senior sweaters are required.

Big Docket Of Cases In Fall Assizes Of High Court

Mr. Justice Britton Will Preside—Eleven Civil Actions are to be Heard—Summary of the Civil List.

The fall sittings of the High Court of Justice open in the Court House on Monday next, with His Honour, Mr. Justice Britton presiding.

There are several civil cases to be tried, a number of which should be found exceedingly interesting. Several have been laid over from previous assizes, including that of Kidd vs. Kidd.

Following is a summary of the cases.

Hillier vs. Hillier

The plaintiff, Sarah Hillier, is the widow of Samuel Joseph Hillier, and the defendant, Henry H. Hillier, is a brother of Samuel Joseph Hillier. The plaintiff claims that a cheque for $1000, being the benefit of a policy of insurance on the life of the late Samuel Jos. Hillier in the Canadian Order of Foresters, was delivered by the plaintiff to the defendant to be deposited by him to her credit in the Ontario Bank, and that beyond the sum of $150, she has not received any of the balance, nor is there any amount deposited in the said bank to her credit.

The plaintiff claims the payment to her of the balance of the said sum.

The defendant claims that he from time to time paid out the said moneys to the plaintiff, and to other persons, as requested by her, until the said sum of $150 had been expended; and that he did not retain any part of the said money for his own benefit.

Jewett vs. Canadian Cordage Co.

In this case the plaintiff, Ed. Davidson Jewett, claims $1500 from the defendants as compensation for injuries received while in the employ of the defendants. It will be remembered that Jewett was injured in March last by being struck on the head by a bobbin.

The defendants claim that there was no defect in the condition or arrangement of their machinery or plant, and that if such defect existed it was unknown to them.

Solicitor for plaintiff, R. E. Wood, for defendants, Meredith, Cameron and Waldie.

Byers vs. Kidd

In this case the plaintiff, John Byers, is a dealer in timber, residing at Fraserville, and defendant, Walter Allen Kidd, is a storekeeper, residing at the same place. The plaintiff claims that the defendant at the town hall in Millbrook, in the presence of Robt. Donk, J.P., Jas. Hanley, and a number of others, falsely and maliciously spoke concerning the plaintiff, the words, "You are the man that cut the bags and destroyed my coal," meaning thereby that the plaintiff wilfully destroyed certain bags, containing coal, the property of defendant, with intent to steal or injure the contents, or part thereof, or did steal the same. The plaintiff claims the sum sum of $1000 for the said slanders.

The defendant denies that he spoke or published the words alleged, and that if the said words were spoken or published, by him, he does not admit (but denies) they were spoken or published without malice, and in the belief that they were true.

Solicitor for plaintiff, R. F. McWilliams; for defendant, D. O'Connell.

Duncan vs. Wm. Hamilton Co.

The plaintiff, Wm. Duncan, residing in Peterborough, claims $1500 damages from defendants, as compensaton for injuries claimed to have been received while in the employ of defendants. The plaintiff further claims that his injuries were caused by negligence on the part of the defendants.

The defendants, in their statement of defence, deny that there was any defect in the condition of the machinery by which the defendant was injured, and that the accident complained of was caused by the plaintiff's own gross carelessnes, negligence and wilful disobedience.

Solicitor for plaintiff, D. O'Connel; for defendants, Hall & Hayes.

Union Stock Co. vs. Goard

In this case the plaintiff company was at the time referred to carrying on business as agents for the sale of stock. The plaintiffs, C. H. Moore, W. C. Austin and Jos. Mills, were members of the said company. The defendant is a clergyman engaged in the buying and selling of land in the Northwest. The defendant agreed to pay them a commission of $125, if they sold certain lands in the Saskatchewan owned by the defendant. The sale of the lands was effected, the purchasers being the Peterborough Saskatchewan Land Corporation. The plaintiffs claim that their commission for this sale was not paid. The plaintiffs, therefore claim from the defendant the sum of $1250, less $153.50, owed by the plaintiffs to the defendant.

The defendant denies the allegation in toto. In a counter claim he says that at the time of the commencement of the action the sum of $153.50, was still owing him.

Solicitor for the plaintiffs, R. F. McWillimas; for defendant, Edmison & Dixon.

Other Cases

Other cases on the docket are Kidd vs. Kidd, and Keogh vs. Brady, which have been traversed from one assize to another.

Investigation Of The Horse Industry

The Ontario Department of Agriculture to Undertake an Important Work—Secretary Collins, of the Farmers' Institute, to Assist in the Work—The Methods to Be Used.

Mr. William Collins, secretary of the Farmers' Institute, of West Peterborough, has been advised that at the last session of the Legislature, the Minister of Agriculture, secured an appropriation for the purpose of making an investigation into the condition of the horse industry in the province of Ontario. This work is now being undertaken by the Department of Agriculture of Ontario, and will be commenced early in October. The object of this investigation is to obtain information to be used in deciding as to the best policy to adopt to encourage more extensive breeding of a better class of horses,

Scope of Investigation

Following are the principal points which will be considered in the course of the investigation:

I.—The number, type, quality and breeding of stallions and brood mares in the province.

II.—What conditions have affected or are affecting the quality and the number of stallions and brood mares in the various sections of the province, and if the effect is for good, whether or not the same conditions could be applied to other sections; and if the conditions have not a good effect, what could be done to improve them.

III.—What class of horses can most profitably be raised in different sections of the province under the natural conditions found in these sections.

IV.—The system of owning horses by a syndicate and any other plan at present adopted in Ontario, other than private ownership.

V.—The views of horsemen generally as to the advisability of a Stallion Inspection Act.

VI.—Suggestions by those interested in the horse business as to what can be done to improve conditions of the horse business generally.

Methods of Work

In order to procure this information, the province will be divided into eight sections. Two competent and expert horsemen have been selected and allotted to each district. From five to six weeks will be spent in each district by the committee appointed for that district. The districts will be composed of a number of counties grouped together, the number making up each district being decided by the length of time required to go through a county. Each county will require from four to nine days. The information regarding stallions will be as detailed as possible, each stallion in the province being inspected. The information regarding mares cannot be got so accurately, but a great deal of information can be procured from the stallion owners in each district, as to the number, type and quality of the brood mares, the committee having an opportunity of confirming this by noting the appearance of the mares seen by them while travelling through the district. Regarding the other matters of a more general nature, information will be procured by close observation and by conversation with those met by the committee who may have any knowledge of the local conditions.

In addition to the work, as above outlined, it is being arranged to have one public meeting in each county at some point centrally located, and where a special interest is taken in the horse industry. The object of this meeting is to give any person who so desires, an opportunity of expressing his views to the committee. The meeting in each county will be held immediately after the committee has completed the work in that county.

Institutes to Assist

In each Farmers' Institute district, the secretary has been asked to assist in the work, of procuring the names and the addresses of the stallion owners and, laying out the most convenient route for the committee to follow while in that district. He has also been asked to accompany the committee and to arrange for the public meeting in the county. In cases where the secretary was unable to do the work, the president of the Farmers' Institute has been asked to make the necessary arrangements. The dates and points at which the public meetings will be held have been selected. Arrangements have also been completed for the dates allowed for each Institute division, and the points at which committees will transfer from one institute district to another.

The work should have the sympathy and co-operation of all owners of stallions and of all who are interested in the horse industry. It is to be hoped that the committee will be given every facility for procuring the information required, and that every person interested will take advantage of the opportunity being given to express his views as to how the horse industry of this province can best be improved.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

GUY BROTHERS

Guy Brothers, the famous minstrels apepared before a fairly large audience at the Grand last night and were enthusiastically received. Their show is almost entirely new from their past performances here, the scenes changing so often that the listener has no opportunity to get languid. The Guy Bros. have with them some good songsters besides themselves as Wilfrid Girard, whose deep bass solo "Down in the Caverns" made a big hit. Of the other songs "Take a Walk," and "The Bells in the Lighthouse," were the most popular. The funnyisms of the coloured valets were mostly novel while the ringing in of the jokes on the local baseball team and Board of Health made decided hits. The olio performance by the two acrobats was an interesting feature as well as the pictured melodies with illustrated songs by Albert Guy and Girard. Zella, the frogman, was certainly a novelty, his body contortions being remarkable. The performance concluded with the plantation festivities of away down south, introducing the sailor's drill and buck dancing, which caught the popular eye. Guy Bros. have no doubt improved greatly since their last performance here.

SEVENGALA

Prof. Sevengala, the eminent hypnotist, is booked to appear at the Grand Opera House for one week commencing Monday evening, Oct. 8th. He has just returned from Europe where he has been for the past six years.

The exhibition of Prof. Sevengala of his wonderful powers of hypnotism is very mystifying to all who witness them. But his greatest feat is the transmission of thought by telepathy, which seems impossible until witnessed by oneself.

The question of hypnotism is a much discussed one, and all disbelievers in its existence should witness one of this man's exhibitions, which will at once convince him that he has been behind the times in his beliefs. Like all other powers of the brain it is unexplainable, except as to results produced, but its existence is an established fact, acknowledged by every scientist of the day.

IMPORTANT

Commencing on Oct. 8th, a parlour car will be attached to the Canadian Pacific local train leaving Peterborough at 8 o'clock, a.m., and also on the local leaving Toronto at 5 p.m., for Peterborough. A parlour car will also be placed on the local train leaving Toronto at 4.15 p.m., for Galt, Woodstock, Chatham, and London. Also on the local leaving Chatham at 7 a.m., for London, Woodstock, Galt and Toronto. 4d79

Guild Meeting Is Postponed

St. Paul's Guild Will Not Meet Next Tuesday.

The Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's Church, which was to have met next Tuesday night, has been postponed until a week from Tuesday. The reason for the postponement is the fact that the pastor and assistant pastor, as well as a number of the prominent members of the guild wish to accept the invitation of St. John's congregation for the tea on Tuesday night.

WELL DIRECTED GENEROSITY

At the meeting of the George street Methodist Church Board held last night, it was resolved to invite the choir of the church to attend the concert given by the Westminster Abbey Choir Opera House, to-night. Seats in the dress circle of the Grand Opera House, to the number of about fifty, have been provided at the expense of the Board, which in view of the quality of their action towards the choir, must be a board of the right kind of timber.

The Limestones Of Ontario A Valuable Provincial Asset

During Recent Years a Number of Industries Having Limestone as Their Base Have Been Established—Calcium Carbide One of These—Its Connection With the Progress of the Cement Industry--In Sault Ste. Marie Allied Industries Limstone Is An Important Factor---A Necessity In Smelting Operations--Great Promise For Future Development.

(Written By Willet G. Miller, Provincial Geologist.)

In Ontario few of our people yet realize that limestones form an important part of our mineral resources. The writer, while in a field the previous summer, felt that many persons misunderstood the nature of his work. Limestone to them was common rock, and nothing more, recalling Wordsworth's lines:

"A primrose by the river's brim
A yellow primrose was to him
And it was nothing more."

When one is seen breaking off samples, "pounding the rocks," many people think that he must be after gold or some of the precious metals. It is not realized that during recent years a number of important industries have either come into being or have been perfected, which depend on limestone as a base. A good limestone deposit, if favourably situated may be of as much benefit to a community as a metal mine.

Although the quantity of rock used in some industries is not in itself of great money value, still it is impossible for certain works to be established in a locality where limestone of suitable quality cannot cannot be obtained at a satisfactory price.

Industries that were not dreamed of twenty years ago or less are now firmly established. One of these is the manufacture of calcium carbide, which has developed into a world wide industry. Ten years ago the manufacture of Portland cement was but a business almost unknown on this continent. It has now become one of the greatest in America. In Ontario much capital has been invested in it, and well-situated deposits of marl and limestone are eagerly sought after. Then within the last two or three years, several beet root sugar factories have been built in the province. These require lime of a very pure quality. Our wood pulp industry is also a growing one, and it is believed that in time it will add much to the wealth and prosperity of our population. The sulphite pulp process requires a limestone high in magnesia, of quite different character from that used in the manufacture of beet sugar. Our smelting industry is also becoming greater yearly, and limestone suitable for certain smelters, sometimes has to be sought for at a distance, e.g., limestone occurring near the town of Renfrew has been found to be of the quality required at Sudbury, and has been quarried and shipped thither. In the varied industries in the vicinity of Sault Ste. Marie, limestones of three or four kinds are required. One quarry has been operated on an island in Georgian Bay and two others were purchased in the State of Michigan. If we had had a fairly complete knowledge of the limestones situate adjacent to the Ontario shore of Lake Huron, it is probable that it would not have been necessary for the company to go out of the province in order to find this part of their raw materials. It is believed that this province has vast undeveloped iron deposits. Some of these are situate within easy access of the Great Lakes, and the ore can be shipped without difficulty. Other deposits lie at such a distance from water routes that if they are to be worked the ore will have to be smelted on the ground, and the fuel must be charcoal. In reducing wood to charcoal, valuable by-products are formed. One of the most important of these is acetate of lime. In the preparation of this material a pure lime is required. Thus it is seen that, in the manufacture of charcoal, limestone is required, not only for smelting the ore, but also in the preparation of one of the wood distillates. As there are very few occurrences of ordinary solid limestone in some of the more remote northern parts of the province, it would seem that some of the marl deposits in lakes and marshes are likely to become of economic importance.

"Drawing" a Lime Kiln, Showing Freshly Burned Lime.

It is easy to demonstrate that limestone plays a very important part in the industrial economy of any nation. Having in abundance raw materials or unused resources in connection with which for many purposes limestone is required, or can be profitably employed, especially timber, iron ore and water power, our limestones should be considered as being among our valued assets. An accurate knowledge is required of them for use in those industries which are capable of great expansion in the Province.

At the present time the value of the products of three or four of our industries in which the rock plays an important part, represents about 20 per cent. of our total annual mineral production of $25,000,000. Limestone has as great a bearing on the wealth of other countries.

The following is a list of manufactures and industries arranged in alphabetical order, some of which consuming only a small amount of lime, in which limestone is used as a raw material: Acetate of lime, agricultural uses, ammonium sulphate, beet sugar, bone ash, building stone, calcium carbide, carbon dioxide, cement (natural and Portland), chalk, chloride of lime, as a dehydrating agent, disinfectant, in dyeing, etc., manufacture, glass, furnace linings, lime for mortar and whiting, lime pencils used in the oxyhydrogen light, lime water, lithographic stone, marble, as a polishing material, potassium dichromate, pottery trade, for preserving eggs, etc., pulp and paper making, as a chemical reagent, silicate brick, smelting of iron, lead, etc., soap, soda manufacture, tanning.

It would be impossible to treat fully of these uses in the space available. An attempt will, however, be made to give information of a general nature, adapted to the needs of those who may desire to learn to what use certain materials can be applied.

In the preparation of acetate of lime from one of the distillates produced in the manufacture of charcoal, it is desirable to have as pure a lime as is obtainable. Magnesia and other materials serve no purpose except to add to the weight of the acetate of lime and thus increase the cost of freight and handling when shipment is made to works where the acetic acid is extracted from the compound. It is likely that much charcoal will be produced in this Province, where coal is lacking for metallurgical and other uses, so that it becomes important to know the location of deposits of limestone adapted to this use.

There are already four charcoal plants in Ontario — at Sault Ste. Marie, Longford Mills, Fenelon Falls and Deseronto. At the first and last-mentioned places the charcoal is consumed chiefly in blast furnaces.

Lime added to certain soils, has a beneficial effect, especially on those of a heavy clay character. It makes the soil work more easily, promotes drainage and causes a more rapid decomposition of vegetable matter. A certain amount of lime is necessary in soil as food for plants. Its effects on soil are, therfore, both physical and chemical. Magnesian limes have been held to be less suitable for agricultural uses than those which contain little or no magnesia. Some limes contain small amounts of phosphate and potash, substances essential to plant life, which add to their value as fertilizers.

In the production of liquid ammonia from ammonium sulphate the latter material is decomposed by lime, usually in the form of milk of lime, with the separation of calcium sulphate and ammonia. Caustic lime is, however, employed at times with the object of utilizing the heat evolved in the process of slaking.

In the manufacture of beet sugar a supply of very pure limestone is essential—unless, as in Europe, the more costly, but more effective and closely-related compound, strontia, is used in place of lime. Limestone, when burned, supplies two materials which are used in the production of beet sugar, viz., carbon dioxide gas and lime. The sugar factories of Ontario have used limestone from the quarries at Amherstburg and St. Marys.

In the production of phosphate of lime from bones, lime is used to precipitate the impurities dissolved out of the bone by hydrochloric acid, the lime combining to form calcium chloride.

The use of limestone in the form of blocks for building and structural purposes has been considerably affected during the last ten years or so by the substitution of concrete—crushed stone and cement. Formerly, for instance, dimension stone was used extensively in bridge work and for locks and other canal structures. On the Trent Valley Canal, however, concrete has been used in place of stone; and the same is the case in many of our railway bridges. There are two reasons for this. Cement and crushed stone are more easily transported to the points where the work is carried on, and the cost of labour in concrete work is much less than where cut or dressed stone is used. Some large buildings in the Province are built of concrete, for example, the carpet factor at Peterborough. Concrete blocks, which resemble those of stone, are also coming into use. Thus, while the stone industry in some respects is likely to become of less importance, it will grow in other directions.

Crushed stone is being extensively used in the paving of streets. Most of this is limestone, on account of this rock being more easily quarried and crushed than granite, trap and other crystalline rocks. Limestone holding flint, silicified fossils, etc., makes as good, and in some cases better, crushed stone than the purer varieties. Thin-bedded limestones are as suitable for crushing as thick-bedded ones. This has brought about the development of quarries, which in the old days could not have turned out material of much marketable value.

That dimension stone is still preferred to concrete, for some purposes, is seen in the fact that a large number of dressed blocks from the Crookston quarries, have been used during the last few years in the construction of the power plants at Niagara Falls.

Limestone is likely to be used for many years in the construction of important buildings in localities, as, for instance, Kingston city, where material of good quality can be obtained at a low price. In the ordinary type of dwelling, however, even in such places, stone, on account of its higher cost, is being replaced by brick.

The finer classes of marbles are now replaced to a considerable extent in interior decoration by artificial imitation materials, which cost much less and appear to serve the purpose as well as genuine marble.

To sum up, it can be said that while the older stone industry is likely to become less important as the years go on, the newer, that of crushed stone, will reach such dimensions, there will be a gain in production.

It may be added that crushed limestone for concrete purposes sells at about $1.30 per cubic yard f.o.b. Toronto. Granite and trap bring as high as $1.65 per yard. Many thousands of cubic yards of crushed stone are used annually in Toronto. About five miles of macadam roads have been built some years. The fragments of rock for this purpose should have an average diameter of about two and one-half inches.

The method of manufacturing calcium carbide which has come widely into use during the last 10 years in the production of acetylene gas for illuminating purposes cannot be fully described here.

The raw materials used are lime and coke dust; it is said charcoal could be used if it were lower in price, and that it would be a more suitable material in some respects, being free from sulphur and other impurities found in coke.

The two materials, lime and coke, are reduced to fine powder intimately mixed together—theoretically in the proportion, by weight, of 87 1-2 of lime (CaO) to 56 1-4 coke (C)—and fused into a mass in an electric furnace. The chemical equation which represents the reaction is: CaO (lime) x C3 (coke), CaC2 (calcium carbide) x Co (carbon monoxide.)

When water is added to the fused material, calcium carbide, acetylene gas (C2H2) is given off. This re-action is as follows:

CHAPTER XVII.

Steel lay sleepily back in the cab, not quite sure whether his cigarette was alight or not. They were well into the main road again before Bell spoke.

"It is pretty evident that you and I are on the same track," he said.

"I am certain that I am on the right one," David replied; "but, when I come to consider the thing calmly, it seems more by good luck than anything else. I came out with you to-night seeking adventure, and I am bound to admit that I found it. Also, I found the lady who interviewed me in the darkness, which is more to the point."

"As a matter of fact, you did nothing of the kind," said Bell, with a suggestion of a laugh.

"Oh! Case of the wrong room over again. I was ready to swear it. Whom did I speak to? Whose voice was it that was so very much like hers?"

"The lady's sister. Enid Henson was not at 218, Brunswick Square, on the night in question. Of that you may be certain. But it's a queer business altogether. Rascality I can understand. I am beginning to comprehend the plot of which I am the victim. But I don't mind admitting that up to the present I fail to comprehend why those girls evolved the grotesque scheme for getting assistance at your hands. The whole thing savours of madness."

"I don't think so," David said, thoughtfully. "The girls are romantic as well as clever. They are bound together by the common ties of a common enmity towards a cunning and utterly unscrupulous scoundrel. By the merest accident in the world they discovered that I am in a position to afford them valuable advice and assistance. At the same time they don't want me to be brought into the business, for two reasons—the first, because the family secret is a sacred one; the second, because any disclosures would land me in great physical danger. Therefore they put their heads together and evolve this scheme. Call it a mad venture if you like, but if you consider the history of your own country you can find wilder schemes evolved and carried out by men who have had brains enough to be trusted with the fortunes of the nation. If these girls had been less considerate for my safety——"

"But," Bell broke in eagerly, "they failed in that respect at the very outset. You must have been spotted instantly by the foe, who has cunningly placed you in a dangerous position, perhaps as a warning to mind your own business in future. And if those girls come forward to save you—and to do so they must appear in public, mind you—they are bound to give away the whole thing. Mark the beautiful cunning of it. My word, we have a foe worthy of our steel to meet."

"Well? Do you mean to say that your enemy and mine is a common one?"

"Certainly. When I found my foe I found yours."

"And who may he be, by the same token?"

"Reginald Henson. Mind you, I had no more idea of it than the dead when I went to Longdean Grange to-night. I went there because I had begun to suspect who occupied the place and to try and ascertain how the Rembrandt engraving got into 218, Brunswick Square. Miss Gates must have heard us talking over the matter, and that was why she went to Longdean Grange to-night."

"I hope she got home safe," said David. "The cabman says he put her down opposite the Lawns."

"I hope so. Well, I found out who the foe was. And I have a pretty good idea why he played that trick upon me. He knew that Enid Henson and myself were engaged; he could see what a danger to his schemes it would be to have a man like myself in the family. Then the second Rembrandt turned up, and there was his chance for wiping me off the slate. After that came the terrible family scandal between Lord Littimer and his wife. I cannot tell you anything of that, because I cannot speak with definite authority. But you could judge of the effect of it on Lady Littimer to-night."

"I haven't the faintest recollection of seeing Lady Littimer to-night."

"My dear fellow, the poor lady whom you met as Mrs. Henson is really Lady Littimer. Henson is her maiden name, and those girls are her neices. Trouble has turned the poor woman's brain. And at the bottom of the whole mystery is Reginald Henson, who is not only nephew on his mother's side, but is also next heir but one to the Littimer title. At the present moment he is blackmailing that unhappy creature and is manoeuvring to get the whole of her large fortune in his hands. Reginald Henson is the man those girls want to circumvent, and for that reason they came to you. And Henson has found it out to a certain extent and placed you in an awkward position."

"Witness my involuntary guest and the notes and the cigar-case," David said. "But does he know what I advised one of the girls—my princess of the dark room—to do?"

"I don't fancy he does. You see, that advice was conveyed by word of mouth. The girls dared not trust themselves to correspondence, otherwise they might have approached you in a more prosaic manner. But I confess you startled me to-night."

"What do you mean by that?"

"When you sent me that note. What you virtually asked me to do was to countenance murder. When I went into the sick room I saw that Christiana Henson was dying. The first idea that flashed across my mind was that Reginald Henson was getting the girl out of the way for his own purposes. My dear fellow, the whole atmosphere literally spoke of albumen. Walker must have been blind not to see how he was being deceived. I was about to give him my opinion pretty plainly when your note came up to me. And there was Enid, with her whole soul in her large eyes, pleading for my silence. If the girl died I was accessory after and before the fact. You will admit that that was a pretty tight place to put a doctor in."

"That's because you didn't know the facts of the case, my dear Bell."

"Then perhaps you'll be so good as to enlighten me," Bell said, drily.

"Certainly. That was part of my scheme. In that synopsis of the story obtained by the girls by some more or less mechanical means, the reputed death of a patient forms the crux of the tale. The idea occurred to me after reading a charge against a medical student some time ago in the Standard. The man wanted to get himself out of the way; he wanted to be considered as dead, in fact. By the artful use of albumen in certain doses he produced symptoms of disease which will be quite familiar to you. He made himself so ill that his doctor naturally concluded that he was dying. As a matter of fact, he was dying. Had he gone on in the same way another day he would have been dead. Instead of this he drops the dosing and, going to his doctor in disguise, says that he is dead. He gets a certificate of his own demise, and there you are. I am not telling you fiction, but hard facts recorded in a high-class paper. The doctor gave the certificate without viewing the body. Well, it struck me that we had here the making of a good story, and I vaguely outlined it for a certain editor. In my synopsis I suggested that it was a woman who proposed to pretend to die thus so as to lull the suspicions of a villain to sleep, and thus possess herself of certain vital documents. My synopsis falls into certain hands. The owner of those hands asks me how the thing was done. I tell her. In other words, the so-called murder that you imagined you had discovered to-night was the result of design. Walker will give his certificate, Reginald Henson will regard Miss Christiana as dead and buried, and she will be free to act for the honor of the family."

"But they might have employed somebody else."

"Who would have had to be told the history of the family dishonor. So far I fancy I have made the ground quite clear. But the mystery of the cigar-case and the notes and the poor fellow in the hospital is still as much a mystery as ever. We are like two allied forces working together, but at the same time under the disadvantage of working in the dark. You can see, of course, that the awful danger I stand in is as terrible for those poor girls."

"Of course I do. Still, we have a key to your trouble. It is a dreadfully rusty one and will want a deal of oiling before it's used, but there it is."

"Where, my dear fellow, where?" David asked.

"Why, in the Sussex County Hospital, of course. The man may die, in which case everything must be sacrificed in order to save your good name. On the other hand, he may get better, and then he will tell us all about it."

"He might. On the other hand, he might plead ignorance. It is possible for him to suggest that the whole affair was merely a coincidence, so far as he was conecrned."

"Yes, but he would have to explain how he burgled your house, and what business he had to get himself half murdered in your conservatory. Let us get out here and walk the rest of the way to your house. Our cabby knows quite enough about us without having definite views as to your address."

The cabman was dismissed with a handsome douceur, and the twain turned off the front at the corner of Eastern Terrace. Late as it was, there were a few people lounging under the hospital wall, where there was a suggestion of activity about the building unusual at that time of the night. A rough-looking fellow, who seemed to have followed Bell and Steel from the front, dropped into a seat by the hospital gates and laid his head back as if utterly worn out. Just inside the gate a man was smoking a cigarette.

"Halloa, Cross," David cried, "you are out late to-night!"

"Heavy night," Cross responded, sleepily, "with half a score of accidents to finish with. Some of Palmer of Lingfield's private patients thrown off a coach and brought here in the ambulance. Unless I am greatly mistaken, that is Hatherly Bell with you."

"The same," Bell said, cheerfully "I recollect you in Edinburgh. So some of Palmer's patients have come to grief. Most of his special cases used to pass through my hands."

"I've got one here to-night who recollects you perfectly well," said Cross. "He's got a dislocated shoulder, but otherwise he is doing well. Got a mania that he's a doctor who murdered a patient."

"Electric light anything to do with the story?" Bell asked, eagerly.

"That's the man. Seems to have a wonderfully brilliant intellect if you can only keep him off that topic. He spotted you in North Street yesterday, and seemed wonderfully disappointed to find you had nothing whatever to do with this institution."

"If he is not asleep," Bell suggested, "and you have no objection——"

Cross nodded and opened the gate. Before passing inside Bell took the rolled-up Rembrandt from his deep breast-pocket and handed it to David.

"Take care of this for me," he whispered. "I'm going inside. I've dropped upon an old case that interested me very much years ago, and I'd like to see my patient again. See you in the morning, I expect. Good-night."

David nodded in reply and went his way. It was intensely quiet and still now; the weary loafer at the outside hospital seat had disappeared. There was nobody to be seen anywhere as David placed his key in the latch and opened the door. Inside the hall-light was burning, and so was the shaded electric lamp in the conservatory. The study leading to the conservatory was in darkness. The effect of the light behind was artistic and pleasing.

It was with a sense of comfort and relief that David fastened the door behind him. Without putting up the light in the study David laid the Rembrandt on his table, which was immediately below the window in his work-room. The night was hot; he pushed the top sash down liberally.

"I must get that transparency removed," he murmured, "and have the window filled with stained glass. The stuff is artistic, but it is so frankly what it assumes to be."

CHAPTER XVIII.

David idly mixed himself some whisky and soda water in the dining-room, where he finished his cigarette. He was tired and ready for bed now, so tired that he could hardly find energy enough to remove his boots and get into the big carpet slippers that were so old and worn. He put down the dining-room lights and strolled into the study. Just for a moment he sat there contemplating with pleased, tired eyes the wilderness of bloom before him.

Then he fell into a reverie, as he frequently did. An idea for a fascinating story crept unbidden into his mind. He gazed vaguely around him. Some little noise outside attracted his attention, the kind of noise made by a sweep's brushes up a chimney. David turned idly towards the open window. The top of it was but faintly illuminated by the light of the conservatory gleaming dully on the transparency over the glass. But David's eyes were keen, and he could see distinctly a man's thumb crooked downwards over the frame of the sash. Somebody had swarmed up the telephone holdfasts and was getting in through the window. Steel slipped well into the shadow, but not before an idea had come to him. He removed the roll-up Rembrandt from the table and slipped it behind a row of books in the book-case. Then he looked up again at the crooked thumb.

He would recognize that thumb anywhere. It was not like the head of a snake, and the nail was no larger than a pea—a thumb that had evidently been cruelly smashed at one time. The owner of the thumb might have been a common burglar, but in the light of recent events David was not inclined to think so. At any rate he felt disposed to give his theory every chance. He saw a long, fustian-clad arm follow the scarred thumb, and a hand grope all over the table.

"Curse me," a foggy voice whispered, hoarsely. "It ain't here. And the bloke told me——"

The voice said no more, for David grabbed at the arm and caught the wrist in a vice-like grip. Instantly another arm shot over the window and an ugly piece of iron piping was swung perilously near Steel's head. Unfortunately, he could see no face. As he jumped back to avoid a blow his grasp relaxed, there was a dull thud outside, followed by the tearing scratch of boots against a wall and the hollow clatter of flying feet. All David could do was to close the window and regret that his impetuosity had not been more judiciously restrained.

"Now, what particular thing was he after?" he asked himself. "But I had better defer any further speculations on the matter till the morning. After the fright he had my friend won't come back again. And I'm just as tired as a dog."

But there were other things the next day to occupy David's attention besides the visit of his nocturnal friend. He had found out enough the previous evening to encourage him to go farther. And surely Miss Ruth Gates could not refuse to give him further information.

He started out to call at 218, Brunswick Square, as soon as he deemed it excusable to do so. Miss Gates was out, the solemn butler said, but she might be found in the square gardens. David came upon her presently with a book in her lap and herself under a shady tree. She was not reading, her eyes were far away. As she gave David a warm greeting there was a tender bloom on her lovely face.

"Oh, yes, I got home quite right," she said. "No suspicion was aroused at all. And you?"

"I had a night thrilling enough for yellow covers, as Artemus Ward says. I came here this morning to throw myself on your mercy, Miss Gates. Were I disposed to do so, I have information enough to force your hand. But I prefer to hear everything from your lips."

"Did Enid tell you anything?" Ruth faltered.

"Well, she allowed me to know a great deal. In the first place, I know that you had a great hand in bringing me to 218 the other night. I know that it was you who suggested that idea, and it was you who facilitated the use of Mr. Gates's telephone. How the thing was stage-managed matters very little at present. It turns out now that your friend and Dr. Bell and myself have a common enemy."

Ruth looked up swiftly. There was something like fear in her eyes.

"Have—have you discovered the name of that enemy?" she asked.

"Yes, I know now that our foe is Mr. Reginald Henson."

"A man who is highly respected. A man who stands wonderfully high in public estimation. There are thousands and thousands of people who look upon him as a great and estimable creature. He gives largely in charities, he devotes a good deal of his time to the poor. My uncle, who is a good man, if you like, declares that Reginald Henson is absolutely indispensable to him. At the next election that man is certain to be returned to Parliament to represent an important northern constituency. If you told my uncle anything about him, he would laugh at you."

"I have not the slightest intention of approaching your uncle on this matter at present."

"Because you could prove nothing. Nobody can prove anything."

"But Christiana Henson may in time."

Once more Ruth flashed a startled look at her companion.

"So you have discovered something about that?" she whispered.

"I have discovered everything about it. Legally speaking, the young lady is dead. She died last night, as Dr. Walker will testify. She passed away in the formula presented by me the night that I met her in the darkness at 218, Brunswick Square. Now, will you be so good as to tell me how those girls got hold of my synopsis?"

"That came about quite naturally. Your synopsis and proof in an open envelope were accidentally slipped into a large circular envelope used by a firm of seed merchants and addressed to Longdean Grange, sent out no doubt amongst thousands of others. Chris saw it, and, prompted by curiosity, read it. Out of that our little plot was gradually evolved. You see, I was at school with those two girls, and they have few secrets from me. Naturally, I suggested the scheme because I see a great deal of Reginald Henson. He comes here; he also comes very frequently to our house in Prince's Gate. And yet I am sorry, from the bottom of my heart, that I ever touched the thing, for your sake."

The last words were spoken with a glance that set David's pulses beating. He took Ruth's half-extended hand in his, and it was not withdrawn.

"Don't worry about me," he said. "I shall come out all right in the end. Still, I shall look eagerly forward to any assistance that you can afford me. For instance, what hold has Henson got on his relatives?"

"That I cannot tell you," Ruth cried. "You must not ask me. But we were acting for the best; our great object was to keep you out of danger."

"There is no danger to me if I can only clear myself," Steel replied. "If you could only tell me where those bank-notes came from! When I think of that part of the business I am filled with shame. And yet if you only knew how fond I am of my home. . . . . At the same time, when I found that I was called upon to help ladies in distress I should have refused all offers of reward. If I had done so I should have had no need of your pity. And yet—and yet it is very sweet to me."

He pressed the hand in his, and the pressure was returned. David forgot all about his troubles for the time; and it was very cool and pleasant and quiet there.

"I am afraid that those notes were forced upon us," she said. "Though I frankly believe that the enemy does not know what we have learnt to do from you. And as to the cigar-case; would it not be easy to settle that matter by asking a few questions?"

WHAT

Fruit-a-tives

OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

ARE

Fruit-a-tives are the marvels of modern medicine. They have accomplished more actual cures—done more good to more people—than any other medicine ever introduced in Canada for the time they have been on sale.

Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices. They are nature's cure for —CONSTIPATION

—BILIOUSNESS
—BAD STOMACH
—DYSPEPSIA
—HEADACHES
—IMPURE BLOOD
—SKIN DISEASES
—KIDNEY TROUBLE
—RHEUMATISM
—IRRITATED HEART

Fruit-a-tives are the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes. These juices are concentrated—and by a secret process, the juices are combined in a peculiar manner. This new combination is much more active medicinally than fresh juices—yet so perfect is the union that Fruit-a-tives act on the system as if they were in truth a natural fruit, medicinally stronger than any other known fruit.

To this combination of fruit juices, tonics and internal antiseptics are added, and the whole made into tablets.

These are Fruit-a-tives—sold everywhere for 50c a box or 6 boxes for $2.50.

Common ranges make the coal man smile. The Pandora Range makes the thrifty housewife smile.

Pandora Range

It is comparatively easy to build a range that will make a lot of heat, but it requires the exact science of Pandora Range building to produce a range that will use all the heat in the coal without waste.

A common range may burn twice the coal that a Pandora will, and yet do only half the work.

If you use a Pandora Range you can be certain that your coal money is not wasted, but used.

LOOK NOT AROUND THEE

Dense hand the mists across the years,
Faint grows the heart with anxious fears,
Then look not round thee; dwell above
In that sweet upper air, where love
Eternal shines with radiance bright,
And fears like darkness take their flight.
Turn then towards the mists below—
They shine like wreaths of drifted snow,
Love veils the future from thy sight
In peace profound, for all is right,
And if thy frail and tossing bark
'Mid winds and waves, must cross the dark,
A shaft of light shines full and clear
Upon the hand thou holdest dear,
That hand, no hand can overwhelm,
That pierced Hand is on the helm.

—Florence Rachael Smith.

HOW TO STRENGTHEN WILL POWER

No will is rightly strong that does not help some other will to be strong. To make your will the servant of love will be to call upon it for the highest exercise of all its powers, and no will has ever been known to become weak that has thus placed itself under the control of love. For love teaches us to share, and strength shared is strength multiplied. A beautiful old collect runs, "Stir up, we beseech Thee O Lord, the wills of thy faithful people, that they plenteously bringing forth the fruit of good works, may by Thee be plenteously rewarded." It takes a strong man to be a good man, and a good will to be a strong will. Test the strength of your will, not by its indictiveness and coercion, but by its helpfulness to some one else.

GOD KEEP YOU

God keep you thro' the silent night and guard
Your pillow from all perils, dear,
From dark till dawn I pray His love to ward
And watch you, hovering ever near.
God keep you thro' the busy day, dear heart,
And guide your feet through every chance,
From dawn to dark may not his love depart
Or lose its tender vigilance.
Nay, nay; there is no hour when I shall cease
To supplicate His brooding care,
All days, all night, thro' all eternities,
God keep you, every time and everywhere!

—Leslie's Weekly.

THE TRUE CHURCH

Churches with the centralizing idea are not blessings to mankind. The church whose chief end is not to do good, but to keep up its membership and prestige, is like the barren fig-tree, bearing nothing but leaves. The true church is radiant and radiating, and is a divine missionary society in all its membership and activities.

A TIMELY REBUKE

In Our Dumb Animals for July, Mr. George T. Angell says:—

We are pleased to see that Holy Cross college (Roman Catholic) has conferred upon the governor of Massachusetts, (Curtis Guild, Jr. (a protestant), the degree of LL.D. It is another indication of a growing disposition for peace on earth.

If a humane education could be carried into our protestant universities and colleges, which would make them as free from outrages and rowdyism as all our Catholic universities and colleges are, it would be one of the greatest movements of the twentieth century.

CATHOLICS AND THE BIBLE

It is a common opinion among protestants that Catholics are not allowed, to read the bible. Whatever may have been the case in other lands in days gone by, it seems certainly not to be the case in this country and now. The Sacred Heart Review, the most influential Roman Catholic paper in New England, this week publishes a large displayed advertisement offering: "The Holy Bible free for one new subscription and $2."

OUR REPRESENTATIVE AND BULL FIGHTS

It has been remarked that the Princess Victoria "showed her weakness" by attending the horrid spectacle of a great bull fight. The British delegation did not attend out of respect for the sensibilities of the humane portion of the British public. The New York Observer thinks "it was a pity that the representative of the United States did not have like scruples."

Y. M. C. A. IN MANCHURIA.

Probably no Y.M.C.A. in the world has entertained so many visitors in a short time as the Army association at Dalny Manchuria. On some days 10,000 to 15,000 men, waiting for their steamers, were entertained, and from 130,000 to 150,000 were served in one month. Nearly all of the 500,000 soldiers in Manchuria are being met by the association at Dalny and Liuchutung, the two points of embarkation.

THE METHODIST "CATHEDRAL"

After an interval of more than three years since the Wesleyan Methodists purchased the Royal Westminster aquarium and freehold of the property for $1,650,000 they have let the contracts for getting in the foundations and the erection of their church-house and connexional offices, and the work of preparing the foundations has been begun. The entire scheme will cost over $3,000,000, which will be defrayed out of The Twentieth Century Fund, which now considerably exceeds $5,000,000.

ARE CLERGY LOSING GROUND

Mr. Charles Booth, the great social scientist, in his volume on "Religion in London", is convinced that the clergy are losing ground by becoming servers of tables and organizers of charity instead of spiritual guides to their flocks.

RACE SUICIDE AND PURITANS

The Morning Star, New Orleans, says: New England, once an intolerant puritan citadel, is now intensely catholic. The "descendants of the Celt are trampling on the graves of the puritans". Race suicide has depleted the original stock, which is largely unitarian or Emersonian or agnostic. The prolific German, Irish, Italian, and French-Canadian catholics are possessing the land and will presently rule it.

THE LOAFING HABIT

The Sacred Heart Review says:—Parents should be very careful that their sons who are not going back to school do not contract the "loafing habit". It is the ruination of many promising young men.

S. S. LESSON.

Lesson 1, October 7.—The Two Great Commandments.—Mark 12: 28-34, 38-44.

Golden Text.—"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart."—Mark 12: 30.

BETWEEN THE LESSONS.

Our lesson text follows directly that for September 16th, when we learned how completely Jesus silenced the Pharisees and Sadducees. The question of the Sadducees, about which we studied in Lesson XII. of the last quarter, is followed by that of a scribe; this is recorded in the opening verse of our lesson.

CRITICAL NOTES.

28. One of the scribes. A professional expounder of the law; a lawyer. He belonged to the sect of the Pharisees. Matt. 22: 34, 35. What commandment is the first of all. "Which is the great commandment in the law." Matt. 22: 36; compare Mark 12: 31.

30. All thy heart . . . soul . . mind . . . strength. Four terms are gathered together to denote all the powers and faculties of man. "Heart" of itself in Biblical language designates the whole inward man, including the intellect, affections, and will, but for the sake of reinforcing the exhortation, other expressions are added, even to the extent of redundancy. "Soul" fixes attention on the spiritual nature of man as distinct from his physical frame; "mind" emphasizes the rational powers of his spiritual nature; "strength" refers to the full exercise of what is in him.

33. Much more than all whole burnt-offerings. The moral law takes precedence of the ritual law.

34. No man after that durst ask him any question. As appears from the continuation of the gospel narrative, the opponents of Jesus did not again attempt to entrap him in argument.

30-40. Beware of the scribes, who desire. A characterization of the scribes of this period generally. It is a sad picture of the low estate of men who knew and taught the Scriptures, but whose own inward life too often remained unconformed to the high ideals and heavenly truths of the Scriptures.

44. She of her want did cast in all that she had. An example of loving one's neighbour as much as one's self (Mark 12: 31), and contrasting with the self love of the scribes whom Jesus had just described.

WITH THE SAGES.

For myself, I am certain the good of human life cannot lie in the possession of things which for one man to possess is for the rest to lose, but rather in things which all can possess alike, and where one man's wealth promotes his neighbour's.—Spinoza.

It is while you are patiently toiling at the little tasks of life that the meaning and shape of the great whole of life draws upon you. It is while you are resisting little temptations that you are growing stronger.—Phillips Brooks.

Try to be as good as all think thee to be, because many have great faith in thee, and, therefore, I admonish thee to be nothing less than people hope of thee.—Francis d'Assisi.

To occupy ourselves with little things as with great, to be fit and ready for the one as for the other, is not weakness and littleness, but power and sufficiency.—Joubert.

No one can efficiently work in the promotion of good whose mind is filled with distrust for the good intentions of his fellow men.—William M. Jackson.

Learning maketh young men temperate, is the comfort of old age, standing for wealth with poverty, and serving as an ornament to riches.—Cicero.

Adversity is sometimes hard upon a man, but for one man who can stand prosperity, there are a hundred that will stand adversity.—Carlyle.

MRS. HUNTER'S STORY

Says She and Her Husband Agree Perfectly—Both Quite Well Again.

MRS. I. HUNTER

Mrs. I. Hunter, of 111 Raglan Road, Kingston, Ont., has written for publication a statement of her case as follows:

"I have suffered with kidney and liver trouble and chronic constipation for some time. I was subject to dizziness, bilious headache, nervousness drowsiness, pains in the back and side, and a tired, weary feeling nearly the time.

"I tried almost every remedy, was treated by doctors and druggists with little or no benefit.

"Finally, a friend advised me to try Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill, and the results have been truly wonderful.

"My husband has used Anti-Pill for rheumatism and was benefitted greatly. We agree that Anti-Pill is a most wonderful medicine and heartily recommended."

This is a very strong recommendation. Anti-Pill is undoubtedly the greatest of family remedies. All druggists, or the Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. 504

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Neglected Colds MAY CAUSE Consumption.

MRS. ADDIE HARDING. MRS. MARY MEYER. MRS. FRANCES WILSON.

PROBABLY every case of consumption begins with a cold.

Consumption is generally classed as a hereditary disease, but consumption is not hereditary.

A constitutional weakness is inherited which renders one liable to consumption.

Even people who have strong lungs may acquire consumption from a cold.

Mrs. Addie Harding, 121 W. Brighton Ave., Syracuse, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a user of Peruna for the last twelve years and can truthfully say that there is no better medicine on earth.

"With me it is a sure preventative for colds and many other ills. In my home can always be found a bottle of Peruna. Two or three times a year I am troubled with my throat.

"A SURE PREVENTATIVE."

"I always had to have the services of my physician two or three times in each case.

"Although a user of Peruna, I never thought of taking it for my throat until about two years ago.

"I tried Peruna to check it, and to my great delight I was not troubled with the smothered and choked feeling and never have since.

"I can check it every time with Peruna.

"I certainly would not be without Peruna one minute."

Mrs. Mary Meyer, Thomson avenue, near Shell Road, Winfield, L. I., N. Y., writes:

"I have been annoyed with a cough for years.

"Often it was so bad that I could not sleep half the night. Many people thought I had consumption.

CONSUMPTION WAS FEARED.

"A woman recommended Peruna to me two years ago. I began to take Peruna and now I am perfectly free from a cough.

"I am glad to say that Peruna cured me entirely. I take Peruna occasionally when I do not feel well and I also give it to my children.

"Peruna is the best medicine for coughs and colds. I have told many people how much Peruna has helped me."

A neglected cold is a well-worn path to consumption.

Any a person catches cold and pays attention to it.

He scarcely recovers from the first cold when he takes the second.

Still he gives it no heed, and possibly takes another cold, and so on.

He doses himself with bromides, quinine and various expectorants.

His case is catarrh, at this stage, and his case should be treated as catarrh.

A common cold is acute catarrh.

Finally, if the cold is allowed to continue, it becomes chronic catarrh.

Mrs. Frances Wilson, 28 Nelson street, Clinton, Mass., writes:

"Had you seen me at the time of my illness and now, you would not wonder that I take delight in sounding the praises of Peruna.

"My ailment was a severe cold which attacked the bronchial tubes and lungs.

"I followed your special directions and after using six bottles of Peruna I was on my feet again.

"I think Peruna a wonderful medicine."

All colds, coughs, bronchitis, laryngitis and tonsilitis should be treated as catarrh, as they are in reality catarrh.

The success of Peruna in relieving these cases entirely depends upon the fact that Peruna is a catarrh remedy.

It relieves catarrh wherever located in the system. Whether in the throat, bronchial tubes or lungs.

CONSUMPTION PREVENTED.

It has saved a multitude of people from consumption by eradicating catarrh before it reaches the lungs.

The tendency of catarrh of the throat or head is to spread downward to the lungs.

If taken in time, Peruna will prevent these cases.

We have in our files many testimonials from people who thought they were victims of consumption, but have been permanently relieved by the faithful use of Peruna, thus showing that catarrh was really the cause of their ailments.

OLD WORLD MAIL NEWS

Interesting Items From Across the Sea.

ENGLAND

The report current recently of the release of John Lee, who, in 1885, when 21 years old, was convicted upon circumstantial evidence at the Exeter Assizes, of the murder of an old lady, his benefactor, is incorrect. In the west country the long detention of John Lee is followed with interest, almost with sympathy. The judge in sentencing Lee to death remarked upon his calm demeanour throughout the trail, but pointed out that it was quite consistent with his guilt, Lee exclaimed, "The reason I am calm is that I believe in God, and He knows that I am innocent." This assertion of innocence, common as it is in the dock, had a great effect in the west upon the credulous and the superstitious when his execution miscarried, The night before the execution was to take place, there was an unusually heavy fall of rain, and the floor of the drop became warped. Lee was led out in the morning pinioned, and the noose was put around his neck, but the drop would not work. He was led back to the cell, and twice more was brought back on the scaffold, and the same procedure was gone through, with the same abortive result. The Under-Sheriff thereupon stopped any further attempts to hang the man, and straightway went to London to consult the Home Secretary, who ordred Lee's reprieve, and commuted his sentence to penal servitude for life. This sentence in ordinary circumstances completed by 20 years' imprisonment, may be reduced to 15 years if the convict's conduct has been exemplary. Lee's conduct has been good throughout his imprisonmetn but he has been in prison for 21 1-2 years, and is still at Portland, without prospect of release. No man or woman living has served such a continuous term of imprisonment. One man at present in Portland was convicted of a ferocious murder only ten years ago, and is about to be released. The late Home Secretary, Mr. Akers Douglass, was asked in the House of Commons last year why Lee was still detained, and he replied that he was not kept in prison for the original crime, but on account of threats he had used.

A ghost in East Ham, London, caused a good deal of excitement recently. It was supposed to haunt the upper floor of an empty fruiter's shop, standing in a row of gloomy-looking houses. The "apparition" was seen by hundreds of people. The other night the crowd was so big that five policemen and a mounted officer were employed in regulating the traffic. At a window above the shop a faint glimmer of light was seen, and a dark figure, barely distinguishable in the gloom, moved mysteriously about the room. A horrible crash was heard and then the spectre vanished. Stones were thrown at the window, and the light from an electric standard shone upon a bedstead and a few articles of furniture. This sort of thing went on for one or two nights, and the inhabitants were thrown into a state of alarm. But the mystery has now been solved. There was really no ghost except in the imagination of the street urchins and the loafers of the district. When the house was vacated the landlord chose to store some furniture in the upper story and once or twice he visited the house to see that the goods were intact. This accounted for the mysterious noises that were heard.

A touching story of an heroic attempt to rescue a drowning man was told at an inquest recently held at Saltford, Sommerset, upon the body of a young man named Douglas Chamberlain. During a regatta a tug of war had been held across the river, and one of the teams jumped into the water to swim to the other side. Chamberlain joined the swimmers but sank suddenly, and his cousin, Walter Heal, diving beneath, brought him to the surface. Chamberlain, however, clasped Heal and pulled him down. Heal then struck him on the head to render him insensible, but the blow was not strong enough, and Chamberlain took him by the throat, both going down together. Shaking himself free again Heal came to the surface, only to be gripped and dragged down again by Chamberlain. On the bed of the river, Heal with a final effort threw Chamberlain off and swam ashore exhausted.

The wedding of Miss Florence Beech, of Black Blank, a Staffordshire mining village, and Mr. Wm. Plant of Silverdale, has been followed by disastrous results. Nearly all the forty guests who sat down to the wedding breakfast are seriously ill with ptomaine poisoning. The cause is believed to be a joint of beef which was cooked two days before the wedding. The day after the wedding the bride's father was taken ill, and had to leave his work and when he reached home he found his wife and children lying about the house in a state of such extreme prostration that although they were parched with thrist not one of them was strong enough to get water for the others. It was found that both the bride and bridegroom and the other guests had been attacked in a similar fashion.

A serious riot recently occurred amongst the hoppers at Brookhamin, Worcestershire, where about 1,200 are employed. Two hundred alien gypsies discovered that they were working at a lower rate of pay than the rest of the employees. They secured the co-operation of a Birmingham contingent and struck. Another body of hop-pickers would not come out, and there was an exciting fight between the men. The gipsies proved the stronger body, and some of the of the other party had to swim the River Teme to get out of the way of their pursuers. Knives were drawn, and the affair seemed likely to end in bloodshed, but those who drew knives were overpowered, and a body of police came quickly on the scene. The strikers eventually succeeded in getting the price raised.

A unique service was held in Bickley recently on the occasion of laying the capstone of the new steeple of St. George's Church. A platform was erected near the summit, and on this a sort of short service was held, those taking part including the vicar, Rev. W. A. Carroll, the choir and one venturesome lady. The ascent was made by means of a lift and a stairway. During the singing of a hymn the vicar boldly went to the summit of the steeple, and the capstone was then lowered to its place. From the top—the height is nearly 200 feet—a grand view of the surrounding country is obtained, and the Tower Bridge is clearly visible in the distance.

SCOTLAND

In the picturesque Speyside Parish Church of Alvie, in Invernessshire, the banns were proclaimed a few days ago of a marriage between Mr. James Henry Smith, of Dunachton, and Mrs. Rhinelander Stewart, who arrived in London from New York last week. Mr. Smith is the nephew of the "Chicago" Smith, who died in 1899, after living for years obscurely and meanly at the Reform Club, and whose vast fortune paid $4,500,000 in legacy and succession duties to the Chancellor of the Exchequer. "Chicago" Smith was a native of Elgin, who made a great fortune by shrewd speculation in Chicago building sites. His nephew used to be known as "the silent man of Wall Street." That was before he received the enormous accretion to his already ample means. Subsequently he developed into a leader of society, and became known as the wealthiest bachelor in America—it was said that his uncle left him something like $20,000,000—and the recipient of more invitations than any society man in New York. Some of his purchases have been described as "monumental whimsicalities." One of his ideas was to give $300,000 for for a huge riding academy, in which he and his friends might indulge in polo, tennis, and other outdoor pastimes in all weathers and seasons.

Three bloodhounds leaped joyfully from the Scotch express at London a few days ago. They had returned from a long, but successful, search in Kirkcudbrightshire for the missing pupil teacher, Lizzie Campbell, who committed suicide in morbid distress at having failed to pass an examination, and whose body was recovered from the Solway. The hounds, which belong to the secretary of the Bloodhound Hunt Club, of Shrowton, Wilts, were summoned by the Provost of Gatehouse after the girl had been missed for two days. They found her scent at once, and followed her traces again and again to water, showing how the poor girl had been fascinated by the idea of drowning, but had hesitated long before the final plunge in the sea.

The acts of a girl incendiary, recently caused the farmers around Berwick to live in a state of terror for a time. A fire broke out on a farm, and a servant girl said she had seen a man with a box of matches in the vicinity shortly before the outbreak. Next day the girl reported that she had again seen the man, and that he said he was going to shoot the farmer. The country was scoured by police and farmers, but the mysterious man could not be found. A day or two after another fire broke out, and the police detained a man who answered the girl's description, but he was able to explain his movements. The mystery was cleared up, however, when the girl confessed that she was the culprit.

Encouraged by the success of the aluminum works erected near the Falls of Foyers, a scheme involving an expenditure of $2,500,000 is being put forward for the construction of similar works on a much more extensive scale at Kinlochleven, on the borders of Inverness-shire and Argyllshire. The place chosen has an abundant supply of cheap water power, and at an elevation of 1000 feet above sea level, there is an excellent site for a reservoir. It will be about 7 1-2 miles in length, with an average width of over half a mile, and when it is completed it will probably have the largest capacity of any artificial reservoir in Europe.

The herring fishing season in Shetland, just brought to a close, has proved a disastrous failure. The catches have become smaller each season for the last three years. The islanders ascribe the cause to whale fishing by Norwegians near the islands, and a few days ago a representative meeting was held at Lerwick, when resolutions were passed unanimously to ask Government action in the matter. Prohibition of whale fishing is urgently demanded, as the failure of the herring fishing is an exceedingly grave matter for the Shetlanders.

Lord Brassey recently had a marvellous escape from a serious accident while motoring. He was driving up Strath Oykel, in the neighbourhood of Lairg, Sutherlandshire, when the motorcar went over the edge of the road, owing, it is said, to failure of the steering gear. The car plunged down the side of the glen, was brought up by some birch trees, and turned completely over. Lord Brassey, the chauffeur, and another passenger escaped unhurt. Had the car gone over 150 yards further along the road it must have fallen over 50 or 60 feet.

An old man named William Lumsden, who was of most eccentric habits, has been found lying dead in his house at Crossley, Oxton, Berwickshire, where he had resided nearly all his life. He lived alone, and declined all offers of help from his neighbours. One of his last acts was to order his own coffin. This he had intended to make himself, and had actually laid in wood for the purpose, but he abandoned the idea owing to the state of his health.

There is nearing completion in the neighbourhood of Cameronbridge the deepest mineral bore in the world. The object of the bore, which has reached the enormous depth of 4000 feet, was to ascertain whether the lower coal measures existed in the east of Fife as theydo in the west of the county. At the depth named a seam of splendid split coal, eight feet in thickness, has been discovered.

IRELAND

One of the most thrilling Irish crimes of the last century was recalled recently, when William Thompson, an escaped murderer, who had succeeded in eluding the police for eighteen years, walked into the police barracks at Markethill, County Armagh, and gave himself up. On March 2, 1888, a wedding was taking place in Knocknamuckly parish church, the bridegroom being a young widower named Thomas Thompson. His first wife, who was not long dead, was a sister to William Thompson, and there had been unpleasantness regarding the treatment of the woman by her husband. This was intensified by the fact that the husband had declined to attend the funeral. On the day of the wedding William Thompson sat near the aisle, and as the bridegroom was passing in on his way to the altar drew a revolver and shot him. The wounded man threw himself on his assailant, and, assisted by other men of the party, overpowered him after a desperate struggle. The wound proved fatal, and William Thompson was tried for murder and sentenced to death. In addressing the court at the trial he explained at length his motive for the crime, alleging systematic ill-treatment of his sister. He expressly disclaimed any intention to set up a plea of insanity. He was reprieved, however, on that ground, and was committed to Dundrum Criminal Asylum. A few months later the murderer escaped from the asylum. No effort was spared to trace him, but although on several occasions the pursuers appeared to be on the track, Thompson was not seen again till he gave himself up.

In the Dublin police court, recently, there stood an elderly, refined-looking man, who was indicted for forgery and false pretences. Described in the calendar as John Young, aged 60, a bookseller, the prisoner presented all the appearance of a man who, towards the close of a long life, had fallen from grace, and had the misfortune to get into the hands of the police. As a matter of fact, the accused possessed anything but an enviable reputation, and he had a criminal record which extended over 34 years. In 872 he was first arrested, and his sentence was one of seven years' penal servitude, followed by seven years' police supervison. As soon as his term was completed he was in trouble again, and down to 1906 served terms of imprisonment of varying length in prisons all over the country. Twenty-five years of his life were passed in 17 penal establishments—a remarkable record. On quitting gaol in 1900 he wrote a book entitled "Twenty-five Years in Seventeen Prisons," and from what the police could gather, supported himself honestly from that time down to March of this year by the proceeds of the sale of the book. Then the Old Adam seems to have asserted itself again, and he began a series of frauds, which once more brought him within the reach of the law.

Wild scenes were witnessed at the Empire Variety Theatre, Belfast, recently, in connection with a wrestling bout between Pat Connolly, Galway, and a Spaniard named Clorento. Both men appeared to lose their tempers, and Connolly transgressed by adopting the catch-as-catch-can style. The large number of spectators showed their disapprobation in a most rowdy manner. Matters looked like degenerating into a free fight, and the two men had brought down some of the wings in their struggles before the referee stopped the competition. After resuming, the wrestlers fought fiercely, and several times it looked as if they were going to fall over the footlights. The Irishman was subsequently awarded a fall, and the Spaniard protested against the decision and had to be forcibly removed from the stage. This increased the excitement amongst the spectators, and a scene of great confusion followed. Somehow the rails at the back of the pit were torn down, and several of the people in front were actually trying to get on the stage when the curtain was rung down.

Roger Philip Duke, a clerk in holy orders, like many another man, firmly believed in the possibilities of recovering bullion from the bottom of the sea, and he liberally financed an old school friend—a Dublin solicitor, named Geoghegan—who was promoting a "hydroscope"—an instrument which was to locate the hidden treasures of the deep. Mr. Duke appeared in the Bankruptcy Court recently as the result of this speculation. The reverend gentleman borrowed money on certain Irish estates to which he is entitled. These sums he handed to Geoghegan for the promotion of the "hydroscope." He was to be reimbursed either from the treasure when it was discovered, or out of the proceeds to be derived from the sale of the patent to a company. But neither the "hydroscope" nor the sunken treasure ever came to fruition.

Mr. Frederick Peel Eldon Potter, founder, proprietor and editor of the Cork" County Eagle and Munster Advertiser," died recently. Mr. Potter was one of the oldest of Irish journalists. He penned the immortal phrase, "The Skibereen Eagle has its eye on Russia." Mr. Potter was the Skibereen Eagle. He founded his newspaper in May, 1857, under the title of the Eagle and County Cork Advertiser; it was a penny paper, published every Saturday, and was born of the political troubles attending the Phoenix organization. Across the top of the front page was displayed an eagle descending with a message to the world. A flamboyant leading article lectured the Czar, informing him that the eagle had its eye on Russia. Lord Palmerston, the Foreign Secretary, was similarly warned.

A warm discussion took place at Dublin Corporation recently over the acceptance by the Libraries Committee of copies of the Bible in Irish from the Hibernian Bible Society. Dr. McWalter said this was an alleged translation of an English proselytising society which had been engaged in spreading these "bogus Bibles" throughout the western part of the country. Mr. Harrington, M.P., said he did not think he could be accused of any feeling of intolerance, but he thought it discreditable to the committee to give the society this advertisement. The Hibernian Bible Society "lived on lies" which it told about Irish people.

No fewer than 1,500,000 picture postcards were delivered daily in Paris during July and August—an average of one per head for the entire adult population. The normal number delivered daily is 700,000, but this was swollen by cards sent home by holiday-makers.

The announcement of the issuance of the license was the first intimation that the couple were in love. The wedding will occur some time in October in Monongahela.

New Zealand Exhibition; Low Rates

To the many attractions of New Zealand as a tourist and pleasure resort is this year added that of the International Exhibition, to be held at Christchurch, the second city of the colony, from November, 1906, to April, 1907.

Canadian products will be much in evidence, and it is expected that a large number of Canadians will take this opportunity of visiting "Maori-land," that interesting country of which most people have heard so much, and in reality know so little. Mark Twain's opinion that New Zealand was "somewhere near Australia, and you get over to it by a bridge," is shared by the great majority, who have never experienced the steady steaming across the wide Pacific necessary to "bridge" New Zealand and her big neighbour. The democratic government, unique and progressive legislation, state controlled industries, from railways to coal mines, have made New Zealand so well known, as has her natural beauty, it hot lakes and geysers, outrivalling the Yellowstone, its lovely semi-tropical bush, with graceful palms, and tree ferns, and gorgeous wild orchids everywhere, its majestic fiord scenery and its lofty snow-clad Alps, all of which truly need to be seen to be appreciated. The climate is certainly the best to be found south of the line, and as the exhibition, from November to April, covers the best of the summer months, visitors need not fear bad weather. If you have never contemplated a trip to the Southern Seas, "do it now"—this is a good opportunity.

Special reduced rates for the exhibition are offered by the Canadian Pacific Railway, with its ocean connection, the Canadian-Australian line of Royal Mail steamers. Through rates from Toronto, right to Port Lyttelton, N. Z., and return, are $418.90 first class throughout; and $348.90 first class rail and second on steamer; tickets good sailing from Vancouver, on October 12th, Nov. 9th, December 7th, 1906, Jan. 4th and Feb. 1st, 1907, good to return to Vancouver within six months. These steamers call at Honolulu, and passengers can tranship at Suva, Fiji, if they wish, instead of reaching New Zealand, by way of Sydney, N. S.W. Splendid accommodation is provided with a fine table and attendance, and at this time of the year a smooth passage is a certainty. Further particulars and literature gladly furnished upon application to C.B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C.P.R., Toronto.

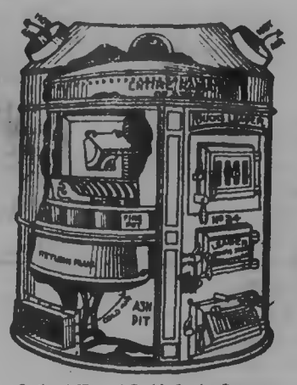
The Cost of a Furnace really begins after you buy it and pay for it. It comes in the amount of fuel you feed to it and in repairs. The best furnace is actually the cheapest.



Sectional View of Buck's Leader Furnace

Buck's "Leader" Furnace is built to give cheap heat, lots of it, and to last a lifetime.

Its firepot is in sections—it will never wear out.

Its proportions of firepot and radiating surface are exact, every heat unit in the fuel being extracted and used.

Its radiator is of solid steel and every joint in it is absolutely air and gas-tight.

It can burn wood as successfully as coal, the feed-door being very large.

It requires no expert to run it and will stand rough usage.

Its massive construction and scientific principles make it the most durable, powerful and economical heater ever built.

Practice Of Tips Is A Necessary Evil

A German Hotel Keeper Found Out To His Sorrow—Carried Out Experiments on a Trip—The Result.

Herr Grauer, a wealthy German hotel proprietor, has carried out an experiment with amusing results on the tipping custom. He had a theory that all hotel employees should be paid a living wage, and that tipping should be abolished in hotels.

So he started, accompanied by his wife and daughter, on a three weeks' tour of the chief German and Swiss hotels, determined not to spend a sou on tips, in order to test his opinion.

One week's experience of the consequences was enough [illegible] and daughter, who returned home disappointed and indignant with Herr Grauer for the discomfort and insults to which he had led them.

Mysterious hieroglyphics and secret signs—known only to hotel employees—announced the arrival of the Grauers—"the non-tippers" — at the various resorts they visited. The result was always the same — nobody seemed to want them.

At the stations they were told that the particular hotel they wished to stay at was full; the hotel omnibus was merely "waiting for a few old clients to depart." When they insisted on entering the omnibus there was nobody to carry their luggage, and railway porters had to be employed and paid. Arriving at the hotel, their heavy baggage was unceremoniously thrown on the ground, and the boxes were damaged.

The maid took half an hour to answer the bell, and the "hot water," when it did arrive, was cold. At table d'hote the Grauers were always served with the last portion. The concierge "did not know" of any interesting trips in the neighbourhood, and was generally "busy" when they descended to the hall. Complaints to the manager were futile.

Herr Grauer, who persevered with his three weeks' tour to its unpleasant end, sums up his experiences as including the following:

Lost three trains; luggage unable to be found.

Had four pairs of shoes, two being new, ruined; "cause unknown."

Two suits of clothes, one dress, three blouses, mysteriously contracted ink stains.

Herr Grauer now believes that tipping is a necessary evil, with a long life before it.

The Earth's Island Hatchery In The Behring Sea

Off the Alaskan coast nature is adding to the possession of Uncle Sam by a novel method involving none of the burdens and responsibilities that usually go with the acquisition of new territory. Recently a cable from Tacoma announced that an island had just arisen from the sea in the Aleutian group, 70 miles west of Unalaska, and that the waters surrounding the newcomer were still so hot investigators were not as yet able to make a landing. Three other islands—two of them born 24 years ago—are within hailing distance of the interesting spot, forming a triangle of land that can lay fair claims to being nature's latest venture in the creation business.

By a pagan some thousand or more years old this sudden appearance of an island out of the depths of the sea would undoubtedly be hailed as a proof of the old theory that the earth is a huge egg from whose shell, after a respectable period of incubation, continents and islands chip their way forth to the surface of the sea. And if this ancient and picturesque theory can still be quoted, there would be ample warrant for saying that the earth's island hatchery is to be found just now in the waters of Behring Sea, where, if the present creative activities continue, it would be in the realms of the possible to see Asia and America joined together once more by a neck of land.

Usually islands formed by sudden volcanic means have been of such porous character that the waters have washed them away shortly after their appearance. This has not always been the case, however, for there is no doubt among scientists that all of the Hawaiian islands, including part of the Philippine group, and some of the Mediterranean islands, have been formed in this way. Of these the most remarkable, viewed as a stupendous result of the action of subterranean forces, is Hawaii, where a mountain, Mauna Loa, rises 29,000 feet above the sea bottom, giving evidence of a power that traversed all the distance in altitudes before it was expended.

In regard to the Aleutian islands it is noticeable that they form a curved line, extending from the Alaskan peninsula to Asia. This curved formation is peculiar to volcanic islands, as is evidenced in the islands in the Caribbean Sea, the islands of Japan, the Borneo group and others. Of them all the Aleutian islands are at present showing the greatest amount of activity, of which the formation of the new island is the last manifestation.

Of the formation of the three islands that were thrown up from the sea in the Aleutian group prior to the appearance of the new islands just announced official records give the following descriptions, from which one can surmise what has happened, in all probability, during the last few weeks on the borders of the sea that ages ago sundered Asia and America:

"In August, 1883, what is described as 'smoke' was seen to issue from the summit of the crater of St. Augustine island. On the morning of October 6, the inhabitants of Alexander village, 60 miles to the eastward, heard a heavy report and saw clouds and flames issuing from the summit of the island. The sky became overcast and a few hours later there was a shower of pumice dust. About half-past 8 o'clock the same day an earthquake wave, estimated at 30 feet in hight, rolled in upon the floor, deluging the houses on the low land and washing the boats and canoes from the beach. Following the first great wave came others of less height. The dust fell to the depth of several inches, and the darkness was so great that the lamps were lighted. At night flames were seen issuing from the summit of the island, and the snow which previously whitened it, disappeared.

"After the first disturbances were over it was found that the northern slope of the summit had fallen to the level of the cliffs which form the shore, and the mountain appeared as if split in two in an easterly and westerly direction. Two previously quiet volcanoes on the Alaskan peninsula began simultaneously to emit smoke and dust; and in the ten-fathom passage between St. Augustine island and the mainland a new island, approximately 15 feet high and a mile and a half in extent, made its appearance."

Bogoslof and New Bogoslof islands, about 40 miles west of Unalaska, are the two other islands formed by volcanic eruptions in the Aleutian group within historic times.

So it is that islands are born in the extreme northern limit of Uncle Sam's domain. South of these islands the sea is very deep. To the north lies Behring sea, shallow for the most part, thus corresponding with the submerged continential border along the Atlantic coast of North America.

Windsor Nurse To Wed Patient

Pretty Romance Developed in a Hospital.

Examiner Special.

Pittsburg, Oct. 5.—The announcement that a marriage license had been issued in this city yesterday to Harry Tuman and Pauline Raeburn, now of Monongahela, brings out an interesting romance.

Until two months ago Miss Raeburn, whose home is in Windsor, Ont., was a nurse at the Memorial Hospital in Monongahela. She had been employed at that institution for a year. She is a pretty young woman.

Tuman is a railroad man in the employ of the Pennsylvania. Several months ago he fell under the wheels and lost a foot, besides having a leg shattered. He was sent to the Memorial Hospital, and it fell to the lot of Miss Raeburn to care for him.

Tuman progressed nicely with his health and the love romance which had its beginning in the sick room. Tuman was discharged, but will be crippled for life. Two months ago Miss Raeburn also quit the institution.

Brain Surgery Again Employed

Toledo Boy Operated On To Cure Evil Tendencies.

Examiner Special.

Toledo, Oct. 3.—Peter Sadd, the 14-year-old son of a Greek fruit dealer, of Cherry street, was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital this morning for the purpose of a surgical operation to remove from his brain the defect which causes him to be bad. Peter was arrested some time ago for pilfering from his father, and while locked in the hospital ward of the county jail with another lad of the same age, made an almost successful attempt to escape. He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital for an operation soon thereafter, but concluded that he didn't want the doctors drilling with his brain pan, and quietly made his escape.

Peter was placed on probation, but a few days ago he resumed his old tricks and was taken in charge by the police. This morning, regardless of his own inclinations, he was taken to St. Vincent's from the jail.

A Wireless Message Comes From Mars

Paris Astronomers Excited Over Midnight Dots Which Appear on Many Instruments—Is It Indicative of Signs From Mars?

Examiner Special.

Paris, Oct. 6.—The astronomer of France have been living in a state of terrible excitement during the last two weeks, and all because of the wireless telegraphy. There are in this city a number of wireless telegraph stations, the most prominent of these being at the top of Eiffel Tower, and every night for some time the receivers in the station have recorded a mysterious message consisting of three dots, no more and no less. The messages have been received just at the stroke of 12 midnight, from where no one knows, but since somebody suggested that this might be the first attempt of the inhabitants of the planet Mars to communicate with the earth, every astronomer in France has been busy watching the planet through his telescope.

As it will be remembered, the first wireless message flashed across the Atlantic Ocean by Signor Marconi consisted of these dots, which, in the Morse alphabate, indicates the letter "s," and why should not the Martians have had the same idea.

A representative of a prominent Paris newspaper went to M. Camille Flammarion, the famous astronomer, and asked his opinion, which he readily gave.

"I do not believe," he said, "that the inhabitants of Mars are sending the mysterious messages which are agitating our scientific minds of today, though I admit that I consider such a thing possible. The only reason which makes me doubt that the message comes from our neighbour planet is the fact that it is at present as far away from us as it is possible for it to be, and the Martians would probably have chosen some other time to make the attempt."

M. Flammarion is, however, as anxious as any of the other astronomers to discover the cause of the mysterious dots, and admits that he has not yet found any plausible explanation of them.

Actress Going Into Business

Miss Grace Pender to Conduct Millinery Establishment.

Examiner Special.

London, Oct. 6.—Many actresses have abandoned the stage to marry peers or men of wealth, but Miss Grace Pinder, one of the most attractive young actresses at Daly's Theatre, is creating an entirely new precedent by abandoning her profession to set up a fashionable milliner and dressmaker in Pont street.

With two other young ladies as partners, Miss Pinder, under the trade name of "Armide," has this week begun business. "Our trimmers and fitters," she said, "have all come from Paris. Everything will be first-class except the prices. They will be moderate, and already we have heaps of orders. No, I am not regretting the stage. Success there is often a matter of luck, and only rarely does it last long. I liked the the stage when I was on it, but I think business is more sensible."

Miss Pinder is young, tall, very good looking, an American, and possessed of a beautiful voice. At Daly's Theatre, where she has resigned the part she should now be rehearsing in "Les Merveilleuses," the management said that she had a very bright future before her on the stage. The young American actress, however, is determined to devote all her artistic leanings to bonnets and costumes, and to make "Armide" a success.

37 Minutes From Sheaf To Loaf

English Farmers And Millers Break a Record.

Examiner Special.

London, Oct. 3.—The farmers and millers of Blockley entered into a competition to produce bread from growing wheat in the shortest space of time, and the feat was accomplished in 37 minutes by Messrs. Owen, Taylor & Sons, Sheafhouse farm, and H. J. Painin, flour mills, Blockley, the previous record being 42 minutes.

The first sheaf of wheat was cut at 8.20. It was carried to the barn near by and threshed. At the end of five minutes sufficient grain had been beaten out by a stick to allow of the winnowing machine being used. As the grain left the machine it was caught in a pail and hurried off to the mills, where grinding commenced at 8.29.

Five minutes sufficed to convert the wheat into flour, and in three minutes this had been made up into 12 loaves and a small cake. After being in the oven 13 minutes the small batch was withdrawn, and at 8.57 the whole batch was declared to be well made and baked.

How Dunlop Heels Save the Nerves

Altho Dunlop Rubber Heels are fixt to the shoes, they actually fit in between each of the thirty-one joints of the spine.

They supply a cushion for the fall of the foot and thus absorb the jar that is sent thru the spine when the heel strikes the ground in the motion of walking.

Hard leather heels are good enough for walking over soft footing, but when solid pavements and hard floors have to be stept on, something is needed that will ease the force of the contact.

Most any rubber heel will help some, but Dunlop "Comfort" Rubber Heels will help most and wear longest—last as long as leather heels. They are made of live rubber thru and thru, and they will give spring to the step down to the last point of wear.

Everything in Dunlop rubber is made to uphold the reputation of the name "Dunlop" and worthy to bear this trade mark.

An Answer To Vital Question Is Demanded

Were Directors' Meetings Held As Shown by the Records?

COL. DAVIDSON'S EVIDENCE

Has No Recollection of Meeting at Which Agreement For Surrender of "Bonus" Stock In Great West Land Co. Was Confirmed — Personal Interests of Officers of Company Not Disclosed to Him.

Toronto, Oct. 6.—The Insurance Commission adjourned yesterday at noon until Tuesday, when, it is hoped, that Messrs. Pope and Fowler will be ready to go into the witness-box.

Col. Davidson a Witness.

Lieut.-Col. John I. Davidson was called and said he joined the Union Trust Co. at the solicitation of Mr. Wm. Laidlaw, K. C., after the company had been formed. He bought ten shares of stock at a premium of 10 per cent., for which he paid $1,100, in order to qualify himself as a director. Mr. Shepley asked Col. Davidson to give his recollection of the initiation of the transaction, which the witness did. The project was, he said, introduced by the manager of the company (Hon. Geo. E. Foster), and it was intimated that the transaction would involve a large expenditure of money. He understood that the Great West Land Co., composed of Sir John Boyd, Messrs. Foster, Schofield, McGillivray and Wilson, had taken over an option from Messrs. Pope and Fowler and wanted an advance to carry through the transaction.

An Interest Not Exposed.

Col. Davidson was clear in his recollection that he did not then hear that Messrs. Foster, McGillivray and Wilson were interested personally in the transaction to the extent of 50 cents per acre profit. He became aware that the Union Trust Co. was to get 237 shares of bonus stock for its own use, but did not become aware of the intermediate transactions by which the profit of 50 cents an acre went to Messrs. Foster, McGillivray and Wilson until the investigation. Col. Davidson said that he took very little interest in the affairs of the Great West Land Co. The right to the bonus stock did not, as witness understood, depend upon whether the Union Trust took stock for the amount of its loan or remained as a lender purely and simply; it became the property of the Union Trust Co. in any event. Col. Davidson said he had no knowledge regarding the 100 shares held by Dr. Oronhyatekha.

Was a Meeting Held?

The resolution reversing the policy of the Union Trust Co. becoming shareholders in the Great West Land Co. and taking instead the position of lender was submitted to him for his paternity by Lieut.-Col. McGillivray, of whose personal interest he was at the time ignorant. At the meeting at which action was taken to give effect to the desires of Mr. Stevenson and the I. O. F. the question of the ownership of bonus stock was not mentioned and the idea that the stock was not the property of the Union Trust Co. never entered his head.

The directors' book, in which each director placed his signature at each meeting he attended, was produced. There were signatures there under the date of Nov. 7, 1905, and the next signatures were under the date of Dec. 26, 1905, and Col. Davidson said he would take it from that record that there were no meetings in the interval.

The Bonus Stock Meeting.

Mr. Shepley called the attention of witness to the minutes of a meeting on Nov. 13, at which Col. Davidson was said to have been present, and at which, according to the minutes, a resolution giving up the bonus stock held by the Union Trust and Dr. Oronhyatekha was adopted on motion of Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Lieut.-Col. McGillivray. Witness replied that he had no recollection of any such resolution and could not understand how such a meeting could have been held. Had such a meeting been held he thought he would have recollected it.

"You would have been quite alive to the impropriety of giving up the bonus stock?" suggested Mr. Shepley, and witness replied in the affirmative.

Col. Davidson said he did not think a meeting could have been held without the directors' signatures being in the book, but he did not think minutes would be found in the book if there had been no such meeting if they were signed. Mr. Shepley pointed out that the minutes in question were not signed and witness replied that the minutes were always signed.

"We Always Signed the Book."

Hon. Mr. Foster pointed out that a blank space had been left in the signature book between the record for Nov. 7 and that for Dec. 26. Col. Davidson replied: "We always signed the book, Mr. Foster; that was the first thing; it was the invariable rule that we should sign the book."

Col. Davidson said that the same remark applied to the meeting which appeared from the minutes to have been held on Nov. 28. He was not present at any meeting at which the solicitor read the agreement showing that the bonus stock was being surrendered and had never heard of it having been done. As he understood it, the stock was given absolutely to the Union Trust Co.

The transaction with the Kamloops Lumber Co. was the next matter inquired into by Mr. Shepley. When the proposition was first submitted by Mr. Foster, Col. Davidson, having had experience in lumbering, was "chary" of it. Mr. Foster informed him that Messrs. Irwin and McCormick were going into it, and that they had an option upon the limit and mill. As he knew these gentlemen to be experienced lumber men, and had great confidence in them, he replied that if they were going into it he would be prepared, if he had money of his own available, to put it in the project. He was informed that Mr. Fowler was also going into it, and he understood the parties were putting their own money into the transaction, or, what was the same thing, they were responsible, and the Union Trust was advancing the money.

Personal Interests Not Disclosed.

He had no knowledge that Messrs. Fowler, McCormick and Irwin, who inspected and reported on it, had any personal interest in any of the property, and was not aware that the real price of the Kamloops property was $170,000, and not $225,000. He did not remember what was paid for the Okanagon property, but thought the company was getting a fair deal from Messrs. Fowler, Irwin and McCormick. He was not aware that all the money, including operating expenses, that had been paid into that property, for which the Kamloops Co. paid $177,000 and $42,000 additional for the logs cut, was $60,000. Neither was he aware that Mr. Foster had an interest in the ownership of the stock held by Mr. Fowler.

With respect to the transaction between the Great West Land Co. and Messrs. Pope and Fowler, Col. Davidson said he thought all the lands selected by the parties holding the option were being turned over, and was not aware that Pope and Fowler held back 7,000 acres for themselves.

Mr. Schofield's Evidence.

Mr. Schofield, general manager of the Standard Bank, said he had joined the land purchasing company at the suggestion of Matthew Wilson. At the first meeting Mr. Foster thought it better to have only 50 per cent. paid up, and although he had objected to the principle, he took $4,000 stock and put up $2,000.

As to the 7,000 acres of land lost in the shuffle, he had been told they were under water. He did not know that the company paying for 200,000 acres was getting only 193,000. The details of the 8,640 acres' deal were also kept from him. As to the giving up of the bonus stock, he thought it was because the Union Trust were anxious to become mortgagees.

To Matthew Wilson, Mr. Schofield admitted he knew from the start the syndicate was making 50 cents an acre.

R. E. Levesconte made a statement that the $250,000 Fowler-Ryan option, which he had said was drawn by him, was only of his composition, with the exception of one entry which had been inserted.

Mr. Wilson Volunteers a Statement.

Mr. Matthew Wilson, K. C., asked that he be allowed to put in a written statement of his position.

Mr. Shepley, while glad to receive any statement by Mr. Wilson, declined to allow it to go on the record.

Mr. Wilson intimated that he would give a copy to Mr. Shepley, and that he intended giving his statement publicity.

Mr. Shepley admitted that he could not prevent Mr. Wilson giving any statement to the press, but said he strongly deprecated such a course. Mr. Wilson must, however, be the judge of his own method.

INVOLVES CANADIANS.

Parties In Big Suit Reviving Crash of International Mercantile Co.

New York, Oct. 6.—A suit, an echo of the sensation attendant upon the crash of the International Mercantile Agency a year ago, has begun in the Supreme Court by the McClure Adjustment Co. against 16 of the wealthiest and most prominent business men in this country and Canada, and also against Thos. N. McCauley, the Canadian, who organized the corporation.

Everyone of the defendants was a director of the agency, and it is alleged by the McClure Co. that each conspired with McCauley, who fled the country soon after the crash, to sell to the investing public its stock, which they knew to be worthless.

These are the Canadian directors who are named in the suit: S. F. McKinnon, Toronto; Robert MacKay, Montreal; John MacFarlane, a wholesale paper manufacturer, Montreal; George W. Sadler and James Robinson of Montreal; Edward L. Gould, Brantford; John Flett and W. K. George, Toronto.

Seven Killed As Result Of Bad Accident

Dozen Others Were Injured in a Subway Gas Explosion.

HIT BY DELUGE OF DEBRIS

Half a Block of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co.'s Subway Wrecked—Double Team Dirt Cart, Horses and Man Blown Sky High — Great Damage to Store Windows and Their Show Goods.

Philadelphia Oct. 6.—A terrific explosion of illuminating gas in the subway of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., under construction at Sixth and Market streets yesterday, resulted in the death of seven men, the injuring of about a dozen others, and caused property damage of thousands of dollars.

The explosion occurred shortly before 7 o'clock. It was caused by a leak in a city gas main that had been improperly repaired. The escaping gas formed in a pocket in the subway, and it is believed that a workman with a lamp ignited the gas.

The force of the explosion wrecked the subway for half a block, and all the heavy timbering and other structural work, including tons of earth, fell into the excavation.

Just as the gas blew up a double team dirt cart was being driven directly across the covered subway. The vehicle, horses and man were blown high in the air, and the horses and cart fell into the hole. The driver landed in the street and was only slightly hurt.

Several workmen standing near a derrick were blown across the street and either killed or injured, and a number of pedestrians were hurt by falling glass and signs from the houses.

In addition to the damage done to the subway, to the gas and water mains, and the electric light and telephone conduits, all the windows from Fifth to Seventh streets, on Market, and for half a square on Sixth street, both north and south of Market street, were broken, and thousands of dollars worth of goods in the show windows were damaged. Signs were torn from the roofs and walls of buildings.

TORNADO STRIKES NEW ORLEANS

Four Men Killed and Women and Four Children Badly Injured

New Orleans, La., Oct. 6.—Three separate tornadoes struck New Orleans and vicinity yesterday, causing loss of life and great property damage.

The first tornado was at Pontchatoula, La., about 50 miles north of here; the second in New Orleans and the third near Biloxi, Miss., about halfway between here and Mobile on the gulf coast.

In the tornado at Pontchatoula, Geo. Hawes was killed in his home, which was blown down, and his wife and four children were badly injured. Three negroes are also reported killed.

The second tornado appeared in New Orleans and tore a narrow path through five miles of the residence and business section and doing $500,000 damages. No lives were lost here, but about 50 persons were injured.

The third tornado passed seven miles north of Biloxi, Miss., where it overturned an engine and three cars. Immense trees, which withstood Thursday's great hurricane, were uprooted.

Twenty-Nine Bodies Recovered.

Bluefields, W. Va., Oct. 6.—Twenty-nine bodies have been recovered from the west fork of the Pocahontas Coal Collieries Co.'s mine at Pocahontas, Va., and it was estimated last night that the number of dead will be 70.

Killed By Live Wire.

Belleville, Oct. 6.—Last evening William Welsh, aged 19, son of James Welsh, stepped on a live electric light wire and was instantly killed. The wire had been broken from its fastenings on the pole. It was the property of the Trenton Electric & Water Co., which has the contract for lighting the streets of this city.

Smothered In Dirt.

Galt, Oct. 6.—David Scott of the Galt House hostelry was found dead in a lane yesterday morning. He had been drinking. The doctor, says he fell on his face and was smothered in weeds and dirt. He was 66, came from Milton, and had friends in St. Catharints.

Dies From Poison.

Guelph, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Drum of Chicago died at the home of her cousins, the Messrs. Kennedy, Guelph Township, from poison taken in mistake for medicine.

Knocked Senseless by Horse.

Stratford, Oct. 6.—While extricating a horse from a mass of harness after the animal had fallen, W. F. Wanzell, merchant, was kicked on the head and knocked senseless, receiving a deep gash at the base of the skull. He will recover.

Soothing Syrup Kills Child.

Montreal, Oct. 6.—The coroner has been notified of the sudden death of a child named Vermette, 4 years old, who got hold of a bottle of soothing syrup and drank the entire contents. The child only lived a short time after swallowing the medicine.

COAL MINE EXPLOSION.

Seventy-Five Miners Entombed In West Workings of Pocahontas Colliery—Rescuers Almost Suffocated.

Bluefield, Va., Oct. 4.—As the result of an explosion yesterday afternoon at the West Fork mines of the Pocahontas Coal Collieries Co., where the explosion of 1902 occurred, in which Superintendent O'Malley and 16 others lost their lives, 75 men are supposed to be entombed.

Two rescue parties have entered the mines, and up to 11 o'clock last night two men named Dolbert and Godash have been rescued and revived. The mine is reported to be on fire, and the work of rescue is retarded.

The cause of the explosion is not determined.

Great excitement prevails in the neighborhood of the mines. Crowds of men women and children remained around the drift mouth anxiously awaiting news of relatives and friends among the missing.

The definite results of the explosion will not be known for perhaps 12 hours.

A number of men in the south mine were almost suffocated before they were rescued.

Fatal Football In Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 4.—As a result of injuries received in football practice on Varsity campus yesterday afternoon John Cameron Paulin, a student from Arthur, died in the General Hospital late last night from a fracture of the base of the skull. The young man was a nephew of Hon. J. W. St. John. The coroner will investigate the circumstances.

Dies From His Injuries.

Picton, Oct. 4.—Isaac Friar, a man about 50 years of age, was struck by a C. P. R. passenger train Tuesday morning, and so badly hurt that he died of his injuries.

Attempted Suicide.

Hamilton, Oct. 4—Donald Sutherland, for many years a grocer in Hamilton, attempted to commit suicide at his home on the beach yesterday morning. It is supposed that despondency over business matters was the cause of his trouble. He threatened to end his life and his wife ran out for assistance. When she returned he had cut his throat and was lying in a pool of blood. It is thought that he will recover.

Brother Charged With Killing.

Carleton Place, Oct. 4.—John Bradley died yesterday morning and his brother George is locked up pending an investigation. On Saturday John, William and George Bradley were on the lake in their gasoline launch, and in an altercation George struck John over the head with an oar.

Lieutenant Charged With Arson.

Emerson, Man., Oct. 5.—A big sensation was created yesterday when Lieut. George Durrand of the 90th Regiment, Winnipeg, lessee of the Strathcona Hotel, that was burned to the ground on Sept. 26, was charged yesterday before Magistrate Whitman and Mayor Hamilton of having set the hotel on fire. The case was adjourned until Friday. Durrand claims he can prove an alibi.

Germany Worsted by Canada.

London, Oct. 5.—(C. A. P.)—The Frankford Gazette says it is betraying no confidence when it admits that Germany got the worst end of the stick in the tariff war with Canada. Germany exports to Canada are only half in 1906 what they were in 1903, while Canada exports to Germany nearly double.

Jury Accuses Brother.

Carleton Place, Ont., Oct. 5.—At the coroner's inquest Wednesday night the verdict of the jury was that John Bradley came to his death by a blow from a paddle in the hands of George Bradley, his brother. They are said to have quarreled.

FASHION'S FORECAST

THE FALL HAT AND ITS FADS AND FANCIES.

Small Shapes the Vogue—Taffeta Built Into Smart Tailored Hats. Mahogany Brown and Gray a Striking Combination.

In a few weeks summer hats will be "called in;" consequently the question trembling on the lips of every other woman one meets is, "What shall I get for a fall hat?" As it is going to be a "please yourself" season, there are no hard and fast rules to govern the selection. There will be all sizes and shapes from which to choose, but the essential thing is to choose the thing that is becoming.

Paris is trying again to foist upon us the small hat, not the run mad chapeaux she sent over last fall, but toques and turbans, with legitimate back and front that one does not have to puzzle over to tell 'tother from which.

TOQUE OF OLIVE GREEN.

Pressed shapes will be all the go with colder weather. Silk braid, folds of velvet and silk combined to make the body of the hat and the frame covered smoothly with velvet and felt—these will be de rigueur. But there will be many draped hats worn, and plain taffeta will be built into some very smart tailored hats.

Outing hats are the first to make their appearance in the shops. The season's models have rather high, flat crowns and rolling brims raised high at the sides. They are of white and light tan, French felt and trimmed with silk or velvet, stiff wings and pompons. A pale tan affair is prettily trimmed with light blue silk and blue pompons.

Milliners are predicting a great run for brown hats. Among the new color effects are brown combined with Du Barry pink, peacock blue and bright green, while a mahogany brown combined with gray is very chic. Black hats, too, are very smart.

Great quantities of ostrich feathers are a fall hat trimming, but those sickly looking uncurled feathers that have drooped pathetically on so many summer hats have had their day. Winter will see none of them. Wings, quills, breasts and fancy feathers will wave above every woman's head on every hatted occasion.

What with the new winged effects, lovely ostrich feathers, beautiful flowers, the new hats promise to be wonderfully smart and attractive.

The hat seen in the illustration is a smart model with the stamp of Paris upon it. It is an elongated toque with a high arrangement at the back of ribbon loops and tawny yellow roses.

AMY VARNUM.

SNAPSHOTS OF FASHION.

The New Theater Wrap—Millinery Wrinkles—High Collars the Thing.

The long Puritan cape, with or without a hood, is the model for winter theater wraps. These capes are made of fine ladies' cloth and lined with satin in pale tints. The short pelerine sometimes has as many as six small shoulder capes in graduated sizes and is made to fit closely around the waist, fastening with a leather belt. The sleeves are separate, and the cape comes down fichu shape in front. Braid and embroidery are used as a trimming.

Walking hats are to be smaller, and dress chapeaux grow larger and larger and are covered with ostrich feathers and ospreys.

With the return of long sleeves comes the high collar, but not so tight or uncomfortable as of yore—merely higher, running up at the back into the hair line, and well boned.

Some hats have strings tied under the chin in a small bow. The large evening hats of the season are without streamers, but many of them show long plumes or sprays of flowers falling down to the shoulders.

A wrinkle for the winter linen shirt waist is to lay the fronts and back in two inch box plaits. On the edges of these plaits make a rather large scallop and embroider it in wash cotton. Equally as attractive are tiny vines down the center of each plait, worked with mercerized thread in white or some dainty color.

Autumn dresses are built of very thin cloth in greens, the new blues, reds and tans.

Embroidered linen belts are going to be worn with woolen gowns this winter, and the designs in the cut are made with reference to this requirement. They are conventional patterns carried out in leaves and dots.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Women In Chivalry.

The old order changeth, and orders of chivalry, that had their first origin in the association together of men for the protection of women, are now beginning to admit women to their ranks, says the London Globe. The movement is very slow and moves faster in France, where it had its rise. One of the first members of the great Bonaparte's Legion of Honor was a woman who had won the distinction and her commission by rising from the ranks in his wars, with a dozen wounds to show as her title deeds. During the restored monarchy, the second republic and the second empire, no more women were admitted, but the third republic has gone back to Bonaparte's tradition, and has this year admitted three women, two of them belonging to the stage, of whom Bernhardt is one, and the third a woman painter, Mme. Lemaire, whose studio is a veritable garden of the roses she delights to paint.

Two Important Don'ts.

Don't, my dear girls, begin dabbing your faces with creams and lotions one moment before you need. Pure soap and rain water are all the cosmetics necessary till you are twenty-five at least. After that nightly applications of cold cream and an occasional dust of powder are permissible.

Don't, because you are married, think things do not matter; that you can wear shabby dressing jackets and present a cold cream smeared countenance to your husband's astonished gaze. He may not say anything, but he thinks all the more, and lots of little rifts begin just that way.

FALL HINTLETS.

Hats That the Smartly Gowned Woman Will Wear This Fall.

Fall hats to be worn with tailor mades are built along conservative lines and are fairly small, but not the tiny shapes that have been so popular lately. Most of them are of black, although some very smart models are seen in green and brown and others in a leather color.

On the brown and leather toned hats black trimming gives an effect of style that is most attractive.

Many of the new brown hats are exquisite creations in several shades of the principal color scheme.

French sailor hats will be worn this fall. The latest models have wider brims and higher crowns than the summer sailor shapes.

COSTUME OF GREEN BROADCLOTH.

Braid is to be a trimming much employed during the winter. A stunning suit of navy blue is trimmed with black and white braid.

Wings, stiff bows of ribbon and an occasional plume are the trimmings seen on the first importations of fall hats. In the dress line of hats there is very little shown as yet.

Brown and green are to be the leading colors of the winter. They appear either plain or in fascinating mixtures. One particularly smart effect is a plaid which remains hidden under the weave except in a strong light.

Skirts so far are either plaited or circular, some of them trimmed with circular ruffles, which give the cutaway effect so well liked in all the autumn fashions.

The costume seen in the cut is carried out in a delicious shade of gray green broadcloth. The circular skirt fastens a little toward one side with a row of cloth covered buttons. The smart fitted jacket is effectively trimmed with black velvet and a new white silk braid.

KITCHEN HELPS.

In blending flour and water if a fork is used it will not lump.

When washing glasses in hot water be sure the outside of the glass is washed first. In this way the glass is kept from breaking.

Do not lay the scrubbing brush with the bristles upward. The water is allowed to soak into the wooden part and the bristles very soon become loose. Always place it with the bristles down.

To clean copper take a handful of common salt, enough water and flour to make a paste; mix together thoroughly. There is nothing better for cleaning copper. After using the paste wash thoroughly.

MAKES NEW BLOOD.

That Is How Dr. Williams Pink Pills Cure the Common Ailments of Life

Making new blood. That is just what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are always doing—actually making new blood. This new blood strengthens every organ in the body, and strikes straight at the root of anaemia, and the common ailments of life which have their origin in poor, weak, watery blood. Mrs. A. H. Seeley, of Stirling, Ont., tells what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for her fourteen year old sister, Miss Annie Sager, after other treatment had failed. She says: "For some years Annie had not been well. She would take spells of dizziness and headaches that would last for several days, and her whole body would become dry and hot as though she was burning up with fever. Her lips would swell until near the bursting point, and then when the fever would leave her the outer skin of the lips would peel off. She doctored with two different doctors, but they did not succeed in curing her, and the trouble seemed gradually to be growing worse. Then we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and under this treatment she has recovered her health. The headaches and dizziness have gone; her colour is improved; her appetite better, and she has had no further attacks of the fever which baffled the doctors. We are greatly pleased with what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for her, and recommend them to other sufferers."

It was the rich red blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make which cured Miss Sager. That is why these pills cure all common ailments like anaemia and debility, headaches and backaches, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance and the special ailments that prey on the health and happiness of girls and women of all ages. Get the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, with the full name on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHAT IS WORN.

Embroidered Button Fad—Hats For School Wear—New Sash Pancies.

Embroidered buttons are so smart and attractive that many women are embroidering their own little circles of silk, which are afterward used to cover button molds.

Light felt hats are to be modish for early fall wear for school children.

The pretty fashion of wearing fringed sashes, copied from French children, is being taken up by mothers who are just a little tired of the ubiquitous belt. These sashes are made of wide ribbon—the soft, droopy kind—finished with a fringe of heavy silk knotted on in simple or intricate fashion, according to whim. They are worn long enough for the fringe to come to the very edge of the hem or, as in Paris, just below it.

In spite of a strongly increased demand for a larger hat there is a tendency toward a rather greater vogue of the turban. It is a somewhat long shape and like most of the modish hats is built up at the back with a bandeau. The trimming is also massed at the back and it not infrequently consists of several short but fluffy ostrich plumes. Occasionally a large bird with a paradise tail is perched on the back of one of these smart turbans and then one knows that the creation is straight from Paris.

The cut shows a fall sleeve model. The puff and tight fitting cuff are made of nilet net, while the quaintly shaped elbow effect with tabbed ends is of cloth. Most attractive, too, is the lace neckpiece illustrated with its knotted tie of soft silk. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A WOMAN'S WAY WITH A MAID

How One Housekeeper Disposed of the Servant Problem.

During fifteen years, writes a woman to Good Housekeeping, I have had in my service six girls who have been a comfort and help such as no mere servant can be.

I have never paid wages higher than my neighbors have done, and our home is so small that a maid has to be content with humble accommodations.

I have given, however, what every mistress does not bestow—frequently does not believe in—a certain friendliness, cordial sympathy, an interest in the inner life of a girl whose flesh and blood, whose heart, ambitions and loves are not so different from my own.

One plan I have carried out for years has aided me largely in making the best of each maid who comes into my household. Once a month I give her an afternoon of companionship, not in the duties of the house, but in some little trip or recreation she chooses by herself.

Sometimes I accompany her to a matinee, while on pleasant summer days we go picnicking in the woods or to some shore resort. There have been afternoons spent in museums and art galleries, when I have been really astonished at what a glimpse of things rare and beautiful means to such a girl.

If you will try it, making yourself a key to the mysteries of such an exhibit, you will really find a great deal of pleasure in it. Hundreds of women go out of their way to do such work from a settlement standpoint, but it never occurs to them to give such a pleasure to a girl working in their own kitchens.

It is not alone the pleasure given that is appreciated; it is the companionship and kindly interest I find most valued. The holiday I give is not the weekly Thursday off; it is some other convenient day, and you will find, as I do, that the work has all been satisfactorily completed before the vacation occurs.

Kitchen Scissors.

A kitchen convenience which is not present in every household is a pair of sharp scissors. Scissors are used to trim lamp wicks, which is wrong, and to cut papers and string, but seldom for trimming bacon and ham rinds, skinning parts of fowls which need skinning and trimming salads. These are proper uses for scissors, and the use of them saves much labor.

Spending money is an art which ought to be studied, and every wife can so spend her husband's earnings as to double the purchasing power.

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY OCTOBER 6 1906

The Fire, Water and Light Committee last night, after some months of consideration, have practically decided to allow the Peterborough Light and Power Company to change the present open arc street lights, replacing them with enclosed incandesent lamps.

At the annual field day of sports in connection with the Collegiate Institute, held yesterday, the distinctive feature of the day was the uniformly good work of the juniors, two records, that for standing high jump and running broad jump, being broken.

The Millbrook Fair yesterday, with the best showing of horses of any fair in Eastern Ontario, attracted about 300 Peterborough visitors. There were 5,000 visitors on the grounds, and about 2,000 entries, and the majority of them in the live stock classes.

Enclosed Arc Electric Lamps To Replace The Present Lights

Fire, Water and Light Committee Decides to Allow Light and Power Co. to Change System.

In Consideration of the Change City Secures a Number of Free Lights in the Civic Buildings.

Some of the Advantages of the Enclosed Arc Lights as Compared With Present Open Lamps.

A change in the street lighting system was practically agreed upon last night between the Fire, Water and Light Committee and Mr. J. H. Larmonth, representing the Peterborough Light and Power Company. A resolution was passed by the committee agreeing to the substitution of the enclosed arc lamp for the present system, providing the company would supply, free of charge, light for the municipal building, police station and new firehall.

Those present were Chairman Adams and Ald. Duncan, Elliott, Mason and Ball, and Mr. Larmonth.

The chairman, in bringing the change of system before the meeting, stated that at a previous meeting it was suggested that the company might be willing to give an all-night and every-night service, providing the change were made. This, he stated, would obviate any difficulty with the company regarding when the lights should be lit.

Mr. Larmonth pointed out that the light from the new lamps would be better distributed, steadier, softer, and not so easily extinguished. The company's contract said that they have to maintain moderate lamps and they certainly were not that now.

Ald. Elliott understood from experienced persons that the new lamps were better for the city's purposes than the old ones, and this was the question the committee would have to consider.

The main reason for changing the system, explained Mr. Larmonth, was to obtain the power for street lighting purposes from the same machines as those which supply the other light. By the new system the company can put on 1000 lights, have plenty of power, and there is no danger of the lights going out.

Ald. Elliott said that there were disadvantages as well as advantages, according to the opinions of citizens on the new system, and if there is to be a change it must benefit the people. There was an advantage in the fact that the carbons do not have to be replaced every day, so that the light could be turned on whenever it is wanted, and asked Mr. Larmonth if the company would agree to furnish light whenever there was no moonlight.

Mr. Larmonth stated that under contract the company was in no case obliged to give light more than 300 nights, but he would agree to Ald. Mason's proposal.

Ald. Elliott remarked that he would be satisfied to enter into an agreement of that nature if Mr. Larmonth was willing.

The chairman considered the question a very delicate one in view of the fact that the committee three or four years ago decided on the present system as being better than the other, and thought that to turn-around and give permission for a change would appear to be against the wishes of the people.

Ald. Duncan said that any change made must be to the interests of the people.

The chairman then suggested that the company give the city free lighting for the municipal buildings, the police station and the firehall if the change were made. Mr. Larmonth considered the proposition a favourable one, but could make no agreement until Mr. Stuart, the treasurer of the company, arrived.

The city at present is using 105 lights, and under the new agreement, if mutually agreed upon, the city will be given 150 lamps.

The following resolution, moved by Ald. Mason and Elliott, passed the committee:

"That, provided the Light and Power Company will bring the street lights in the centre of the street when directed to do so by the committee, will furnish lighting for the municipal offices, police station and firehall, up to the number of 150, 16 c.p. lamps free of charge, and agrees to keep the light turned on until 1 o'clock am on nights when there is not clear, unclouded light

Autos Made Over 70 Miles An Hour

In the Vanderbilt Cup Race at Long Island To-day--The Time and Winners.

J. R. Heintz Special)

New York, Oct. 6.—The Vanderbilt Cup auto race at Long Island to-day produced some startling surprises. Wagner won, his time being 4.50; 12 2-5, while Lancia finished first with a time record of 4.53; 23 1-5. The average time for the race was over 70 miles an hour. Wagner drove a Darroch car of French manufacture and 120 horse power. Lancia's machine was an Italian car, with 120 horse power capacity. There were some narrow escapes from serious accidents during the progress of the race.

Half-Time Score Was 26 To 0

Tigers Were Ahead by This Margin in To-day's Game.

At the end of the first half of the Rugby game this afternoon between Hamilton Tigers and Peterborough, the score stood 26—0 in favour of the Tigers.

Wreck On Belleville Line Caused Delay

Car Jumped the Track and Took Others With It—Show Company Was Delayed.

An accident occurred on the Belleville line of the G.T.R., this morning about 5 o'clock, a mile and a half this side of Campbellford.

One of the cars of a freight train jumped the track, owing to a broken truck, taking with it it several others before the train was stopped. This blocked the line and prevented the train from Belleville making connections with the Toronto train at the local station. About six o'clock this morning the Lakefield train, which was in the city at the time, was sent to the scene of the accident, and the passengers were transferred, arriving in Peterboough at 9.15, almost an hour late. However the baggage belonging to the "Trip to the Highlands" Company, could not be transhipped, and this afternoon's performance had to be cancelled. They will, however, appear to-night, as the baggage has since been brought to the city.

The track was cleared in a few hours, and everything running smoothly again at the time the afternoon train went to Belleville.

Hunt Club to Meet

—A meeting of the Eagle Lake Hunt Club will be held on Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Commercial House. All members are asked to be present.

AD, AD, ADVERTISE

That's what to do if you are wise;
Insert it now. Your time—if flies,
Is gain to you if you advertise,
But first of all to make it pay,
You'll just insert it every day
In a newsy paper and proper way;
The Examiner's the one, that's what I say.

HOW MEN DRESSED THEN.

Knickerbocker of New York Wear the Dress of Their Grandfathers.

At a recent period dance in New York all the guests wore suits and dresses worn by their forefathers before the war. The men wore collars and stock ties, coats with broad velvet collars and pog toi trousers, light dancing slippers, and white stockings. In many cases original costumes were worn.

It needed just such a garment exhibition to emphasize the sartorial achievements of the Semi-ready tailoring system in the present period. The contrast was great, but the simplicity, culture, and real lines of art in the evening dress suits made by the Semi-ready Company and sold only in Semi-ready Wardrobes, have never been attained in any other era of the world of fashion. Every Semi-ready garment, whether a $15 suit or a $35 Semi-ready Chesterfield, is tailored as an individual work of art. A. W. Creasman, agent for Peterborough.

South Waterloo farmers have organized a protective association and raised the price of milk to dairymen to 13 cents a gallon.

ARMY OFFICERS FAREWELLING

Staff Capt. and Mrs. McAmmond, Who are Leaving the Local Corps.

To-morrow Staff-Capt. and Mrs. McAmmond will take their farewell of the local Salvation Army Corps, and the usual three public services will be held at the Barracks. During their fifteen months in this city, Staff-Capt. and Mrs. McAmmond have made themselves dear to not only the members of the Army, but by the citizens with whom they have come in contact.

As yet the Staff-Capt. has received no orders as to his future movements, nor ha he been advised as to who his successor is to be. To-day he was furnished with a list of the important corps in which changes are being made at the present time, and they are Montreal, Peterborough, London, Brantford and Kingston, and the Staff-Capt. has been stationed at all these cities.

With his wife he will leave here on Wednesday, for Toronto to attend the Officers' Congress in that city. Ensign Comstock, who has been assisting the officer in charge for the last five months will also farewell to-morrow.

1200 Passengers Were Carried By One Train Friday

G. T. R. Noon Train Accommodated Two Fair Crowds Between Toronto and Port Hope

Millbrook and Markham Fairs Contributed to Record Passenger Business for One Day

At least one G.T.R. train earned its way yesterday. In five hours the train which leaves here at 11.45 a.m., on its way from Toronto to Port Hpe, carried no less than 1,200 passengers. The conductor on the train stated yesterday that he had broken all ordinary one day's records, and that he had very few spare minutes from the time he left the Union Station, Toronto at 7.50, until he reached Port Hope at 12.50 The cause of the extraordinary traffic on this particular train was the fact that Markham and Millbrook fairs were in progress. Hundreds left Toronto for Markham, while from Lindsay, Omemee and Peterborough hundreds more boarded the train for the great Millbrook fair. This, for one day's traffic, pretty nearly constitutes a record.

Lakefield Is Like Peterboro'

The Merchants Sufter Losses by Shoplifters and Pilferers.

A copy of the Lakefield News has the following to say of petty thefts:—"From time to time one hears complaints of petty pelfering from store counters in this village. The last case of this kind is reported to us by a well known merchant, who was victimized last week to a considerable extent by the theft of valuable goods from his store counter. The merchant is question happens to know positively who is the culprit in the case and takes this means of informing her that it is simply out of consideration for her highly respected family that no action is being taken for the recovery of the goods.

Site Selected For Pavilion

The Committee Appointed Held Meeting This Week.

The committee appointed by the East End Cottagers Association at Stony Lake, to arrange for the building of a pavilion at Crowe's Landing, met this week, and drove out to the Landing where they selected a site for the building.

The pavilion will be greatly appreciated by the summer residents at the east end of the lake.

Dickson Company Purchase Mill

Have Bought Out All Privileges of Mr. John Hull, Lakefield.

Mr. John Hull's mill at Lakefield, has been purchased by Mr. J. C. Shook, for the Dickson Company, the transfer being made this week. The mill be operated on a larger scale than formerly, and will be thoroughly renovated. The purchase included Mr. Hull's privileges at the Lakefield dam, and it is understood the Dickson Company are now the owners of all the water power there.

The mill will be equipped with a roller process and will be run to its fullest capacity — 125 barrels per day.

It is understood that the consideration amounted to about $15,000.

Mr. Hull has been a successful miller for 49 years and now gives up his business to look after his other interests.

Alleged Pickpocket, Before Leaving City, Nabbed By Policeman

Money Taken From Shantyman's Pocket While He Awaited Arrival of Noon Train.

Prisoner Had Ticket to Montreal and Was About to Board the Train--Is Now Behind the Bars

Handcuffed together, two men marched at noon to-day, in company with P. C. Newhall, from the C.P.R. station to the police station—the one arrested on a charge of pocket-picking, and the other the man who was touched for the money. Both were waiting, with tickets, to board the C.P.R. noon train, the accused to go to Montreal, and the other bound for Tweed, but their prospective journeys were prevented just in time by the police officer.

Jack Burns, who had just returned from camp in the north, had been drinking somewhat, and when he arrived at the station, lay down in the waiting-room for a rest. It is alleged that Louis Delorimey, who said his home was in Montreal, robbed him of his money while he lay half asleep on the bench. A number of persons standing by positively declare that they saw the prisoner put his hand in Burns' pocket, and the latter says he lost over five dollars.

The Two Men Argue.

Burns accused the other of the theft at the station, and gave him an opportunity to return the $5, but the Montrealer refused, emphatically stating he did not steal it. The police were 'phoned, and in a few minutes P. C. Newhall had the handcuffs on the alleged thief and took from his right-hand trousers pocket a five and one dollar bill. A large number awaited the coming of the train, so that interested crowds surged to and fro to get a glimpse of the prisoner and his alleged subject.

Taken To Police Station.

Burns and the prisoner were then handcuffed together and taken to the police station, where the alleged thief was thoroughly searched. In his right hip pocket were found $22 in bills of one, five and ten dollar denominations. Inhis inside coat pocket was an untapped bottle of 5-year-old Empire rye whisky, and in another was a copy of the Saturday Blade. A few other little trinkets were also discovered, and he had about a dozen cigars in his vest pocket, which, he said, he purchased in a local hotel.

Denies The Charge.

The prisoner, in broken English, denied the accusation that he had stolen any money, declaring that it was all his own.

The evidence appears to be very strong against him from the statements made by bystanders, and when he comes up before the Magistrate this afternoon he will probably be convicted.

He resides at 260 Railway Tenth street, Montreal.

Live Stock Of Cavan Was The Attraction

At the Annual Millbrook Fair Yesterday--Some Features of One of the Best Country Fairs in the Province--5000 Persons on the Ground—Entries, Particularly in Horses, Were Very Large.

With a paid attendance approaching 5,000 persons, an entry list numbering about 2,000 and a showing of live stock (Cavan's pride) equal to that of any three fairs yet held in this vicinity, it would be hard to characterize the Millbrook Central Exhibition for 1906 as anything other than an unqualified success.

There is no doubt about this fact—any one of the 300 odd Peterborough citizens who attended will attest to its truth, and had it not been for the threatening weather in the early hours of the day, the officers are confident that all past records would have been surpassed. As it was, the entries were not larger than they have been on one or two occasions in the past, nor did the attendance exceed that of last year's, both of which circumstances are explained by the fact that the day opened, so far as weather conditions were concerned, anything but promisingly.

The wonder of it is that with these disadvantages, the fair was the success it was.

A Farmer's Show

The Millbrook fair is essentially a farmer's fair, and to this fact it owes its success. It is an exhibition held for the farmers, managed by farmers and patronized by farmers, and there are those—and many of them too—who have little hesitation in declaring that it is the best farmers' show in the province, even of Toronto.

Be that as it may, the fair was almost an ideal country show, and those who attended got their money's worth.

The distinctive feature of the Millbrook fair is the showing of stock, particularly horses. E. Durham has a number of farmers who take pride in their well bred horses and they all visit the Millbrook Fair with them. The result is that at none of the smaller fairs will there be found a showing of horses to excel, if to equal, that in this fair. This feature has gradually been cultivated, until at the present time it is a recognized fact that to see good horses one only has to go to the Millbrook fair.

Some Horse Exhibitors

The number of entries in this class this year was fully up to that of former years, while the quality of the animals shown was of even a higher standard. Some of the principal exhibitors in this class were—J. L. Fair, Dr. Hassard, Millbrook;

Mean Treatment Accorded Laborer

Young Englisman Receives Mean Treatment at Hands of North Monaghan Council.

The newly arrived Englishmen who engage as farm hands in the surrounding country find that real labour is what they are up against. As a general rule not very many of them stay with their work as they are not all accustomed to the farmer's working hours. But when they do remain they should be treated fairly and given their wages. A young Englishman has been helping one of the North Monaghan farmers on his farm for the last six months and yesterday complained of alleged unfair treatment received from his employer.

It seems that he engaged with this farmer at $15 a month with the proviso that at harvest time his wages would be $40 a month, what all harvesters receive. During the whole time he was there he received only $5 in cash and when he decided to quit the farmer had to pay him, and then he was given only $15 per month, while the remaining 25 per month for the harvest month is coming. His hours were from daylight, or about four a.m., until nine p.m. His estimation of farmers has considerably dimnished and it will be some time before he takes to the turf again. This is his story.

PASTORS AND POLICEMEN

The Methodist pastors of Chicago are demanding higher salaries. They point out that the Chicago policemen get $1000 a year, while the average salary of ministers in the United States is only $500. Yet how much better is a parson than a policeman? The question is raised by one of the Chicago ministers, whether it pays to be a preacher. Financially, the answer would be no, for there are thousands of men wearing the cloth, with an ability which in other spheres of activity, would yield ten times more than the meagre salaries doled out by grudging Christians to their spiritual shepherds. In the history of Canada there are thousands of instances where statesmen have served their country to their financial loss, while they might have amassed fortunes by following a business, or profession; but they did not serve for money—they were animated by patriotism, and a desire to promote the advancement of their country. So in the Gospel ministry there are thousands of men working for the advancement of the Master's Kingdom, who receive pittances representing a very attenuated bond between soul and body, who, if they applied the same ability, learning, zeal and energy in a profession or business, would rank as favourites of mammon. If ministers regard preaching the Gospel as a vocation, the question of pay, beyond maintaining the demands of appearance and living, which the society in which they move demands, need not be prominent. If they preach the Gospel, as a mere profession—mere means of making a living—they are wofully underpaid. In any event, however, the preacher should have a better salary, than is paid on the average. To effectively devote his whole time, and undivided energy to his duties, he should not have his attention distracted by sordid cares arising out of the struggle to make ends meet, with mighty little material. He has children to educate, a seemly outside, and the highest position in society to maintain, with a dignity worthy of his calling. It may be urged that St. Paul paid his way, by making tents, in the intervals of regenerating the Gentiles. But, alas! there are no more St. Pauls—he was a bachelor, and left no lineal descendants. Conditions were cruder in the primitive days, and the expenses of decent living, not to speak of bare existence, were as nothing compared with those of to-day, when, in any event, a pastor should command a higher stipend than a slumberous policeman.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Winnipeg Free Press suggests that it is not likely that the people of Canada will be in a hurry to put their trust funds in George E. Foster's care.

We haven't heard much of late of the Torrens land title system. Isn't it about time that we again investigated its merits, when as recently occurred, it cost $3,000, to search the titles to the $70,000 property purchased for the Toronto Hospital?

A friend of Hearst, the black sheep Democratic candidate for Governor of New York, says in his favour that he neither smokes nor drinks. Yet there are millions of men who do both who are as angels of light compared with what members of his own party described him.

The Methodist congregations of Toronto, in the coming winter, will dispense refreshments at the close of the evening services. Coffee and cake will be brought on as soon as the doxology is sung. This will be done with a view to entice the young people to attend church. This expedient may be considered necessary in these degenerate days, but we have no record that the multitude who followed our Blessed Lord for the sake of the loaves and fishes became pillars of the church.

One new industry, anyway, no matter what its opponents say, is to be credited to the Liberal Government, and it wasn't created by a high tariff either. The Government brought to Canada Mr. Currie, an expert in the matter of herring curing. With the aid of the Scotch lassies he brought with him, Mr. Currie has demonstrated that the herrings of the Maritime Provinces are as good as the Scotch or any other, if properly cured. Previously the immense shoals of herrings merely furnished food for the sharks and whales, or were used as fertilizer for land. Thanks to the Government's action these fish have now became an important commerical commodity.

Home After Five Weeks Visit To Western Canada

Mr. Thos. Lee, the Genial Market Clerk, Has Returned—Visited His Old Home in Manitoba—Threshing Almost Concluded—Plenty of Farm Labourers.

After a five weeks' visit among the wheat lands of the Province of Manitoba, Mr. Thos. Lee, Peterborough's well-known market clerk, returned to the city last night, accompanied by Mr. Joseph Mitchell and also Mr. Herbert Scott, of Smith township. Mr. Lee put in an early appearance at the market office this morning and was engaged for some time receiving recognitions from his old friends. It was therefore some time before the reporter could get in a question as to how Mr. Lee spent the time in the West and how business was flourishing in that section of the Dominion.

He left Peterborough with one of the harvest excursions, and states that a host of young men from Eastern Canada went West this year, many of whom will not return, but will take up land in the West.

Mr. Lee had a splendid time on the trip, which he takes annually to his old home at Elie, a village situated about 30 miles west of Winnipeg. He has also some property at Gilbert Plains, a locality a short distance west of Dauphin, which he also visited.

Threshing in Vogue

Threshing in Manitoba has been almost concluded, but farther west it is yet in progress. Those who have never been in that part of the country have no idea of the number of threshing machines engaged in shelling out the immense quantity of grain, which gives to the West the name, "The Granary of the Empire."

Grain is Excellent

All conditions, Mr. Lee said, seemed to unite to make the wheat crop the best he had ever seen. The yield was excellent and the grain of the finest quality in that section, where his property is situated, and from reports it was equally as good further to the West.

Business is Brisk

The climate there was ideal, the fall being particularly mild and conducive to harvesting and threshing. Everything appears to be going ahead in bounds, and business is becoming more brisk every year. Winnipeg is growing rapidly, and rapid strides are being made towards every point of the compass.

Labourers are Scarce

Farm labourers in the West this year were plentiful, thousands answering to the appeal for men to assist in the harvest.

Mr. Lee will again be seen at his old stand on the market, and no doubt his many listeners will hear many tales of his trip to America's best wheat lands.

Wood Ranger Commences Work

Mr. Geo. Chambers Has Gone to Kinmount.

Mr. George Chalmers of Peterborough, who has recently been engaged in employing men for the Sault Ste. Marie district winter camps, but who has lately been appointed a wood ranger under Mr. Arthur Stevenson, passed through town the other day to Kinmount, in pursuance of his duties for the Ontario Government.—Lindsay Post.

A SAN FRANCISCO PHYSICIAN

Uses Herpicide Successfully In Treating Sycosis of the Beard.

He says: "I recently treated a case of sycosis (similar to 'barber's itch') of the lower lip, with Newbro's Herpicide. There was an extensive loss of beard, with inflammation extending well down on the chin. The result of the application of Herpicide was most gratifying. The loss of beard ceased, and a new growth of hair is now taking place over the once inflamed area.

"Signed. Melville E. O'Neill, M.D.,
"845 Howard street,
"San Francisco, Cal."

Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and permits the hair to grow abundantly.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

A DELIGHTFUL WINTER RESORT

It is announced that this year the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's fine hotel at Caledonia Springs, Ont., will be kept open for accommodation of visitors all winter. The company has great faith in Caledonia Springs as an all-years-round resort, something better than a mere summering place, and this action will without doubt be appreciated by many people to whom the Springs have been hitherto closed more than half the year, owing to the lack of accommodation. 3d80

Invited Pastor From Hamilton

Springville Congregation Want One—Other News Notes.

Examiner Special.

Springville, October 6th. — Rev. Dr. Marsh of Hamilton, who occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church here last Sunday, will preach again to-morrow at 1.30 a.m., and 7 p.m.

At the close of the service last Sunday, the congregation extended an unanimous wish, that Rev. Dr. Marsh should become their pastor. A formal call will be extended to Dr. Marsh, and it is hoped that he may see his way clear to accept.

Mr. Jas. D. Baptie had an exceptionally successful exhibit at the Millbrook Fair, three of his horses taking first prizes.

The grain market here is very active. Mr. J. M. Lillico heads, having brought in 1000 bush. oats. He also has the credit of buying the largest load, 180 bushels. Mr. Andrew Hogg is second with a load of 127 bushels of barley.

Mr. Alex. Laing has lost a valuable horse in a rather peculiar manner. The animal was rolling in the pasture field and got into a hole, and died before help could reach him.

Mr. G. W. Spencer, superintendent of this division of the C. P. R., visited the village this week, and with Mr. Fred Wilson discussed the improvements to the shipping facilities of Springville. A grain elevator, and other things are on the tapis.

Mrs. Lytle and Miss Jennie Huston, Peterborough, spent a day this week with Mrs. Cathcart.

A share of your patronage will be thankfully received. J. M. Donovan. 'Phone 652. 2d80

Rush Sale of Wall Papers and Borders
—We have struck the right key-note in selling borders and wall papers at the same price. Cubbit's stock of wall paper is selling like "hot cakes" at Stratton's. Remember we have only 10,000 rolls of this paper at half price. Mostly all new patterns, purchased within the year from the leading Montreal wall paper makers. Remember the prices,—papers per roll 3c., borders per roll 3c., papers per roll 5c., borders per roll 5c., papers per roll 10c., borders per roll 10c. and 8c. Just think what this means —a room papered for less than half a dollar at one price, and less than one dollar at the other. Come early Monday morning and bring the size of your room. A. H. Stratton & Co., 417 George street.

Singer Wins A King's Heart

Ruler of Greece Attentive to Mary Garden.

Examiner Special.

Paris, Oct. 6.—Mary Garden, the beautiful American who has taken the place held by the late Sybil Sanderson in the hearts of the Parisian public, has been the recipient, while at Biarritz recently, of a good deal of attention from the King of Greece, also at that resort taking the cure, Mrs. Grundy has raised her eyebrows in vain; she cannot prevent the King from coming to Paris, and his visit from coinciding with the date of the popular singer's return to the French capital.

Miss Garden has had two formidable rivals in the matter of public and royal attention while at Biarritz. They were Emma Calve and Lucienne Breval, both of whom have been heard in America. However, though the running was closed it is generally admitted that the handsome daughter of Columbia has won by a good deal.

Demetre Bros. New Restaurant

Handsomely Furnished Dining Room Now Opened to The Public.

The enterprising firm of Demetre Bros., confectioners, corner George and Charlotte streets, opened to-day for the first time, their new lunch room and restaurant in connection with their confectionery store. They have secured a competent chef, who comes well recommended as an expert in cooking, etc. Meals will be served in the best city style, and lunch at all hours. The new restaurant may be entered from Charlotte street, or from the store's ice cream parlour. The premises have been fitted up in good style, and are decorated with plate glass mirrors, silver service, fine glass, cutlery, etc. Being situated near the Opera House, skating rink, and on the line of travel to the railway stations, it ought to be well patronized.

Lever's Y-Z (Wise Head) Disinfectant Soap Powder dusted in the bath, softens the water and disinfects.

Mme. Pattie To Appear Again

A String to Her Announced "Retirement".

Examiner Special.

London, Oct. 6.—There was a string to Mme. Adelina Patti's recent farewell announcement. After nearly 60 years of a career behind the footlights that has brought her a fortune of millions of dollars, she, only a few days ago, gave it out that she would sing in public no more. Now it is announced that she will sing at Royal Albert Hall on the afternoon of December 1, and that she will sing at Percy Harrison's benefit next summer. It is further mentioned that in the autumn of next year Mme. Patti will bid good-bye to the provinces in a final "farewell tour."

The career of no other public singer or of operatic star matches that of Mme. Patti.

It is stated that she has earned more than $4,000,000 during her career, and latterly she was in demand in London concerts at $4,000 for a single performance. She is very happily married and lives most of the year at her castle in Wales, Craig-y-Nos.

HUNTERS' EXCURSIONS

The fact that the C. P. R. line runs for so many miles through ideal hunting lands, where moose and deer and smaller game galore wax fat, and await the advent of fall and the accompanying guns and dogs, is, of course, the principal reason why, about this time of year, the enthusiastic sportsman turns to the well-known yellow-covered folder, and studies time-tables and maps so industriously. Hunters' excursions are around again, and single fare will soon be the order of the day. The C. P. R. announces that from October 9th to November 6th return tickets to all stations on their main line, Mattawa to Port Arthur, and Mattawa to Temiskaming and Kipawa, will be on sale at single fare, and from October 25th to November 8th, tickets at the same low rate to stations on the Lindsay branch, stations between Sudbury and the Soo and Havelock, and Sharbot Lake. All tickets will be good to return until December 8th, with stop-overs allowed anywhere. Special steamship rates to the Soo and Port Arthur will also be in effect. Intending hunters should make a point of calling at the nearest C. P. R. ticket office for further information and for copies of "Fishing and Shooting," "Sportsman's Map," and "Open Seasons and Game Laws," all of which are of particular interest and use to sportsmen, and are free for the asking. C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C. P. R., Toronto, will gladly mail them to any address, if difficulty is experienced getting copies. 3d81

Training Girls For Life's Work

Some Good Advice to Mothers on This Subject.

It is but natural that many old-fashioned mothers look forward to their daughters doing one thing—and only one thing—marrying, and having homes of their own. Well and good; yet in these days of unrest, when fortunes are lost as easily as they are made, one cannot "put their trust in riches," and the girl who marries, secure in the fact that practical training and the ability to understand and master difficult circumstances will stand her in good stead should the need come, will make a better wife, a better mother, than the mere butterfly of fashion.

My advice, therefore, to mothers, is to see that their daughters have training along the line of their natural abilities during the years between graduation and the time when they will become wives. It may be that they will not marry. How much better then to have some interest that will give the touch of sympathy to life amid the army of the world's workers, even if the necessity to toil should not come their way.

The girl who is willing to toil is always respected. Many a girl works her way through college and the authorities do all in their power to aid her by establishing college bureaus of "self-help," which place work in her way.

But when a girl does not wish to go to college, or does not feel she can spare the time, a course in some practical school will give her intelligent understanding of some kind of work that will assure her a position if she wishes it.

Skilled labour is in demand these days, and if one notices high-class advertisements at all one is confronted with clauses like "High school graduate preferred," "Domestic Science Training Necessary," "Only Those with Experience Need Apply," and so forth.

Now all schools and colleges are opening and the girl graduate of June, who has rested and idled all summer, will do well to ask herself, Of what good am I? What can I do? Perhaps she has not been brought up to look at life in this way. Perhaps she does not think that "Work id dignity." — then mothers will you look forward to the years for her, and guide her in her choice, that when the future comes she will not reproach you with her ignorance of toil!—Louise Chamberlayne in the Housekeeper.

The Foresters Held Re-union

Celebrated Uniting of the Two Courts.

The Sons of England Hall was the scene of an enjoyable event last evening, when the members of Court Chemong, No. 503, I.O.F., and Companion Court Queen, held a re-union in consideration of the consolidation of the two Courts.

A large number of the members and their families were present, and a delightful evening was spent. There was a splendid programme, which was apparently much to the taste of the audience, judging by the hearty applause with which each number on the programme was received, encores being demanded in nearly every case.

Bro. David Wallace, Chief Ranger, made a very efficient chairman.

The following was the programme:
Instrumental duet, "Life on the Ocean Wave"
Messrs. Nicholls and Howorth.
Vocal solo, "A Son of the Desert"
Mr. G. Allen.
Recitation, "How Jinks joined the Foresters"
Mr. N. A. Howard-Moore.
Vocal solo, "Queen of the Earth"
Mr. Duncan Campbell.
Recitation, "A Surprise on Lize".....
Mr. Jas. Dunnett.
Comic song, "Inquisitive Kitty".....
Mr. Chas. Coleman.
Piano solo, Valse in E flat.....
by Dowman
Miss Pearl Morgan.
Vocal duet, "Country Yokels".....
Messrs. Wm. and Chas. Coleman.
Comic solo, "The Lost Luggage Man"
Mr. Chas. Coleman.
Comic song, "If the Missus wants to Go"
Mr. E. Jarman.

Two visiting Foresters were present and were given a hearty reception. They were Bro. D. H. Brown, the High Court Organizer of Chicago, and Bro. E. A. Shoebotham, of London.

At the conclusion of the programme, refreshments, consisting of coffee and cake, were served, and a pleasant social hour spent.

The committee in charge are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts to make the re-union enjoyable.

Improvements To Lakefield Docks

Will be Effected in Time for Next Year's Navigation.

Mr. F. J. Moore authorizes the Lakefield News to state that he has received a distinct assurance from Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., and Mr. McClellan, that the renovation of the Government dock will be an accomplished fact before the opening of next season's navigation. A further improvement will also be made in the providing of three or four lights along the roadway,

The Granolithic Walks In Village

Cost This Year 10c. a Foot As Compared With 12c. in 1905.

Mr. William Doidge informs the Lakefield News, that the sidewalks laid down for the village this year, cost only 10 cents a foot as compared with 12 cents last year. This is a very satisfactory showing, and it is rendered the more so in face of the fact that the cost of cement was 10 cents a barrel higher than the previous year.

Rev. Canon Davidson Again The President

Ministerial Association Elected Officers Yesterday—Rev. J. G. Lewis Secretary for Third Term—Encouraging Reports.

The regular association meeting for the month of October and the first for the annual term, was held in the Y.M.C.A. parlours on Friday, at 2 p.m., with the following members present: Revs. Canon Davidson, J. G. Lewis, Dr. Torrance, Dr. Crothers, A. H. Brace and J. G. Potter. All the members of the association were present except Rev. F. J. Scott, who was out of the city.

The report of the secretary, Rev. J. G. Lewis, showed that several members had attended every meeting of the past year, while most of the others were but little short of this record.

The president's report was most encouraging in outlining the good work of the past year, and the prospects and possibilities of the ensuing year.

The well-deserved honour was bestowed upon Rev. Canon Davidson of unanimously electing him president for a third term. His strong protest against acceptance was overcome only by much persuasion in the part of the members.

Rev. J. G. Lewis was for a third term unanimously chosen as secretary, though strongly desiring to be relieved of the duties.

The union social meeting, to be held next Tuesday evening in St. John's Church, and warmly endorsed by the association, is expected to be highly successful and to greatly help to a fuller fraternal spirit among the various churches.

Cobourg Jail Walls Are Easy To Scale; A Blunder

A Serious Mistake Made in Constructing the New Jail at Cobourg for United Counties.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star this week says:—

What seems a great error on the part of the architect of the new Cobourg gaol has been discovered and we must, as a public journal, make it known. The error may be corrected before it is too late. It appears that the wall at the south west portion of the gaol is so close to the windows, being only 21-2 inches from the window case to the wall, that a young man or an old one at that, could climb from the lower window to the second and third storey window, and thus scale the wall, that we cannot see what the architect was thinking of when he made such a plan. It is up to the County Council to see that this grave error is corrected before a practial exhibit of how to scale a gaol wall is put into practice.

New Store Opens To The Public

F. J. R. McPherson & Co. Will Be the New Name.

To-day Mr. F. J. R. McPherson opened for business his new store on George street, recently vacated by Messrs. L. M. Henry & Co. It will henceforth be known as F. J. R. McPherson & Co., his brother, Mr. Angus McPherson, having taken an interest in the business.

Besides dealing in plumbing and electrical supplies, as before, the company has entered the stove business, and has laid in a stock of the Canada Stove Company's stoves, besides those of other reputable makes.

The store has been fitted up artistically, and each department is equipped with the newest, and most modern stock, and each section of the business is in charge of a competent man.

Mr. McPherson began in the bicycle business in 1897, and has been so successful that since that time he has added to it, until now he has a thoroughly equipped store. The rear of the new store will be utilized for an electrical display room, and in this line a surprise awaits his patrons.

The company opened their new store to-day.

Women Quarrel On Rutherford Ave.

Tales of Woe Are Spreading From That Direction.

Tales of woe are again coming from a number of the feminine population on Rutherford avenue, a street running off Patterson street in the south-west end of the city. Some time ago a case from that vicinity came before the magistrate. It was thought that everything had been settled then but Rutherford avenue appears to be getting more rowdy than ever.

Their quarrels, too, appear to be only mere childish affairs, but some say it is quite propable a quota of them will appear in police court as their movements are now being closely watched.

Leaves Monday For Manitoulin

Mr. Jas. A. Tully Will Institute Lodges in the North.

Mr. Jas. A. Tully, travelling representative of the I.O.O.F. Relief Association, will leave on Monday for Manitoulin Island, where he will institute Oddfellows' Lodges at Manitouwaning, Gore Bay and Little Current. Mr. Tully also intends to institute a lodge at Penetanguishene on the northern trip before he reaches Manitou. He will be absent from the city for about four weeks.

Mr. A. Lancashire Goes To Galt

Peterborough Loses a Highly Respected Citizen.

Mrs. Alf. Lancashire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. C. Irwin, Stewart street, leaves this evening by G. T. R. to join her husband in the town of Galt. About a month ago, Mr. Lancashire accepted a lucrative position in that place as head salesman in the dry goods section of Wilkinson's large departmental store, here he has been for the past three weeks. Mr. Lancashire had been for nearly 20 years a faithful and experienced employee of the Turnbull Company's store here, having entered as an apprentice and progressed until he filled the position of chief salesman in the dress goods department. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lancashire leave behind in Peterborough many warm friends who, while regretting their departure from this city, will rejoice to hear of their welfare in their place of residence.

Swiss Women On The Bench

Deputy's Daughter Devoted to Magistrate's Chair.

Examiner Special

Geneva, Oct. 6.—Mlle. Brustlein, the daughter of a Swiss deputy, has taken her place on the magistrates' bench at Zurich, and in company with her male colleagues, tried several cases, which, with the exception of two, were not of a serious nature.

This is the first time a woman has sat on the bench in Switzerland, and Mlle. Brustlein's friends and admirers crowded the court.

She was consulted on several points, and the verdicts it was remarked, were rather lenient, especially in the cases of women.

EYES
A Peterborough gentleman says:—"For the past six years I have had very poor sight, and although treated by the best eye specialist of Liverpool, Eng., and later by a famous specialist of South America, yet J. W. Browett, Doctor of Optics, of Philadelphia, is the first to discover the real trouble and remedy it by Glasses, which now give me perfect sight. I believe some noted men fail to give necessary time, and thus overlook a complicated eye trouble." J. W. Browett is doing wonderfully good work for the citizens of Peterborough. You may wish to ask him about your eyes, and have examination free.

THE STORE THAT NEVER DISAPPOINTS

WHAT WE HAVEN'T GOT WE'LL GET IF IT'S GETABLE

Pursuing this principle has had considerable to do with this store's success. Instead of instructing salespeople to decry the make or quality of an article because it doesn't happen to be in stock, we impress upon our staff the importance of exhausting every effort to percive What the Public Want and When They Want It. No sentiment in business, but there are numerous friendships to be made by being accommodating.

Lord's Day Alliance Want Local Assistance

Past Ten Months Work Affords Encouragement—The Ministerial Association Considered Request—Will be Brought Before Congregations.

The question of supplying funds for the assistance of the Lord's Day Alliance was before the Ministerial Association yesterday and will be brought before the various congregations on Sunday, October 14th, by the ministers. A letter was received from the treasurer of the Alliance which was read yesterday and its requests unanimously approved of. The following is the letter:—

Toronto,
September 7th, 1906.

Dear Fellow Worker,—We are within two months of the close of another financial year. A backward glacne over the ten months affords much encouragement, while a forward look to October 31st, necessarily causes us some anxiety in relation to the finances.

Two months that are gone are marked by progress and victory. The chief event of the year has been the enactment of a new Lord's Day Act by the Parliament of Canada, which is a very great advance on former conditions. Congratulations are offered on every hand.

In our own Province there has been a distinct legislative gain, by the passing of the Ontario Railway Act, of 1906, which greatly improves the Electric Railway legislation, and will prove a more effective instrument in preventing the Sunday operation of such roads.

The Lord's Day Act (C.S.U.C. 104) has been vigorously and successfully enforced all over the Province. In this the Attorney General's Department has rendered every possible assistance.

There is much to encourage us in the growth of public sentiment concerning the Lord's Day. The press and pulpit are giving special attention to the subject. The people are interested as never before; and as a consequence, the need and usefulness of the Alliance are better recognized by all classes.

As the financial year approaches its close, we are necessarily anxious as to the finances. We began the year with a small balance on hand, and our friends have enabled us to pay all current expenses until July, when we found ourselves $700.00 in debt. If each branch will remit the amount asked last November by our Annual Meeting, we shall be able to close the year without a deficit.

Last annual meeting earnestly requested all branches to make their full remittance, if possible, by October 1st. Will your branch kindly act on this request. The books close without fail on October 31st.

Will you kindly consult your fellow officers, and call your Executive at once. Plan for a thorough canvass for members and funds so that every lover of the Lord's Day will have an opportunity to help in the work. If seen, old members will renew, and many others unite. Secure, if possible, the co-operation of all ministers, and visit Young People's Societies, Sabbath Schools, and Labour Unions, to interest their members. Many have heartily helped in former years, and will doubtless gladly do so again.

Send for literature, envelopes and collector's cards, if needed.

Members will continue to receive the Lord's Day Advocate, which has won the heartiest approval from every part of Canada. Be sure to send us names and addresses.

Do not delay your canvass for a single day. Every moment is precious. The general outlook being so exceedingly hopeful, we earnestly trust the work will not be crippled or hindered for lack of funds.

Counting on your hearty co-operation,

Yours in the Common Cause,
J. K. MACDONALD,
President.
CHARLES J. COPP,
Treasurer.

No Shortage In Flowers Will Be Found This Season

Jordan Bros. Have a Very Large Number of Plants—New Greenhouse Has Been Recently Erected—5000 Carnation Plants.

"There should be no shortage in cut flowers in Peterborough this season," said Mr. Samuel Jordan, of the firm of Jordan Bros., florists, to and Examiner reporter who visited the firm's greenhouse on Argyle street yesterday, and the scribe as he gazed around him at the thousands of plants displayed in the long glass houses, had no hesitation in accepting his statement.

The people of Peterborough have but a faint conception of of the extent of the flower growing operations of Jordan Bros. Their plant is a very extensive one, and now consists of five green houses, the latest of which has recently been completed. This addition is 112 feet by 18 feet, and contains a large number of beautiful carnation plants, many of which are already in bloom. The other four greenhouses are 100 feet by 20 feet and two of them, are also filled with carnation plants, making 5,000 of these plants in all. These now Average from 150 to 200 flowers a day, and soon will be giving 500, so that there will be plenty of carnations for the winter season. There are a large number of plants bearing a variety of carnation known as "The Enchantress," a fitting name for the beautiful flower. A fourth greenhouse of the plant contains 5,000 chrysanthemums, which are already in bud. These are beautiful plants and give promise of great things for the future. In this house are also found 1,000 choice primroses, and primulas, which are in splendid condition.

The fifth greenhouse contains a magnificent display of ferns and smilax for winter decorating.

The plant is by no means confined to the greenhouses, as several departments are found outside. Here in one bed are five thousand bulbs, a shipment recently received from Holland. These consist of hyacinths, daffodils and tulips.

There is a fine bed of violets, which although they are a late flower, are already in blossom. These will be moved inside one of the greenhouses in a short time.

Another greenhouse will be erected shortly, the increase in business making this addition necessary. The houses now erected contain some 20,000 square feet of glass. They are well provided for in the way of heating, there being five hot water heaters in the building, which keep the temperature as desired.

The firm should be ready to handle their large orders satisfactorily now, with such well equipped greenhouses, and such a large stock of plants.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

UNSURPASSED MUSICAL TREAT

The concert given last night in the the Grand Opera House by the Westminster Abbey Glee and Concert Party, was, as expected, an unsurpassable musical treat—it was indeed a concert in a double sense, for it ever there was perfection in concerted singing the audience heard it last night. Every member of the party was an artist, the artistic instinct giving impulse to every number, ensemble or individual. Praise of such work is painting the lily. The programme consisted of fourteen set numbers, but the enthusiasm of the audience finding expression in encores, the number was swelled to 28, for every item with one exception was encored and with one double encore, duplicated the programme. The opening selection sung by the men of the Glee Party, was Bishop's "Foresters, Sound the Cheerful Horn," followed by an encore number, the part song ,by Otto, "The Dance." These and the vocal waltz by Vogel and a catch—"Would you Know My Celia's Charms?" were also grandly given. The singing of these numbers was marked by an excellence of treatment throughout, a delicacy of shading—an exquisite blending of sweet tone inexpressible in words, vocalization, articulation and enunciation were simply perfect. The Glee Party—the men, with the addition of the four boys, whose pure, liquid, fresh and dewy voice added an indefinable charm, in their delicious rendition of Sullivan's "O Hush Thee My Babie" gave another piece of perfection, like unto "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower," and Spofforth's "Hail, Smiling Morn," given as encores. The songs of childhood sung by the choir boys were delightful morceaux as well as the nursery rhymes, set to brilliant music, sung as an encore. Mr. Fredrick Pitman's bariotne solo introduced the audience to a fine musical artist who gave the song, "The Man Who Carries the Gun," with a spirit, taste and effectiveness possible only to a musical artist with a voice of splendidly cultured quality and fine range. Madame Hooten, contralto, gave great pleasure with her singing of "Down the Vale," and upon being recalled, with "Twinkle, Twinkle," which, with a hidden male chorus, was quite charming. She also sang "The Dumb Wife Cured," and a humourous song as an encore. Master Albert Hole, a cherubic choir boy, though only nine years old, sang with the aplomb of a prima donna, and the finish and confidence of a vocal virtuoso. His voice is a beautiful soprano, clear as a silver bell. He gave "Love's Echo" by Newton, and for an encore—which fairly carried the little fellow off his feet—Cowen's "Swallows." He looked like a cherub and sang like a seraph. Perhaps the musical treat of the evening, if there was any best, among such general good, was the bass solo of Mr. Sterndale Bennet, the old familiar, but ever beautiful "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," which took on a new beauty under his splendid production. His voice is not heavy, but has a rich, smooth velvetty quality, and is used with an artistic finish which has never been surpassed, if equalled by any basso visiting this city. His singing of "Dear Little Girl," though, as to title, reminiscent of another great basso, who sang it in Peterborough, was in a class by itself. Mr. Harry Ivemy, in his humourous musical sketches was more than mirth-provoking, with refinement and restraint. His satire on the comic opera, was exquisite, both as modant sarcasm and most admirable fooling. The closing number that lively lilt, "My Love She's But a Lassie Yet," put a final polish upon one of the most artistically finished musical entertainments ever presented in Peterborough.

ALYS BATEMAN

We have had the Westminster Abbey Singers. Our next great musical treat will be represented by the visit of the great English soprano, Miss Alys Bateman, whose rise to eminence upon the concert stage, as a new star of the first magnitude, in the firmament of music, suggests the saying, "The King never dies." Miss Maude Bradley, concert directress, of Brockville, the only girl on the continent that fills that position, and a lady of splendid business talent and energy in her line of activity, was in Peterborough this week, arranging for Miss Bateman's appearance here, and she, with her company, will appear in the Grand Opera House on Monday evening, October 22nd. Miss Alys Bateman, an English soprano, using a purely English method, has scored great vocal triumphs in England; she has a voice of great brightness and beauty, which not only appeals to the most cultivated tastes, but the general public, less versed in vocal matters, can nevertheless appreciate the great beauty of her voice, her brilliancy of execution. She sings high "e's," "d's" and "c's" with effortless ease, but her high notes do not by any means constitute her claim to distinction were it not for the bird-like quality, the lightness of touch, and the ability to sustain these marvellous vocal flights, smoothly and evenly, and have them in a perfect control as to diminuendo, and crescendo, in the most exacting cadenzi. An example is afforded in her triumphant singing of such a vocally formidable number as Gounod's valse song from Romeo and Juliet. From the soft effects of the phrase preceding, she begins the cadenza, with delicacy and distinctness. As the passage rises in pitch the tones swell grandly towards the turning point. At its summit the notes come clearly with a buoyant swell, delightfully invigorating. The descent of this run slowly evaporates into substance, yet all the while every tone is clearly and sharply defined in sunny tones. This is only an example of Miss Bateman's art in this line, but in all the fields where the greatest vocalist reigns, she is equally proficient. It is in bravura numbers that she reaches the greatest heights.

Miss Bateman in her Canadian tour, has the invaluable support of Parlovits, the well known solo pianist, whose sympathetic and brilliant work forms a rich adjunct to Miss Bateman's brilliant performance.

Miss Grace Merry a most popular entertainer, will also form a part of the company, which met with grand appreciation in its introductory tour in Canada last spring. Peterborough lovers of good music will look forward with delighted anticipations to the concert in Peterborough, on October 22nd.

In this age of agitation for pure, clean food, it is refreshing to know that "SALADA" Ceylon Tea, is sold to the public in all of its native freshness and fragrance, preserved in sealed air-tight packets direct from the gardens, to the consumer, insuring a cup of tea "in perfection" hitherto unknown.

This fact is alone accountable for its enormous and ever-growing popularity.

But as in the case of many other successful articles, many worthless imitations abound, therefore it is necessary to demand "SALADA" and steadfastly refuse substitutes.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches are require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Millbrook Fair Was a Success

L F Staples, J F Staples, Ida; T Cowan, Orono; Ira Patrick, Geo. Brown, Thos. McCamus, Millbrook; Dr. Archer, Port Perry; Geo. Colwell, Perrytown; Jas. Porter and J C Dean, Garden Hill. Other classes of live stock, too, were well represented, the quality of the animals invariably being the subject of favourable comment on the part of the judge in the various classes. In cattle there was not the number of entries of last year, but the weather is largely accountable to this. In dairy cattle the Holsteins were the most conspicuous, while in the best cattle, the Durham held sway, of course. The judges had some difficulty in deciding on the merits of the animals shown, the quality being so universally good.

In sheep, the long haired Leicesters were pre lominent with the Shropshiredowns second. Messrs. McNeil, McKnight and Skinner were the large exhibitors in these classes.

The entries of swine were not quite as numerous as in former years, but those that were shown gave evidence of the fact that the educational process in developing the correct type of bacon hog was making progress, and in the hogs shown yesterday the packinghouse men would have little fault to find.

There was a very material falling off in the entries in poultry, this year, due, it was explained by the secretary, to the fact that the bad weather of the early part of the day prevented many prospective poultry exhibitors from bringing their birds. A revision of the prize list, so far as the poultry classes are concerned is prospect of the near future.

Inside Exhibits

In the building all the classes, with the possible exceptions of the fruit and field vegetables, were as well represented as in former years, and to the extremely unsatisfactory year for fruit and field roots is attributable the comparatively small showing made in these classes. Outside of these the building exhibits were most creditable, the showing of ladies' work being particularly good.

The grounds contained the usual number of special exhibits, Peterborough firms being well represented, the exhibits of Messrs. Lang & Maher, Grafton & Co., and White and Gillespie being particularly noticeable.

During the afternoon the Millbrook band, reinforced by some members of the 57th Regimental Band, rendered a programme of music from the grand stand.

Trials of Speed

The trials of speed in the ring—there are no more horse races at fairs—attracted the usual amount of attention, and in spite of the fact that horse racing has been tabooed by the Department of Agriculture, the number of persons who surrounded the track to witness the speed contests, was evidence of the fact that the people do like to see a good horse race. Only one race was held yesterday, a free-for-all, in which won after a good race, by Minnie Keswick. The record of the race follows:—

Minnie Keswick, Geo. Curtis, Lindsay	1	1	1
Harry Direct, J. Cottingham, Peterborough	2	2	2
Hazel Bell, Dr. Johnston, Peterborough	4	4	3
Little Johnnie, H. Parr, Blackstock	3	3	4

Time—2.55, 2.30, 2.31.

The officials were: Starters — J. R. O'Neil, Cobourg, R. J. Munro and E. M. Elliott, Peterborough.

Judges

The judges in the various classes were:

Horses, heavy — John Howden, Whitby; J Bogue, Barrie.

Light—Dr. Madill, Brighton; Samuel Johnston, Myrtle.

Cattle, dairy—John Breckenridge, Westwood; Samuel Allen, Bowmanville.

Just Notes

The noon train to Millbrook was literally packed, in spite of the fact that two extra coaches were added here, many having to ride on the steps.

A bachelor was heard to remark in the ladies' section that ladies who did fancy work did not fancy work.

Mr. Geo. McKinnon is the leader of the Millbrook band, and was generous with his music.

The gate receipts were $1,200, and the society already had a surplus of $1,200.

Mrs. (Capt.) Hounsell, of this city, took 14 prizes, in crayon painting on felt, velvet and silk, pencil work and penmanship. This makes 28 prizes Mrs. Hounsell has taken in the two fairs she has exhibited at.

Mr. Jos. Clarke had a great exhibit of fence posts which will not rot in the ground.

Mrs. W. S. Given, of Millbrook, took a number of prizes in ladies' work.

"This is what the money is in," said the farmer, as he was looking at the pigs.

This is the first year for the Millbrook Central Exhibition. In the past it was called the East Durham and Cavan Fair.

The Officers

The officers of the society are as follows:

President, C. McNeil, Cavan.

1st Vice-President, W. Hannah, Bethany.

2nd Vice-President, T. Leith, Millbrook.

Secretary-Treasurer, C. H. Winslow, Millbrook.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

Peterborough merchants were prominent at the fair. Evidently the patronage of the visitors from the surrounding country was considered of special value to them, judging by the efforts made to advertise themselves.

A FAVOURITE CLOTHING FIRM

Messrs. Lang & Maher, of the "Daylight" Clothing Store, Peterborough, are evidently in possession of a host of friends in this section. Their unique clothing exhibit was visited by throngs of cheerful-faced visitors who manifested a friendly feeling that was quite marked. Mr J. T. C. Lang, the senior member of the firm, is well known by a large proportion of the residents of Millbrook, Cavan, Manvers and Fraserville. He was "at home" during the afternoon to all who called. Not only the gentlemen, but the ladies, too, old and young, crowded around this exhibit for an opportunity of exchanging friendly courtesies, as well as with the view of making future purchases for themselves or their sons. It was learned that many promises were received during the day for winter outfits, which will be purchased at their store, Nos. 409-411 George street, during the coming week.

Lang & Maher's display was largely made up of simple suits, overcoats and raincoats of the "Sovereign Brand" make. Gentlemen who know "what's what" in regard to dress, invariably look for good style and workmanship in the general make-up of their clothing, as well as correct patterns of cloth. With the "Sovereign" brand clothing, in which this firm seem to pin their faith so strongly, a prominent feature is the graceful adaptability to the figure that makes a man look dressy and feel at home in his clothes. These garments are characterized for their fashionable designing; they look well from the start and keep their shape until the day they are worn out. They are worn by thousands of intelligent men—business and professional—and the quality is guaranteed. There are now over 2,000 retail clothiers in Canada, besides Lang & Maher, handling the "Sovereign" brand. It is reasonable to expect that among the majority of these firms there are experts who know good clothing; so that it is reasonable to conclude that they deal in this clothing because they consider that it is the best.

Just a word about how these fine garments are constructed. Your attention is first drawn to the clean, concave shoulder and close fitting collar, that no tailor can improve on. This is accounted for because of the "inside" construction:—First, there is the soft linen canvas, the genuine haircloth lining, the pure linen canvas, the shoulder pad, which is needle moulded into proper shape—all contributing to that shape-retaining and durable fit ewhich lasts until the garments are worn out. The tailoring is done by veterans of the bench. Those who have worn "Sovereign Brand" have quit ordering their clothes made to their special measure, as they find this brand equal to the average custom tailors' productions.

The many beautifully executed and catching signs of the firm were displayed prominently from all parts of the grounds. In addition, hundreds of handy yard sticks with Lang & Maher's imprint, were given away, as well as great quantities of cards and leaflets advertising their Peterborough store. The business of this hustling firm is growing rapidly, due as much to the thoroughly progressive manner in which it is conducted as to the fact that only the very best clothing is handled.

SANDSTONE BRICK AND CAREY'S ROOFING.

In a tent on the grounds near the main building, Mr. L. S. Clarry, of Millbrook, made a comprehensive exhibit of Carey's Magnesia Flexible Cement Roofing, which the manufacturers guarantee to be fire-proof, very durable, and easily applied. It is claimed to be as cheap as good shingles and very much more permanent and safe. Many inquiries were made by parties who were looking for a satisfactory roofing for barns and other buildings. Mr. Clary secured quite a number of prospects from farmers who were convinced of its special merits.

Mr. Clary is also resident agent for the Peterborough Sandstone Brick Company, Limited, and exhibited several rows of this handsome brick, laid in mortar, showing the different coloured seams between the brick. The demand which has sprung up for this brick is being felt in Millbrook, as well as other places, and Mr. Clarry is prepared to negotiate for orders delivered at any point.

A MUCH ADMIRED EXHIBIT

An out-door display, which was constantly thronged by women as well as men, was a display made by Mr. Charles C. McDonel, of Downer's Corners, Otonabee. It consisted of a combined Chatham fanning mill and bag-filler, new portable farm scales, a patent incubator and a handy kitchen cabinet. These specialties are manufactured by the Manson Campbell Company, Limited, of Chatham. They are becoming so popular wherever introduced that Mr. McDonel finds them excellent sellers. His post office address is box 890, Peterborough.

"FROM MAKER TO WEARER"

Grafton & Co., of Peterborough, the High-Grade Clothiers, must have left an excellent impression on the minds of visitors at this fair, by their well displayed exhibit on the grounds. They occupied a large show tent, close to the main building, so that no one could come to the fair and get away without seeing their exhibit, and other advertising features.

Grafton & Company's high-grade clothing has become so well known in this section, as well as in Peterborough, that the public do not need to be told much about the excellent qualities of their clothing. The exhibit showed samples of men's and boys' fall and winter suits and overcoats, raincoats, and the correct styles for the season of 1906-7, were viewed by thousands. One of the strongest claims for their clothing is that it is made in Grafton & Co's own factory in Dundas, and comes direct from maker to wearer, so that no middlemen's profits are exacted from buyers. Their own "High-Grade" trademark is put on goods only of the strictest merit, and is their guarantee of the excellence of their garments.

THE DAIRYMAID'S FAVOURITE

The "Simplex" Link Blade Cream Separator — the dairymaid's favourite—was exhibited on the fair ground by Mr. Harry Dunsford, the Millbrook agent. This machine gives an absolute guarantee of its claims—something that conveys the hallmark or guinea stamp to its dependableness. Complaints have been heard from owners of large creameries, that a considerable loss has been caused to dairymen and others owing to poor separation of the cream from the milk, due to inferior machines and careless running. In no case has this been said of the "Simplex." Tests have shown that the separating has been so well done with this machine that there has not been more than 2-100 or 3-100 of one per cent. of butter-fat left in skim milk.

The general agent, Mr. Geroge Gillespie, of Peterborough, was present and assisted in explaining the superiority of the "Simplex" Link Blade.

Mr. Robert Jackson of Millbrook, was in charge of the exhibit and also showed its workings.

Since 1858 the number of lunatics in Scotland has increased by 180 per cent while in the same time the population has increased only 4 per cent.

Market Prices Higher This Week

General Advance in the Prices of Many Articles.

Once again the Saturday market has been marred by the inclemency of the weather. The outside, especially, was poor, there being but few farmers present. Potatoes were sold as quickly as they appeared, some at the usual price of 75c a bag, while a number of bags sold at 80c. Eggs, as was expected some time ago, have again advanced and many people were asking 21c a dozen. Butter has increased in price, 29c and even 30c was asked.

The following is the price list:

Butter, per lb., 28 to 29c.
Potatoes, per bag, 75 to 80c.
Tomatoes, per bush., 60c.
Beets, per peck, 10c.
Onions, per peck, 25c.
Cabbage, 3 for 10c.
Ducks, per pair, $1.
Geese, each $1.
Chickens, per pair, 60 to 75c.
Eggs, per doz., 19 to 21c.
Honey, per lb., 10c.
Hay, clover, per ton, $11 to $12.
Hay Timothy, per ton, $16 to $14.

There have been many loads of hay on the market during the past week, although there were none on this morning. One farmer said potatoes were going to become much dearer before long, but it is hardly likely.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Oct. 6.—Though stocks have not boomed to-day as was anticipated in some quarters on the announcement of the order, the profit-taking offerings in the better class of securities have been well absorbed, and the undertone is stronger than ever. The reactionary in St. Paul was merely a drive by room traders, who thought to make a turn by using as an argument the probable increase in the capital stock but St. Paul rallied easily.

Erie common was the feature of the rails, advancing a point on what seemed to be good buying. The accumulation in the Harriman securities and Copper still goes on and means that the strongest interests in the Street are as bullish as ever. The motor race restricted trading to a large extent, and the market has been very dull. General Electric spurted again, advancing 13 points from yesterday's opening. Tenn. Coal and Iron jumped five.

The bank statement was not as good as was expected, and resulted in a little selling, but stocks were well supported. The close was quiet.

The Limestones of Ontario
A Valuable Provincial Asset

CaC2 (calcium carbide) x H2O (water), CaOH2O (hydrate of lime) x C2H2 (acetylene.)

"The hydrate of lime obtained from the decomposition of the carbide with water can be used again in the manufacture of the carbide, or it can be employed in the manufacture of 'ready-mixed mortar.'" (3) Concerning the value of the hydrate of lime produced by this decomposition it is further stated: "At the present time private information from America shows that calcic carbide can be produced at a little under $8 a ton, and the beautifully pure lime obtained by the decomposition would be worth to the gas manager at least $8 a ton; and as a ton of the carbide will give rather more than 1 1-4 tons of quicklime, or 1 3-4 tons of slacked lime. £3 10s. may be taken as the cost of the acetylene produced from a ton of the material." (2) As this statement refers to conditions that existed ten years ago, allowance will have to be made for the prices given. The object in giving the quotation is merely to draw attention to a source of pure lime.

In the year 1903 the value of the calcium carbide produced in the province was $144,000.

It will be seen from the chemical composition of calcium carbide that calcium (lime) is the only constituent of limestone that is used. Magnesia and impurities commonly present in limestone are objectionable; the higher the percentage of lime held by the rock, the better.

Calcium chloride, a compound which is used as a drying agent on account of the fact that it absorbs water with avidity, has the formula CaCl2, 2H2O. Another similar substance, CaCl2, possesses the same property and is used as a dehydrating agent, but it cannot be employed, like the former, in cases where carbon dioxide is present, without absorbing it. These two materials are produced from the normal chloride CaCl2, 6H2O, by heat. If care is taken not to heat this chloride above 200 degrees, CaCl, 2H2O results. If the temperature is raised above this point, CaCl2 is formed.

Carbon dioxide, commonly called carbonic acid gas, has several uses in the arts. It is most commonly obtained from limestones for commercial purposes by heating them to such a temperature that decomposition results, quicklime and carbon dioxide being formed. The gas may also be extracted from these rocks by treating them with acids, when effervescence takes place, and the gas is liberated. At several well-known places carbon dioxide issues from the crust of the earth; and at one locality in New York State the gas originating in this way is used.

The method of producing carbon dioxide and the use made of it in the beet sugar industry have already been mentioned.

Liquid carbon dioxide formed by subjecting the gas to pressure, has come into use during recent years. It has been employed as a fire extinguisher and for charging liquids with the gas. The use of gas in the so-called soda-waters is well known.

Dolomite and magnesite are preferred to stone high in calcium carbonate in the manufacture of carbon dioxide. Marl has been made use of at Buffalo.

The use of the chalk for writing on blackboards is a very general extent for this purpose by crayons of talc or soapstone.

Chloride of lime is commonly known as "bleaching-powder." Its chemical constitution is not definitely known, but its formula is probably CaOCl2. It is white in colour, has the odour of hypochlorous acid, and is extensively used as a bleaching agent. It is also employed as a disinfectant, and as an antiseptic.

It is prepared by treating slaked lime with chlorine. The limestone used in the production of the lime should be very pure and thoroughly burned. If magnesia is present the compound tends to deliquesce and is less stable. Sand and clay should also be absent. If colouring materials, such as iron or magnese, are present in lime it is not adapted to this use.

Quick lime absorbs water with sand (silica) and sodium carbonate, which are melted together. Instead of lime, lead oxide may be used; and potassium carbonate may replace sodium carbonate. Ordinary window glass is a sodium-calcium glass. Instead of lime, crushed limestone is commonly used, on account of the fact that lime, when stored, may change in composition, before being used, by the absorption of moisture and carbon dioxide.

Limestone for glass-making should be free from colouring materials, such as iron. While magnesian limestones have been used, those practically free from magnesia are preferred, as this ingredient makes the glass less fusible.

The Corniferous limestones in the Erie and Huron area of the Province, and those of the Trenton group, farther east, are adapted to glass-making. Heretofore, the lime used in the industry in the Province has been imported.

Lime has been melted only at a very high temperature in electric furnaces. It therefore can be classed as a good refractory substance, and is used in lining parts of reverberatory furnaces in the manufacture of steel. In the Thomas-Gilchrist process the lime in the furnace serves an additional purpose in extracting the phosphorous from the iron. The lime phosphate thus produced has, moreover, a value as a fertilizer.

The burning of lime is an operation similar to that which, when other materials are dealt with, is known as calcining. In burning limestone, or calcining other substances, gases and vapours are driven off and substances themselves are reduced to powder or to a friable condition.

The receptacle in which lime is burned is known as a kiln (a word which is closely connected in origin with the word coal). Lime kilns are varied in form, ranging from the rude kinds, which consist of a few loose stones, built into an enclosure, to more regularly designed forms, lined with brick or iron, which shows almost as much ingenuity in construction as do furnaces used for metallurgical work. In remote districts limestone has often been burnt by piling it on a log heap or brush pile.

At the present time a comparatively small proportion of the lime produced in Ontario is made in the old-fashioned pot kiln. The bulk of the lime trade has gone into the hands of a few companies and individuals, operating in all about 30 draw kilns located at points convenient to the chief markets.

The pot or set kiln has among its disadvantages that of being intermittent in operation, necessitating loss of time for cooling after burning and before drawing and recharging; while the draw kiln is continuous.

A rectangular exterior of rough stones enclosing in heavy walls a pot-like cavity 8 to 10 feet in diameter by 10 to 14 feet deep, composes a pot kiln. The charge is fired and drawn through a single grate chamber, say, 15 inches wide, which runs from the front, underneath the kiln, to the rear wall. Frequently these kilns are built in a series in one continuous structure. A pot kiln 8 feet in diameter by 10 feet high, will hold about 800 bushels of lime, and requires between three and four days for a burning, with a consumption of 20 cords of wood.

The draw kilns of to-day differ very little from the first ones erected 15 or 20 years ago; in fact, some of the latter are still in use, but with labour-saving improvements, in many cases, in methods of charging and of drawing the kilns.

The kilns are built of stone, with walls of a minimum thickness of 6 feet, braced outside at intervals from top to bottom with heavy logs or I-beams and tie rods to counteract bulging. Where possible, a site is chosen for the kiln directly below the quarry, so that the top of the kiln will stand about level with the floor of the quarry to facilitate loading.

The fuel used in lime kilns is of various kinds—wood, coal and gas being used. Natural gas, where available, is one of the most suitable fuels, and several kilns in this Province, in the vicinity of Port Colborne, make use of it.

Pavement On Hunter St. Finished

Proved a Pretty Expensive Piece Of Work.

The section of pavement on the south side of Hunter street, to the west of the bridge, has been completed by the city's pavement gang, and was one of the most expensive in Peterborough, considering its length. There was a big hole, which had to be filled in, and then a back wall had to be built up with cement. The job was finished in a couple of days.

Musical Cane Work Of A German Expert

A Violin, Extreme Width of Which is 1¾ Inches—Some Musical Curiosities in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Examiner Special.

Among the queer instruments in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, are a cane violin and three cane flutes. The former is a peculiar, narrow instrument, of small size, but perfect in every detail, made in imitation of a walking stick, and furnished with an ornamental knob handle. The strings are held by small iron pins and are turned with a key. When not in use, a small bow slips within the stick, and a round cover, held by metal bands, conceals the clever little instrument. The length of the violin is 2 ft. 11 in., and its greatest width is 1 3-4 in. It is a German conceit, and dates from the 19th century. Like the cane violin, the cane flute is also of German make, but its dates from early in the 18th century. The flute is in C, and is made of a light wood, ornamented with turned bands of the same colour and finished with a knob. The lower joint is solid. It has six finger holes and one flat brass key. The instrument is blown at the side like the transverse flute, and is an excellent sounder. It is 3 feet long, and it requires a close inspection to see that the cane contains a flute.

The Barber Slashed A Blind Man's Neck

Insists on Sightless Patron Sitting in His Chair To Save a One Cent Fee.

Examiner Special.

New York, Oct. 2.—Because William Gillman, a blind news dealer, would not permit Josef Buffalo, owner of a barber shop at 408 Columbia street, Brooklyn, to shave him last night, Buffalo slashed his patron's throat, inflicting a wound from which he will die.

Gillan went to Buffalo's barber shop about nine o'clock last night. Business had been dull all day, and Buffalo and his two assistants were idle when he entered. Gillan started for the third chair, to be shaved by one of the assistant barbers, who receive no pay except one-half the price of their work and the tips of customers. Buffalo endeavoured to steer his blind patron into his own chair, the first in the row and so make for himself all of the ten cents the news dealer would pay.

Gillan insisted upon going to the third chair, seated himself, and laid his head back. Buffalo waved away his assistant, who was preparing to shave Gillan, and taking up a razor, walked to the blind man's side.

Buffalo slashed the razor across the blind man's throat, inflicting such a wound that Gillan could not scream or move. The two assistants rushed into the street shouting, and Policeman Batten and Reilly ran into the shop. Gillan lay in the chair, and was sent to the Long Island College Hospital. Dr. Doyle said he could not live.

Buffalo, retreating to a rear room, fought the policemen with a bread knife. He slashed Battan's coat from breast to skirt, but was overpowered and taken to the Hamilton avenue station.

Avoid The Knife For Itching Piles

It is customary for physicians to recommend a surgical operation as the only cure for piles, and on the strength of such advice many a person has undergone the suffering, the expense, and the enormous risk of such an operation, only to be disappointed by a return of the old trouble.

A safer, cheaper, and even a more certain cure is found in Dr. Chase's Ointment. And while this is a strong statement, it is fully corroborated by the positive evidence of well-known people, who have been cured by this treatment, even after surgical operations have failed.

A strong point about Dr. Chase's Ointment is the promptness with which it brings relief from the torturing, itching, stinging sensations which make this disease almost unbearable. Complete cure is often brought about by one or two boxes of this ointment, even in chronic cases of fifteen or twenty years' standing.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only positive and guaranteed cure for every form of piles; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto.—6.

Champion Faster To Try Again

Went Without Food for 45 Days In 1906.

New York, Oct. 3.—Giovanni Succi, of Florence, Italy, who 16 years ago startled this city by a fast of 45 days, arrived on the Italian steamship North America, and said yesterday that he was ready to again demonstrate that a man could exist without food for at least half the length of time he fasted a decade ago. Succi believes that he is a little too advanced in years to attempt a fast of 40 days, but is willing to be walled up in a glass house for fifteen or twenty days and be subject to the most rigid espionage during that time.

Succi has fasted before committees of physicians in Milan, Florence, Paris, Barcelonia, Madrid, Lisbon, London, Brussels, Rome, Naples, Budapest, Berlin, Geneva, Vienna, Turin, Buenos Ayres, Rio de Janeiro, Bucharest, Palermo, Hamburg, Dusseldorf, Havana and Mexico. He now proposes to tour the United States, and, besides fasting to give lectures on his travels.

The indications are that Hearst will be hearsed as the outcome of New York Governorship fight.

Interesting Boys In Civic Matters

An Experiment Successfully Worked in Bradford.

In a letter to the American Civic Association, Rev. R. S. Kellerman, president of the Civic Improvement Club of Bradford, Pa., tells this interesting story:

"The Bradford idea' of interesting children, especially boys, in municipal matters, started on one of the unpaved streets of the city. The president of the Civic Improvement Club went out personally with a rake and began to clean up the rubbish. A neighbour boy saw him and came out with his rake. Then others came out. The president asked one of the boys if he had a mattock or a pick, saying that the stones that stuck up ought to be got out. There were five boys out at this suggestion with picks and rakes, working and sweating like Trojans. In a day or two the street was cleaned up nicely. The city teams came and carted the rubbish off. When it was all completed, the president wrote an account of it, including in it the names of the five boys, and it was published in the daily papers.

"From this one example the thing has spread to other parts of the city. The president reports all new work, including the names of the boys, and gives it to the press, which is glad to get it, and records every move that is made. Observations shows that boys like to 'do things,' and like to see their 'names in print.' They will respond if suitable calls are made on them. Naturally motive, they will turn their talents to good account in public undertakings, if they are properly aided and encouraged."

Bad Attack of La Grippe.

A year ago I had a bad attack of la grippe, and all the doctor's prescriptions proved to be of no avail. I was told to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and found it a great blessing, as it thoroughly cured me. I told my doctor that I intended to recommend it to all my friends." — Mrs. L. Hutton, 12 Claremont street, Toronto, Ont.

Staff Challenge Cup Won By Lakefield Boy

Allan Bravender, Senior Champion—Wallace Armstrong Won MacDonald Cup--Field Day of Collegiate Institute Very Successful.

Yesterday afternoon Old Sol shone shone forth in all his glory for the pupils of the Collegiate Institute after a vain attempt during the morning to spread a feeling of disappointment throughout the old campus. The occasion was the annual field day of sports held on the Nicholls Oval and the promotors should feel gratified that their attempts have met with such success. The most pleasing feature of the afternoon's events was the gentlemanly manner in which the boys competed. It is a matter of congratulation for the principal and his staff that the boys act on the athletic field as they do in the class room—as gentlemen. Sport is a subject that demands a great deal of conviction in these times and it is in the springtime of life that ideas of clean sport should be implanted.

Mr. Allan Bravender captured the senior championship with 41 out of a possible 50 points besides winning the ball throwing contest, making a splendid throw off 94 yards, 2 feet, 3 inches. He had 7 firsts and 2 seconds. Archie Ingham was second, making 17 points, 2 firsts, 2 seconds and a third.

Wallace Armstrong won the junior championship in a splendid manner. He had a total of 46 points to his credit out of ap ossible 50 which is indeed a fine showing. He had 8 firsts and 2 seconds. Satisfield Sheehy took second place with 3 first, 6 seconds and 2 thirds, making 25 points.

Considering the day's events the juniors' work was of better calibre than the seniors. There were two junior records broken, viz: the high jump and the running jump, while the seniors fell off badly in the quarter mile run.

Senior Events

Winners of the different events in the senior series was as follows:—

100 yards—1, A. Bravender; 2, F. Conroy; 3, C. Kingan. Time, 12 4-5 seconds.

220 yards—1, Fred. Conroy; 2, A. Bravender; 3, C. Kingan. Time, 28 1-5 seconds.

1-4 mile—1, A. Bravender; 2, C. Kingan; 3, F. Conroy. Time, 1 minute, 26 seconds.

High Jump—1, A. Bravender; 2, C. Lech; 3, C. Kingan. 4 feet, 4 3-4 inches.

Pole vaulting—1, A. Bravender; 2, A. Ingham; 3, C. Lech. 6 feet, 4 1-2 inches.

Standing Jump—1, A. Bravender; 2, B. Ingham; 3, H. Conroy. 7 feet, 9 inches.

Running Jump—1, A Ingham; 2, A. Bravender; 3, B Ingham 14 feet, 6 inches

Standing hop, step and jump—1, A. Bravender; 2, H. Conroy; 3, A. Ingham. 23 feet, 6 inches.

Running hop, step and jump—1, A. Bravender; 2, A. Ingham; 3, B. Ingham. 31 feet, 10 inches.

Cross Country Race—1, Arch. Ingham; 2, F. Austin. Time—19 minutes, 50 seconds.

Junior Events

100 yards—1, B. Heenan; 2, W. Armstrong; 3, S. Sheehy. Time, 13 seconds.

220 yards—1, W. Armstrong; 2, B. Heenan; 3, S. Sheehy. Time, 30 1-5 seconds.

1-4 mile—1, W. Armstrong; 2, S. Sheehy; 3, Clancy. Time, 1 minute 10 4-5 seconds.

High Jump—1, W. Armstrong; 2, S. Sheehy; 3, H. Giroux. 4 feet, 4 3-4 inches.

Winner of this event broke record by 1 1-4 inches.

Pole vaulting—1, S. Sheehy; 2, W. Armstrong; 3, H. Giroux. 5 feet, 7 3-4 inches.

Standing Jump—1, W. Armstrong; 2, S. Sheehy; 3, H. Giroux. 6 feet, 9 inches.

Running Jump—1, W Armstrong; 2 S. Sheehy; 3, G. Tovey. 17 feet, 3 inches.

Standing hop, step and jump—1, W. Armstrong; 2, S. Sheehy; 3, H. Giroux. 19 feet, 11 inches.

Running hop, step and jump—1, W. Armstrong; 2, S. Sheehy; 3, G. Tovey. 29 feet, 2 inches.

The winner of this event broke the record by 1 inch.

Cross Country Race—1, W. Armstrong; 2, H. Wallace; 3, G. Tovey. 18 feet, 17 inches.

Open Events

Throwing baseball—1, A. Bravender; 2, C. Lech; 3, S. Lang.

Pick-a-back contest — Kingan and Clancy. This event proved to be very interesting and amusing.

Obstacle race—1, F Conroy; 2, W. Thornton.

The Inter-Form Relay Race was won by the III. Form team, composed of E. Mann, R. Pickard, V. Lewis. This was one of the best events of the day as it had a surprising finish when the III. Form won.

The officials for the day were:—

For track events—E. Mann, C. Fessenden, E. C. Sedgley, C. Lech.

For field sports—H. Maguire, R. N. Merritt, A. Cameron.

Starters—H. Hall, H. Conroy, J. Jeffries.

Clerk of the course—J. E. Hodgson.

Timer—A. Gibson.

Secretary—H. R H. Kenner.

A special one-quarter mile race was run open to the junior and senior pupils who competed in the one-quarter mile races.

F. Conroy was first, C. Kingan second and B. Heenan third. Time, 1 minute, 31-5 seconds.

Mr. Hill presented a special prize for the winner, while Mr. Pringle did likewise for the second best.

Mr. A. Bravender, winner of the senior championship, shall be the holder for one year of the staff cup, presented by the Collegiate Institute staff of 1902. He will also receive a medal, presented by Mr. A. Gibson.

Mr. W. Armstrong, winner of the junior championship, shall be the holder for one, of the Macdonald cup, presented by H. S. Macdonald, Esq. He will also be given a medal presented by Mr. A. Gibson.

The following is the roll of honour:—

Senior.
1892—Harry Orde.
1893—Robert Kearns.
1894—Garnet Bell.
1895—Harry Philps.
1896—Fred. Weir.
1897—Fred. McGrath.
1898—Charles Mathias.
1904—Jos. Kenneally.
1905—Harry Hall.
1906—Allan Bravender.

Junior.
1895—Fred. McGrath.
1897—Fred. Roy.
1898—Albert Brundrette.
1904—Arthur Bellegham.
1905—Stanley Wade.

The programme for the day's events deserve special mention for its design and utility.

Another Entry For Road Race

Mr. Albert Latimer Will be a Candidate.

Still another has sent his application to be a candidate for the Examiner Road Race Contest. This is Mr. A. Latimer, and now makes the sixth competitor for the Examiner shield.

RUGBY.

All Over but the Cheering

Football fever is epidemic. The Tigers open the O.R.F.U. season at Peterborough to-morrow, when they meet Eugene Hutchibie and his bunch of braves, who defeated the Victorias at Toronto last Saturday. The Petes are so confident of victory that special despatches have been sent out telling how the breakfast food warriors will put a crimp in the Tigers' long string of victories. The locals had a splendid practice last night and Manager "Doc" Thompson claims that it is all over but the shouting.

The Tigers will leave Hamilton at 11 o'clock by special train, and the return fare will be $1.75. A special dining car will be attached, and lunch will be served at reasonable rates.—Hamilton Herald.

The Bankers under the direction of Mr. Watson are fast learning the game and no doubt will be a difficult proposition to master in the City League. They practice every afternoon.

• • • •

The Quakers will practise in the Brock street rink every night next week commencing at 9.15, after the seniors. A code of signals will be in readiness for Monday night and every member of the club is requested to be on hand.

• • • •

Ben Simpson who played left half back for the Tigers this afternoon, arrived last night and is the guest of his parents.

• • • •

Among those who accompanied the Tigers to Peterborough was Billy Sherring, the renowned long distance Qrunner and winner of the Marathon race at Athens.

• • • •

The Hamilton team arrived at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon on a special train with over a hundred supupporters.

TURF.

At the Markham fair yesterday Mr. Chas. Martin's horse Tim Alert, took second in the free-for-all, winning one heat. The money went to Blackbird.

COMMENTS ON CURRENT SPORTS

LARGE AMOUNTS REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN STAKED

More than $100,000 of Chicago money has been wagered that the White Sox will win the pennant of the American league. This vast sum of money has been placed at all kinds of odds, ranging from 5 to 1 against the White Sox to even money. In Chicago thousands of followers of the White Sox have put up bets of all sizes on their team, while New Yorkers have recently been plunging on the Yankees.

TO BRING IT BACK WHERE IT BELONGS

Whether Sir Thomas Lipton will issue a fourth challenge for the Americas' cup will depend upon the developments of his present visit to the United States. The Hope of Sir Thomas to lift the cup lies in the new rule adopted by the New York Yacht Club, which provides that contesting boats shall have less water draft, smaller sail area and shorter over-hang. This eliminates the freak type of yacht, and Sir Thomas then hopes to have a good a good chance against the defender.

He said recently "If I was in a position to do so, that is if I could have a boat built that would have some show, I would issue a challenge tomorrow. It is the ambition of my life to take the old plate back home where it belongs."

A GREAT RACE FOR THE VANDERBILT CUP

The automobile race for the Vanderbilt cup takes place to-day in New York. A conservative estimate of the average rate of speed is now 75 miles per hour which is terrible when one thinks of the dangers that beset the drivers. Joe Tracey, probably the best of the American drivers turned one lap of 27.7 miles in 29 minutes and 29 seconds. This was the fastest time ever made over that course, but the foreign drivers in their first trial attempts knocked nearly three minutes off the course record made by Tracy.

RUGBY WILL BOOM ACROSS THE LINE

Rugby is going to boom across the border again this fall despite severe criticism received since last autumn. Changes have been made in the rules and in the first games played last Saturday the new rules proved to be very successful. In the Harvard—Williams game not a minute was lost for injuries while rough playing was almost entirely eliminated. All the teams seem to have the same idea and general satisfaction is expressed by both fans and players.

FIGHTERS ARE BORN, HE SAYS, AND NOT MADE

The other day Jim Corbett, recalling his old battles had this to say of Jim Jeffries:—

"No, I'll tell you. I'm in a position now where I can look back on my old fights without prejudice or bitterness. I like Jeffries because he's a big, good-natured fellow. And I admire him as the greatest fighter the world ever saw. He is a physical marvel. I doubt that the world will ever see his equal when he has grown old and has really become a "has been." That won't be for many years. Jeff will be good for a long time. If any of the youngsters, like Berger or Kaufmann, tackled him now, they'd remember the experience for a long time. The man to meet Jeff hasn't arrived.

"If you're looking for one look up a man who weighs somewhere near a quarter of a ton, has strength enough to hug a grizzly bear to death, and speed enough to dodge a runaway racing car on a narrow road. He must be game, and he must have the natural fighting instinct. Fighters are born. You can't make them."

Roy Brown To Manage Team

Will Look After Canadian Soo Hockey Team.

The Brantford Expositor of yesterday says:—

Roy Brown left for the Canadian Soo this week. He has received an offer from the hockey club of that place to manage their team in the professional league. He has not accepted yet and his visit to the Soo is for the purpose of seeing how things stand. It is understood that he has been offered a princely salary and been given carte blanche in regard to the securing of a fast team.

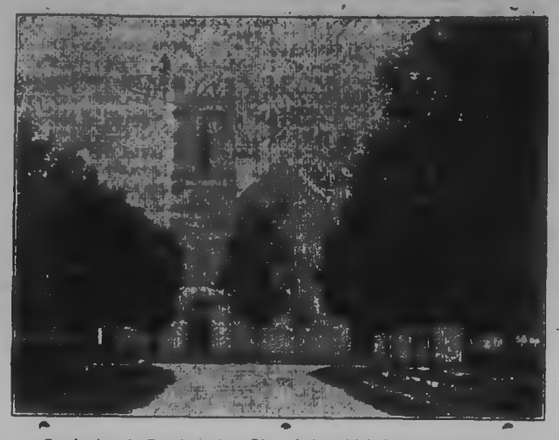
Gallery May Be Built In St. Andrew's Church

Board of Managers Recommend That Four Thousand Dollars be Spent—St. Andrew's Is Growing Rapidly —Expect an Increase When New Factory is Built.

The Board of Managers of St. Andrew's Church have issued pamphlets to the members of the congregation, placing before them the proposition of erecting a gallery in the church, to cost in the neighbourhood of $4,000. These pamphlets were placed in the pews yesterday morning and explained the reasons for the important step taken by the management.



St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in which it is proposed to place a $4,000 Gallery.

St. Andrew's is showing a vitality beyond their fondest expectations, and having considered that, since a great factory will in a short time be located here and will probably employ a large number of Scotchmen, the managers believe that a gallery is absolutely necessary. They also considered the great strides the city is making in all directions, and, with increased space, they are certain that the receipts of the church will rapidly grow. With the co-operation of every member of the congregation they believe that in a short time the increased revenue will cover the cost of the gallery and also that of the organ, which is in need of repairs. Before obtaining the consent of the congregation, the managers have not gone to the expense of preparing architectural plans, but they have estimated that a gallery worthy of the church and an ornament to it would cost about $4,000. They believed that it would be unwise to erect a small gallery as it would be filled in a short time, and they would then be as badly off as ever.

The question will not be fully discussed with the people for three months or more, giving them plenty of time to consider the problem.

The pamphlet concluded with the following resolution, drawn up by the Board of Managers, which will be embodied in their annual report:

"We beg to recommend that a suitable gallery be erected in the church, and that the organ be placed in a complete state of repair, and that the managers be authorized to make arrangements to borrow the money to pay for the same."

Assizes Opened Before Justice Britton To-day

Grand Jury Sworn In—His Lordship's Address to the Jury—Duncan vs. Wm. Hamilton Company First Case Considered—Court Room Not Crowded.

The Fall Assizes opened shortly after 1 o'clock to-day, His Lordship Mr. Justice Britton presiding. The court room was not very largely occupied as there was not as large a docket as usual. Only two criminal cases are on the list, and these are not of a very serious nature. There are six civil cases.

The following members of the bar were present: Crown Attorney Wood, D. O'Connel, T. H. Moore of Lindsay, T. S. Medd, R. F. McWilliams, G. Gordon, Mr. Goodwill, Jno. Green, R. W. Eyre, of Currie, Eyre & Wallace, Toronto; F. D. Kerr, L. M. Hayes, Mr. Bennet, of Roger & Bennet.

The Grand Jury was first sworn in and consisted of Messrs. Geo. Elliott, foreman; C. Young, W. J. Buck, Adam Church, W. G. Fergusson, Thos. Elliott, Robt. Ferguson, R. P. Davidson, Wm. Garvey, Jas Leahy, Daniel Moloney, Zacchaeus Burnham and J. H. Foster.

His Lordship then addressed the Grand Jury, and in part said:

"You have come to take part in the duty of administering the justice of the county, and I am glad to hear there are not many cases to be considered. There are only two criminal cases, one a charge of burglary, and the other a charge of picking pockets, which is the most serious. As to these offenders, you will inquire whether there is sufficient evidence to bring in true bills or not. The Grand Jury are to act just as a magistrate. If you find sufficient evidence to warrant you finding a true bill, do so. You will also attend to the duties of inspecting the jail, etc.

"It is sometimes said there are too many courts, too much law and too many appeals. We have now in Canada a Supreme Court at Ottawa, with judges sitting there from different parts of the Dominion. We have also the Court of Exchequer, in which to try cases against the Crown and Crown against others. We have the Supreme Court of Judication and the High Court of Justice, which is separated into four divisions. There is now plenty of work for all the judges and all places are filled."

His Lordship next referred to the vacant seat not yet filled—that of the late Justice Street, who died recently, and whose death was greatly regretted by all members of the Bench.

"It isn't always the case," he continued, "that the work coming before the Grand Jury determines the amount of crime, although sometimes it is. Crime is often disposed of, if the prisoner wishes, before the police magistrate or county judge. So there are crimes which the Assizes never hear of."

In His Lordship's experience he always found more work for judges in times of prosperity. He also referred to the House of Refuge, which is being constructed, and later on he said, there would not be so many vagrants in the county as he had heard there were.

"Now, gentlemen," he concluded, "your time is your own; meet when you wish and adjourn when you wish. You may retire now and attend to your duties."

The first case called was Keough vs. Bridy. R. W. Eyres for the plaintiff and D. O'Connel for the defendant, with the consent of His Lordship, agreed to let the case stand over until after the jury cases.

Kidd vs. Kidd was called, but Mr. Medd stated that the lawyers on the case had agreed to let it stand over until the next sitting of the court.

Duncan vs. D. Hamilton was called next. Mr. O'Connel for the plaintiff and Mr. L. M. Hayes for the defendants. This was the first case to be tried, and was in progress at the time of going to press.

Wash greasy dishes, pots or pans with Lever's Dry Soap a powder. It will remove the grease with the greatest ease. 3c

Unknown Man Killed On C.P.R.

A Fatality Reported From Near Burketon Junction.

An elderly man was killed on the C.P.R. track two miles east of Burketon Junction on Friday evening by the west-bound express train. The deceased who was walking west when the fatality occurred, had not been identified last night, but it was thought that he was an umbrella repairer who had been seen in the villages of Pontypool and Enniskillen shortly before the accident. Engineer McGuire and Conductor Smith were in charge of the train that ran the man down. The engineer states that he blew the whistle and thought that the man would have got off the track in time. The remains were taken by the Burketon authorities to the police station.

New Organist At Murray Street

Mr. Geo. Schneider Assumed Duties Yesterday.

Mr. George Schneider, the new organist in the Murray street Baptist church, assumed the duties of the position yesterday, and his playing was much appreciated by the congregation at both services. Mr. Schneider was appointed in succession of Mrs. P. A. Kerr, who resigned a short time ago.

A NONOGENARIAN

MR. GILES WEBBER,

326 Charlotte street, born in Chawley, Devonshire, on October 3rd, 1816, who on Wednesday last celebrated his ninetieth birthday. Mr. Webber had around him his children, grand children and great grandchildren to the number of sixteen. There were eight grandchildren and seven great grandchildren, two of which are on a visit, and the others resident in the West, unable to be present. The occasion was a happy family re-union in which reminiscenses were exchanged and among all the company there were none with a better memory of past events or more intelligent interest in the present, than the honoured and beloved host of the evening. Mr. Webber's advanced age is not his best claim to distinction. After a residence of a generation or two in Peterborough he won and retains to his green old age, universal respect for his industry, integrity, sterling, honesty and other qualities which go to constitute a model citizen. May he see many more happy years.

Fell From Chest; Broke His Arm

Painful Accident to Little Son of Mr. John Robson.

Master Irvine Robson, the young son of Mr. John Robson, of Dublin street, the well-known contractor, was the victim of a very painful accident on Saturday. The little fellow, while playing, fell from a tool chest, sustaining a fracture of his arm between the wrist and elbow. He is doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

Slander Case Is Reported Settled

That of Byers vs. Kidd Settled Out of Court.

It is not probable that the case of Byers vs. Kidd, in an action for slander will be heard at this session of the assizes, the statement having been made that the two parties have come to an agreement in the matter, and that the action will be withdrawn.

The plaintiff's and defendant's lawyers have not yet been advised of the settlement, however.

THE DIFFERENCE IN COST.

Semi-ready suits are not all $20 and $15. The $15 Semi-ready suits are tailored in just the same superior way. The difference in price is the difference in the cost of the good British cloth in the garments. A. W. Cressman, agent for Peterborough.

TUMORS CONQUERED

SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so sly that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by profuse monthly periods, accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacement, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice if you will write her about yourself. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

"Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After trying five bottles as directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more, and I am entirely well."—Fannie D. BURDEN OF RESPONSIBILITY

At Aylmer, East Elgin, recently, David Butler, proprietor of the Albino Hotel at Orwell, was convicted upon his own evidence of breach of the law. In the course of his remarks, Magistrate Hunt, who heard the case, said:

"I want to say, because I see a good many ratepayers here, that I consider it in the interests of the public, and especially of the young people, that these public houses, licensed or unlicensed, should be conducted in a moral way. We have had, in parts of Elgin County, in Yarmouth and Southwold, for instance, local option elections. Women and temperance men have become very much excited in these elections. They have held public meetings and prayer meetings to ask the aid of the Almighty to carry local option acts, and what is the result? The result is that in the room of having licensed hotels we have, in a good many cases, not in all, unlicensed bawdy houses. I know whereof I am talking. I am on through the county two or three times a week. Going by these places I see from ten to thirty rigs tied up by these unlicensed houses, and I know that in every one of these rigs have been a man and a woman, and often a girl under fourteen years of age. I think it far better myself to have licensed houses than to have these unlicensed haunts of prostitution if they cannot be wiped out."

Mr. Hunt has acted as a magistrate for thirty years, and has therefore had experience which gives weight to his opinion. His remarks raise the question as to the merits of repressive legislation in dealing with the liquor evil, especially as against the merits of moral suasion to the same end. In the one case, an appeal is made to reason; if that is unheeded there is a solid basis of reform; in the other case, antagonism is aroused, and the idea, whether justified or not, is created of interference with the personal liberty of the subject, something unive

Toronto Magistrate Is Hard On Paper Thieves

Mr. Denison Says He Will Send Them All to Jail—A Case Which Has Some Local Interest.

The Toronto Star of Saturday, reported a police court case, which has some local interest, in view of the fact that a number of subscribers to this paper have made complaints on having papers stolen from their doors. In Toronto this type of thief is being dealt with pretty severely, and perhaps the Peterborough police magistrate will follow his example. The Star says:

"The first person arrested, and brought before me, and if it is clearly proven that he stole a newspaper, I shall send him to jail, no matter what his record, no matter how high his standing in society," said Magistrate Denison to-day.

He was quite worked up on the subject. William Shea was charged with the theft of a newspaper, the property of Frank Kiel. The latter said that Shea was welcome, to the paper as they were neighbours, and he asserted that he should never have been arrested.

"But if it had been a stranger, you would be one of the first to kick about the policeman's dereliction of duty if he did not arrest the offender.

"I have received many letters from citizens complaining about papers being stolen from their doorsteps, and asking what to do about it. It is a mean, petty, contemptible theft, for the poor newsboy who delivers the paper gets blamed for it. After this, no matter who it is, I'm going to send them to jail, if the case is clearly proven.

"The first sentence will be 10 days, the second 20, the next 30, and when by the process of arithmetical progression it amounts up to a few months in the Central I think the habit will stop."

Shea was allowed to go.

Rev. W. H. Manning At Riverdale

Preached a Sermon Yesterday to Members of Riverdale Church.

Yesterday anniversary services were held in the Riverdale church about a mile south of the city and as a special event for the occasion Rev. H. M. Manning of the Charlotte street Methodist church delivered an address. He chose as his text "The Good Shepherd Giveth His Life for His Sheep," illustrating his sermon by means of certain chemicals to show the effect of sin upon the soul and the only method by which it may be made pure again. He used a bottle nearly filled with clear water, symbolizing body and soul in its original condition, the water representing the soul. He poured another liquid into the water thus producing a murky appearance in the water and he then compared the effect of the colouring liquid upon the water with that of sin upon the the soul, pointing out its blemished condition under the influence of sin. He then pointed out that under no material state could the soul be purified. He placed the bottle which contained the murky water in the centre of a bouquet of flowers demonstrating that beautiful surroundings had no effect upon it; likewise with a red ribbon around the bottle he showed that the evil condition still remained. In other ways he convinced his listeners that there was but one means by which the soul could be returned to its original state. Then taking another bottle of clear water he added the colouring liquid and added another which represented the blood of Christ and which immediately restored the water to its original conditon. He thus explained in a very vivid and clear manner the necessity of Christ's dying for His sheep and the way in which His death would save and does save His sheep. The sermon was most interesting, the illustrations were helpful and Rev. Manning certainly made clear to his hearers the dire effects of sin upon the soul of man.

On Tuesday evening of this week a social will be held at Riverdale, a musical programme will be presented and refreshments served.

Next Sunday Rev. J. H. Lock, a former pastor of the Georgre street church, and now of Havelock, will preach at the Charlotte street church

$1000 PILE CURE.

A Thousand Dollar Guarantee goes with every bottle of Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid—the only certain cure for every form of Piles.

George Cook, St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—

"Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid cured me of a very bad case of Piles of over ten years' standing. I had tried everything but got no permanent cure till I used Hem-Roid. I had Blind and Bleeding Piles, and suffered everything. Ointments and local treatments failed, but Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid cured me perfectly."

Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally which removes the cause of Piles. $1.00, all druggists, or The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

At Dauphin, Man., the long distance telephone line to Winnipeg was opened for business this week, and is proving a great convenience to business men.

CANADA'S WHEAT PRODUCTION

The Boston Herald, in an article on the wheat situation, incidentally points out that Canada is fourth among the wheat-producing countries of the world. The fact is most encouraging to Canadian development, because if tenth in actual production, Canada is first in wheat-growing possibility. In other words, but a small fraction of Canada's wheat lands are yet under cultivation. The estimates of Canada's yield this year are as various as the sources from which they emanate, and run all the wayfrom eighty to one hundred million bushels, but from the best information obtainable, it is considered that it will not exceed eighty-seven millions. The movement of the new crop is not yet really under way, and as usual at this season talk of car shortage is already prevalent, and this, despite the largely increased rolling stock with which the railways have provided themselves during the last year. The Canadian flour business is in a flourishing condition, and the Canadian demand continues to increase in a natural progression. The amount of flour that will be required for export is expected to be larger than usual, it being considered that the figures concerning the amount available for export from the United States and South America have been exaggerated.

Wood Ranger Is Given Transfer

Mr. Wm. Maniece Goes to the Parry Sound District.

Mr. Wm. Maniece, who was appointed, upon the accession of the Whitney Government, to the position of wood ranger for this district, has been transferred to the Parry Sound district and left on Saturday for that place to assume his duties there. He will be succeeded in this district by Mr. Geo. J. Chalmers, who has recently received this appointment. These gentlemen, with Mr. Bell, are in succession to Mr. D. H. Moore, Mr. Geo Elliott and Mr. Wm. Quinn.

WHAT about that "just-as-good" soap? It is just as good as "SURPRISE" Soap as long as it stays right on the dealer's shelf. When you get it into the water and begin work with it—it's different.

"SURPRISE" Soap is the pure, hard soap that does the most of the best work in the least time with the smallest effort.

It is the highest grade laundry soap, but sells at the price of common soap.

The red and yellow wrappers and the name "SURPRISE" on the soap itself will keep you from making a mistake.

You have No Reason for Not Using

Zutoo

Some people think that all headache cures are alike—that they all undermine the health, even if not perceived at the time of taking them.

Well, we'll admit that the drug cures do this, but that is no reason why you should not take Zutoo.

Zutoo is a harmless vegetable remedy. One ingredient is soda—just old-fashioned soda that our grandmothers used to take to settle the stomach, when they had sick headache. And there is nothing better.

The principal ingredient—the one that stops the headache, is a vegetable ingredient, imported for us from Japan. It wont hurt you any more than will the soda.

There is absolutely no reason why you should not use Zutoo.

If you suffer from headache there is every reason why you should.

Taken in time, two tablets will ward off a headache. Taken later, they will stop it in twenty minutes, and leave you feeling good every time.

If you are using a drug remedy, why not discard it?

Zutoo will cure just as quickly and will save you the penalty, that all must sometime pay, who take the drugs which these cures contain.

If you will give Zutoo one trial, you will never take any other headache remedy again.

—The young people's meeting at Murray Street Baptist Church, which was to have been held to-night, is postponed until Friday night on account of the meeting of the Bible Society.

Fine Residence Sold

Mr. T. J. Wallace has disposed of his fine residence, 31 Homewood avenue, to Mr. Robert Hall, collector of customs. Mr. Wallace is removing to the new residence purchased by him on George street.

Norwood Fair

—The East Peterborough Agricultural Society's annual fair will be be held at Norwood on Wednesday. This is one of the most successful fairs held in the province, and weather being favourable the successes of past years will be repeated.

Bible Club

—There was a splendid interest in the Saturday Bible Club at the Y.M.C.A., when Mr. J. C. Shook opened the series of studies which he will conduct. There is already an enrolment of 17, the aim being to secure at least 50.

Ambulance Call

—The Dan Spence Ambulance had a call yesterday afternoon to the police station where Dennis Sheehan a man who was arrested Saturday evening for being drunk and disorderly, was very ill from the effects of his debauch. He was conveyed to St. Joseph's Hospital to recuperate for an appearance before the city magistrate.

Preserving Apples

—It is said that the best way to preserve apples in winter is to wrap them in newspapers so as to exclude the air. The exception is made, however, that the newspaper must be one on which the subscription has been paid, else the dampness resulting from what is "dew" may result in spoiling the apples.—Lindsay Post.

Sold for Junk

—The wrecking steamer Donnelly towed the remains of the old steamer Erindale from Newcastle up to Whitby on Monday morning. Mr. Cohen, our enterprising junk dealer, purchased it from Mr. Jackson for $1,000, and we venture to say he will make a good profit out of it before he gets through picking it to pieces.—Oshawa Reformer.

Sale of the Cubitt Stock of Wall Papers

—We have struck the right keynote in selling borders and wall papers at the same price. Cubbit's stock of wall paper is selling like "hot cakes" at Stratton's. Remember we have only 10,000 rolls of this paper at half price. Mostly all new patterns, purchased within the year from the leading Montreal wall paper makers. Remember the prices,—papers per roll 3c., borders per roll 3c., papers per roll 5c., borders per roll 5c., papers per roll 10c., borders per roll 10c. and and 8c. Just think what this means —a room papered for less than half a dollar at one price, and less than one dollar at the other. Come early any day this week and bring the size of your room. A. H. Stratton & Co., 417 George street.

Dog Shot But Still Lives

An Interesting Experience at Brick Company Works.

Mr. Harry McClure, an employee of the Peterborough Sandstone Brick Company, is being chaffed to-day by his fellow-employees on his marksmanship.

It appears that Mr. McClure has a black spaniel dog, which, because of its fondness for eggs, he had decided to shoot. Noon to-day, was the time set for the execution, and a rifle was procured with which he intended to despatch the objectionable animal. The latter was led to a fence corner where good aim could be had, and the shot fired. The dog was pronounced dead, and the firing party retired to the works. They were considerably surprised to see in a few minutes the dog running across the field on its way home. It appears that his aim had been poor.

Endless Annoyance and Misery.

"As a man of 70 years I am grateful to God and to Dr. Chase's Ointment for a cure of piles which had caused me endless annoyance and much misery. The itching and burning was almost beyond endurance, but Dr. Chase's Ointment brought quick relief and I believe that the cure is lasting." — Rev. William Thomas, Brownsville, Ont.

Services At The Park St. Church

Meetings Yesterday and for the Balance of the Week.

The services at the Park street Baptist church were largely attended yesterday. The sermon of "A Kiss for a Blow," in the morning, was based on the 12th of Romans, "Heap Coals of fire on his head."

The first of the October evening subjects, the song sermon, attracted deep interest. The choir excelled, and must repeat it.

The Sunday school rally was very encouraging. The printed programme was a very successful innovation, with responsive reading, by the pastor, superintendent, girls and boys, young men and primary. An address was delivered by the pastor, and the entire school rose and repeated aloud, "What kind of school would this be if every scholar was just like me?"

The B.Y.P.U. will discuss "Wisdom and Foolishness" to-night.

Tuesday, Ladies' Mission Circle will meet at 8 p.m.; Miss M. Mann in charge.

Wednesday, public service; pastor in the chair.

Thursday, all committee re convention report at 7.30 p.m., at the Murray street church.

Second subject in the October Sunday evening series for next week, will be "The opera—as a Christian can I consistently go?"

Inspection Of Water Supply Was Resumed

Board of Health Worry Over the Problem—Some Members Thought That the Medical Health Officer Should Do the Work—The Isolation Hospital Question.

The question of appointing an official to look after the water supply of the city, provided a problem over which the Board of Health wrestled for some time this morning and beyond arranging to meet the Water Commissioners in the matter, no settlement was reached.

Some members of the Board were of the opinion that the Medical Health Officer was the man to look after such matters.

There were present Messrs. Wm. Eyres, chairman; Geo. Schneider, Dr. McNulty, Dr. Burnham, Dr. Bingham, M.H.O., Mayor Best and Ald. Mason.

Mr. Eyres spoke of the matter of water supply for the city, and referred to the legislation on the subject. Notices had been posted up at the back lakes. A penalty of $100 could be inflicted for an infringement of the law, which, if not put in force, was a dead letter. He did not know where they had an officer to enforce these laws and thought that a man should be appointed to look after the water supply, the inspection of milk, and the inspection of sewer connections, etc.

Dr. Burnham wanted to know where the money was to come from to pay such an official.

The chairman said that they were paying an official $400 a year. The council ought to spend the amount necessary to carry out this law. If the officer would do this work for $400, it would be all right, but, if not, it would be necessary to appoint a man to do it.

Dr. Burnham stated that another officer would be necessary to carry out the work.

Mayor Best when asked by the chairman, said that he had nothing to say about the matter.

Dr. Burnham asked if it were the intention of the council to appoint a special officer when Ald. McIntyre's bylaw came into force.

The Mayor replied that the police would do the inspecting.

Chairman Eyres said that he would ask the council to provide the officer required. They had the handling of the money and should have the right to provide the man.

Mr. Eyres read the following resolution which was not referred to the Board, however:

"That this board earnestly requests the city council to provide for the oversight and enforcement of the Ontario statute law re the pollution of the city's water supply, the sewer connections, where such connections can reasonably be made, and all other laws pertaining to the health of the city."

Dr. Burnham thought that the resolution indicated a want of confidence in the present Medical Health Officer.

Dr. McNulty understood that the Medical Health Officer had notified the board that he was not prepared to assume such duties. It stood to reason that the present Medical Health Officer would not undertake them. It required a young and energetic man to get over such a large territory. It seemed to him that the present duties of the Medical Health Officer were not very extensive, and that one man should be able to handle the whole work.

Mayor Best stated that the Water Commissioners should appoint an official to look after the water supply.

Chairman Eyres said that the Board of Health would have no objection to the Water Commissioners taking charge of the business.

Dr. Burnham said that he thought it was the duty of the medical Health Officer to see the city was supplied with pure water and pure milk.

Mr. Eyres was in favour of passing a resolution, asking the council to appoint an officer.

Dr. Bingham said that the Health Act defined the duties of the Medical Health Officer. It didn't say anything about him going to the back lakes, or outside of the corporation. That officer couldn't go back to the lakes—"It would be nonsense" said the doctor.

It was on motion decided that Dr. Bingham should make an inspection of the milk, and report at the next meeting of the board.

Chairman Eyres again referred to the water supply question.

Dr. Burnham thought that a special officer should be appointed for this work, which was not included in the jurisdiction of the Medical Health Officer.

Dr. McNulty suggested meeting the Water Commissioners, to try and arrive at a settlement of the difficulty. A motion along these lines was carried.

Isolation Hospital

The familiar blue prints of the plans for the isolation hospital were again displayed on the committee-room table this morning.

Dr. McNulty stated that the plans which had been submitted to the Central Medical Association had been considered too small by that body. They suggested several changes in the plans. One of these was to move the kitchen from the ground-floor to the basement, where it would not be necessary to isolate the domestics. Another improvement would be a convalescent ward. It was pointed out that patients suffering from contagious diseases while they were rarely very ill for more than a week, had to remain in the hospital for from four to six weeks, and they should not be shut in with new patients that might come in.

Architect Blackwell thought that the improvement would cost about another $1000.

Ald. Mason, chairman of the Finance Committee, did not think the council would kick very much if the cost was not over $7000.

It was on motion decided to refer the plans back to Mr. Blackwell to be revised.

It is probable that the medical men may wait upon the council in a body to urge that the grant be made to provide an isolation hospital.

REPORTED PURCHASE OF COATES COMPANY'S WORKS

It is reported to-day that the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, through Mr. Switzer, has purchased the Taylor farm of 50 acres, on the Douro side of the Otonabee River, near the waterworks dam, and 20 acres of the Thompson farm, adjoining. It is stated that in the neighbourhood of $7,000 was paid for the Taylor property. The fact of this purchase having been made gives rise to the rumour that it is on this site that the Coates Manufacturing Company will erect its immense works, which seem destined to make Peterborough a great city.

SUGGESTS AN AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS' ASSOCIATION

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — Would you please allow me through the columns of your esteemed paper to invite any of the amateur photographers in Peterborough, who would like to be one, to organize an amateur photographers' association, or club, to send their names and addresses to box 964, city post office, on a post card, when if a sufficient number of amateurs are registered, an organization could be consummated. Thanking you in advance, yours respectfully,

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER.

J. N. Farquhar To Visit The City

Foreign Secretary of Y.M.C.A. Will Speak Here.

Mr. J. N. Farquhar, of Calcutta, India, who is the foreign representative of the Y.M.C.A.s of Ontario and Quebec, is now on furlough in America. He is now on a tour among the Canadian associations, and will be in Peterborough next Sunday, October 14. He will address a boys' mass meeting at 10 o'clock, and the men's meeting in the afternoon at 4 o'clock. He will probably arrive on Saturday evening in time to meet the members of the Bible Club.

The Foreign Work Committee met yesterday to arrange for this visit. Large audiences will no doubt greet Mr. Farquhar.

Former Pastor To Preach Here

Rev. J. Bastow at the Murray Street Church.

Next Sunday at both services in the Murray Street Baptist Church Rev. J. Bastow, M.A., of Renfrew, formerly a much-beloved pastor of the church here, will occupy the pulpit. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Bastow will be in the city to attend the convention, and Rev. Mr. Scott is taking advantage of his presence here to secure him for the services on that Sunday.

Defective Wire Caused Trouble

Fire Brigade Given a Run on Saturday.

The fire brigade were given a run on Saturday afternoon, when an alarm was sent in from Mr. A. L. Davis' residence on Homewood avenue. The brigade responded promptly to the call, but all danger was over when they arrived.

The alarm was occasioned by a defective electric wire leading to the kitchen. This burned out, destroying the entire lighting system of the house for some time. Little damage was done.

Practical Talk At The Y.M.C.A.

Was That Given by Mr. A. H. Britnell Yesterday.

A plain, straight, practical, heart to heart talk was that given by Mr. A. H. Britnell at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday at 4 o'clock. His subject was "A Narrow Escape." He made a strong appeal to men to lead the Christian life. Mr. Geo. Allen sang "The Better Land."

Committees Will Present Reports

In Connection With the Baptist Convention.

On Thursday night the members of the various committees appointed to arrange for the annual convention of the Ontario and Quebec Baptists will meet at the Murray Street Baptist Church, when final reports will be presented. The attendance of all the members of these committees is desired.

Farewell Services Held Yesterday At Barracks

Staff Capt. and Mrs. McAmmond Say Good-Bye to Local Corps—Large Attendance at the Meetings.

Large crowds were present at the three meetings held yesterday at the Salvation Army Barracks on the occasion of the farewell services at which Staff-Capt. and Mrs. McAmmond officated. They have been in charge of the local corps for the last fifteen months and have made themselves much beloved by all with whom they have had dealings, not only among the members of the Army alone but the Staff-Capt and his wife have made many staunch friends among the people of Peterborough by their affability and pleasing manner.

At the evening service the Staff-Capt. gave a farewell address, while Mrs. McAmmond reserved hers till next Sunday as she will be here until then. The Staff-Capt. in reviewing his labours in Peterborough during the last 15 months, said that the city and the people had taken possession of his heart. The members of the corps had always assisted him in all his efforts with commendable zeal and earnestness, while from the citizens, who were not members of the Army, and with whom he had come in contact he had received assistance in many ways and their hearty good-will. He referred to pleasant times that had been spent with the corps, of their endeavours to increase the roll and of the gratifying results. He urged all to remain fast as true soldietrs, to uphold truth and Army principles and continue, as in the past, in serving God. He said that he hoped the soldiers and officers would co-operate with his successors as they had done with him. He read St. Paul's dying charge to Timothy and as this was probably his last appearance in Peterborough he charged the members in a similar manner—to be true Christians.

Many of the officers spoke in glowing terms of the Staff-Capt. and Mrs. McAmmond and one and all wished them success in their future work. Ensign Comstock likewise, who has been assisting officer for the last five weeks, bade the members farewell. The Staff-Capt. leaves on Wednesday for Toronto to attend the 21th annual Officers' Congress, where he will be joined by Mrs. McAmmond next week. The field of their futuure labours is as yet unknown to them as well as their successors here. A special collection was taken up last evening when a generous response was made.

Northwest Grain For Montreal

Heavy Traffic Expected on the Mindland Line of G.T.R.

The grain shipments from the West have begun in earnest now. Rush orders are making the different shipping lines busy and the products of the Western farms is being rapdly carried to Eastern ports. On Sunday two large grain boats arrived at the Midland docks and 400 G. T. R. freight cars had been ordered to handle the grain. About ninety of those passed through Peterborough yesterday being mostly new Grand Trunk Pacific cars fresh from the shops at Montreal. They certainly presented a fine appearance and those who saw them expressed their praises at the colouring and general obvious utility. There are many of them still to be constructed and the G. T.P. will be equipped with freight cars that ought to stand the hard wear of heavy traffic for a long time. A large quantity of Northwest grain will be carried through the city and the Midland line is bound to be busy for some time to come.

William Dillon Taken To Asylum

Man Who Was Accused of Kirkfield Murder.

Lindsay, Oct. 6.—"Acquitted on the score of insanity."

Such was the gist of the sentance passed on William Dillon at the recent High Court for the murder of one, Henry Miller. Yesterday Government Bailiff Switzer arrived in town and William Dillon was conveyed under surveillance to Hamilton, where he will be placed in the Hamilton Asylum.

A Pointer For The Ministerial Tea

Consistency Towards Each Other a Suggested Topic.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir, — Another pointer for the "Ministerial tea," to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, at St. John's Guild House: — How would it do for some of the spiritual heads of the denominations represented there, to discuss the subject, "How can we act a little more consistently towards each other?" I mean the Baptist with the Church of England, the Methodist with the Baptist,, Presbyterian with the Metnodist, and so on. One preaches close communion, and they are the only ones who are right, and telling everyone whose ear they can get that all the others are wrong and going to Hades head-long. Christ said, "Whosoever will may come," etc., "Whosoever cometh to Me I will in no wise cast out." Another preaches something else, and they tell the public that they are the only ones that are right. But I think the real question is, "Who has the power to found a church—is it a human or a divine agency?"

Yours, etc.,

LAYMAN.

Largest Parade In The Society's History

367 Members of St. Peter's T.A.S. Attended the Cathedral in a Body Yesterday—Received Communion—His Lordship Bishop O'Connor Said Mass.

Yesterday morning the members of St. Peter's T.A.S. to the number of 367 attended the Cathedral in the morning and received communion at the 8 o'clock mass. The attendance of members of the society yesterday was the largest in its history, and furnished an evidence of the fact that its ranks are steadily increasing in strength and zeal.

The members met at the Convent and marched to the Cathedral, where mass was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor who, assisted by Rev. Dr. O'Brien and Rev. Father McCall, served communion. The sermon was preached by Rev. Father Kelly, who referred to the good work being accomplished by the Total Abstinence Society. His Lordship also addressed a few words to the members assembled, congratulating the society on its growth as evidenced by the very large number present. He spoke in eulogistic terms of the good work of Rev. Dr. O'Brien in connection with the cause of temperance, in the city.

He referred to the increasing public sentiment in favour of temperance, and counselled his hearers to be steadfast in thier temperance pledges. After mass the members paraded to their hall, George street, where they renewed their pledges, and Rev. Dr. O'Brien addressed them briefly, complimenting them upon the splendid turnout. The marshalls of the parade were, Messrs. J. S. Duffus and Patrick O'Donnell.

Peterborough's New Industrial Concern is Given Ontario Charter—Capital Stock is $1,000,000—The Provisional Directors Toronto Men.

In the Ontario Gazette of Saturday notice of the incorporation of the new company, which will locate its works at Peterborough, was given. It will be known as the Coates Manufacturing Company, of Canada, Limited, capital, $1,000,000, head office, Toronto; provisional directors, James Stellar Lovell, William Bain, Robert Gowans, Ernest William, McNeil William, Francis Rolph, Henry Chambers, Samuel Goodman, Crowell, and Walter Gow. This company is chartered with general powers, but, as outlined before, its principal business will be the manufacture of carpets and its extensive works are to be situated at Peterborough.

One Hundred Years' Work Of British Bible Society

What the Organization Has Accomplished in the Last Century—198,515,199 Copies of Scriptures Printed and Circulated—At Winnipeg Bibles Supplied in Forty-three Different Languages.

The fact that the annual meeting of the Upper Canada Bible Society, will be held to-night, will give additional interest to the following quotation from the one hundred and third annual report of the parent society, the British and Foreign Bible Society:

Until the spring of this present year we had not discovered the full meaning of the Bible Society's title. A few weeks ago a Blue Book appeared for the first time containing a "Census of the British Empire." No modern document can be more significant and impressive to British readers, or furnish more abundant materials for meditation, admonition and rebuke. The facts and figures which it sets forth bewilder the imagination. The name "British" now covers nearly one hundred times the area of the United Kingdom, and our fellow subjects constitute a quarter of the whole human race. King Edwards VII. rules over four hundred millions of mankind, only a small minority of whom are white. Of these enormous multitudes more than one half profess the Hindu faith, almost one-quarter are Moslems, and hardly one man in seven can be classed as even nominally Christians.

Such overwhelming figures bring home to us a solemn sense of God's calling and election, which have thus entrusted to Britain, the headship and guidance of so huge a fraction of the world. Surely it must humble us profoundly to feel this burden laid upon our people. Surely we who are Christians are doubly bound to send the Gospel to our fellow citizens.

Yet, again, if "British" means much, "Foreign" means far more. The Bible Society's title proclaims that its enterprise can recognize no frontier. Its mission is oecumenical and universal — like the book which it exists to carry into all countries and kingdoms. And that mission will be fulfilled when in every land God's redeeming love speaks to every man in his own tongue in which he was born.

Looking back across another year's labour—Foreign as well as British—we can still rejoice in the good hand of our God upon the institution which He has guided so wonderfully in years gone by. Foremost among our new mercies we reckon the completion of the Centenary Fund. The Society's great thanksgiving in Albert Hall last November, had its echoes far and wide in many hearts. Messages of congratulation and good-will from the rulers of every nation of the Reformed Faith came to confess the place whic theh the Iible holds in modern Christendom.

The Bible Society has now promoted the translation, printing, or distribution of at least some part of God's Book in four hundred different tongues.

With profound thankfulness we register a record output of Scriptures last year. The Society's previous high water mark was reached in 1902-03. But the total issues now to be reported surpass that by 33,000 copies and amount to no fewer than 5,977,453 volumes.

The recent growth has been entirely in Scripture portions, which are mainly used by foreign missions.

Since its foundation the Society has issued 198,515,199 copies of the Scriptures complete or in part; and we thank God that each separate unit stands for a spiritual seed.

The result achieved last year is the more remarkable in view of the hindrances in many parts of the world. Despite the disturbed state of Russia our circulation has only once before been larger in the Tsar's dominions. Both in Japan and Korea the sales were double those in 1904. In China the past year was memorable for the birth of great reforms; the old literary examinations for officials are abolished, temples are being turned into schools for the new learning, and their revenues devoted to its maintenance; and in that vast empire our circulation again considerably exceeded a million copies.

At Winnipeg the Society's depot has supplied the Scriptures in 43 different languages for the polyglot emigrant who pour through that gateway to the Northwest. Amid the babel of tongues at Johannesburg, our depot there has sold 52 different versions; unfortunately no copy was in stock of the 53rd language, when a new-comer to the "golden city" demanded the Bible in Icelandic!

Most gladly of all we recognize those provinces of the mission field as, for example, in Madagascar, in Korea, in India, and among the Khasia Hills in Assam—where the kindling of spiritual revival has created a great new demand for the Scriptures, as was the case in Wales.

We rejoice that in North America all the Society's different auxiliaries from Newfoundland to Vancouver are now happily federated into one Canadian Bible Society, auxiliary to the parent Society in London. In Australia the same unifying tendency appears, and our auxiliaries are drawing together into a common unity for each State.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exact'y correspond wit' the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches or require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Bad Mix-Up At The Rugby Game

Umbrellas Were Used With Deadly Effect.

A regrettable incident occurred at Saturday's rugby game which does not reflect creditable upon local people, although glad to say it did not arise out of any ill-feeling between Hamilton and Peterborough rooters over the game. A quarrel arose over a place in the grandstand and in a moment it seemed as if half the crowd were mixed up in the fracas. Umbrellas were used with deadly effect and there was a wierd scene until order was finally restored. Several visitors were out around the face and head.

The Funeral On Tuesday Afternoon

Late Mrs. Dunsford Will be Laid To Rest.

The remains of the late Mrs. Geo. Dunsford, whose sudden death in Wales was recorded a few days ago, will arrive in the city to-morrow morning from Montreal, and the funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late residence, Simcoe street, to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment. Mrs. Ellis, sister, of the deceased, who was with her when she died, is accompanying the remains.

More Cars Are Needed In West

Mr. B. F. Ackerman Back From Business Trip.

Mr. B. F. Ackerman has returned from a three weeks business trip to the west during which time he covered a large part of the western provinces.

Like everyone else who returns from the west, Mr. Ackerman reports that everything is flourishing there. The crops are good, and the only difficulty that exists is lack of proper transportation facilities. This condition exists in both freight and passenger cars. Mr. Ackerman returned by way of St. Paul.

Minden Echo Changes Hands

Mr. J. H. Delamere Retires After 20 Years.

The Minden Echo which, for over 20 years has been owned and edited by Mr. J. H. Delamere, has been purchased by Messrs. Arthurs and Baker, two energetic business men well and favourably known in this community, the former being the principal of the Minden Model School, and the latter for many years past having been a successful manufacturer and insurance agent. The new proprietors will assume all the duties and responsibilities of journalism next week.—Echo.

Popular Young Man Leaves City

Mr. G. G. Pratley Going to Clinton, Mass., To-morrow.

Mr. G. G. Pratley, who for the last seven years, has been with the Davis-Thompson Company, in the capacity of secretary, leaves the city to-morrow at noon for Clinton, Mass., where he has accepted a position as bookkeeper for the Victor Manufacturing Company, of that city. Mr. V. P. Tiewlis, who for a number of years was designer for the Auburn Woollen Mills Company, is manager of the Victor Company, which operates a mill about twice the size of the mills in this city.

Mr. Pratley is a Peterborough boy, with many friends, who will join in wishing him success in his new position. He has been prominent in church work and his place in the Men's Guild of St. Luke's, in which he was secretary for some time, will be hard to fill. He was also secretary of the Auburn Sunday school.

Habibulla Khan, the ameer of Afghanistan, has considerable architectural skill and is said to have designed his own palaces.

BARGAINS IN MEDICINE.

A woman once wrote us that she was not going to buy Scott's Emulsion any more because it cost too much. Said she could get some other emulsion for less money. Penny wise and pound foolish. Scott's Emulsion costs more because it is worth more—costs more to make. We could make Scott's Emulsion cost less by using less oil. Could take less care in making it, too. If we did, however, Scott's Emulsion wouldn't be the standard preparation of cod liver oil as it is to-day.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Oct. 8.—Stocks improved further to-day under the lead of Smelters, Amal. Copper and General Electric. Opening prices were fractionally higher, with the market disposed to quietness, except in specialties, which were moved upward easily, this operation bringing more or less improvement in the general list. Some of the Gould subsidiary issues were marked up, while Mo. Pac. itself sold at higher figures.

U. S. Steel common opened up at 5-8 and touched its previous high figure on immense transactions, but large profit-taking offerings checked the advance, and it fell back slightly. U. P. was bought on reports that the earnings soon to be published would be highly favourable. Amal. Copper made a new high figure for the move, and it was said would be put to 120.

There was a large amount of profit-taking in the last hour, causing some recessions from the top figures, and closing the market easy and firm.

A Bell Telephone Cable Burns Out

An Electric Light Line Crosses 'Phone Line Causing a "Ground."

Many people have called in vain during the last few days for residents in the western part of the city, over the Bell Telephone line. There were twenty-five or thirty phones in the northern part of the city, west of Stewart street, put out of commission on Saturday. An electric light wire in some manner fell across the Bell Telephone Company's line, thus causing a "ground," and burnt out out a cable which connected with the above mentioned residents, thus causing the inconvenience.

The telephone company immediately despatched a number of workmen to repair the damage. The repairs will be made in a short time.

Cough Lasted 3 Months.

"I was taken with a severe cough which lasted for three months, and though I tried all sorts of medicines they failed to do me any good. Music At St. John's Sunday

Solos Were Rendered by Mr. Geo. Collen and Mrs. MacGregor.

The offertory solo in the communion office at St. John's church on Sunday morning was kindly contributed by Mr. George Collen, a recent addition to the vocal teaching staff of this city. He sang Cowen's "Light in Darkness" exceedingly well, noticeably in tone placing and phrasing. At Evensong, Mrs. MacGregor sang Shelly's "Resurrection Song" her clear soprano voice being heard to great advantage. Mrs. MacGregor leaves the city this week, for Toronto, expecting to stay there the balance of this year.

Mr. G. McDonald Is Coming Back

Will Take Up Residence in Peterborough Again.

The many friends of Mr. George McDonald, who left here some time ago to take a position with John Bertram & Sons in Dundas, will be glad to learn that he intends to again take up residence in Peterborough. Mr. McDonald accompanied the Hamilton Rugby team on Saturday and while here was made the offer of a good position which he decided to accept. He will return to Peterborough on Wednesday.

Showing Made Was Most Creditable

O. R. F. U. Secretary Hay's Opinion of Saturday's Game.

Mr. J. B. Hay, sporting editor of the Toronto News' and secretary of the O.R.F.U. was an interested spectator at Saturday's game. Mr. Hay is a strong supporter of city leagues and believes that it is the only way to build up material. Mr. Hay thinks that Peterborough should not feel discouraged over their defeat on Saturday, considering that their showing against the Tigers was most creditable.

The Hamilton papers were well represented at Saturday's game. Mr. C. W. Kirkpatrick, of the Spectator, and W. U. McMullen, of the Herald, were both present. Mr. Kirkpatrick's brother took Merriot's place at inside wing for the Tigers.

Prophecies Come True, Only Worse

What the Belleville Intelligencer Said of Rugby Game.

The sporting writer on the Belleville Intelligencer is prophetic. He said on Saturday:—The Hamilton Tigers and Peterborough meet in Rugby this afternoon. It looks, at this distance, like a 20 to 1 shot, with Peterborough on the short end. What those man-eating Tigers will do to Chris Graham's pets will surely be a shame.

Hamilton's Team Play Too Much For Peterboro'

Tigers Downed Locals by 37-0 in Saturday's Game—Visitors Wonderful System Was Responsible for the Victory Which Was Decisive.

Whitewashed for the first time in their history and beaten by the biggest score that was ever piled up against them, the Peterborough rugby team left the field at Riverside Park on Saturday after having been trimmed by the Hamilton Tigers by 37-0. In the first local O.R.F.U. game of the season. The match was played on a field that was a veritable quagmire in spots and the first half in a drizzling rain that chilled to the bone the 800 shivering spectators in the grandstand. Rain had fallen steadily from 2 o'clock in the morning and it can easily be imagined that conditions were not favourable to fast rugby.

The heavy going, however, did not seem to bother Hamilton in the least. They were right at home in the mud, and were, apparently, as fast and sure as they would have been on a dry field.

Were Beaten Decisively

Peterborough were beaten decisively as the score indicates. They were outplayed and never were in the slightest danger of scoring. Hamilton simply swept them off their feet and it was a question of how big the score would be.

The reasons for their defeat are not hard to find and the most important was their lack of system and team play, which stood out in marked contrast to the machine-like work of the Tigers. There was no system behind the line. The men did not know what they were expected to do when they got the ball. They worked hard and pluckily, but their efforts were made ineffectual by a total lack of combined effort, which left them hopeless at the hands of the Tigers.

Lack of Judgment

In addition to this lack of team-play, very bad judgment was used, the tactics adopted being suicidal against such a team as Hamilton. Instead of keeping the play as close as possible, they kicked on nearly every occasion, often for a loss, and always, of course giving the ball to Hamilton. This enabled the Tigers to run up the score. Simpson could out punt McWilliams two to one and the locals should have dropped the kicking game when it was seen that it was losing ground. They had practised signals and trick plays all week and yet they tried them only three or four times during the game. Used oftener, even if they did not prove to be ground gainers, they would have at least resulted in keeping the play closer and the Tigers would not have had possession of the ball as much as they had with the tactics adopted.

Made a Good Showing

At that the locals made a remarkably good showing against the Tigers. It must be remembered that the Hamilton team has played together for three years and during that time never lost a game. Last year only one try was scored against them and that more as the result of a fortunate incident than as consequent of good playing. In view of these fact the work of the locals on Saturday was most creditable. Rugby under the snap-back rules is a quick-scoring game and 37 points are easily made. Peterborough played desperately and well, and in the second half when they had solved Hamilton's system of playing, they succeeded in holding them down to 10 points, in the latter quarter preventing them from scoring. This against a team which is as famous as Michigan for their quick scoring.

Tigers a Wonderful Team

That the Tigers are a wonderful team is a fact that cannot be gainsaid and they easily maintained their reputation as the foremost exponents of the snap-back game. The only other occasion on which such magnificent combined work was seen here was at the time of the visit of the Irish team some years ago. The Tigers passed cleanly and cauent surely, and displayed great headwork in their combination. The wings as well as the halves shared in handling the ball. Behind the line their back division could not be improved upon. Every man is speedy and a sure catch and can punt as well. qualities which make them a most formidable defence and one can easily understand why they were only rarely scored upon last season. Tope at full back caught the eye of the crowd with his great catching and running. Simpson, the old Peterborough boy, showed up as prominently as any of his jungle mates. He did most of the punting and made some magnificent long distance kicking besides dropping a goal from the field. DuMouulin's line-bucking and Moore's dodging runs were features. Ballard, known as the brains of the team, handled his men with great judgment. On

"BEN" SIMPSON,

The Peterboro' Boy Whose Kicking for the Tigers on Saturday Was One of the Features of the Game.

the wing line, Barron Craig, Lyon and Isbister were prominent. Lyon's great tackling stamped him as a most finished outside wing.

Peterborough's Wing Good

Peterborough's wing line held well considering that they were pounds lighter than their opponents. Their tackling was good although some of the men showed a tendency to go too high, which was a mistake with such artful dodgers as the Hamilton team proved to be. Craig proved an obstacle to DuMoulin's line plunging and held the Tigers for a loss on several occasions. Crough and Crowley were prominent by their tackling, and the others all worked hard. Easton's playing was a feature. The diminutive quarter back tackled like a fiend, pulling down the big Tiger backs in magnificent fashion. Ford also tackled well and played a fine game. The backs made some costly fumbles, which gave the Tigers many points. Gillespie got away with several of the longest runs of the game. Mulhern was accurate in catching at full back.

Marriot Was Hurt

An unfortunate accident happened to Marriot the outside wing of the Hamilton team just before half time. Simpson kicked over the line to Mulhern and Marriot who had followed up fast was flung off the little full back and crashed into the goal post, cutting his face badly. His place was taken by Kirkpatrick.

The officials were J. B. McArthur and Dr. W. B. Hendry, of Toronto, and their work was not satisfactory to the locals. They allowed Hamilton to get away with a lot of offside interference.

There was a big crowd at the game, notwithstanding the bad weather. Hamilton brought down about 150 supporters on a special train and they rooted vigorously.

The Teams

The following were the teams:—

Tigers.		Peterborough.
Tope	Backs.	Mulhern
Simpson	Halves.	Gillespie
DuMoulin		McWilliams
Moore		Ford (Crowley)
Ballard	Quarter.	Easton
Barron	Centre.	Hurtubise
Murray	Inside Wing.	Craig
Craig	Middle Wings.	Leclaire
Burkholder		Regan
Isbister		Meagher
Lyon	Outside Wings.	Crough
Marriot (Kirkpatrick)		Crowley (Ford)

Referee—J. B. McArthur.
Umpire—Dr. W. B. Hendry, Toronto.
Timer—J. B. Hay, Toronto.

First Quarter

The Hamilton team left no doubt as to their intentions from the start. Hurtubise kicked off to DuMoulin, who made a good return to Mulhern and the latter was downed. McWilliams and Simpson exchanged punts and the Tigers gained. The play was in Peterborough's territory. McWilliams punted into the scrimmage and Marriot dropped on the ball. Peterborough braced and held Hamilton for four downs, getting the ball. McWilliams kicked down the field and Simpson drippled back, Hamilton getting the ball on a fumble.

The First Score

A fake play failed to work, but on the next down Simpson passed half way across the field to Moore, who got nearly over before being tackled. Peterborough lined up to meet a buck, but Ballard and Simpson worked a criss cross pass and the quarter back went over the line, with no one to stop him. Moore kicked an easy goal and the score was 6-0.

The ball came back into Peterborough territory from the kick off. Simpson's punting gaining ground, DuMoulin tried bucking and was held. Finally from the quarter yard line Simpson kicked a pretty goal. Score 10-0.

There was no more scoring in this quarter although Hamilton were always aggressive. An exchange of punts between DuMoulin, McWilliams and Tope gained ground for the Tigers. Peterborough held them for two downs and then Simpson punted over to Gillespie, who relieved with a pretty run. A moments after he repeated the play, running thirty-five yards through the Hamiltonn wing line. Regan went off for a high tackle and a few minutes after Hurtubise went off for the same offence. Gillespie worked in another nice run, but Peterborough could not keep the ball away from their territory.

Second Quarter

Hamilton kept up their aggressive tactics in the second quarter against the wind. Much punting was done, and Simpson invariably gained ground for Hamilton on his kicks. Early in the quarter Moore started a dangerous run, but Crowley brought him down with a pretty tackle. A few moments after he again stopped the aggressive Tiger half. Hamilton tried line plays within Peterborough's 20 yard line and were held for downs. McWilliams kicked to Simpson, who returned with a long low punt, which McWilliams allowed to get away from him and Murray dropped on the pigskin for a try. Moore kicked the goal from a difficult angle. Score 16-0.

Easton's Nice Tackle

The ball went into Hamilton territory on the kick off, but soon came back. Simpson passed out to Moore for a run, but Easton was on him like a flash and made the prettiest tackle of the day. Simpson kicked to Gillespie who made a splendid dodging run for a gain. McWilliams punted and Hamilton on gaining possession of the ball tried line plays. Tope went through for 10 yards on a fake play and then Simpson punted to Gillespie, who lost the ball when tackled. The prettiest work of the day followed. Isbister grabbed the oval and started for the line. He was downed but as he fell transferred the ball to DuMoulin, who went a few yards and was tackled. Craig was on hand, received the pass and plunged over the line for another try. Moore missed the goal. Score 21-0.

Simpson's Pretty Run

The next few moments' play was marked by a pretty run by Simpson The latter kicked over to Mulhern, who was nailed a foot behind his posts for a rouge. It was in this play that Marriot was so badly hurt that he had to retire. Kirkpatrick replaced him. Score 22-0.

The play was all in Peterborough territory. From a snap back near the touch line, McWilliams made a poor kick into touch giving Hamilton the ball. They advanced the oval near the line and then Lyon went over after several scrimmages. The locals claimed offside interference but the referee allowed the score. Moore did not convert. Score 27-0. Half time was called a moment after.

Third Quarter

Hamilton's scoring was cut down considerably in the second half. The locals seemed to have solved the tactics and held them much better. Only one try was made in this period and it was on a fumble. Peterborough's wings held well and the Tigers' trick plays did not get away. Still the locals were always on the defensive and that they kept the score down so well is very creditable. Hamilton still continued to press and McWilliams and Simpson exchanged punts. McWilliams made the mistake of running past the line of scrimmage after securing the ball from the snap and lost possession. Easton brought Moore down with a great tackle. Simpson kicked over the line to Gillespie and the latter when tackled lost the ball to Isbister for a touch, which Moore converted. Score 33-0.

Scored by Singles

On a fumble a moment after Barron dribbled over the dead ball for a point coming near to scoring a try on the play. Score 34-0.

Simpson punted over the line for another rouge. Score 35-0. Hamilton kept passing and DuMoulin punted to Gillespie, who was forced to rouge. Score 36-0.

Moore and DuMoulin re-united for a nice gain and then Tope advanced the oval on a fake play. Another rouge followed, ending the scoring.

No Scoring in Last Quarter

The last quarter was marked by the same aggressive rush on the part of the Tigers, but Peterborough took a big brace and held the Mountaineers well, several times hurling them back for crosses and forcing them to give up the ball on downs. Hamilton tried everything in their repertoire but their efforts to further increase this score were hopeless. The locals' line held well and the Tigers scoring was over. The game ended with the ball in midfield, after Crowley had made a nice run.

The Great Work For The Bible Society In Canada

Interesting Address by Rev. R. E. Welsh at St. Andrew's in Interests of the Society—Foreigners Flocking Here Must Get the Gospel of Truth—Work is Rapidly Progressing.

St. Andrew's Church held a large congregation yesterday morning, who listened with deep pleasure and profit to the address given by the Rev. R. E. Welsh, late of Lincoln, England, in the interests of the Canadian Bible Society. Mr. Welsh, who has been an extensive traveller in both the Old Country and the new, is conversant with the work of the society, and gave some statistics surprising to his hearers, and demonstrated the necessity for the continuance of the work of the distribution of Bibles in Canada, and in Western Canada particularly.

Besides Rev. Mr. Welsh and the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Laird occupied the pulpit and took part in the morning service. The latter represented the Queen's University Endowment Fund, and, Mr. Potter stated, would be heard from some time in the near future.

The singing was also of an interesting nature, Mr. Ed. Barton, bass soloist of the Carleton Street Methodist Church, Toronto, singing a solo, "Coming Home." Mr. Barton is the possessor of a finished voice, and his singing was received with much appreciation. He will be heard again this evening at the George Street Methodist Church.

The speaker chose his text from Jeremiah xxxvii; 17,—"Is there any word from the Lord? And Jeremiah said, there is"; and from the 25th verse of the first chapter of first Peter,—"But the word of the Lord endureth forever." Mr. Welsh first explained how Jeremiah had been put into prison, and how Zedekiah, the king, had asked the prophet the question contained in the text. It was a question, he said, that was one of God's most holy ones, and not a speculative inquiry. There is always enough light for a man's guidance if he is true of heart, and when God speaks to manbo speaks through the communication of the Spirit. Souls of good men in all ages have received communication from Him only through the Spirit. Christ is the Word of God, made manifest all down through the ages, never to be forgotten, and no man can mistake the Almighty's purpose who follows the Word of God. The Bible, he said, is the great means of communication from the spirit of man, and He is still revealing to human beings that there is a direct track—the Word of God—by which the different races are becoming Christianized, and the Bible Society is engaged in the great work of distributing the Book of Life among men.

The speaker next touched upon the origin of the formation of the society and told the familiar story of how the little Welsh girl went over the hills to look for a Bible. The aim of the society is to supply the Scripture in all languages to all races of the earth. They have now distributed the book in 400 different languages, and last year circulated 6,000,000 copies throughout the world. The fruit of their labour is becoming manifest, he said, although remours refer to the contrary.

Last year alone 1,000,000 Scriptures were distributed in China, and that number was paid for by the Chinese. Many others were given away free. China is a country in which some seventy or eighty years ago there was not a single Bible. During the Russo-Japanese war a quarter of a million copies of the Gospel of St. Luke were circulated among the Japanese soldiers and many a tale of interest derived from the small books have come from the fighting men of Japan. The Russians also benefitted at the same time from the society, and its world-wide activities are well known.

The speaker next referred to the work of the society in Canda. He has only been a Canadian himself for sixteen months, having come last year together with 144,600 foreigners, the tales of whose countries were written on their faces. They have made a great venture in coming across the sea, but have found living and liberty here beyond their expectations. We, as Canadians, must give them the best.

Of the 144,600 who came last year, 135,000 (this is the speaker's statement) were from Continental Europe — from Poland, Bohemia, Galicia, Scandinavia, Germany, etc. Most of these have travelled to the prairies of the West, and it is one of the sights of the world to see in Winnipeg that cosmopolitan population assembled from all over the world. From Winnipeg to the Coast about 46 per cent. of the people are foreigners, and there are at least 80,000 Galicians in Western Canada.

With the increasing multitudes coming here, comes the question, "What are we going to do for the Christian cause?" Missionaries have yet only touched the fringe of the foreign communities in the West, so that a wide field of labour awaits the interested one.

With but one exception, Rev. Mr. Welsh stated, he had only discovered one language not represented by the Bibles of the society. It has recently been asked for Bibles in fifteen different languages from the branch in Winnipeg. The foreigners all appear to want to speak their religion and read the Bible in their ancestral tongue, although in connection with their business they speak in English.

Last year the various branches in Canada united under the name of the Canadian Bible Society, so that they might muster all their Canadian forces and make a fresh effort to reach all the foreign classes in the Dominion. This is the work they society is engaged in, concluded the speaker, and wherever there is a famine for the Word of Life it is their duty to extend the Gospel.

Rev. Mr. Welsh preached last night at Mark Street Church, East City, and will be heard this evening at the public meeting of the society at George Street Methodist Church.

The Annual Meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Bible Society will be held in the George Street Church on Monday, Oct. 8th, at 8 o'clock. An orchestra will be in attendance and the speaker will be Rev. R. E. Welsh.

Fixed Assessment For Two Industries

Carpet Company and Brick Company Matters May Come Up To-day.

To-day the Township Council of North Monaghan will meet for the first time since August, no meeting having been held in September. It is probable that the question of fixed assessment for the Brinton Carpet Company's works and the property of the Peterborough Sandstone Brick Company will be taken up at to-day's meeting. The ratepayers of the township will, in all probability, be asked to vote on a bylaw, giving these two firms fixed assessment.

Young Men's Guild Will Re-organize

Meeting of Charlotte Street Guild Will be Held for This Purpose.

A meeting for the re-organization of the Young Men's Guild of the Charlotte street Methodist church will be held on Friday night next, when the officers for the year will be elected and plans for the work discussed. This Guild has been singularly successful in the past, especially in its athletic enterprises, while the intellectual side of the organization has no tbeen neglected.

THE REAL CAUSE

The Ancient Scalp-Fever Theory Exploded.

At one time dandruff was attributed to the result of a feverish condition of the scalp, which threw of the dry cuticle in scales.

Professor Unna, Hamburg, Germany, a noted authority on skin diseases, explodes this theory, and says that dandruff is a germ disease.

This germ is really responsible for the dandruff and for so many bald heads. It can be cured if it is gone about in the right way. The right way and of course the only way is to kill the germ.

Newbro's Herpicide does this, and permits the hair to grow luxuriantly, just as nature intended it should. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for a sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond and Walsh, special agents.

Men Leave For The Big Bend

Company Are Gathering Men From Many Points.

To-morrow morning Mr. Stephen Simpson leaves for British Columbia in charge of a number of men to work for the Big Bend Lumber Company. The Company is picking up men all along the line to Winnipeg and those from Peterborough will be joined by others in Toronto and in northern points.

Some time ago a dozen teams left the city for the Company's camps and these will be overtaken somewhere in the West.

Mr. Simpson will take about 15 men from here, who leave by C.P.R. to-morrow morning.

Anniversary Of Sunday School

Of Charlotte Street Methodist Sunday School on Oct. 21st.

The anniversary of the Charlotte street Methodist church Sunday school will be held on Sunday, Oct. 21st, when special sermons will be preached by two of the Baptist preachers who are in the city attending the convention.

Special Sermons To Young Men

Rev. Wm. Major Will Commence Series Next Sunday.

Next Sunday night in All Saints' church the rector, Rev. Wm. Major, will preach the first of a series of special sermons to young men on practical questions, which affect young men in the realms of business, morality and church life. No doubt these sermons will be of much interest especially to young men, and the Sunday evening services will in all probability be largely attended.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A DELIGHTFUL WINTER RESORT

It is announced that this year the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's fine hotel at Caledonia Springs, Ont., will be kept open for accommodation of visitors all winter. The company has great faith in Caledonia Springs as an all-year-round resort, something better than a mere summering place, and this action will without doubt, be appreciated by many people to whom the Springs have been hitherto closed more than half the year, owing to the lack of accommodation. 3d80

Pain in the Back Completely Cured by Bu-Ju.

The Strong Testimony of a Toronto Man.

The wearing pain of Kidney Disorder need no longer be endured as a necessary evil—for science has at last succeeded in compounding a remedy, in Bu-Ju, that cures quickly and surely the worst Kidney Troubles.

Bu-Ju is every day earning for itself the lasting gratitude of sufferers all over the Province—and all we can say in praise of it is more than backed up by those who have been relieved and cured by it. Read this letter:

The Claflin Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.

I am anxious that you should know the relief and benefit I have derived from taking your Bu-Ju Pills.

I first got a sample from Geo. Marshall, Druggist, 310 Queen St. E., and was so much benefited that I decided to take more.

The effect has been marvellous.

I had suffered severely for years with pain in the back—especially on rising in the morning—but I am pleased to say that the pain has completely disappeared. Before using Bu-Ju I tried every remedy I heard of for Kidney Troubles without ever receiving relief.

I strongly advise anyone suffering from Kidney Trouble to take Bu-Ju without delay.

Yours truly, (signed) CHAS. E. LUSTY,
3 Taylor St., Toronto, Ont., May 15, 1906.

When years of severe suffering yield so speedily to Bu-Ju, do not doubt that it will cure you—get a free sample to-day. It will prove to you that Bu-Ju is different from anything else you have ever tried.

At all dealers—50c. a box—or by mail from the Claflin Chemical Co., Windsor. Money back if not as represented. 48

$20,000 In Improvements To North Ward School

Report of Committee to Board of Education Recommending This Was Adopttd at Last Night's Meeting —Some Property Must be Bought From Methodist Church--Some Teachers Changes--Reports of Committees.

The report of the committee in charge of the improvements to the North Ward school, asking that $20,000 be provided for the completion of the school, was unanimously adoped by the Board of Education, at their regular meeting last night.

For these improvements a portion of the Grace church property, adjoining the school grounds, will have to be purchased, and the trustees of the George street Methodist church have given their consent to this. The land to be annexed will cost $300. The building when completed will be a commodious and handsome one, containing ten rooms—the necessary number for a Normal School.

The question of giving a holiday to the public school pupils on Friday, October 19th, was considered, and it was decided that there would be no session from Wednesday, Oct. 17th, to Monday, Oct. 22nd.

Those present were Messrs. W .G. Ferguson, echairman; John Crane, D. W. Dumble, Dr. Burnham, Robert Fair, W. H. Hill, B. F. Ackerman and Dr. Morrison.

Mr. Dumble, chairman of the committee in charge of the improvements to the North Ward school, submitted the following report:

Your committee beg leave to report that, it was found necessary to purchase from the trustees of the George street Methodist church ten feet of the Grace church property, adjoining the school grounds. The trustees while not desirous of selling any of their property, yielded to the request of the board, and have agreed to sell a strip of their land, ten feet wide by about 150 feet for the sum of $300, the board to erect and forever maintain a close board fence, six feet high, between the grounds. The committee accepted this offer and recommend that the board make provision for the payment of the land.

Your committee procured from Mr. Belcher, the architect of the building, a plan for an extension of six rooms, with necessary halls, which will give a ten room school. The plan works out happily and will make a commodious and handsome building.

Your committee procured estimates of the cost of the new extension; also for heating by steam the entire building, and for new plumbing, and also an estimate for heating with hot air.

Your committee finds that the closets now in use in connection with the Smead-Dowd system of heating in the old building, are wholly unsatisfactory and unsanitary, and that new plumbing will be requirin any event. This will cost from $2500 to $3000, and the heating by steam will cost about $2700. As against this your committee are carefully considering the expediency of an improved hot air system, which would cost $2000 less, and which they desire further time to consider and inquire about from institutions in which the system is installed. If the hot air system is installed your committee find that the building can be completed with modern plumbing at a total cost of $20,000, which we advise should be provided for the completion of the building, which will then be in all respects a handsome and up-to-date building.

You committee recommend that tenders be asked for the construction of the school, so as if posible to get the foundation in this fall, and that the necessary sewer connections be at once made.

On motion the report was adopted.

Communications

The following communications were received:

From the Board of Trustees of the George street Methodist cchurch, stating that they will sell and convey to the Board of Education, the easterly ctn feet of the Grace church lot on Barnardo avenue, if the Board of Education would build between the school land and church land a close board fence six feet high and will agree to keep this fence up in perpetuity. The fence to be extended from the south side of school to rear of lot. The board does not desire to sell but does not wish to hinder the School Board from enlarging the North Ward school.

On motion the offer of the trustees of the George street church was accepted, and the chairman and the secretary of the board were authorized to close the deal.

The report of the Committee on Appointments was as follows:

Gentlemen, — Your Committee on Appointments begs leave to report that they have appointed Miss Bertha G. Bauer, of Goderich, Ont., as assistant in the Collegiate Institute, at a minimum salary of $800. Miss Bauer will be here ready to begin work on Monday, the 22nd.

Your committee have also granted Miss Warner leave of absence for four months, from the 1st of October, for the purpose of taking an advanced course in Kindergarten work. Miss Cameron has been placed in charge of Miss Warner's room, and we recommend that Miss Cameron be paid at the minimum salary for Kindergarten directors, namely $375, while substituting for Miss Warner. We also recommend that Miss N. Hall be employed to take Miss Cameron's work from the 1st of October, at a salary of $30 per month.

The report was adopetd.

From William F. Ballard, asking for the position of janitor of the new south ward school. — Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

Jas. Johnson sent in a similar application; which was also referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From R. Hicks & Co., stating that they had a bill from the Board of Education for 835 bricks, valued at $5. The letter stated that R. Hicks & Co. were not aware of having purchased any bricks from the Board of Education, but if they had received some bricks which are the property of board, the latter would be entirely welcome to them. One load of brick referred to had remained unused, and the Board could have them by sending for them.

Grant for Collegiate

Dr. Morrison, chairman of the Building Committee, reported that the plans for the new Collegiate Institute were almost ready and asked the members of the Board what wouldb e advisable to do. He was authorized to arrange a meeting between het Board of Education and the city council, regarding the grant of $21,000, which the Board has requested the council to make.

Harwood Man Wins Star Prize

Wm. Robson Captured Bass Weighing 7 lb. 3 ozs.

The Toronto Star says:—

The Toronto Daily Star's prize of a $15 bass rod, reel, and line for the best small mouth black bass caught in Ontario waters this year goes to Mr. William Robson, a resident of Harwood, a little village nestling beside Rice Lake. The fish that wins the prize is the largest which has ever been entered in the six years over which The Daily Star's competition has extended, and so far as we know, breaks all records for small mouth black bass, in these parts, at all events. As entered its weight and dimensions are as follows:—

Weight, 7 lbs, 3 ozs.

Length, over all—33 inches.

Girth—17 inches.

These figures have been verified. Mr. W. J. Edmison, the Harwood postmaster, who purchased the fish from Mr. Robson, had it mounted, and it is now on exhibition at The Daily Star office.

Fred T. Egener of Woodstock has been appointed choirmaster and organist of the Zion Presbyterian church at Brantford.

Belleville Man Becomes Supreme Secretary I. O. F.

Mr. R. Mathieson Has Resigned Superintendency of Institute for the Deaf and Dumb to Take Above Position--Succeeds Lieut.-Col. McGillivray.

The Toronto News of last night says:—Mr. R. Mathieson, Superintendent and Principal of the institute for the Deaf and Dumb at Belleville for twenty-seven years, has resigned, having been appointed Supreme Secretary of the Independent Order of Foresters in place of Lieut.-Col. McGillivray, who, it is understood, has resigned on account of ill-health. The appointment was made at a meeting of the Supreme Council of the I.O.F. at Foresters' Island on Saturday.

Previous to going to Belleville, Mr. Mathieson was bursar of the Asylum at London for six years, and manager of industries and bursar of the Central Prison, Toronto, for one and a half years.

The position of Supreme Secretary of the I.O.F. was declared vacant on Saturday evening. Col. McGillivray has been on leave of absence since the first of May. The salary of $7,000 will remain as fixed by the Council.

Col. McGillivray's leave of absence will expire on the first of November. It was renewed for three months on the first of August. Next to Dr. Oronhyatekha Col. McGillivray is the oldest official of the society, and has been connected with it for 20 years, being Supreme Secretary for nearly the whole of that time.

Col. McGillivray is also president of the Canadian National Exhibition Association.

Some Human Freaks And Their Peculiarities

Two Germans, Whose Physical Natures Were Differently Developed—An American "Freak" Who Can Eat Poison and Live.

When she is in a freakish mood nature seems to revel in making human beings who defy all her most cherished traditions and are a constant mystery to their fellow creatures. Such a man is Herr Schwarz, "the armor-plated man," who is such a puzzle to the doctors of Europe.

Herr Schwarz has for some years been undergoing an ossification of the whole of his body, and is rapidly developing into the hardness and immobility of a statue. His back has now become quite rigid, the muscles standing out hard and immovable; in fact, he seems to be enveloped in a kind of armor-plating, consisting of surface bone as hard as stone. He is no longer able to move his jaws, and is compelled to take food in a liquid form through a tube, some of his teeth having been removed for the purpose. And yet, singular to say, this ossous man enjoys excellent health, and not long ago was married to a charming young Berlin lady.

In curious contrast to this indurated gentleman is Herr Stahl, whose bones are so brittle that he can scarcely move without fracturing one of them. By simply stepping on a pavement he has broken a leg more than once; a hearty handshake has broken his arm, and a slap on the back not long ago laid him up for weeks with a fractured shoulder. Herr Stahl has only numbered 31 years, yet he counts two fractures for every year he has lived. In fact, as he humorously says, the only safe place for him is a glass case.

Capt. Vetrio, an American, is a "freak" of another order, for he can make a hearty meal off poisons which would provide work for quite a large number of undertakers, if others were to partake of it. Not long ago, in Berlin, he sat down to a dinner which consisted of a plate of verdigris, a liberal portion of ultramarine, and a "compote" of sulphur and borax, followed by a dessert of white sulphur. These edibles were washed down by a solution of strychnine and a bottle of patent rat-killer, made of powdered glass, arsenic and atropine. This meal he devoured with evident enjoyment, to the amazement of the government officials and doctors who looked on, and who, to a man declined the captain's invitation to join him in his repast.

The Kind of Dog it Was

THE following notice has been published in a northern Peninsula paper by a French Canadian:

"Loosed. One dawg. Been loose him bout tree weeks. Him white dawg, almost white, with tail cut off close next to her body. Anybody finding her bring him to me. I belong to him and shall give good rewards for the same. Black spot on his nose, about size of fifty cents or dollar piece, Canada money or United States, all the same. For you truly with anxious, Felix Carno, hindside of Methody church, about three blocks in the house upstairs, with green painting."

A Safe Reward

THERE was a man whose wife had a terrier of extreme ferocity. It bit the man a number of times. He expressed great hatred for it.

Finally the terrier bit a large piece out of the calf of the man's leg, and the next day it disappeared.

The man advertised widely for the dog's return. He offered a reward of $200 for it, and his friends were amazed.

"I thought," said a friend to him, "that you hated that dog?"

"I do," the man admitted.

"Why, then, do you offer such a large reward for its return?"

"To please my wife."

"But you're foolish," said the other. "Such a large reward will be sure to bring it back."

"No, no," said the man, with a smile. "You see, I know the dog is dead."

Mr. and Mrs. Cluxton Visit Friends in the City.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney H. Cluxton passed through the city to-day on their way to Washington, D.C., after spending a month at their summer resort, Sandy Point, Pigeon Lake.

Mr. Cluxton called at the Examiner office last night and stated that he had never been in a more beautiful region that Pigeon Lake, and next year intends building several cottages at the Point. He was glad, he said, to be able to take a trip every year to the Kawartha Lakes which he termed "God's country." Mr. Cluxton is well acquainted in Peterborough, having lived here for some time. One of the most welcome visitors at his home in Washington is the Weekly Examiner in which he reads with great pleasure the news from his old home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cluxton called on a number of friends last evening.

Two Dead And Many Hurt At The Auto. Races

Grim Reaper Present At Vanderbilt Cup Auto Races.

THREE OF INJURED WILL DIE

Mile-a-Minute Road-Racing Attended by the Death Terror—French Car of Elliot F. Shepard Tosses a Man High In the Air and Fractures Skull and Breaks Legs—Another Man Killed By an Auto.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 8.—France Saturday won the third international automobile road race for the William K. Vanderbilt, jr., Cup, completing a record of three straight victories in this event, which is run over the turnpike of Long Island, the centre of the course being about 20 miles from New York City.

Italy was second in the race, France filled third and fourth positions, while Germany furnished the fifth car. Only these five machines completed the tenth and last lap of the irregular rectangular course, which was 29.71 miles in length. The total distance of the race was 297.1 miles, and Louis Wagner, driver of the winning car, made the distance in 290 minutes 20 2-5 seconds, a speed of more than a mile a minute for the entire distance.

A Spectator Killed.

One of the more than two hundred thousand spectators who lined the course paid with his life the penalty of too great curiosity. He was near the dangerous turn in the course known as Krug's Corner. Two cars had flashed by when the man ventured out upon the road to get a better view of the others coming. The French car, driven by Elliot F. Shepard, an American, crashed into the unfortunate man, who, in the view of thousands, was hurled high into the air. When picked up many yards from the scene of the accident the man was dead. His skull had been fractured both legs broken and he was frightfully crushed. After a few minutes he was identified as Kurt L. Gruner, a business man of Passaic, N.J.

Many Others Hurt.

Joseph Tracy, in his American car, crashed into a crowd of men and boys and seriously injured Sylvester Baldwin, a boy of Norwalk, Conn. Several others were slightly hurt. Tracy held to the course. Dr. Wellschott, an amateur driver of an Italian car, lost control of his big 130 horse-power machine in the first round. He ran down two boys on a bicycle, then plunged down a 30 foot embankment. Both the driver and Colombo, his mechanician, were picked up unconscious, but quickly were revived. The injured boys are John Brooks and Robert Ten Eyck, both living near the course. Several persons were run down by touring cars in the crush going to and returning from the race.

The Vanderbilt Cup again goes into the possession of France, and the next time probably will be raced for in that country.

Sheriff Gildersleeve said he did not intend to arrest Elliot F. Shepard in connection with the killing of K. L. Gruner on the Vanderbilt Cup course Saturday.

This is the list of deplorable accidents issued later than first account:

The Dead.

Kurt L. Gruner, aged 35, married, Passaic; got on course in front of Elmott F. Sheppard's machine.

Joseph A. Stadler, Long Island City; killed by auto on its way to the races.

The Dying.

Ralph Baldwin, aged 14, of South Norwalk, Conn.; struck by Tracy's machine, which left the course at the sharp East Norwich turn; leg broken and internal injuries.

Mary Gegan, New York, run down in Thirty-Fourth street by race bound auto; three ribs broken and internally injured.

Felix Salzroske, run down in Hoffman boulevard, Long Island City, back broken.

The Injured.

John Crooks, aged 14, Port Washington, L. I.; hit by Wellschott's racer when steering gear failed; cut and bruised.

Lionel W. Williams, in collision with race bound auto, knee cap broken.

Robert A. Stretton, run down in his auto by repair car in Jericho turnpike; knee cap broken and internal injuries.

Tony Colussi, run down by an auto on Brooklyn bridge; badly bruised.

George Wydur, Long Island City; run down; cut and bruised.

Fatality to An Electrician.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 8.—William H. Kellar, night electrician at the Niagara Falls, St. Catharines & Toronto Railway power station, was killed by getting in contact with the electric machinery somehow about 10 o'clock Friday evening. He was alone in the building, and, on it being noticed that the motor was short-circuited, Conductor Brown was sent out and found Kellar on the floor, unconscious, and badly burnt on both arms. Medical assistance was called, but the young man died about 1 a. m., never regaining consciousness. Kellar was 25 years of Age, unmarried, and lived with his widowed mother.

Suicides In Ice Cream Parlor.

Kenora, Oct. 8.—On Saturday afternoon J. Dollard, recently employed on the G.T.P., walked into the ice cream parlors of Jackson Bros. and deliberately cut his throat. Only a few days ago he came out of a hospital, and since then he had been acting strangely and had several times troubled the police by his actions. He purchased the razor a short time before committing suicide and evidently premeditated the act for some time.

Blenheim, Oct. 8. Saturday evening about 6 o'clock, Mrs. James Jeffrys ended her life by cutting her throat. She was an old lady about 75 years of age and leaves a husband and one son. Domestic troubles are supposed to be the cause of the deed, as she has been in good health. An inquest was deemed unnecessary.

Toronto Waiter Disappears.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—Douglas Wind, formerly a waiter at the National Club of this city, left town on Sept. 8, to go to Niagara Falls over Sunday, and has not since been heard of. He has a wife and two children living at 34 Sydenham street.

United States Lands Troops On Cuban Soil

Four Battalions of Infantry Under Canvas At Havana.

REBELS TAKE BY MARINES

Release of Imprisoned Insurgents Demanded, But the U. S. Fighting Men Instead Disarmed the Rebel Cuban General, Who Thereupon Promised That Those Under His Command Would Disarm.

Havana, Oct. 8.—The first landing of United States soldiers in the present occupation of Cuba was accomplished yesterday, and last night the first four battalions of the Fifth United States Infantry are settled under canvas in Camp Columbia. Gen. Frederick Funston established his headquarters at Marianao, convenient to his command.

Arrest 39 Insurgents.

A detachment of 200 insurgents Saturday rode into the Carlsad suburb of the City of Puerto Principe, waving machetes and threatening people. Twenty U. S. marines from the detachment on duty at Puerto Principe went to Caridad, dispersed the insurgents and arrested 39 of them. Gen. Caballero, the insurgent leader, with 100 men, thereupon proceeded to the headquarters of the commander of the marine and demanded the release of the captured insurgents. Instead of releasing them, the Yankees disarmed Caballero and all of his followers who could be caught. Thereupon, Caballero promised that all the insurgents under his command would disarm.

Still Disinclined to Disarm.

Disarming of former insurgents went on much better yesterday. Reports from members of the disarmament commission in various provinces indicate that the trouble which was threatened Saturday may be avoided, although ex-rebels and volunteers in a few towns in Santa Clara Province are still disinclined to be the first to disarm, and it is feared that United States soldiers will have to be sent to back up the demands of the disarmament commission.

Governor Magoon Leaves For Cuba.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Governor Magoon has started on his journey to Cuba. On Saturday, Secretary of State Root and Gov. Magoon were in conference with the President, the purpose being to instruct the governor relative to the treatment of the Cuban question when he assumes office at Havana. Gen. Bell, chief of staff, also had an interview with the President.

Lively Fighting In Hayti.

Cape Haytien, Oct 8.—Gen. Jican Jiminez, a nephew of ex-President Jiminez, Friday night attacked Monte Cristi. He took advantage of the panic that resulted to enter the Haytien consulate and secured important documents, but was forced to fly before superior Government forces. During the skirmishes the insurgent Gen. Rodriguez was captured. The rebels are furious at the authorization accorded the Dominican Government by Hayti to debark troops on Haytien territory and in retaliation have killed many Haytiens.

Cecil B. Smith Resigns.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—Cecil B. Smith has resigned the chairmanship of the Temiskaming Commission, and accepted the offer of the City of Winnipeg for half his time to take charge of the construction of the new hydraulic development works there. Mr. Smith's salary at Winnipeg will be $5,000. Premier Whitney made the announcement on Saturday evening. He stated that the arrangement had been made with the approval of the Government. Mr. Smith would continue as consulting engineer to the Railway Commission, and would also continue to serve on the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. Mr. Smith, who will continue to reside in Toronto, will spend alternate periods of a couple of weeks or so in the two cities.

Lynchings Occur In Michigan and In Alabama.

HANGED THEM ON THE SPOT

Arkansaw Likewise Lynches a Negro—Another Negro Murders a Child of Eight Years, and the Fiend Is Being Searched For — Two White Men Shot by a Negro In Virginia—Crimes In Canada.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 8.—Two hundred masked men met Sheriff Powers with the two negroes charged with criminal assault at Richardson Switch, three miles north of Mobile, on the Southern Railway, took his prisoners from him on Saturday morning and hanged them on the spot.

No others were hurt.

The negroes had been taken to Birmingham for safe-keeping and were being brought to Mobile for trial.

Tremendous crowds surrounded the railroad station during the morning, and when the report of the lynching of the negroes was received the greatest excitement prevailed.

The crowd was apparently dissatisfied with the method of lynching, and a mob has departed for the scene of the lynching with the declared intention of burning the bodies.

MURDERS LITTLE GIRL.

Eight-Year-Old Child Assaulted and Killed by Negro.

Monessen, Pa., Oct. 8.—Anna Kunpak, eight years old, was found murdered in a field near here yesterday, with her throat cut. From the appearance of the body, the child had been assaulted.

She left home early Saturday evening to bring the cow in, and never returned. After an all-night search, the body was found in a lonely spot, partly covered with ashes.

Upon approaching the spot, the men saw a negro running rapidly through a piece of woods nearby. He is being searched for.

Riot Follows Shooting.

Macon, Va., Oct. 8.—Charles Adams and William Solomon, young white men, last night were shot by a negro and seriously injured, at the fair grounds during an encounter followed by alleged insults offered by the negro to young women they were escorting. The negro was arrested, and a general riot followed. There were no further casualties.

Negro Lynched.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 8.—A negro has just been lynched in Argenta.

Lynching In Michigan.

Basin, Mich., Oct. 8.—A negro Saturday attempted criminal assault on Mrs. Ketchem of this town. He was captured and lynched.

BITTER DISCUSSION.

Bond Ministry In Newfoundland Kicks Over Britain's Surrender to the United States.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 8.—It was reported yesterday that the Ministry, following the recent example of the Natal Cabinet, intend to resign as a protest against the temporary arrangement of Great Britain and the United States, by the provisions of which American herring fishermen secure privileges contrary to the laws of Newfoundland.

Though the report lacks definite confirmations, both the Ministers and Assemblymen are known to be bitterly discussing the most effective method of expressing the sentiment of hostility towards the agreement.

955 BARNARDO BOYS.

Final Party Leaves Thursday — Cheese Imported From Canada.

London, Oct. 8.—The final party of children from Dr. Barnardo's home leaves Thursday for Canada. The total is 955 for the year, and 18,429 since the work began. Ninety-eight per cent has been reported as doing well.

The annual report of Widdill Sons shows total imports of cheese into Britain for the year ending June 30, 130,063 tons, of which 95,884 came from Canada.

Australia imported 24,500,000 from seven principal countries. Of the former Canada sent £369,002.

Mercantile correspondents of the German press acknowledge the abstract justice of the Australian preferential tariff, in view of the financial indebtedness of the Commonwealth to the mother country. They admit the discovery of effectual means of combatting the tariff will be a difficult matter.

NIECE OF KING EDWARD.

Rumor of Her Betrothal to Russian Grand Duke Is Denied.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 8.—A marriage has been arranged between the Grand Duke Michael, aged 28, only brother of Emperor Nicholas, and Princess Patricia of Connaught, niece of King Edward. The betrothal occurred during the grand duke's recent trip to Copenhagen and Scotland, from which he has just returned. The princess is in her 21st year.

Deny the Betrothal.

London, Oct. 8.—An emphatic official denial of the report of the betrothal of Grand Duke Michael, brother of the Emperor of Russia, and Princess Patricia of Connaught, niece of King Edward, was issued here yesterday.

Gorged On Blood Puddings.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—Thomas Hall of Hintonburg fell dead on Saturday. A post-mortem revealed that death resulted from suffocation. He had been drinking heavily and is said to have gorged himself on blood puddings. He was a veteran of the Crimea.

North Bruce Election, Oct. 30.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The writ for the North Bruce bye-election was issued Saturday. Polling will take place on Oct. 30, and nominations a week earlier.

Hon. Mr. Fielding In Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, spent Sunday in Toronto. He arrived in the morning and returned last night to Ottawa.

FINANCES OF THE DOMINION.

Revenue and Expenditure For First Three Months of Fiscal Year.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—With this month three months of the current fiscal year are completed. The revenue for that period amounts to $21,093,475, or at the rate of some $84,000,000 in the year; last year for the same three months it was $18,192,473, or an increase of close upon $3,000,000. Of the revenue for the three months $12,722,000 comes from customs, $3,615,000 from excise and $2,540,000 from public works and railways.

The current expenditure during September, 1906, was $4,343,093, as against $5,469,769 in September, 1905, or a decrease of $1,126,676—over 20 per cent.

For the three months, however, the expenditures has been $10,901,295, a slight increase over the $10,776,015 of the corresponding three months in 1905. The expenditure on capital account in September was $1,088,142, as against $1,059,822 in September, 1905.

So far this class of expenditure has been $1,883,707, a decrease from the $2,223,226 of the first three months of 1905-1906.

The total net debt stands at $258,734,504, as against $261,023,600 on Sept. 30, 1905, and $260,917,459 on Aug. 31 last.

INSURANCE WAS PAID "WIDOW."

Now Robert Raine Has Returned to His Home at Perth.

Kingston, Oct. 8.—After twelve years' absence Robert Raine has returned to Perth, where his family have lived in the firm belief that their protector was in his grave. The A. O. U. W. had long since paid the widow $2,000 life insurance.

Raine spent his absent days in California.

York Loan First Payment.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—The shareholders of the defunct York Loan Co. will receive a first payment of twenty cents on the dollar some time next year, according to W. T. White, manager of the National Trust, the liquidators.

The complete list of shareholders to date comprises 110,000 claims, but there are several thousands shareholders in British Columbia, Quebec and other places that have not as yet been heard from although the books have long ceased coming in.

SARTORIAL NEWS.

Turbans the Modish Headgear—Brown and Gray a Smart Combination.

Turbans are to be the fashionable fall and winter hats for general service. They are smartly trimmed at the back with wide, outstanding bows.

Many of the new coats show postillion backs. This is a style that looms up on the modish horizon every few years, but it is not taken up with much enthusiasm.

If you want to have a smart costume this winter let it be in tones of brown and gray. The combination is not alluring or wildly becoming, but it is very fashionable.

Lace will be used quite as much on gowns this winter as it has for the past few seasons. There is a leaning in favor of Spanish laces, due to the popularity of the new queen of Spain.

Pink is a popular shade just now, and there is one shade of very pale pink that is charming on the red haired blond, and she may also wear a deep wine red, dark green, navy blue, lemon color and pale green. Piping will appear on many of the winter suits. This trimming is particularly attractive on mixed cheviots and tweed costumes.

Bolero jackets and jaunty little coats of black lace are to rival the same effects in white lace that have been so smart for several seasons. Then there are all kinds of fancy yokes, fichus and chemisettes carried out in black Spanish lace.

All the fall tailor mades have a touch of dressiness about the bodice or coat in the form of inset appliques or fancy braids.

Navy blue broadcloth makes the attractive gown in the cut. The plain skirt is stitched in several rows at the footline. The bolero has a design of black braid in geometrical pattern. About the U shaped neck is a dainty finish of plaited white mull. The flaring cuffs on the short sleeves show this plaited edge. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Tasty Luncheon Dish.

Take a large ripe cucumber, peel it from the blossom end toward you, removing at least one inch from the stem end and then cut into slices two inches thick. Sprinkle them thickly with salt and put on one side for an hour. Remove any superfluous salt and the seeds and centers from the pieces carefully with a small pointed knife, leaving just a circle of the cucumber. Place each one on a slice of tomato, sprinkle with pepper and salt to taste, adding a few drops of vinegar and then fill up the hollow center of the cucumber with cold minced meat to which have been added the yolk of a hard boiled egg well beaten and a tablespoonful of cream. On the top put a little good mayonnaise dressing and place each piece with its tomato base on a leaf of crisp lettuce and garnish with watercress. It should be placed on ice until served as it should be eaten as cold as possible. Cold salmon cut into very small flakes with a silver knife is a delicious substitute for the cold meat.

FORECAST OF FASHION.

Wide Plaited Skirt in Vogue—Suppleness a Characteristic of Fabrics.

There is more than a hint as to what the fall fashions are to be—in fact, many women have already purchased their autumn suits. The wide plaited skirt to be seen on many costumes looks like an old friend, while the short jacket with long, rounded front was a favorite a few years ago.

Both smooth and rough materials are being used, but in either case suppleness is a characteristic very much emphasized, and duller rather more somber coloring is popular.

Some of the fall suits have waists to match the skirt, making a simple three piece affair, but what is more worn is a silk or cloth shirt waist in the dominating color of the suit.

White or colored mohair is very appropriate for a "dress up" costume to be taken to boarding school by the small student.

Skirts so far are either plaited or circular, although the latter cut will not be so popular on account of its bad habit of sagging. Many of the new skirts are trimmed with circular ruffles, which give the cutaway effect so well liked this fall.

Jackets in most instances are hip length, but few of them hang loose, as the pony jacket invariably does. They have, in a number of cases, tiny vests and short ruffled basque effects.

The hat in the cut is designed for theater wear. The brim is composed of geranium flowers put as close together as possible. The leaves form the crown. Coral colored ribbon is arranged in loops at the back.

Pepper Berries.

When the berries on a spike of the pepper plant begin to turn red the spike is cut off and the berries gathered. If left too long, until perfect ripeness is attained, there is a great loss occasioned by the berries falling off, and the quality of the product is by no means so good.

Fire Bricks.

The first fire bricks made in this country were manufactured in Baltimore in 1827. They were manufactured for the backs of the old fashioned fireplaces, the limestone proving too friable.

ATTRACTIVE TRIFLES.

A New Belt—Charming Are the Latest Gown Fabrics in Coloring.

The latest belt idea for shirt waist gowns is one made of Scotch plaid, the colors so skillfully crossed and combined that there is no tendency to make the waist look larger.

One delightful feature of fall colors is their softness and to this might be added a willingness to consort agreeably with almost any other color. The manufacturers and colorists are bringing us to a point where we can't make violent contrasts.

One of the favorite color combinations of the autumn is dull brown, with a depressed looking green and subdued red.

Pongee of heavy weave is to be very fashionable this autumn, and for a really useful frock nothing beats a good ecru pongee silk. It does not crease or show dust and can be worn with a hat of any color. When the color is not becoming a lace yoke and a touch of color do away with this objection.

There is an effort being made to dethrone the blouse and convert it into a basque bodice. Some models are edged with plaitings of lace and allowed to form a tiny basque over the skirt, which appears all around the belt.

Gray is one of the smart shades of the season. A particularly pretty afternoon frock is made of wool crape in a lovely tone of gray trimmed with knife plaitings of self tone chiffon cloth put on with folds of gray liberty satin to cover the edge. The girdle is of the same satin drawn up a little at sides of front and caught by large buttons covered with satin, hand embroidered in silver and edged by a very narrow plaiting.

Mushroom hats are among the fall showings. The hat illustrated is of this persuasion in a light gray felt simply trimmed with black and white striped ribbon. JUDIC CHOLLET.

An Invalid's Alphabet.

We all know the misery of being kept in bed for a long or short period and how heavily time hangs. We exhaust books, papers—in fact, everything—and become a burden to ourselves.

A girl with original ideas is responsible for "the invalid's alphabet." This consists of a series of letters, one of which only is to be opened each day. The "alphabet" is started by cutting all kinds of interesting pictures and matter from various magazines. Let us suppose the invalid is fond of art. If so, let A stand for art. Get some nice smooth paper and fold a sheet over as if to fit an envelope. Write on the outside, "A for Art," and gum inside some artistic reproduction (if by a well known artist, write a few items in the "Who's Who?" style).

The envelope is made of bright hued crape paper, cut and folded to shape, but tied with baby ribbon and not sealed, and on the address side is posted a large cut out capital letter. There are lots of interesting subjects for the remaining letters of the alphabet—B, for "babies" or "birds," F for "fun"—any amount of jokes and pictures—M for "music" or even "motors," and the helpful R, for "religion."

Such is the main idea of the "invalid's alphabet," and the weary sufferer will look forward to each day that witnesses the opening of a fresh envelope.

One Great Advantage.

Wonders of a Modern Factory

The Perfect Food Is Made In Absolute Cleanliness.

A visit to the greatest modern food factory is a revelation to anyone not familiar with the development of machinery in recent years. Such a visit verifies the claims of the manufacturers of Malta-Vita, that this perfect whole-wheat food is cooked, steamed, mixed, baked and packed in absolute cleanliness.

"Purity" is the watchword of this wonderful establishment. From the time the wheat is received in the factory until the finished product is shipped out to all parts of the world, Malta-Vita is not soiled by human hands. Machinery, clean, shining machinery conveys the wheat through all the long process, even to the packing and sealing of the air-tight, germ-proof, dirt-proof packages.

After the wheat has been thoroughly cooked and steamed it is mixed with pure barley malt extract and each grain of the malted wheat is rolled into a wafer-like flake. Then it goes to the great ovens where, under intense heat, it is baked crisp and brown—Malta-Vita, the most delicious, the most healthful food in the world.

Malta-Vita is always ready to eat. No cooking. No inconvenience. And you never tasted anything quite so good. All grocers, NOW 10 cents.

Tan Suede Gloves Correct Wear For Smart Day Functions—Fall Hats.

The day of the white glove is over. It is now no longer the correct thing in Paris to wear white gloves upon any occasions except full evening dress affairs. For the street, afternoons, receptions, garden parties or any such use tan suede is the thing. Another shade which is also greatly in vogue for wear with elaborate light gowns is a sort of flesh color that closely imitates the human skin and at a slight distance is not distinguishable from the uncovered hand.

The mushroom hat is to be just as much in vogue this fall as it has been all summer. All of the fall hats show a decided tendency toward the brim to droop instead of being either straight or turned up at any angle. While this style is not generally becoming it is decidedly chic for a pretty girl and suggests the charming quaintness of the Kate Greenaway fashions that were at one time so much in favor.

Fringe is promised as an autumn trimming for certain kinds of dressy gowns, but as Dame Fashion is such a capricious personage it is difficult to say whether the promise will be ratified.

The hat shown in the sketch is a dainty affair on the coal scuttle order. It is evolved from pink chiffon shirred on the under brim and laid in folds on the outside. The puffed crown is almost covered with arbutus blossoms and their leaves. The wide strings are of the chiffon. JUDIC CHOLLET.

DRESSMAKING HINTS.

A New Skirt Hanger—Suggestions For Cutting and Fitting.

A new skirt hanger accomplishes great saving of time and trouble for the amateur dressmaker. It marks the hem edge with perfect evenness. But it is necessary to have a helping friend to hold the material over the metal shelf and to manipulate the marking chalk. The wearer of the skirt stands and slowly turns, first placing the feet in notches in the frame and then standing at various distances from the shaft by which the shelf is supported. This shelf can be moved up and down the shaft, so that any distance above the ground can be kept after the screws adjust it.

Braid which is used to bind the bottom of washing skirts should be shrunk before it is sewed on. This should be done in lukewarm water, the braid being left to soak for some little time to accomplish the shrinking.

In fitting a shirt waist begin with the front sections and allow an overlap of at least an inch on each side of the center front. Tear off a strip of the material for the waistband. Make this of a double thickness of material and half an inch in width on the straight of the goods. Pin this strip snugly around the waist, for it forms the principal foundation upon which to fit the waist. Do not fit down toward the waistband, but up from it, and give plenty of length to the shirt waist under the arms between the waist line and the arm's eye.

The waist illustrated is of embroidered mull. The emplacement of valenciennes lace has about it a bertha of Irish trimmed with plaited frillings of mull. The sleeves have an odd half cuff of lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Travel Party.

When the guests arrive each one is given a small red book marked "Baedeker," containing about fifty blanks. Scattered about the room are all kinds of little numbered articles, and the guests must tell what city, country or place each one represents and write it down.

A little tea would mean India, China or Ceylon; a cigar typifies Havana; knives are obvious for Sheffield, etc., until quite an ingenious catalogue is arrived at.

There should be an interval in the proceedings when the players visit an improvised postoffice and as their names are read off are presented with souvenir post cards of various places. Of course certain localities could be designated if desired, but the great amusement consists in worldwide guessing.

Prizes of small traveling articles—bee clock cases, label cases, luggage straps—are given for the best list of answers.

Perpetual Youth.

Every woman desires to retain as long as may be her youthfulness of face, form and movement, yet the true secret of such enduring youth is by no means universally recognized. A woman is happy just in proportion as she is content. The sun has a way of changing the spots upon which it shines. Especially is this true of our land, where one is up today and down tomorrow and vice versa. The wisest woman is she who trusts in a tomorrow, but never looks for it. To sit down and wish that this might be, that that would be different, does a woman no good. It does her harm, in that it makes her dissatisfied with herself, unpleasant to her friends, and makes her old before her time. Happiness is not always increased in proportion to large success. This may sound like an old saw, and so it is, but there is a world of wisdom in many an old proverb, just the same. Contentment is a wonderful thing to cultivate. There would be fewer prematurely old women, says Woman's Life, in the world, if it were given more of a trial and it became a more universal quality in womanhood.

Sensitive Women.

Sensitive women, above all others, have need of that grand spiritual virtue, common sense. And sensitive girls should be instructed carefully as to the capabilities and dangers of their pecu-

Pandora Range

SAVES FUEL AND HELPS TO PAY FOR ITSELF.

It is not the price you pay for a range which makes it cheap or expensive, but the fuel it consumes after you get it.

If you buy a range which costs $5 to $7 less than a "Pandora" and it burns a ton, or only half a ton of coal more in a year, what do your gain? Nothing, but you actually lose money, besides putting up with all the inconveniences, troubles and extra work which are a certainty with a poor range.

The "Pandora" is equipped with many fuel-saving features which are not found on any other range. Hot-air flues are constructed so that all the heat from the fire-box travels directly under every pot-hole and around the oven twice—every atom of heat is used, and only the smoke goes up the chimney.

Sold by all enterprising dealers. Booklet free.

Stead Calls Comic Opera "Drivel For The Dregs"

"If I had to sum up the whole performance in a single phrase I should say, "Drivel for the dregs'—only that and nothing more."

In this terse sentence, Mr. W. T. Stead, writing in the Review of Reviews, condenses his impressions after witnessing a full performance at a London music hall.

"My first impression," he says, "was one of unutterable boredom. For three and a half solid hours I sat patiently listening to the most insufferable tansity and imbecility that ever fell upon human ears.

"My second impression, which naturally followed upon the boredom, was one of wrathful indignation. It seemed intolerable that in Anno Domini 1906 the heirs of six thousand years of civilization and the product of thirty-five years of the Education Act, should relish this inane drivel.

"It was not the immorality of the thing that roused me so much as the imbecility of it all. Unlettered rustics at country fairs used to find it amusing to grin at each other through horses' collars. It would be more appropriate if the audience of last night had been fitted with the headgear of a humbler and less intelligent composer of the horse.

"My third impression was the absence, with one or two exceptions, of anything beautiful or melodious. There was not a haunting melody or a simple air in the whole jingle-jangle of vain sounds. And always with one great exception and two small ones, there was a positive revelling in physical ugliness and ungraceful motion and poses. It is not funny—it is simply disgusting."

A Commissioner Of Publicity For City

Lethbridge Herald Makes a Suggestion Which Might be Applied to This City With Profit.

The Lethbridge Herald, in its last issue, advocates a line of civic policy, which, perhaps, the local municipal legislators might take into consideration so far as Peterborough is concerned. The Herald says:

"What Lethbridge needs is a publicity commissioner.

"The Board of Trade should appoint him and pay him out of the grant given by the City Council, and the revenues of the Board, which could be largely increased if the membership fee was made at least $5 per year.

"Use this publicity commissioner for boosting the city along in every quarter of the country.

"Let him get after every manufacturer and every wholesaler and point out Lethbridge's unequalled advantages as an industrial centre and distributing point.

"Let him furnish information to the press of the United States and England about this district, so that intending settlers will have their heads turned this way.

"We want a man who will be continually working for Lethbridge and its advancement, a man who will keep this city before the eyes of the world all the time; then there will be no need to complain that we do not appear in the crop reports and are forgotten in the Winnipeg papers."

Former Peterborough Boy Produced Proof

Of the Rowdy Treatment Accorded the Toronto Baseball Players in Buffalo 1887—A Peterborough Paper Contained the Story.

An interesting bit of baseball history is recalled in the Toronto News, of Saturday. The Mr. Irwin Marks referred to in the article is an old Peterborough boy. The News says:

Apropos of the mobbling of the Toronto ball players at Buffalo, Mr. Irwin Marks, of 49 1-2 Ann street, has in his possession a copy of a Peterborough paper published on Aug. 29, 1887, in which is published the following interesting despatch, proving, if any proof were needed, that the keen baseball rivalry between the two cities is not by any means a development of recent years:—

"The Toronto team will not soon forget its treatment at the hands of the hoodlum element upon the conclusion of the game at Buffalo on Saturday. Stones were thrown at the players after they had taken their bus for the hotel and one of them was struck on the back of the neck. These same hoodlums had on the day previous threatened Umpire Mapledoram with bodily injury, and as a result of this unexpected and uncalled for treatment the International League loses its best umpire, as Mapledoran that night wired Secretary White his resignation. Umpire McLean, who officiated in the second game, fared no better. The rowdies evidently wanted him to go wholesale into the robbery business to enable the home team to win. Two defeats at this stage of the pennant race means a serious blow to the Bisons' pennant aspirations, and their blackguard admirers by their actions evidently don't propose to allow the team to be defeated."

Toronto won the game by 26—19, making ten runs in the last innings. Toronto had 31 hits and Buffalo 20; Toronto 4 errors, Buffalo 11. Ned Crane pitched for Toronto and Fanning for Buffalo.

This was in the days of the old International League, and Newark was then in the lead with a percentage of .641. The Bisons were second with .622. Syracuse third with .610, and Toronto fourth with .599. The other teams in the league were Rochester, Hamilton, Jersey City, Binghampton, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

After a hot fight Toronto finally landed the pennant.

A Peterborough Boy Surprises The World

By His Marvellous Canoe Feats—Bruce Ridpath Has Achieved Fame—Will Go to New York to Give an Exhibition.

The Toronto Sunday World of yesterday published a number of illustrations depicting Bruce Ridpath, who is a Peterborough boy, in some of his marvellous canoe stunts. The World says: The illustrations on this page show what can be accomplished by perseverance. Bruce Ridpath is devoted to canoeing and amphibian in his natimes. Splendidly muscled, confident in himself, honesty and fearlessness written in the gaze of his clear, blue eyes, he impresses one as a young man whom it would take a great deal to daunt. All his wonderful feats—not half of them are illustrated here—have been wrought out and perfected with infinite patience and many a painful bruise. A canoe is about as unstable a thing as floats. It oftimes capsizes, one is prone to believe, from pure wantonness or deviltry. The big swells of the terry Bluebell will swamp the most buoyant canoe, and the wise canoeist is he who gets such control over his boat that he can "shake it out" in the middle of the bay as readily as if he were close in shore. No one should venture out in a canoe who is not a good swimmer, and no canoeist, however well he may swim, should invite a companion to go for a paddle who could not take care of himself or herself in case of an upset. These are Ridpath maxims, and they appear to be wise ones.

Largest Independent Oil Corporation In The World

Something in the Way of a Flourishing Industry Which Peterborough Might Have Had, But Lost—Many Peterborough Shareholders in the Canadian Oil Company.

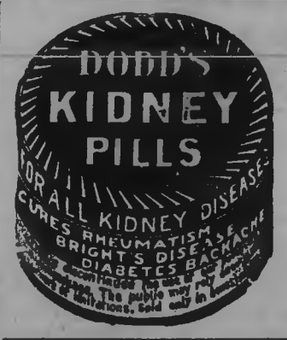
The following from the Mercantile and Financial Times, of New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, deals with the importance, magnitude, expansion and flourishing condition of a Toronto industry, which but for discouragement of the city authorities of the time, might have been established in Peterborough and been now giving the city the great benefit of its existence and operation, which involves the immense sum of two million dollars per year:—

One of the most significant and noteworthy signs of the activity and prosperity now prevailing throughout the Dominion may be found in the continued growth and development of the business of the Canadian Oil Company, Limited, whose principal offices are located at 123 Bay street, Toronto, with refineries at Petrolia, Ont., and Marietta, Ohio. This is one of Canada's greatest and most important industrial enterprises, having been organized under its present status only a little more than two years ago; but during the brief period which has since elapsed it has made such tremendous strides in the upbuilding of a large and profitable business that it is to-day recognized as a factor of increasing usefulness and influence in the development and promotion of the varied commercial and business interests of the Dominion.

In my exhaustive investigations into the general business and financial conditions prevailing in Toronto and the Dominion generally it has been necessary to call upon and interview quite a number of the most representative concerns, and it is always the same pleasing story that I hear,—that business in all lines was never more active, nor prospects brighter;—but I am free to confess that none of the reports show a more substantial degree of activity and prosperity than that now being experienced by the Canadian Oil Company, Limited. Although this company are now exerting their extensive manufacturing facilities to the utmost capacity, both day and night, yet they find it impossible to keep abreast with the constantly increasing volume of orders that continue to come to them from all points of the Dominion, and the United States, and they are adding to and expanding their manufacturing facilities and equipment as rapidly as possible. They have just completed an additional factory at Ottawa, Ont., which is the finest and most modern establishment of the kind in Canada, and they have also recently increased the number of tank cars to 75, each carrying 5,000 gallons of oil. In these cars oil is shipped in bulk to the company's various branches, and in turn is distributed by the latter to the trade.

This enterprise is an amalgamation of several concerns a little over two years ago, and it is interesting to note that the business for the first year was quite small. But since that time the growth of trade has really been of remarkable proportions, the volume of business now transacted amounting to more than $2,000,000 annually, and at the present time the interests of the company continue to develop and expand very rapidly. Their celebrated "Sterling" brand of lubricating oils, as well as the paints and varishes bearing the same distinguishing title, are concededly of such high quality and admitted superiority as to have created a demand that is far beyond the capacity to supply, but this condition of affairs is being remedied by the company as fast as they can enlarge their manufacturing and productive facilities. An idea of the extent of the enterprise may be gleaned from the fact that the company have 23 branches in Canada and the United States.

The Canadian Oil Company, Limited, enjoys the distinction of being the largest independent oil company in the world, and as refiners of Canadian and American petroleum they occupy a position of importance in business and industrial circles. The active directors of affairs is in the hands of an executive and official staff composed of Messrs. W. S Calvert, President, and T. H. Hamilton, General Manager, (formerly of Peterborough) and not a little of the company's continued success and prosperity has been due to their able and intelligent management. The "Sterling" brand of lubricating oils, paints and varnishes have always been maintained at the highest point of excellence and quality, and they are certain to continue to enjoy the favour of an appreciative and discriminating trade throughout Canada, the United States and elsewhere. It is only natural that the people of the Dominion should feel a pardonable pride in the active career of such an important enterprise, and the high prestige of the past will undoubtedly be maintained under the progressive management of its present official staff and strong and able board of directors.



Harry Brown In Limestone City

Belleville Hockey Player May Figure on Kingston Team.

Hatty Brown, the Belleville hockeyist, who played cover point for Smith's Falls last year, is in Kingston, and the Whig says he may settle there. It was said at the close of last season that Harry would line up with the Montreal Wanderers this season, but Stanley Cup hockey may be too much like manslaughter for his taste.

Oddly enough, Heil Dir im Sickerberang, which is really the German National Anthem, has the same tune as God Save the King. The American My Country, 'tis of Thee, has also the same air.

Wives Who Help Their Husbands

To Do This They Must Interest Themselves in His Work.

A wife who wishes to help her husband to success must take a real, practical interest in his work and doings. Not in an obtrusive, inquisitive manner, which will irritate a man and lead him to tell his wife not to worry about matters which do not concern her; but in a quiet, thoughtful way, which will enable her to understand his difficulties and sympathize with him accordingly.

She does not set him down as grumpy and disagreeable because he decides not to trouble herself about his affairs if he will not confide in her when she wishes him to do so. Instead, she talks of other subjects, and in nine cases out of ten it will not be long before some chance remark leads her husband to talk over the business worries of the day. And it is surprising how, when real trouble comes, he will go to his wife for encouragement, sympathy and advice. He knows that she understands, and that she is quite capable of helping him when things go wrong. He needs encouragement and praise in his struggle to provide as much, and as well as possible, for her and the children.

Many a wife takes her husband's efforts to increase the prosperity of their home quite as a matter of course. She accepts everything from him without recognizing in the least the manner in which he has laboured. Nothing so disheartens a man. He will work ten times more strenuously and cheerfully when he knows that his wife understands and appreciates his fight for success, than when she just accepts the additional luxuries he is able to provide for her in a matter-of-fact spirit.

The wife who would contribute to success must help her husband to save. It is lamentable that there are so many wives who are ready to spend every penny their husbands earn. The fault lies in the fact that no matter what the increase in their husbands' income may be, they are always ready to spend the total in improving their social position. A larger house is taken, more furniture bought, and a great show made in order to let the world know that the husband is rising in the world, as the saying goes. And more often than not this method results in the husband coming down in the world again.

Murderous Affray Is Reported At Buckingham

Two Strikers Shot Dead in Great Strike Riot at the MacLaren's Mills—Five Detectives Wounded, Two of Them So Dangerously That It Is Said They Cannot Recover—Interference With Non-Union Men Led to Slaughter—Mob Drove the Police to the Bush—The Militia Called.

Buckingham, Que., Oct. 9.—Two men were killed and two more will die from wounds received in a strike riot, which amounted to a pitched battle between the police and strikers at Buckingham yesterday afternoon. Guns were used with telling effect. About twenty of the strikers were hit, and twenty-one out of twenty-two police and detectives were also wounded. The dead:

Strikers Killed.

Thomas Belanger, leader, aged 35, of St. Jerome, Que., leaves widow.

Francois Therrault, unarmed, aged 40, leaves widow and seven children.

Strikers Seriously Injured.

Felix Fauvelle, aged 65, shot in stom ach, likely to die.

Edward Minor, aged 31, thigh fractured.

Adelard Hamelin, aged 30, bullet wounds in legs.

Isidore Renaud, aged 38, shot in back

Emery Hamelin, aged 32, wounded in neck.

Baptiste Clement, aged 45, wounded in arm, neck and head.

Dolor Hamelin, aged 34, shot in arm and hand.

Felix Lacelles, aged 30, shot in arm.

X. Codieux, aged 28, shot in head.

Xavier Tremblay, aged 29, wounded in leg.

Louis Gervaise, aged 32, wounded in arm.

There were several other minor casualties.

Police Injured.

Chief Frank Kernan, shot in head not dangerous.

Detective Herbert Warner, Montreal, several shots in body, may die.

Detective Peter Picard, Montreal, seriously wounded, will probably die.

Detective Lavit, Montreal, seriously wounded, will probably recover.

Constable James Kernan, wounded in arm.

Sixteen other police and detectives were hit, but not seriously.

Demands Refused.

A month ago the employes of the James MacLaren & Co.'s lumber mills struck for higher wages. They had been paid $1.25 per day, and they demanded $1.50, which is the wages paid by W. H. Kelly ,the other important lumber merchant at Buckingham. The MacLaren Co. refused to give the raise and 500 men were affected. Three hundred left the town for the lumber camps, while 200 remained to await developments.

Matters went on quietly until yesterday, when the news leaked out that MacLaren & Co. had brought down a number of strike-breakers. Seventeen of these men began to work at 7 yesterday morning and broke two of the booms two miles above the town.

Drive Men From Town.

A meeting of the men was called and it was decided to drive them out of the town. First Messrs. Albert and Alexander MacLaren were notified, but they refused to listen to compromise and the union men determined to take action after dinner.

At 1 o'clock they gathered on the shore of the Lievre River, and marched four abreast along the edge of the river towards the main street landing, which is about half-way to the mills. The strike-breakers had brought some logs down so far.

The police and detectives with Albert and Alexander MacLaren, were lined up to bar the way. Again Belanger offered the men's terms, but they were refused and he intimated that the union were determined to drive away the strike-breakers.

The men again advanced and here the testimony varies. The statement most heard is that the police fired first, though the police aver that the strikers were the first to open fire.

Police First to Fire.

Uninterested witnesses, with the exception of one, state that the police fired a blank shot first, which was replied to by the strikers. At any rate, it is admitted by all parties that the riot act was not read and for this omission the police are being strongly censured.

At the first volley by the police, who were only ten yards away from the strikers, Thomas Belanger, the union leader, fell mortally wounded. He was shot in five places, one shot pierced his right breast, and tore its way downwards through his body, another went through his heart, another entered his head as he fell and came out at his eye.

Police Put to Rout.

Immediately firing became general, and men fell groaning on every side. With fury the strikers, now without a leader, charged the police, who turned and fled to the bush. The fire of the unionists was wild and ill-directed, else not a man would have lived. They had several rifles among them and many revolvers.

Firing backwards as they ran, the police did more damage, and Francois Therriault, who was unarmed, was shot through the heart. He was 40 years of age and leaves a widow and seven young children. Other men fell wounded, and, seeing the slaughter of the French-Canadians, became more savage in the pursuit.

Militia Reach Scene.

With the police totally routed and the strike-breakers scattered in every direction the victorious unionists retired quietly to their homes and awaited events. The two MacLarens, who had been fired at, but had escaped injury, sent to Ottawa for the militiary and late last night 111 men of the G. G F. G. and the 43rd D. C. O. R. and a machine gun squad arrived in Buckingham, under Col. Hodgins and Major Morrison. Peace reigned, however. They will remain here pending settlement. Sheriff Wright of Hull is also in the town.

The bodies of two dead men were examined by the coroner and a jury and and an inquest will be held to-day. The town is under military command and the soldiers are parading the streets.

Strikers Merciful.

Only one of the police party escaped without a scratch. Chief of Police Frank Kernan was shot through the head, but he will recover, while his brother, James Kernan, also of Buckingham had his hand shattered. When the pursuing strikers found a policeman prostrate they mercifully let him be. One policeman on his knees threw away his revolver, and, waving a white handkerchief, begged for his life. They spared him.

The Town of Buckingham.

Buckingham is a town of about 3,000 population in Labelle division, Ottawa County, about 20 miles northeast of Hull, on the C. P. R. The Lievre river brings down the logs to the town from several hundred miles in the interior. Besides its large lumber interests the town has large chemical works and pulp mills. Phosphorus is also made and shipped in large quantities.

The MacLarens are a well-known firm, having been in business at Buckingham for 20 years.

Rowdy University "Hustle."

Toronto, Oct. 9.—What may be the last "hustle" around the university took place yesterday. It was the annual clashing of the first and second year students. The disorder attained such dimensions that police interference was requested, first by the university authorities and later by residents on College and McCaul streets, where the crowd of boisterous young fellows betook themselves and carried on for nearly two hours, shrieking, yelling, punching, pushing and tearing clothes. Several students were slightly hurt but nothing serious.

A TRANSFORMATION.

Evidence Given in Seduction Charge Causes a Sudden Arrest.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—As the outcome of evidence given in the Assize Court yesterday afternoon, before Justice Falconbridge, Walter Follett was placed under arrest by Constable Walter Stewart at the City Hall.

Follett, who comes from near Eversley, King Township, was the defendant in a suit brought by Mrs. Tawse, for damages for seduction of her daughter, Elizabeth Tawse, 25 years old.

Miss Tawse told the story of her engagement to the defendant, and its sad results, and in her evidence mentioned that the defendant had secured her drugs and instruments from Aurora.

The jury gave the plaintiff a verdict of $1,600 damages, and while they were coming to that conclusion County Crown Attorney Drayton decided that Follett must answer the criminal charge of getting the drugs and the instruments.

CUBAN REPORTS MOSTLY GOOD.

Just a Little Friction In Cuba Over Reinstatement of a Mayor.

Havana, Oct. 9.—The reports received by the Provisional Government show that the pacification of Cuba is practically complete, with the exception of the Province of Santa Clara, where matters are rapidly nearing a settlement.

The only trouble known to exist is at Alquizar, Province of Havana, where the Liberals and Moderates are about equally divided and irritation has been caused by the reinstatement of a Liberal mayor. It is believed that the 30 rural guards there will be able to keep the peace.

Albert Lamb Killed.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—The terribly mangled body of Albert Lamb, a G. T. R. yardman, was found beside the track near the foot of Peter street at about 10.30 last night. The circumstances indicate that Lamb was struck by the yard engine. He was seen alive about an hour before the body was discovered. Lamb was married and had one child. He was 33 years of age.

Found Dead In Chair.

Petrolea, Oct. 9.—John Garrison, oil operator, was found dead sitting in a chair yesterday morning at his residence. His wife is on a visit to her son at Cayuga, who is station agent at that place. He recently returned from an oil-drilling tour to Borneo.

Two Bombs Thrown.

Kazan, Russia, Oct. 9.—Two bombs were thrown yesterday at Vice Governor Kobeto, but he was only slightly injured. The would-be assassin was shot

Premiers Of The Dominion Meet Laurier

Provincial Heads In Conference At the Capital.

THE SUBJECTS DISCUSSED

Increased Subsidies May Be Granted Upon Conditions — Provinces May Surrender Railway Jurisdiction— Ontario and Western Men Have Yet to Consider the Resolutions of 1903—Sir Wilfrid's Welcome.

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—In the Senate committee room, which has often been the scene of wrangles over railway charters, the Provincial Premiers and Ministers were in session for nearly three hours yesterday. The Premiers present were: Ontario, Whitney; Quebec, Gouin; Nova Scotia, Murray; New Brunswick, Tweedie; Prince Edward Island, Peters; Manitoba, Roblin; Saskatchewan, Scott; Alberta, Rutherford; British Columbia, McBride.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the morning, opened the proceedings with an address of welcome, to which each of the nine Provincial Premiers replied briefly. The federal representatives then spoke, and Premier Gouin of Quebec was made chairman of the provincial representatives' meeting, and Deputy Attorney-General Lanctot of Quebec was made secretary.

After an hour's discussion in the morning the meeting was adjourned to give the representatives of the new provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan an opportunity to decide whether the resolutions of the Quebec conference of 1902 would meet their views.

Ontario's Position.

Beyond a request for increased subsidies, no clear understanding as to what will be brought up at the joint meeting yet exists. Premier Whitney said yesterday morning that he and his colleagues had come here at the request of the Dominion Government, but he did not know what questions would be submitted by the latter. The present Ontario Government, Mr. Whitney was understood to say, had not formally signified their concurrence in the resolutions of 1903, except to this extent; that after the return to Toronto of former Premier Ross from the conference Mr. Whitney moved in the Legislature an amendment to the effect that Ontario's delegate had not put the case for that Province as strongly as he might have done.

Quebec's Demands.

Premier Gouin declared yesterday morning that Quebec's demands were contained in the printed resolutions laid before the Federal Government in 1903. He had no knowledge as to what other questions were to come forward. It is understood that until the Provinces have laid their demands before the representatives of the Dominion Government the latter will not announce the conditions upon which increased Federal aid will be vouchsafed. It seems to be taken for granted that the Dominion authorities will increase the subsidies to the Provinces, provided that suitable concessions in return are made by them.

Premier Peters of Prince Edward Island, in the case of his province, does not want the capitation allowance based on the last census return, as the population of the island has declined. He wants a minimum fixed for the allowance, which a decrease in population will not affect.

The Premiers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, while agreeing to the principle of the Quebec resolutions have just had a census taken of their provinces which shows a tremendous growth over 1901. They want the capitation allowance given on the basis of population shown by the 1906 and of any future census.

Committee to Revise.

A sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Gouin, Weir, Murray, McBride, Pugsley, Foy, Campbell and Secretary Lanctot was appointed to revise the Quebec resolutions. They will report to a meeting of the provincial representatives at 10 o'clock this morning.

If the new draft of resolutions is adopted it will be presented to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the other federal Ministers to-day at 11 a.m.

It is believed that the Dominion Government is anxious to learn whether the Provinces are disposed to consider a proposition to surrender the right to subsidize railways, and, if so, upon what terms, and that they also wish to have a clearer idea as to the extent of jurisdiction when a Provincial line makes connection with a Dominion railway. If either of these matters comes forward, however, it must be with the consent of the Provinces.

Last evening the delegates attended a reception given by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. To-day at 1 o'clock they will be the guests of R. L. Borden at luncheon.

Bomb Hurled at General.

Sebastopol, Oct. 9.—A bomb was thrown yesterday at Major-Gen. Dumbadze, commander of the troops, as he was driving to the barracks of the Brest Regiment. The general, who was slightly wounded, fired on his assailant, but he escaped after a struggle with some soldiers. The general's coachman and two orderlies were severely wounded.

Stop Paying Rent.

Smolensk, Russia, Oct. 9.—The peasants of Molkhin, at a great meeting held Sunday, resolved to cease paying rent to the proprietors of the land, and also adopted other resolutions of a most radical nature.

For Good Will Of United States Union Proposed

Ancient Colony of Newfoundland Is Again Sacrificed.

ONLY REMEDY INDICATED

Britain's Oldest Colony Must Annex Itself to the Dominion, and Then Urge the Formation of Canadian Squadron—Abstract Rights of Colony, However Legitimate, Will Not Induce Britain to Incur Risk.

London, Oct. 9.—Referring to the fishery modus vivendi The Morning Post points out the moral of the reported result. If it transpires that Newfoundland's interests have not been separated from those of British North America as a whole, the fact will deserve serious the consideration of the islanders.

Their "responsible" Government being really irresponsible in the last resort, because dependent on imperial authority, their natural logical destiny is to join the Dominion; then urge the formation of a Canadian squadron.

Isolated, Newfoundland has no prospect ever of equipping herself with a material defensive force in default of which no British Government will ever incur serious risks for her claims, however legitimate in the abstract.

The Standard says the modus vivendi is the only course practicable for the time being, and adds that no transactions of this kind can be rightly conducted unless the Colonial Government concerned be directly represented in the negotiations.

One More Sacrifice.

The Pall Mall Gazette says it is one more sacrifice of a British colony in the cause of Anglo-American good-will. Much as we all value that cause, it is painfully apt to work out in a one-sided fashion with all the business on one side and all the sentiment on the other, and mean enough sentiment, too, seeing that it is indulged in at the expense of a weak third party whom we are professing to protect.

The Globe says hardly any pretence is made of mutual concessions. The oldest British dependency is treated with absolute contempt in a matter of vital moment to its chief industry.

DAVID BUTLER CONVICTED.

Magistrate Hunt Considers Orwell Man Not Fit to Run Hotel.

St. Thomas, Oct. 9.—David Butler, proprietor of the Orwell Hotel, who was convicted last week of keeping a disorderly house, was yesterday fined $50 and costs, amounting to $16.50, the maximum penalty for a first offence.

Magistrate Hunt also annulled the license, observing that judging by Butler's demeanor on the stand he was an unfit person to conduct a hotel.

In passing sentence the magistrate repeated what he said last week about the local option hotels of Yarmouth and Southwold.

Magistrate Hunt's decision will likely be appealed to the Divisional Court at Toronto.

Fielding Appeal Dismissed.

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—The Supreme Court gave judgment when it met yesterday in the Shelburne and Queen's election case. The unanimous decision of the court is "That the sole question disallowed by the trial judges was properly so rejected, and that the appeal should be dismissed, with costs, and the necessary certificate forwarded to the Speaker of the House of Commons." This disposes of the case against Mr. Fielding.

Bartender Had No License.

Essex, Oct. 9.—The first conviction in Essex County under the new license law requiring all bartenders to be licensed occurred here. Robert Hassell, proprietor of the Royal Hotel, was charged with permitting Robert Henry to sell drinks over his bar without having a bartender's license. Henry was also charged with working without a license, and each man was assessed $10 and costs by Magistrate Beeman.

Succession Dues.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—The total receipts for succession duties for September, 1906, were $23,032, according to the latest returns from the Treasury Department. Last year the receipts for September were $9,687; the increase for the present month being $13,345. The gross receipts to Sept. 30, 1906, are $408,118, being an increase over the same period last year of $4,235.

Special Privileges For Canadians.

London, Oct. 9.—(C. A. P.)—A party of Canadians were granted the special privilege of admittance to the reserved platform on the King's arrival at Euston Station. Their presence was made known to His Majesty, who turned toward them, walked a few paces in their direction, bowed and smiled in response to their loyal greetings.

Lynched Wrong Man.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 9.—A special to The Journal from Little Rock says: Blackburn, the negro taken from the jail by a mob at Argenta, Arkansas, Sunday night and lynched is not believed to have been the man wanted. Fully 800 negroes deserted their homes in Argenta and came to Little Rock to spend the night.

St. Kitts Policeman Flees.

St. Catharines, Oct. 9.—Constable Smith of the police force, after assaulting his wife and being placed under suspension by Chief Parnell, has departed from the city and his whereabouts are unknown.

Confesses Infant Murder.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 9.—Bert and Mollie Kemp, aged 39 and 29, respectively, are under arrest here, charged with murdering their baby on Sept. 4. The police say that Kemp confessed the crime, saying that shame drove him to it.

Sentenced to Four Months.

Belleville, Oct. 9.—John Hines, who was yesterday morning found guilty of breaking into a G. T. R bonded car and stealing therefrom was sentenced to four months in the Central by Magistrate Flint.

Wm. Duncan Against Peter Hamilton Co. Occupies Whole Day At The Assizes

Plaintiff Seeks Damages as Result of Accident at Defendants' Establishment.

Latter Claims Injuries Were Caused by Carelessness of The Plaintiff.

Counsel For Defendant Asked For Non-Suit, But Judge Reserved Judgment.

The first case at the assizes yesterday, before Chief Justice Britton, and the jury, was the claim for $1500 damages by William Duncan, from the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company.

Duncan on the 10th of February last had his hand badly crushed in the cogs of the gearing that operated the big crane, and claimed that his injuries resulted from negligence on the part of the defendants.

Several witnesses were examined yesterday but the evidence was not concluded until this morning. When the court adjourned to-day at one o'clock for dinner, the counsel had just completed their addresses to the jury, reviewing the evidence.

Mr. D. O'Connel looked after the interests of the plaintiff, while Mr. L. M. Hayes, of Hall & Hayes, was the defendant's counsel.

The Evidence

Mr. Duncan, the plaintiff, was the first witness and to his counsel, Mr. O'Connell, explained that he had been injured by a handle flying off a crane at the works of Peter Hamilton Company. He was an employee there and was working at the crane and at the time was receiving $1.75 per day. As a result of the accident he was laid off work and at the time it occurred he was winding the crank to lower the crane but some person had previously raised the crane too high, and instead of winding it he was unwinding the crank. He happened to look around and saw that the hook on the crane was about to hit someone. He tried to reverse the crank but the handle slipped off and threw his hand into the cog wheels.

On the shafting to which the handle was fitted there was no hole into which to fit a key to keep the handle from slipping off nor was there any protection from the cog wheels. His hand was badly smashed in the accident, the first finger being broken and the second taken off, back of the middle joint. The third finger was crushed at the top. He underwent an operation three-quarters of an hour after the accident by Dr. Amys, who attended him at his own office. He was assisted by Dr. McNulty. The accident happened on a Saturday and he was under the doctor's care for six or eight weeks. He caught cold in the second finger about three weeks after, and he stated, took care of his fingers. The doctor's bill amounted to $35. He was idle from Feb. 11th to July 12th, during which time he only earned $10. He first went to work with Mr. Wm. McGuire to look after a dam and paid at the rate of $28 per month. He afterwards worked at the Dickson Company's mills at $1.50 per day, but could not do the work. He is now working as a hostler at a hotel for $5 per week and board.

To Mr. Hayes plaintiff stated that board at a hotel was worth $4 per week. He had been living in Peterborough for 36 years and had also lived in Havelock, and Norwood. He met with an accident on the North Central Road between Chicago and Detroit, while he was catching a train. He got his right leg hurt at that time.

He never saw any of the labourers turn the crank by putting their hands on the wheel and he did not do so himself. Foreman of that department he said, never warned him not to put his hand on the wheel, nor was he told by any other labourer. He had never heard of any complaint as to defects of the machinery before the accident.

Alexander Carmichael

Alexander Carmichael was next called. To Mr. O'Connell he stated he began working for the Peter Hamilton Company on January 1st, and left some time in February. He was not there at the time of the accident but had worked on the crane where plaintiff was injured. The handle of the crane, he said, fits loosely on the shaft. If there had been a key put through the end of the shaft it would have prevented the handle slipping off. This could not be done as there was no hole in the shaft. The cog wheels were not protected and he thought there was one cog out of the big wheel.

To Mr. Hayes witness said, that if ordinary precaution was used he did not know whether the handle would come off or not.

Albert Hamilton

The next witness for the plaintiff was Albert Hamilton. To Mr. O'Connell he said he had worked about two years for the defendant. He was not working when Duncan was there. He had been working on the crane, and at that time the handle had about a quarter inch play on the shaft. It slipped off only once in the period of two years. He was winding it up at that time with one hand when it slipped. There was no brake to prevent the handle coming off. He did
